News Review Drive Over $1400; Delivery Service To Be Expanded

Collections for the Greenbelt News Review fund-raising drive have topped $1,400, reported drive chairman Mrs. Elaine Skolnik to a special meeting of the weekly newspaper's board of directors last Thursday night. Only a handful of courts remain to be heard from, she said.

A preliminary analysis of the figures indicate that about three out of every four families (exclusive of the apartments) contributed to the drive. The average amount received per family contributing was approximately $1.20. Over 300 families contributed $2.00 or more to the drive.

"We had a wonderful crew of collectors," declared Mrs. Skolnik. Without their vigor and perseverance, this drive never would have been as successful as it was. I enjoyed working with them every minute."

Future Plans

After expressing appreciation for the efforts of Elaine and Al Skolnik in organizing the drive, the board turned to the problem of allocating the funds. The purpose of the drive was to secure funds with which to pay off old debts, to meet expected deficits in publishing costs in the coming year, and to improve the delivery system.

A committee composed of Ann Levine, Al Skolnik, and Vic Fisher was appointed to make recommendations for the most effective use of the funds. As an interim move, the board voted to allocate additional funds immediately to expand the delivery service.

Circulation manager Vic Fisher stated that the extra money will be used to put on additional delivery boys. "Some of the boys had as many as 200 houses on their route, which often led to unsatisfactory service," he said.

Editor Harry Zubkoff stressed the need for additional advertising revenue, despite the success of the drive. "We are going to have financial problems as long as advertising income remains at the present level," he declared. "What we need is an advertising manager and solicitors for advertising."

Commissions of 15 percent are paid for all new advertising secured outside of Greenbelt.

Morrison Appointed Justice Of The Peace

Allen D. Morrison, 58-H Crescent, was appointed Justice of the Peace last week by the commissioners of Prince Georges county. Morrison will serve in the Hyattsville county service building from 8 to 4 p.m. with two other appointees on duty during the remainder of the day.

A former city councilman for 12 years, Morrison served two terms as mayor of Greenbelt. He recently was elected to the Greenbelt Housing corporation's board of directors with the highest number of votes, and is also on the GCS Congress. As a notary public, Morrison has been seen recently in the city center area serving the public.

A justice of the peace sets and accepts collateral for traffic violations, issues warrants and peace bonds but cannot perform marriage ceremonies. Several years ago, Morrison was appointed justice of the peace and performed his duties from his home. This new appointment is remarkable in that Morrison has now been chosen by both major political parties. His new appointment is for two years at a salary of $2400 a year.

Morrison is a long-time resident of Greenbelt and was one of the first to take residence here.

"I am fond of Greenbelters and Greenbelt. I am proud that I was selected to serve my neighbors in still another capacity," Morrison declared.

Clean-Up Drive Over

By Virginia Beauchamp

If you should see a group of children with their heads in a trash can outside the Greenbelt Pharmacy, don't be alarmed or surprised; they're only investigating the "voice" that they heard emerging from it. It's the talking trash can of the Clean-Up Drive, and is one feature of the drive continuing on into this week. The 1959 drive officially ended, however, on Saturday, May 2. The official statistical report of the drive, now being prepared by Clean-Up Chairman Robert W. Mogel, is scheduled for publication in the next issue of the News Review.

"The whole idea of Clean-Up seemed to be really taking hold in Maryland this year," Mogel stated, in commenting upon his general impressions of the 1959 campaign. Both the Keep Maryland Beautiful Committee and the National Clean-Up Bureau in Washington found themselves nearly stripped of illustrative materials, he reported.

Greenbelt's own drive has received considerable publicity throughout the state. On Monday night the Maryland Fire Brigade Association, at their annual fire prevention seminar, held in Towson, saw colored slides taken this year at Greenbelt's opening Clean-Up parade. In addition, Edgar L. Smith, Prince Georges County Commissioner and Chairman of the County Clean-Up Drive, in a letter to Rita Schwimer, 4th grade student at the North End School, acknowledging a poster she had sent in, took note of the local drive. Another North End fourth grader, Kathy Chotiner, received a letter from Governor Tawes commending her and her classmates for a poster, "Keep Land Area Clean," and for their participation in Greenbelt's drive.

