Greenbelt Junior High Students "Adopt" Young Korean War Orphan

The Students of Greenbelt Jr. High School have financially "adopted" Lee Duk Ja, a Korean girl about 3 years old, through Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., 352 Fourth Avenue, New York City. The Foster Parents have promised to contribute $15 a month toward the child's support for at least one year.

Foster Parents' Plan, which has rehabilitated more than 76,000 children on a personal basis since its founding in 1937, is now helping 11,500 youngsters in Greece, Italy, South Korea, France, Belgium, Viet Nam and in the DP camps of West Germany. Over the past twenty years, more than 600,000 individuals and groups in America have helped needy children overseas through Foster Parents' Plan.

"We are indeed grateful to these students for giving Duk Ja this wonderful gift of hope and help," declared Miss Gloria C. Matthews, Executive Director of Foster Parents' Plan, "and we prayerfully hope that many others who read this will also extend a helping hand to a distressed child. We shall be happy to send full information on how to become a Foster Parent to a child in Europe, Korea or Viet Nam to any individual, school or group writing to Foster Parents' Plan, 352 Fourth Ave., New York City," Miss Matthews added.

Foster Parents' Plan is a non-profit, non-propaganda, non-sectarian, independent, government-approved relief organization which provides children who are orphaned, distressed, or otherwise made destitute with the care, education, and moral support they need. "Adoption" through the Plan is financial, not legal. The Foster Parent Plan promises to contribute $15 monthly for at least one year. Of this sum, the child receives $8 each month as an outright cash grant. The remainder is used for periodic food and new clothing packages, translations of letters, medical services and education. Because each child is treated as an individual, any special needs of the child or his family are taken care of by Plan from its General Fund. This fund is made up of contributions from the public.

To encourage a warm, personal relationship between the Foster Parent and "his child," the Foster Parent receives a history of the child and a photograph and correspondence through the Plan office is translated both ways. This exchange bridges the gap between Foster Parent and child and gives the youngster the feeling of security and love he needs.

Local Fashion Winners

Two Greenbelt women, Mrs. Louise W. Lee and Mrs. Mary A. Miller, were among the five winners at the Co-op-sponsored fashion party, held at the Piney Branch Co-op on Oct. 1.

Called "Nights Out for Mom," other fashion parties will be held every Wednesday night during Oct. at the Piney Branch store. The latest fall fashions from various suburban stores will be shown. Each week the audience will help to select five winners from among the 17 contestants in the Co-op sewing contest, which closed Sept. 30. On Oct. 29 the Grand Prize, a Necchi sewing machine, will be awarded to one of the twenty-five winners from the five weekly meetings.

Arrangements for a car pool for those interested in attending may be made with Mrs. Louise Gibson at the Co-op office.

Lee Duk Ja

Duk Ja is only one of many bits of humanity tossed out into the world by the unsettled conditions of post-war Korea. Nothing is known of the child's background and even her name was given her by the authorities. In April of 1956 the baby was found abandoned in the market place of Pusan, sick and starving. She was taken to the Children's Charity Hospital where it was found that she was suffering from pneumonia. Miraculously, she recovered and in September 1957, having recovered her health she was transferred to the orphanage where she now lives.

Duk Ja is one of a group of ten children, all approximately the same age, who share a room under the supervision of a nurse who devoted herself to her little charges. She is an appealing baby with a good disposition and now in good health, but the wistful expression on her little face would seem to indicate a longing for the personal love and care which is every child's right.

PLAN has now taken Duk Ja under its kindly wing and she will receive all its material benefits under PLAN supervision. This will mean more and better food and clothing and the assurance that she can stay in the only home she knows. At present she is too young to realize the loneliness of her situation, but even so the affectionate interest of Foster Parents will make her happy and as she grows older the personal relationship will do much to help her towards a normal and happy development.

Webfooted Residents

The city council at its regular meeting on Monday, Oct. 6, heard from Harry "Pop" Bell, warden of the Greenbelt Lake Park, that things are just ducky these days—in more ways than one.

Bell complimented "Buddy" Attick and his Public Works crew on the beautiful condition of the grass and the newly surfaced parking lot area but said he needed help from the council to take care of his new charges—19 ducks which have taken up residence at the lake.

