Council Approves $10,500 Pay Raise for Employees

by AL SKOLNIK

The city council approved last Monday for first reading an ordinance granting city workers a flat pay raise, amounting to $250 a year for most classified and hourly rated employees. Employees earning less than $3,500 a year will receive a raise of $375. The cost of the raise is estimated at $10,500. The motion will be considered for second reading and final passage at a special meeting tomorrow evening, Friday, September 15.

In terms of the average Greenbelt worker (salary $4,100), the cost-of-living raise is equivalent to a 6% increase. However, for department heads and workers with long seniority whose salaries exceed $4,100, the pay raise will come out much smaller, percentage-wise. The Personnel Board is now considering other adjustments in the salary schedule to bring the higher paid positions in line.

Because of certain inflexibilities in the salary schedule, the council took an unusual step to accomplish the increase. It created two additional in-grade steps of $125 each for all grades and provided that all workers would automatically be advanced two steps. It is anticipated that the Personnel Board in its permanent revision of the salary schedule will recommend that the first two steps be abolished.

Storm Drainage

The council signified its willingness to help meet the cost of constructing a storm drain along Greenhill Rd. properties in Lakewood to alleviate the erosion problem created by inadequate drainage of water off Greenbelt Homes, Inc. property. According to an engineering study by Greenhome and O'Mara, the project would cost about $1,750 if contracted out. However, it is expected that the city will use its own manpower and equipment, thus reducing costs.

The city manager was authorized to earmark about $1,000 out of sewerage material and supplies for the project and to explore with GHI the latter's granting of a permanent easement for the drain.

In approving the action, several council members asserted that the responsibility for the situation rested on the builder, Buchanan. "The city's willingness to help defray the costs," said Mayor Alan Kistler, "in no way implies city responsibility. Nevertheless, there is a problem here which has to be taken care of."

There was some feeling that projects of this type should be handled as part of a capital improvement budget which would have its own method of financing. However, the emergency nature of the erosion problem persuaded the council to make an exception and to finance the project as part of the normal operating budget.

Warehouse Lease

The council also approved the granting of a lease for the renting of vacant space in the city warehouse to Eli Don Bullian for a period up to June 30, 1965, to be terminated upon six months' notice of either party. The motion was carried 3-2, with Kistler and Tom Canning opposed.

Tid-Bits

Twenty sealed bids have been submitted for the construction of the new municipal building. The bids will be opened tomorrow night. . . Also tomorrow the council will fill vacancies on the Advisory Planning Board and the Personnel Board. . . The city has granted a $3,600 contract for the smooth-seal concrete paving of areas along Crescent, Westway, and Southway. . . The city council denied overtime pay to the Treasurer's office on grounds that only emergency work will be approved without prior approval of council. . . Council also denied Recreation Superintendent Leddick's request for 10 additional hours of clerical assistance per week, on grounds that need has yet to be demonstrated. . . Council approved ordinance setting up $2,000 replacement fund for Youth Center, to be used to replace equipment and furniture.

4 - H'ers Win at Fairs

Elise Geller of Greenbelt's 4-H Cloverettes, sponsored by Mrs. Harvey Geller, walked off with four first-place purple ribbons at the Prince Georges County Fair at Upper Marlboro last week. She won the coveted best of class in curtains, blouse, skirt and jumper.

Also participating were Barbara Skolnik, 5 blue ribbons; Eva Garin, 2 blue ribbons; Barbara Geller, 4 blue ribbons; Lynn Rousseau, 1 blue ribbon; Jeannette Louk, 2 blue ribbons; and Barbara Bowman.

Linda and Laura Simonson of the Cloverbuds, led by Mrs. Clifford Simonson, were winners at the State Fair in Timonium in August. Linda received first place for her zinnias and placed third for her marigolds in the Flower Division and third for her tote bag in the Clothing Section. Laura won second place for her tote bag and third place for her zinnias.

The two clubs won second place at the State Fair with their joint exhibit on different 4-H projects.