Both letters are currently on display in the windows of the Pharmacy. Pictures and other materials concerning the Clean-Up Drive are displayed in the store windows next to the Twin Pines office. More pictures recording individual and group participation in this year's drive would be most welcome, Mogel has advised the News Review.

Junior High PTA

The final meeting of the Greenbelt Junior High School PTA will be held on Tuesday, May 12, at 8 p.m. The brief business meeting will consist of the election and installation of the new officers. Parents will then see what their children have accomplished this year during the "Open House." Classroom displays have been especially prepared for this meeting.

Red And Green

Adding a few spots of color to an otherwise colorless council meeting last Monday night, Mayor Tom Canning and city manager Charles McDonald are sporting sunburned faces as the result of riding in the Little League opening day parade and watching the first game during a sun-drenched Sunday. For the fashion-wise, McDonald tends toward the more subtle hue, but Canning faces the world with a lobster-red countenance. Certain council members, green with envy at the appearance of healthy vigor in their midst, completed the traffic light picture.

GCS Co-op Congress

The Fifth Co-op Congress of Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc. was initiated into the complexities of their multi-million dollar supermarket operation at the Annual Workshop meeting held at the Francis Scott Key Hotel in Frederick last weekend.

In the intensive two-day session, the 87 men and women delegates elected by their 18,000 fellow member-owners of the eight Co-op shopping centers in Maryland and Virginia debated their new responsibilities, elected officers of their Congress for the coming year, and nominated candidates from among their number to fill four vacancies on the Co-op Board of Directors.

Highlight of the meeting was an address by Dr. Ernest Dichter, Director of the Institute of Motivational Research, Croton-on-Hudson, New York. Dr. Dichter told the delegates that when cooperatives were first formed more than a century ago they were years ahead of their times. "Now," he said, "the concept of consumer co-operation needs to be rediscovered and redefined in terms of the present situation. The fact is that we are going to have a better life and people's needs are going to change accordingly."

The Co-op Board of Directors instituted the Congress five years ago to maintain close relationships with the rapidly growing membership and multiplying areas of the cooperative's development. The Congress acts in an advisory capacity in relation to the Board; furnishes a training ground for future Board membership; and carries the chief responsibility for nominating candidates from among its numbers for election to the Board. It is the first such Congress to be attached to the corporate structure of any cooperative or corporation in the United States.

Henry Redkey of Wheaton was re-elected Speaker of the Co-op Congress, Richard P. Abell, Secretary, and Dayton Hull, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole.

Nominated for the four two-year vacancies on the Board of Directors were incumbents S. L. Hoke of Westminster, Maryland; William C. Armtz, Takoma Park; Richard Barrett, Wheaton. W. Gifford Hoag, of the Falls Church area, who was President of Rochdale Cooperative, Inc. until its recent affiliation with Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., was nominated to the remaining vacancy created when Mrs. Carolyn R. Miller of Takoma Park, only woman member of the Board, declined to run again.

Election of the Board by the membership will take place at the Corporation's Annual Meeting scheduled for June 19.

The GCS-Co-op broke ground this week for its new warehouse and office building in Beltsville, Maryland and plans to open three new shopping centers during the current year, bringing the total to 9 shopping centers, 7 service stations, and 6 pharmacies operated by the Co-op in the Washington metropolitan area.

New Space Agency To Use Greenbelt Address; Greenbelt Place Accepted

By Isadore Parker

The new Space Agency on Glenn Dale road will have a Greenbelt post office address, it was disclosed this week. Bids have been let for the construction of two buildings on the site, and work is expected to begin soon. The facility has been named the Goddard Space Research Center in commemoration of one of the pioneers of rocketry.

THERE IS STILL TIME

For those who were missed in the News Review house-to-house fund-raising drive, your donations will still be gratefully received by drive chairman Mrs. Elaine Skolnik, 2-E Northway (6060) either by mail or in person.

Sgt. Green Appointed July 4 Parade Marshal

Thomas N. Snoddy, President of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, has appointed Sgt. Austin Green of the Greenbelt Police Department as the parade marshal for the July 4th parade to be held Saturday, July 4, at 11 a.m. Austin has received several answers from bands, fire departments, police units, cowboys, majorettes and several other units who said they would be happy to attend. One of the judges will be Curly Byrd, formerly President of the University of Maryland. Another judge is Mayor Davis of College Park, Maryland, David Brigham, past commander of Maryland State Legionnaires. Sgt. Green would like to extend an invitation to all our local groups to participate in this year's parade. The list of trophies will be in a later edition of the News Review.