Bell asked permission to trade two or three of the Pekin ducks for an equal number of Mallards, funds to buy feed for the ducks to carry them through the winter, and a wooden shelter so the ducks wouldn't freeze their feet.

The council did not duck the issue. It approved the request without debate.

"Madeline" Wins Prize

The Greenbelt Women's Club tied for third place at the County Fair at Upper Marlboro, on their interpretation of the child's story, "Madeline!" by Ludwig Deennman. The story of the twelve little French girls was told in four scenes. All little girls, the governess, beds, and decorations were hand made.

The figures, which are being permanently arranged in boxes for display, have been given to the County Library and will be used in various branch libraries throughout the county.

Mrs. Emmett D. Hughes was chairman of the committee which prepared the prize winning display.

Tax Revenues Studied

Potential sources of tax revenue for Maryland will be studied at Oct. unit meetings of the League of Women Voters of Prince Georges County.

Emphasis will be on income and sales taxes. Members are asked to read the sections on these taxes in Paying Our Way, a booklet published by the LWV of Maryland, before their meetings. Booklets may be ordered from Mrs. William Sulzbacher, publications chairman, at WE. 5-6672.

The Greenbelt unit, open to all those interested in state taxes, will meet with Mrs. George C. Reeves, 2-C Eastway, GR. 4-9484, on Wednesday, Oct. 15, at 8:15 p.m.

Bowling Instruction

Free bowling instruction will be offered to Greenbelters this coming Saturday, Oct. 11, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, courtesy of the Greenbelt Bowling Center. For both adults and children, instruction will be provided by teachers certified by the American Junior Bowling Congress.

Commenting on the difficulty of scheduling these professional teachers here, Donn C. Liston, manager of the Bowling Center, expressed the hope that many local people would take advantage of the present opportunity for expert instruction.

Junior High PTA Meets

The first meeting of the Greenbelt Junior High School PTA will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 14, in the school gymnasium. The membership committee will be available at 7:30, and parents are urged to pick up their membership cards at this time. The brief business meeting will start promptly at 8. Then it will be "Back to School Night" for parents. Parents will follow their children's schedules, meeting the teachers, who will outline plans for the year. This will be a general discussion period—not a time for private conference. Present plans call for a 10 o'clock adjournment.

Council Approves 10-Man Committee To Make Review of City Charter

by Russ Greenbaum

Following a proposal by Councilman Alan Kistler, the city council at its regular meeting on Monday, October 6, authorized the setting up of a 10-man charter review committee which would bring in a preliminary report on possible revisions of the charter by February 15.

In introducing his motion Kistler pointed out that a number of people who voted against the charter changes proposed in the referendum last spring had indicated that they would like to see a review of the entire city charter. Kistler himself has indicated that he opposed piecemeal changes but was in favor of an overall review.

If any revisions to the charter are recommended by the committee, the council will review them. It is planned to present these proposed changes to the voters in the biennial city election next Sept.

Kistler originally suggested a 15-man committee with each councilman selecting three members. However, Councilman Ben Goldfaden thought this might be too large and unwieldy, and it was finally agreed to have a 10-man committee. Mayor Tom Canning will select the chairman, and the other four councilmen will select two members each. Kistler's motion also directed the committee to consult with such authorities as the Maryland Municipal League for professional advice.

North End Play Area

In other major action taken by the council, the body acted favorably on a petition submitted by Mrs. Elaine Skolnik of 2-E Northway on behalf of 38 families of the 2 court and the 45 and 47 courts of Ridge rd. who signed the petition. The group asked the city to remedy the deplorable condition of the recreation area that serves these three courts, noting that there is no grass and therefore it is quite dusty and that there are bad holes.

City Manager Charles McDonald confirmed the poor condition of the play area and made the following suggestions for improving it. He said a sidewalk should be paved diagonally across the area since people walked across it as a shortcut. The sidewalk would prevent the grooving of paths across the area. The basketball court area would be blacktopped, a special new kind of rubberized hard top used for the four tot playgrounds, and the remainder of the area sodded.

The council accepted this plan but agreed that the sodding should be delayed until spring when there would be more favorable conditions for putting in the grass. The rubberized surface for the tot playgrounds is a new material called "Play-Safe," and this recreation area will be the first to get it as an experiment.