STATE TROOPER NEEDED

The State Commissioner of Personnel has announced that applications for the position of Trooper in the Maryland State Police are now being accepted. Written examination for this attractive position will be held in Baltimore, Hagerstown, and Cambridge on October 21. Applications and further information may be obtained from any State Police Barrack or Post or from the Commissioner of Personnel, State Office Building, Baltimore. Closing date for applications is September 23, 1961.

Write-In Votes Will Also Be Counted

Greenbelt residents who still aspire to a seat on the city council but did not officially file for office can still get into the act. In a discussion of the voting machines to be used for the first time in a city election, the council learned last week that write-in votes must be accepted and that there is space on the ballot for just such a purpose.

Ordinarily the voter will press five levers corresponding to the official candidates. (He can press less than five levers but no more than five.) As an alternative, the voter can press down four levers or less and write in a name beside a lever adjacent to a blank space, and then press that lever down.

A voter can change his mind after pressing down a lever next to an official candidate by pushing the lever back up and pressing down a different one. However, once the write-in name lever is pressed down, this vote cannot be changed.

The use of the voting machines means that the results will be known within a half-hour after the close of the polls, barring a heavy write-in vote.

Art Winners

There were nine winners in the Labor Day Art and Art Crafts Exhibit covering five categories. Mrs. Hal Silvers and Ronnie Felter won for their water colors. Mrs. Consuelo Siegel and David Reubin for their paintings, and James Smith for his silverware bowl. Mrs. Beulah Thatcher, Mrs. Betty Williams and Isadore Reubin also won certificates for their oils, and Mrs. Betty Marshall received recognition for her ceramics.

Duplicate Bridge

With the coming of fall, the Greenbelt Bridge Club will meet twice a month, on the second and fourth Friday. The next duplicate game will be on Friday, September 22, in the Co-op Hospitality Room, starting at 8:30 p.m.

Last Friday's session saw Jim Bates, male member of the newly-titled open pair champions of Greenbelt, team up with Kit Brauholtz to emerge victorious in a 5-table game. Second place went to Adelaide Kaighn and Peg Wainscott, with a third-place tie between Sandra and James Smart and Della and David Stewart.

Democrats to Meet

There will be a meeting of the Democratic party on Wednesday, September 20, at 8:30 p.m. in the Co-op Hospitality Room located at the center. County Attorney Bob Mathias will speak on the "Comparison of Local Government." A "Dollars for Democrats" Drive starts this weekend, according to Mrs. Frank Lastner, and volunteers for the campaign are asked to contact her at GR.4-4567.

Woman's Club Meets

The Woman's Club will have their first membership meeting on Thursday, September 14, at 8:00 p.m. in the Community Church Fellowship Center Hall. Following the introduction of new members, and a business meeting there will be a showing of a Japanese film in color.

1100 Expected at City Polls Tuesday; Rally Attended by 50

Candidates Speak Out Election Run Down

by ISODORE PARKER

About fifty local citizens heard the eight city council candidates give five-minute essays on their platforms in a Lions Club-sponsored meeting at the Youth Center building last Tuesday evening. In a restrained question and answer period that followed, the candidates debated the budget surplus, capital improvement surplus, its future use, capital improvement program, and the tax rate.

Following are key quotes or brief summaries of statements made by candidates at the meeting.

Dave Champion: "Judge incumbents on past performance. Build now-pay later. Long term capital financing."

Gerald Boisvert: "Power to tax - is power to destroy. Capital improvement program has vital effect on tax rate. Disrespectful attitude of local youths towards police force dangerous. Need more police walking beat."

Harvey Geller: "Greenbelt on verge of population and building explosion. Experience with statistical data proper qualification for office."

Bruce Bowman: "Past council has long list of accomplishments. GHI-Council committee, planning boards, recreation, youth, personnel boards, and playground rehabilitation."

Francis W. White: "Greenbelt on threshold of expansion. Must provide good influence on new development in community. Make residents feel like citizens, not transients."

Tom Canning: "Financing capital improvements on short term is disastrous. Use long term financing, and use surplus in next budget to reduce tax rate."