Let's all try to make this year the biggest parade for the City of Greenbelt. Sgt. A. R. Green has been parade marshal in the city on the 4th of July starting back in 1947. He started with the City of Greenbelt, then the Greenbelt Community Band and the Greenbelt Boys Club. For the last few years members of the fire department have planned for the parade on July 4.

Council May Accept Role As Arbiters

The city council took preliminary, but hesitant steps, to lend its "good offices" toward solving the local movie theater labor dispute. Following receipt and discussion of a letter from the projection operations union which asked the city to step in and arbitrate, the council directed city manager Charles McDonald to inquire of the theater manager regarding his willingness to renew negotiations. The council intends to appoint a committee of citizens to sit in on the negotiations, and will offer any assistance possible without expending funds.

The labor dispute has been a source of irritation to council members after they became involved in the summary cancellation of a safety program scheduled at the theater by the city manager. Although the council asserted its desire to remain "neutral" in the affair at its inception, the use of the theater by a city employee cast doubts in some council members' minds as to its adherence to a neutrality policy. The council had also decided it would not assist in arbitration "unless specifically asked by both parties." The union's letter accomplishes half the necessary requirements, and theater manager Charles Walton's agreement is needed now for the city to offer its assistance.

TV's "Pete" To Star At St. Hugh's Bazaar

Pete Jamerson, star of WMAL-TV's "Pete and His Pals," will be the feature attraction of St. Hugh's Annual Bazaar on May 21. He will entertain the youngsters with his well known puppets at 6:30 p.m.

The Bazaar, which will last from 2 p.m. until 11 p.m., will include such attractions as a raffle for $1000, a 50-50 treasure chest, Bingo, a bake sale, white elephant sale, and an auction. A dinner will be served starting at 5 p.m. Pony rides will be available for the children.

The city had asked the agency to consider a Greenbelt post office address, since the site is practically on Greenbelt property and closer to this community than Glenn Dale or the City of Beltsville. Last week officials of the agency visited and toured Greenbelt and met with city officials, after which the announcement of the post office address and name was issued.

Acceptance of Greendale Place, a new street in the Lakewood development, was granted by the city council. The street is the first one on the right going up Greenhall road from Crescent, and ends in a cul-de-sac. Other streets will be accepted from the new development as they meet county and city specifications. The council will take a personal look at "park" areas surrounding the new development which is offered for dedication. Most of the land is used for storm drainage, but one portion can be reclaimed for a recreation area, it was disclosed.

New Curbs

The city will prepare specifications and costs for the installation of paved curbs and gutters along Crescent from Southway to Gardenway. Parking of autos in the area have destroyed the shoulders and grass areas, and the new curbs are expected to alleviate the situation.

Support for Boys Club

A limitation of $250 was placed on the amount of money the city will now pay for umpires and other game officials in the Boys Club athletics program. Previously, the boys club program had been supported by income from the refreshment stand at the swimming pool, but poor revenue from that source prompted Boys Club officials to seek assistance from the council. The lone protest came from Warren Leddick, recreation department director, who feared the money was coming from his department's funds. He relented when informed that the money came from a surplus account.

The new building going up on Greenbelt road across from the junior high school is a telephone building that will house equipment to service the entire surrounding area.

The city will consider erecting a bench for bus users at the bus stop in Branchville. Councilman Ben Goldfaden stated that some commuters have no place to rest and either use the curb or hitch-hike, thus depriving the city of revenue. D. C. Transit will be consulted before the council takes further steps.

Infrequent Opportunity

The decision at the last meeting of the board of directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., to undertake a revision of the by-laws offers possibilities of benefit to the membership in more ways than elimination of obsolete material. Foremost among these possibilities is the hope that a quorum for future annual membership meetings may be assured.

In his role as chairman of the committee to review the by-laws, Bruce Bowman has a particular challenge. Under the terms by which the committee was organized, board members Bowman and Allen Morrison may be assisted by such non-Board members as the chairman may appoint.