Councilman Kistler suggested that it might be preferable to survey recreation areas throughout Greenbelt before acting on this petition, noting that there may be other areas in even worse condition and therefore rating a higher priority. The council, however, felt that since the residents of the courts bordering this area were interested enough to present a petition, they had earned the right to be taken care of first. The cost of the concrete sidewalk and blacktopping the basketball court alone was estimated to cost about $550.

Repair of Sidewalks

In another matter, the council head a letter from John Walker, manager of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., regarding the policy on the repair of sidewalks. At a previous council meeting the residents of Plateau pl. complained to the city that blacktop had been used to repair the concrete sidewalk along the street. They claimed that this material made a sloppy repair job and melted in the summer, causing blacktop to be tracked into the houses.

The city pointed out that the sidewalk was on GHI property but instructed the city manager to notify GHI that the city was now using concrete exclusively to repair its own sidewalks and also to request the opening of discussions on whether certain sidewalks might more properly be the responsibility of the city.

Walker replied in a "Dear Mac" letter that GHI was forced to use blacktop to repair sidewalks because of its "limited funds." He said further that if the city was going to insist that all sidewalks be repaired with concrete, then GHI would refer all future sidewalk repairs to the city. He also said that GHI would have no objection if the city took up the blacktop in the Plateau pl. sidewalk and installed concrete.

The city council did not feel that this reply was responsive to the city manager's original letter and noted that no mention was made of discussing the possibility of shifting the responsibility of some sidewalks to the city of Greenbelt. No formal action was taken by the council on this matter, but the city manager will attempt to clarify the situation with GHI.

Site of Municipal Building

It was learned informally at the council meeting that a final agreement had been reached among the councilmen on the location if the city offices or municipal building, one of the three new buildings in the city's proposed building program. The proposed location is at the rear of the mall paralleling the Co-op Food Store. By removing the statue there would be enough city-owned land available for the building plus an adequate parking area.

Hear County Candidates

All candidates for county commissioner and other county offices have consented to appear at a candidates meeting tonight, October 9, at Bladensburg Junior High School at 8 p.m., according to Mrs. Harold Hayes, president of the League of Women Voters of Prince Georges County.

At the meeting, sponsored by the League, each candidate for county commissioner will be given 5 minutes to speak. There will be an opportunity for questions to be directed from the floor to all the candidates for county offices. Mrs. Homer Schamp Jr., chairman of the League's Voters Service Committee, will moderate.

The candidates meeting is a part of the program of the Voters Service Committee, and is on a non-partisan basis. Anyone wishing to send in questions before the meeting may call Mrs. Schamp at APpleton 7-5592.

High Point Needs Car

By Marion Rys

A minor tragedy seems to be trying to ruin this year's Drivers Education classes. This tragedy is not being able to obtain a second car to be used by the school. Mid-City Chevrolet in Laurel generously donated a 1959 Chevrolet, but as yet, no other car dealers have been gracious enough to volunteer a car. These classes are very valuable in helping teenagers to become safe, careful drivers, and it would be very sad if they had to be discontinued.

Is there a car dealer in the place?

Lions to Hear Malone

Bill Malone, former Fordham football star and local TV and radio sports personality, will address the Greenbelt Lions Club at their regular scheduled dinner meeting on Monday, Oct. 13, 7:15 p.m., the Community Church.

Any men in the community who are interested in attending should contact Abe Chasanow at 4351 W Friday, Oct. 10.

Fire Prevention Week

Fire has killed more than 100,000 Americans during the past ten years. Many hundreds of thousands more have been burned and permanently disfigured.

The great tragedy of these statistics, Fire Chief W. V. Dutton said, is that practically all of the deaths and injuries could have been prevented.

For this reason the theme for Greenbelt's 1958 Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 5-11, will be: Don't Give Fire A Place To Start!

Chief Dutton said the Greenbelt Fire Prevention will sponsor the local observance of Fire Prevention Week, which has been proclaimed by President Eisenhower in the United States and Governor-General Massey in Canada.

Among features of Greenbelt's week-long program will be poster contests, demonstrations, children's activities, inspections, and other significant events.

Campaign plans were drawn up by a fire prevention committee, headed by Fire Marshal Robert Mogel and including Chief W. V. Dutton, Assistant Chief J. Paul Williams, Dennies Dunn, and Steve DeCoste.

