Post 136 Wins Honors

Local post 136 of the American Legion, which this year exceeded its membership for any previous year, won honors at the Department Convention last week in Baltimore as the first southern Maryland post to do this. Other honors going to members of the local post were: first prize in the parade to the Legion-sponsored Stepperettes, a special award to Charles Link for his work at Boys' State, the election of Jake Hoffman and Wayne Roberts to the Executive Committee of the Department, and the appointment of "Pop" Bell as Aide to newly elected commander John Chilcote. The post also won several awards for membership and child welfare work.

During the past year the post has been commanded by Bill Clark, who will be succeeded by William Peake. Under Peake Post 136 is planning a big entry in the Labor Day parade in Greenbelt. They also hint at exciting news for former members and friends of the Greenbelt Grenadiers.

Methodist Church vs. Fire Department at 6:30 and Co-op vs. Happy's Cats at 8:30. On Tuesday the Community Church is scheduled against GAC at 8:30, and the two losers of Monday's games at 6:30 p.m.

The Athletic Club lost their first game last week to the Community Church. The Athletic Club can win the League with a win over St. Hugh's or the Fire Department. Two losses would make a tie for the League title.

New Apartment Houses Slated for Greenbelt

Two apartment houses, the first to be constructed in Greenbelt by a private builder, will be erected in the Parkway rd. area by the well-known builder Dan Ostrow. The sale of the land to Ostrow was recently completed by the Gilbert Realty Company.

The larger of the two apartments, a 55-unit, three-story building, is expected to go up on Crescent between the underpass and Parkway. The other building, containing 33 units, is planned to go up in the area presently occupied by the garages off Parkway near 9 Parkway.

The apartments will contain predominantly two-bedroom units renting for under $100 a month, with some one-bedroom units. It is hoped to have the apartments ready for occupancy by fall or early winter.

Planned City Offices, Youth Center Units to be Located Near Center

Although the exact sites of the proposed new city offices and youth center buildings are yet to be determined, the city council has indicated general approval of architects' plans which place these buildings near the commercial center and locate the volunteer fire department and rescue squad building on north Crescent Road between Parkway and St. Hugh's. Originally it was thought that all three buildings would be together to form a three-unit municipal center.

The council at a special meeting on Friday, July 18, gave official approval to the site of the new fire house and ordered the architects, Saterlee and Smith, to go ahead with the design of the building. The council also took steps at this meeting to explore two possible sites for the city offices and to implement the architects' plans for the extension of the center mall.

The main problem in locating the city offices building is that the proposed sites involve land not owned by the city. The architects have selected a site which fits in with their long-range development plan for the entire central area of the city. They have prepared a layout of a city center as they visualize it ten to 20 years from now. This master plan includes a future 1,000-seat auditorium and an art gallery or adult hobby workshop building.

Looking toward this eventual development and the anticipated expansion of Greenbelt, the architects placed the city offices on Crescent near the corner of Westway, which would be extended several hundred feet across Crescent. Opposite this building, across the new Westway, would be a library. The office building would be designed for later expansion.

Placing the building at this location, however, would require the city to purchase the Ryan house at the corner of Lakeside dr. and Crescent together with other adjacent lots, including a few on the other side of Lakeside, perhaps as many as seven lots altogether. The architects propose at a later date to eliminate the portion of Lakeside that connects with Crescent and instead run Lakeside into the new Westway, which would eventually be extended all the way across to the northern section of Crescent rd.

As an alternative, the council has proposed as a site for the city offices the kidney-shaped grassy plot of land above the parking area and between the Center School and the bank. This land would have to be purchased from Gilbert Realty. There would be no provision for a separate library building.

The architects say that this site could fit into their plans but argue that it is too small to permit later expansion of the city office building and also inhibits expansion of the commercial center. This argument is based on the architects' firm conviction that the expected doubling of Greenbelt's population is certain to lead to considerably greater business and city activity. The council, on the other hand, feel that this outlook is excessively optimistic. There is also some objection, especially from City Manager Charles McDonald, to extending Westway all the way across.

Considering these alternate sites, the council at its Friday meeting instructed the city manager to approach owners of the Lakeside property involved, with a view to the prospects of purchase by the city. At the same time, he will contact Gilbert Realty on the possibility of buying the other site and on the approximate sales price. The manager has been directed to obtain this information as soon as possible, since the architects cannot go ahead with the building design until the site is settled.

The location of the new youth center is less controversial. The architects have placed it in the area northwest of the Center School, above the tennis courts and behind Lakeside dr. Some members of the council feel that the building, which will include a dance pavillion, would be better located behind the handball court in back of the swimming pool. One advantage to this site is less potential disturbance for Lakeside residents.

In both cases the land is owned by the city.

The council also acted on the architects' plan for extending the center mall beyond the statue and down the hill in a gradual slope. It voted to request Gilbert to exchange his piece of commercial land directly behind the statue for a piece of city land of equal size (about 2400 feet) to be used for commercial purposes and located along the border of the proposed mall extension. This would give Greenbelt a long, landscaped esplanade with stores and shops on both sides.

All those who enrolled in the second polio clinic here last month but failed to obtain their injection should take their children to their private physician. They will then be ready for their third injection to be given here in the late fall.