Here is an all too infrequent opportunity for certain individuals among the rank and file membership to turn their special talents to the use of the corporation. If a co-op is to be cooperative in more than name only, genuine opportunities for participation by all interested members must be nurtured. Who knows, if more and more of the membership found avenues for contributing to the vitality of their co-op, perhaps those oft repeated complaints of membership apathy might never be heard, and the whole question of securing a quorum for the annual meetings might never have been an issue.

North End PTA Picnic

The North End PTA is holding an outdoor picnic for the families of the North End School. Since this is the only fund raising project of the PTA this year, a full attendance will be greatly appreciated.

A program of fun has been planned, including a menu of potato salad, beans, hot dogs, hamburgers, kool-aid, and coffee. Special entertainment has been planned for the children. Highlight of the affair will be the installation of officers for next year.

The fee is nominal—25c for children, 50c for adults; $1.00 takes the whole family. Please plan to attend this affair on Saturday, May 9, between the hours of 4 to 6:30 p.m. at the school.

PG TRACK MEET

The Prince Georges County Boys Clubs, in connection with "National Youth Fitness Week" are having their first Annual Track Meet on Saturday, May 9, at 10 a.m. at the Bladensburg Senior High School.

The meet will be conducted for all boys 8 to 17 years of age. It is in line with the boys club policy of diversification of program to offer more boys physical and athletic services apart from the major sports of baseball, basketball, and football.

SAFETY SHOW

On Saturday, May 23, at 1 p.m. the Greenbelt Theater will sponsor another safety show. Sgt. Austin R. Green of the Greenbelt Police Department and Cpl. David Lauder, Maryland State Police, will talk on safety. Door prizes will be given away. The School Safety Patrol will get in free. All other students will get in for half price.

The Asbury Home

By Natalie Fisher, Age 10

On Sunday, April 19 I went with a group from the Mowatt Methodist Church down to the Asbury Home for the aged. We were guided around by two women who live there.

It was a real nice place. There were nine men and one hundred fifty-one women. Each person had a private room. They were allowed to decorate their room if they wanted to.

There was a gift shop, personal museum, hot shop, dentist's office, hospital ward, barber and beauty shop, and a foot doctor. There were many sun porches and balconies. The lounges were furnished beautifully, with TV sets, rocking chairs, pianos, and sets of beautiful chairs, couches, and paintings. There also was a collection of flowers, a chapel, and a meditation room for the people who live there.

The different sections were called The Edworth Hall, The Wilson Hall and The Young Hall.

It took two hours to tour the home. It was well worth the time, I'm sure.

The Methodist Church supports the Asbury Home with their Mother's Day offering. We go once a year. Next time, won't you join us?

CO-OP KINDERGARTEN

A joint board meeting of the old and new officers of the Greenbelt Cooperative Kindergarten will be held on May 11, at 8:30 p.m. in the Social Room of the Center School.

This is an important meeting at which the old board members are requested to furnish the new with a summary of their duties and functions and any other details which would be of assistance to them in the coming year. Refreshments will be served.

As I See It

(Ed. note: We welcome back Russ Greenbaum as a regular columnist for the News Review. The new title signifies that he will express his personal comments about a wide variety of subjects not necessarily connected with Greenbelt.)

By Russell Greenbaum

A few Saturdays ago I was relaxing out in my yard on my deck chair, which has a broken leg so if you move suddenly you end up flat on your back. I was lying completely still, contemplating my half-mowed lawn. I was wondering if I should finish it that day or wait until the next day on the chance that it wouldn't rain. Even more dreamily I wondered if I could talk my wife into mowing it during the week.

Perhaps I fell asleep for a short bit, but I suddenly became alert when a medium-sized dog loped briskly into the yard, came up to my chair and sat down on his haunches. I stared at him with a mixture of shock and outrage. In Greenbelt no dog had ever invaded my yard before. A cold chill swept over me as I envisioned this animal as the forerunner of an army of dogs about to inundate our dogless—well, almost so—paradise.

I waved my arms vehemently at the dog and shouted, "Go! Beat it! Depart! Don't you know that this is off limits for dogs?" He stared at me unflinchingly for a few moments, and then he spoke. "Let's cut out this nonsense and get down to business," he said crisply.