Child Discussions At Lutheran Church

The Greenbelt Lutheran Church, 22-Ridge, will hold a series of eight Sunday School parent-teacher meetings based on the theme, "Your Child and You." The first will be held Sunday, Oct. 12, at 3 p.m., at the church building. The topic for this meeting is entitled the "Basic Needs of Children."

The teaching staff of Immanuel Lutheran School, Alexandria, Va., will present this material. Mr. Ralph Behrens, principal, Misses Norma Milnikel, Dorothy Kethe, Alpha Sink, and Mr. Rueben Leopoldt, teachers, will discuss the child's needs to be loved, to feel important, and to feel secure. Following the program, an opportunity will be afforded the parents to ask questions.

All parents of the Kindergarten and Sunday School pupils, as well as friends of the congregation, are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served following the program by the ladies of the church.

The Long View A "Litterals" Definition

By Al Long

I suppose the ban against pets in Greenbelt is a necessary Procrustean regulation, but it surely is tough on the heartstrings of the little ones. The other evening I came home and there on my favorite reading chair was ensconced a stray cat. We politely refer to all pets as "stray" to avoid the accusation that anyone in town is violating the rules. He or she (I wasn't yet formally introduced) had his or her head propped upon a doll pillow and was covered snugly with a baby blanket with only his or her calico head showing. Purring contentedly as the spoiled master of the house, it looked me over with disdainful but suspicious scrutiny.

"Who put that dawn alley cat . . . ?" I started to yell in my well modulated voice, when Michelle, our first grader, flew out of the kitchen chattering ecstatically, "Oh, Daddy, look at my wonderful kitty cat. A boy gave it to me and said I could keep it. Isn't it the most wonderfully beautiful cat you ever saw!"

"Yes, it surely is," I lied liked a gentleman, "but I'm sure it has a home and it will be late for dinner unless you let it out right now."

"Oh, no, its all mine," she explained joyfully as she cuddled it defensively in her arms. "We're going to keep it." Then she added, "You love all animals, don't you? That's why God made them, isn't it?" I think that there is a bit of St. Francis in all children.

Well, the cat kept my chair all evening. Everytime I made a move to throw it out, it meowed for Michelle. I got her to put it out several times thru the evening—to see if she (it was a girl cat) wanted to take a walk, but Michelle had her back in each time within twenty seconds. Hardly enough time for even a cat to make up her mind.

When Michelle went to bed, I explained that we would put the cat out just to see, if she had a home and besides cats like to be out at night. She would come back in the morning I was sure, I told her. In the morning, Michelle woke early and opened the door expectantly. The look of unbelieving disappointment on her face made me feel like a heel and curse the anti-pet rule.

Maybe we shouldn't be allowed to keep pets, I agree, but a little girl is surely entitled to her cat. What's the answer?

High Point High Points

By Marion Ryss

The High Point Band and Ma-Band Day on Saturday, Oct. 4 along jotties—took part in Maryland with 38 other bands from all over Maryland. Hosts of this affair were the Maryland Band and Majorettes. All 33 bands performed at the Maryland-Clemson half-time show.

Teacher's convention takes place Thursday and Friday, Oct. 16-17 in Baltimore. High Point High School closes these two days, giving students and teachers a much needed rest.

New program started at High Point in which sophomores from University of Maryland who are prospective teachers will come to observe and work with the teachers. Among these students will be Beverly Friedlander, a former High Pointer.

Friday at 2 p.m. High Point students get a chance to watch the High Point "Eagles" tackle Walter Johnson. So far this year Walter Johnson has been undefeated but the "Eagles" hope to change all that. It should be a very exciting game so try not to miss it.

CUB PACK 750

Cub Scout Pack 750 will hold a Pack Meeting in the 8th Grade Class Room of St. Hugh's School on Friday evening, Oct. 10, at 8 p.m.

All Cub Scouts and Parents of Pack 750 and prospective Cubs and their Parents are requested to attend this Pack Meeting.

The city council at its regular meeting on Monday, Oct. 6, was somewhat startled to learn that Greenbelt Consumer Services wants to classify its shopping carts as trash—or at least as "litter." Sam Ashelman, general manager of GCS, thought that if the city would consider the shopping carts that stray from the store to various parts of the city as "litter" to be picked up as part of the city's clean-up campaign, then GCS would cooperate by putting up appropriate signs.