Ben Goldfaden: "Put surplus in escrow till next budget to reduce rate. Can't understand increase in rate by council, and large surplus."

William Phillips: "There is no surplus. Actually a $9000 debt if you take a running account. Urge support of services by users fees as supplement to cost."

Police News

Positive identification has been made on the snake found in the vicinity of Laurel Hill recently. The snake, unofficially identified by several employees at the government farm as a Copperhead, has been definitely identified as a non-poisonous rat snake.

Chief James Williams, not satisfied with the first identification (even though the snake's bite caused swelling of an officer's arm), waited until a qualified zoology professor at Maryland University returned from a snake-collecting trip and asked that an official identification be made.

At least a dozen snakes have been brought to the office of Chief Williams and all have been identified as non-poisonous. University sources claim that there are no copperheads in this area, and that the nearest ones are in southern Virginia.

Although no poisonous snakes are believed to be in this area, the bite of a non-poisonous snake can still cause swelling and possible infection.

A Greenbelt woman was charged with allowing a cat to run loose when a complaint was received that the cat was a neighborhood nuisance. A new resident, being in Greenbelt only a month, was issued a warning pertaining to cats running loose.

Police received a report from a motorist that gas had been siphoned from his car while it was parked at the Center in the area behind the Post Office on Tuesday.

About 1,100 Greenbelters are expected to trek to the polls next Tuesday, September 19, to cast their votes for the five city councilmen who will head the city's government for the next two years. The balloting will be in the lobby of the Greenbelt swimming pool and the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. For the first time in the history of city elections, voting machines will be used.

Eight candidates will compete for the five $750-per year vacancies on the city council. Three of them are incumbents -- Bruce Bowman, Dave Champion, and Thomas Canning. The challengers are Harvey Geller, Ben Goldfaden, Bill Phillips, Francis White, and Gerald Boisvert. Biographies of the candidates appear on the inside pages.

In response to a News Review invitation, the views of the candidates on a proposed election platform appeared in last week's paper.

In order for a candidate to be elected, he must receive an absolute majority of the votes cast. If fewer than five candidates receive such a majority, a run-off election will be held one week later on Tuesday, September 27. In the run-off election, the ballot will consist of those unsuccessful candidates receiving the highest number of votes, up to twice as many names as there are positions to be filled. Candidates polling the greatest number of votes, whether a majority or a plurality, are declared winners in the run-off election.

Each voter is entitled to vote for five candidates. Voting for fewer than five candidates increases the possibilities of a run-off election. In the 1959 contest, a run-off election was necessary as only four of the five top vote gatherers received a majority of the 1,096 ballots cast.

A record number of voters--1,473--are registered to vote. Two years ago there were 1,419 voters registered.

Upon being sworn in, the newly-elected councilmen will elect their own mayor. Although the charter is silent on this point, there has been a tendency in the past to choose as mayor the top vote gatherer. In 1959 an unusual situation occurred in that the balloting for first place ended in a tie between Tom Canning and Alan Kistler.

Grateful Parents

TO THE EDITOR:

We wish to thank all of our friends in Greenbelt who have so thoughtfully remembered our family during this time of bereavement.

We also want to say how grateful we have been through these last six years for the acceptance and understanding that Bonnie always received in Greenbelt. She had many happy relationships with both children and adults which contributed immeasurably to a full and rich life for her.

We know that our lives will always be rich and more meaningful because of Bonnie, for she taught us much about what is truly important in this life. It is our great hope that many of you will remember how loving and responsive Bonnie was and know that other mentally retarded children need the same love and understanding that you so freely gave to her. We hope, too, that you will always be concerned about these children and realize how much help they and their families need from the community.

Dismay

TO THE EDITOR:

For the past two years I've had to take the foot path from Lakeside where I live, to the Center. It had been in a broken condition. I have asked and naturally complained to several of the city clerks. The answer has always been that when the Youth Center is completed, there would be a new walk put in. To my dismay, they lay a black tar walk. I've spent hours trying to remove this tar from my shoes and my children's shoes. I think this is a condition that should be remedied.