Well, I certainly didn't like his tone, so I fired back, "Talk about nonsense, who ever heard of a talking dog!" He nodded affably enough. "You're perfectly correct. There is no such thing as a talking dog. Now that we have that settled, let me introduce myself. I am John L. Terrier, president of the Domesticated Canines of America, Local 824."

"You mean you dogs have unions now?"

"Of course we do," he snapped. "How do you think we've been able to improve living conditions in dog houses, increase the protein content in our dog food, gain better working conditions for our TV dog performers..."

"Okay, okay," I said quickly, as I saw he was ready to roll out a whole list of benefits that DCA apparently was ready to claim for the long suffering dog. "But why bother me? I don't own a dog."

"Please," he said, holding up a paw. "the union is trying to stamp out the use of the word 'owner' for a dog. After all, dogs are not slaves. We like to think of humans as our supervisors. As for your not having a dog, I think that situation will change once we get moving in Greenbelt."

"I suppose you mean this decision by the judge that GHI cannot prohibit its members from keeping pets?"

"Exactly. The greatest legal document since Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation. On second thought, a better comparison would be the Louisiana Purchase. Greenbelt is new virgin territory now opened to dogs. Gardens we have never dug, smells we have never smelt before, hydrants we have never..."

"Never mind," I cut in quickly, convinced more than ever before that dogs have no delicacy. "But I got news for you. There have been dogs here long before, which is why all this fuss was raised."

"I know—scabs, but we're out signing them all up right now. I don't mind telling you that Greenbelt is going to be a closed shop DCA union. Any dog without a union card gets no bone-burying privileges nor will he get any other dog to join him in a moon-howling session. Anyway, my purpose is to make a statement to the press to reassure residents that the new regime will benefit them."

"You mean by having dogs swarming all over the place?"

"Tut-tut," he admonished me. "Nothing like that. DCA has strict membership requirements. Only dogs with good backgrounds, sound habits, and generally good community rating are accepted. And what's more, we don't have to give our reasons for not accepting dogs as members," and he cocked his head at me significantly.

"I don't know what you mean," I blustered. "Anyway, even if you have the dogs in town well under control, what about the other pets that people will start bringing in?"

"Oh, don't worry about them. The first thing we're going to do after we get organized is to lobby for a regulation barring all pets from Greenbelt except dogs. Believe me, Mack, this is the only way you can have an efficient, neat community."

Suddenly my deck chair collapsed. By the time I managed to get up he had disappeared.

Birthday greetings to Rachelle Wagner, 2-D Northway. This cute kindergartener-almost first grader will be six years old tomorrow.

Seen in Greenbelt last weekend was David Klein, who visited all his relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Danish of Takoma Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Bobbie Lee to Airman First Class Lawrence Stuart Koslow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koslow of Riverside Drive, New York. Koslow is stationed at Andrews Air Force Base.

PFC Teryl C. Lawson, son of Mrs. C. W. Reynolds, 115 Northway, is scheduled to participate with the 101st Airborne Division in a mock parachute assault on Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, May 8. Approximately 700 paratroopers will descend upon a drop zone ten miles southwest of the city and then stage an attack on a simulated aggressor force. The assault, followed by the unit's participation in a parade May 9, will be in honor of Pittsburgh's bi-centennial celebration.

Lawson is regularly assigned as an automatic rifleman in Company B of the division's 327th Infantry at Fort Campbell Kentucky. Entering the Army in January 1958, he was last stationed at Fort Jackson, South Carolina. He attended High Point High School and was employed by College Park Auto Body Works before entering the Army.

Josep' E. Wilkinson, 15-A Laurel Hill, has qualified for the Knight in Armor Club, outstanding agents' organization of The Travelers Insurance Company. Wilkinson will attend the Company's conference in Hershey, Pennsylvania, May 24-27, at the Hershey Hotel. He will be cited for his outstanding production in life insurance.

Joel S. Birdseye, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Birdseye, 37-A Ridge, enlisted in the U. S. Coast Guard on October 1, 1958, and had his boot camp training at Cape May, New Jersey. Reporting to Norfolk, Virginia, where he served on the weather ship, "Ingham," which patrolled the North Atlantic. He is now attending school at the U. S. Coast Guard training station in Gordon, Connecticut.