Although the council sympathized with the problem of unreturned shopping carts and felt that Ashelman's idea was ingenious, there was general agreement that the definition of litter could not be stretched to include stray shopping carts. It was suggested that GCS go around picking up its own carts littering various areas of the city.

GROUND BREAKING

The Berwyn Baptist Church will hold ground breaking services for a new educational building at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 12, at Cherokee st. and 48th pl. (Oak Springs), College Park. The plot, known as God's Three Acres, is located one mile north of the University of Maryland, and about one-half block east of Washington-Baltimore blvd. The building program has been in effect during the last 5 years, during which time Dr. Eldon W. Koch (pastor), Deacons, Building Committee, Board of Trustees and Church members have worked toward their goal. Dr. Paul Bard, Associational Missionary, will be among the guest speakers. Everyone is invited to attend and bring a friend.

The history of the church dates back to June 1922, before the official organization, when a small group met and formed a community Sunday School in a building on Potomac st. In the spring of 1924, a small group began working a plot of ground at Forty-eighth ave. and Tecumseh st. On Sept. 7, 1924, the work had progressed far enough for a cornerstone laying ceremony to be held. On the first Sunday of May 1925, the first service was held in the new church building; and services have continued in this building till now.

Salvation Army Urges More Clothing Donated

Only about 700 pounds of children's school clothing have been donated to The Salvation Army as a result of its current appeal to residents of the National Capital Area. Major William Browning, director of The Army's Men's Social Service Center, said that these donations were the result of 160 phone calls from residents—some asking for pick-up service, others volunteering to deliver their donations.

"Response has been disappointing," said Major Browning, "but the quality of clothing we've received has been good." Meantime The Salvation Army is receiving a heavy load of requests for school clothing and shoes. Requests were running almost 300 a week from the District of Columbia and nearby Va. and Md. at the opening of school.

Right now, according to Captain Eupha Gibson, The Army's Welfare Secretary for the area, 47 families have made desperate appeals for school clothing. Captain Gibson has been forced to hold the requests because she cannot fill the clothing orders.

"Our welfare families average four to six children," she said. "You can see how many school-aged youngsters are involved. When I refer to desperate appeals this means that the children have almost nothing to wear."

To make the clothing situation more vivid Captain Gibson pointed out that it takes two medium-sized laundry baskets full of clothing to provide outfits for two welfare families. She said that even this amount would provide only one outfit for each child with no provisions for a change of clothing.

Prince Georges Corps in Md. has received two phone calls, but no clothing. To make clothing donations the public is urged to telephone DI. 7-8023. At this number the Men's Social Service Center will give the location of the nearest Salvation Army center or arrange for pick-up service.

PING-PONG

David Greco announced this week that the table tennis (ping-pong) club got off to a good start at its first meeting last Tuesday at the center school, but unfortunately there were only men present. He reminds everyone that women and children are also welcome to play. Four tables are available in the home economics room, and the city is providing all equipment. Play will take place every Tuesday from 8 to 10 p.m. at the school. Beginners are urged to come and learn the joys of ping-pong, as well as old timers who already know how to play. Two whopping scores featured the competition at last Friday's 7-table duplicate bridge game. In the North-South direction, Dale Freese and George Kaufman continued their winning ways by amassing a .733 score, leaving their nearest rivals newcomers Gerard Weber and George Klies, some .200 percentage points behind. Not to be outdone, East-West winners, George Nelson and Earl Bowen, totaled up an amazing .757 score, as runners-up Mary Smith and Sue Weintraub finished with a .550 tab.

Recreation Review

Touch Football League

The Greenbelt Touch Football League started play on Monday night with defending Champions St. Hugh's defeating the Badgers of NSA 18-0. The St. Hugh's team relied on a strong passing offense. In the second game the Athletic Club defeated the Brothers of Maryland University 15-2 in a game that was tied 2-2 at the end of the first half. Games are played on Monday and Thursday nights 7:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Youth Center

Our teenagers met last week for the first time this year in new surroundings. The area is somewhat smaller but has much more atmosphere. Parents are invited to drop in any Saturday night to eye our new quarters.