Appreciation

TO THE EDITOR:

I am the daughter of "Pop" and Mrs. Bell, formerly of our town of Greenbelt. They recently moved to Port Charlotte, Florida, after over 23 years in Greenbelt and are now fairly well settled in their new home. I went down with them to help them get settled and just arrived home this past Monday. While there, someone sent the August 24th edition of the NEWS REVIEW and we were all so very pleased to read the editorial, "Good Fishing, Pop." Dad was naturally quite moved with the article and very appreciative. I personally realize that dad has done his share and at times more in promoting good conservation practices in Greenbelt and everyone seemed to know that the lake was his "baby" so to speak. Just the same, it was very nice to see it in print in the editorial.

Dad has already started fishing at Port Charlotte, and while there we had the great pleasure of eating a 10 pound Snook which he caught. It was delicious and we're looking forward to more on future visits with mom and dad.

Their new address is 127 N.W. Meehan Avenue, Port Charlotte, Florida, and I know they would appreciate hearing from their old friends whenever possible.

Again I want to tell you how much I personally appreciated the article in your paper and want to thank you very much.

Sincerely,
(Mrs.) Patricia B. Good

Mrs. Lastner Is UGF Chairman

Mrs. Frank Lastner, wife of the Prince Georges County Commissioner, has been appointed Residential Chairman for the County in the once-a-year United Givers Fund drive, it was announced today by Ernest N. Cory, Jr., Prince Georges County Chairman.

A native of Baltimore, Mrs. Lastner is a veteran campaigner not only in the fund drive field, but also in the political arena, having helped her husband campaign for political office for the past twenty-five years. In addition, she has campaigned for UGF for the past six years, starting as a worker, and moving "up through the ranks," as she herself puts it. Last year, she served as co-chairman for residential in the north section of the County.

In the past, she has also served as Greenbelt Chairman for the American Red Cross, Area Chairman for the Poppy Drive, and Dance Chairman for St. Hugh's Catholic Church. Last year she was Greenbelt Chairman for Dollars for Democrats, and she has just recently been named this year's chairman for the 21st District of the County by the same organization. She is also former historian for the American Legion Auxiliary, Greenbelt Post 136.

The Lastners live at 19-P Ridge and are the parents of two daughters -- grandparents of three.

The overall goal for the UGF drive is $7,800,000 for the support of 148 health, welfare and recreation agencies which serve the residents of Maryland, Virginia and the District. The campaign kicks-off on Oct. 2nd.

Siren Notes

By Rita Fisher

The members of Company 35 were again recognized for their abilities during the recent Labor Day Festival. The award for the best First Aid demonstration was won by Greenbelt. Many companies put on demonstrations of first aid and I feel that we have really won another feather for our cap with this award.

The recently formed Greenbelt clowns have again come through with their crazy antics on the old fire truck and won a cash award. The men are already looking for approval of the body to use the money toward the purchase of make-up to be used in the future. As one of the men said, "I had to borrow lipstick from two daughters in order to get some make-up to wear."

The Prince Georges County Rescue Squad Association presented a Certificate of Accomplishment to member Joseph O'Loughlin on Wednesday, September 6 for an outstanding act as a Rescue Squad member on October 21, 1960. On that date, Mr. "O" is credited with saving the life of a young Greenbelt boy by the use of mouth-to-mouth breathing when the boy had stopped breathing after an attack at North End School where O'Loughlin is a teacher.

During the parade, especially at the end of it, many young marchers were overcome by the heat and were in need of treatment by the many rescue squad crews that were in town. Your columnist also had to ask for assistance when I cut my finger while chopping some ice while at work. I discovered that the Band-aid supply had become exhausted, and I certainly couldn't serve food with a bloody hand. I rushed up to High's for a Band-aid and then remembering my first-aid training went to one of the ambulances and asked the men to put some antiseptic on the wound before I covered it. The cut wasn't much except for the fact that it is on a finger I use to grip my bowling ball, and our league starts its season this week. That's what hurts.