High Point High Points

By Marion Ryss

In last week's column I mentioned the College Park Rotary Club's annual Talent Contest. Well, this week I am proud to report that High Point's entry, the High C's, won first place. This will make the second time in a period of three years that High Point has won first place. If we are able to win again next year, the trophy that is awarded to a three time winner will be ours. As it is said, time will tell.

High Point had the pleasure of a visit from exchange business and professional men and women from Europe, Latin-America, and Asia, on Friday, May 1. They visited Washington, D. C., before taking a tour of the United States. During their stay they visited one model high school, High Point. They were first briefed by Alan I. Chotiner, principal, on the customs and teaching methods at High Point. After this, they were given the opportunity to attend several classes and witness classroom procedures. They represented such countries as Norway, Denmark, England, Brazil, and Pakistan.

One of the biggest highlights of the senior year, I am sure, was the Senior Prom. The main theme was a lost paradise. The decoration committee under the direction of Nelson Heines, outdid themselves. A water fountain was imported from New York, a statue of Venus, and some little cherubs could be seen bringing out the theme. It was truly a Senior Class paradise for a night, and I am sure that all seniors were more than pleased with the results. A special thanks is in order to all of those who helped make the dance the success that it was.

The yearly Latin Club convention was held in Baltimore on Saturday, April 18. The purpose of this convention was mainly to elect the new state officers. These officers were chosen by voting for the school and having the winning school elect the officers. Each school can hold only one office, and the school with the vice-presidency is not required to sponsor a convention. High Point was elected to pick the president from among its Latin Club members and volunteered to publish the state club newspaper. This newspaper is published twice a year and is distributed to all high schools that belong to the Junior Classical League (J.C.L.) The convention was sponsored by Notre Dame High School. It lasted from 10 'til 3:30, and a lunch was served. Next year this convention will be held at Suitland High School.

On April 21, the final cut for the 1959-1960 cheerleaders took place in the High Point gym. Out of the twenty remaining girls only ten were chosen. They were judged by the teachers at High Point on the following points: poise, personality, appearance, voice, pep, motions, and tumbling ability. Greenbelt can be proud to say that one of its teenage citizens will be serving her second year on the cheerleading squad, Carole Pines of 7-E Crescent. Congratulations, Carole, and the same for all of the other girls who made it.

New Maryland Coach To Address Lions Club

Tom Nugent, the new head football coach of the University of Maryland, will address the Lions Club on Monday, May 11, at 6:44 p.m. at the Community Church.

Coach Nugent was formerly the athletic director at Florida State. He is known for introducing the well known "T" formation, the type-writer huddle, and the double quarterback. His ten year coaching record mostly against high-ranking college teams, is 54 wins, 45 losses, and three ties. His football clinic annually attracts 1000 coaches from all over the country.

Those interested in hearing the talk by Coach Nugent are requested to contact Lion Charles Cormack, Jr., at 2883.

Drill Team Hoping For AAA Championship

By Rachelle Chasnoff, Age 12
The North End School safety patrol is competing for the National AAA Drill Team championship on Friday, May 8, at 7 p.m. at Fort Myer, Virginia. We expect stiff competition, particularly from some of the Florida and Pennsylvania teams.

Friday evening is the night we have been waiting for the past eight months. We have been practicing before school, and after school. Once or twice we have even walked to the Center School in order to have an auditorium large enough for us to practice our maneuvers. Thursday at 8 p.m. we are having a dress rehearsal for parents and friends at the Center School. We expect to be accompanied by about 40 North Enders, who are forming a caravan to Fort Myer.

Saturday our drill team is marching in the AAA parade. The county is entering a float in the parade, and our school is having the privilege of building it.

PTA CONTRIBUTES

A contribution of $5 to the News Review fund-raising drive was received this week from the Center School PTA. D. A. Sinkov, secretary, wrote the newspaper that "our organization is grateful to your newspaper for the excellent coverage given to our activities and is appreciative of the efforts of your staff on our behalf."

Petty Dictator

This boy walks all over his parents. Since he was a baby, he got what he wanted by showing bad temper.

When he is away from home this boy is a model of good conduct. He knows he can't treat others the way he treats his parents... not if he wants to be popular.

There is a lot of difference between being hard and rough with children and being firm. This boy doesn't respect his parents because they are too lenient. A quiet, strong atmosphere in this home would work wonders.