Rocket Club

Each Friday night at Center School in the homemaking room a group of boys are meeting to form a Rocket Club. If you are of Jr. or Sr. High School ages or a parent with rocket interests, we urge you to attend. Adult leadership is needed as much as experience. If you can contribute, be sure to join us on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Adult Arts & Crafts Program

On Wednesday, Oct. 22, at 8 p.m. in the Social Room a registration will be held for an adult arts and crafts program. The program will include leather craft, ceramics and enameling. We must have a registration of at least 25 interested men and women.

Elementary Bowling League

All bowlers wishing to bowl in the elementary bowling league are requested to be present at the bowling alley tomorrow at 4 p.m. This will be your last chance to sign up on a team.

The Big Sport

Sparkplug Needed at College Park

Thank Heaven for the Yankees. We thought we could never be caught dead saying that, but the bad fielding performance turned in by the New Yorkers in the World Series has in effect taken some of the heat off the Maryland Terps and Washington Redskins who have turned in some wretched performances themselves.

This was to be the year that Coach Tommy Mont came out of the shadow of Smilin' Jim Tatum. In his third year on the job, it was "his" team, the one he molded from its freshman year to the present. We think Tommy was mostly right. He's gotten the Terps those "Seven Sticks of Dynamite" whose sterling defensive play against vaunted Clemson reminded one of those great Cavanaugh defensive lines, "The Seven Pillars of Granite," that were built at Fordham University in the mid-1930's. Time and again those kids up on the forward wall literally held the Clemson Tigers, with but one exception, whenever they clawed to within scoring range.

There is nothing that won't cure what ails the Terrapins better than a first-class QB. From what we've seen of their performances, Bob Rusevlyan and Dickie Lewis simply won't cut the mustard. Lacking the Bernie Faloney or Jack Scarbath type of ballplayer who could put zip or drive into this otherwise good team, the Terps may be expected to sputter along for the remainder of their schedule at something less than flank speed.

House of Cards

It never fails but those otherwise lackluster Chicago Cardinals, who usually fold in mid-season and can't seem to beat anyone else in convincing fashion, play one sensational game each year and pick on our Redskins as victim. Almost as far back as we can recall, Ollie Matson and Company have chosen one of their two annual encounters with the Skins, usually their first, to run wild and play like the champions they are not.

Until last Saturday night George Preston Marshall thought his might be the team to go all the way in 1958. It's been a long time since 1945 when Sammy Baugh brought a championship here. Now Marshall's not so sure. It will depend entirely upon the rebound this Sunday against the Giants.

On Saturday night there was no spring in the Redskins. What Matson, McHan and this brilliant rookie find, M. C. Reynolds, may have lacked (and we couldn't find much), the Redskins made good by their poor tackling and lackadaisical blocking. From our TV vantage point, time and again McHan or Reynolds seemed to be caught behind the line of scrimmage for prospective heavy losses but somehow either managed to wriggle free, or got rid of the pigskin. In contrast, Eddie LeBaron "ate the ball" which we expect he did without relish.

We have only high regard for little Eddie who has no peer in ball handling, but we've not been able to shake the conviction—and it's been five years abuilding—that Eddie will never take the Skins to the championship. We should like to see Ralph Guglielmi get a real chance. Maybe he'll get just that this Sunday against the Giants who this year don't seem a bit gargantuan. Like the Terps, they lack the sparkplug to bring their sputtering offense to life. Superannuated "Chuckin" Charlie Conerly, at 38, has overstayed his market.

The Skins should be "up" for this one after Coach Kuharich goes over their mistakes of last Saturday. What with the Cleveland Browns once more making moves to spread eagle the Eastern Division of the NFL, it behooves the Redskins to win this Sunday or it will be the shortest season for them in the past decade.

Piano Recital Offered

Miss Susan Abramowitz of Greenbelt will give a piano recital on Sunday, Oct. 12, at the Meserole Music Studio. She has been studying the piano for nine years, first with Mrs. Lee Mirabella and currently with Miss Esther Howe. A program will be presented of a Scarlatti sonata, Bach Preludes and Fugues, Pour le Piano of Debussy, short works of Fouldrehan, and the First Piano Concerto in C Major of Beethoven.

Miss Abramowitz is a student at High Point High School and a member of Catholic University's High School Drama Workshop.

The piano recital will be held in the auditorium of the studio at 8208 Piney Branch rd. and will begin at 4:30 p.m. The public is invited.