The Rescue Squad reported using 3 3x3 compresses, 2 band-aids and 50 pounds of oxygen in treating the runners in the 9 mile race. Considering the heat of the day its effect on the runner's feet, that indicated a pretty healthy and fit group of runners.

Another trophy goes into our trophy case because Greenbelt was awarded a prize for the best appearing pumper in the County at the recently held Prince Georges County Convention. The ambulance, although shined and polished, was used as a first aid station during the parade and therefore not used in the line of parade where it could compete for a trophy by its appearance.

The only fire call in Greenbelt this past week happened tonight (Tuesday) while I was on my way to the NEWS REVIEW office. I went to the scene of the trouble, the Greenbelt bowling alley. All the bowlers were out of the alley and the men were in the process of locating the source of smoke which had been seen in the alleys. The trouble was located in a trash can, where smoldering cigarette butts had caused some paper placed on top of them to smolder also. The smoke was carried throughout the alleys by the air-conditioning system, and thus the scare. In a short while, all the bowlers returned to complete their games, joking about the Tuesday Night Mixed League being a "hot" one.

The Rescue Squad was not inactive this week. Up until Monday evening, their log listed nine requests for help. Seven runs were made to P.G. One call was for a woman with high blood pressure. Two five-year old boys were carried to P.G. on the same day. One child had a badly cut finger, and the other child had been hit on the head by a rock. A Greenbelt youth was rushed to the hospital from the doctor's office for further treatment when part of his toe was cut off by a power mower. An eight-year old boy needed treatment at P.G. when he was cut over the left eye by a toy shot-gun.

Well, the Greenbelt Firehouse will be the scene of bingo games starting this Friday, September 15, at 8:15 p.m. The men and women of the department will be hoping for a big turnout on its first night and hope to continue having Bingo every Friday night for an indefinite time.

Thanks

To all my friends in Greenbelt: I wish to express my appreciation for all those who made it possible for me to become queen of the Festival.

Thank you again and God bless you all.

Members Approved For Helm Committee

The Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board approved on Thursday, August 31, a list of members for the Bordenet Resolutions Committee. The list, submitted by William Helm, chairman, included George Beauchamp, Bruce Bowman, Bernard Fritz, Ed Halley, Howard Kash, and Henry Lyons. In addition, the board extended an invitation to all ex-board members (except Bordenet) to join the committee.

The reason for this latter step is the fact that the committee will be faced with the problem of interpreting certain clauses of the mutual ownership contract and the by-laws. It was felt that it would be useful to have available the services of board members who had sat in on the discussions at the time these documents were adopted.

An interim report will be presented by Helm at the September 14 meeting of the GHI board. The membership had requested at its annual meeting in May that another membership meeting be held within 4 months to consider recommendations of the board with respect to the resolutions proposed by Bordenet. It now appears that this deadline will have to be extended.

The Bordenet-proposed resolutions call for (1) giving the members 30 days notice of any expenditures by GHI for purposes not outlined in the by-laws; (2) stopping special assessments on resale; (3) prohibiting threats of eviction for membership acts except those clearly in violation of the contract, as certified to by an attorney; (4) prohibiting adoption of regulations except those specifically authorized by the contract, as certified to by an attorney; (5) granting members the right to use space under their houses; and (6) engaging an auditor to review all expenditures not authorized by the by-laws.

University Has Violin Classes for Children

A series of "Junior String Classes" for children in elementary school grades 3 to 8 will be held at the University of Maryland at College Park starting Saturday, October 14.

The classes, which will be held each Saturday morning through to April 14, 1962, are designed for youngsters who play (or wish to begin) violin, viola, or cello.

Joel H. Berman, assistant professor of music and conductor of the University Community Orchestra, will direct the classes. Berman is an eminent violinist and teacher and has degrees from Juilliard, Columbia, and Michigan.

The Saturday classes will be divided into three sections: 9:30 a.m. for beginners; 10:30 a.m. for advanced beginners or those who have had one year of instruction; and 11:30 a.m. for intermediate students, those with two or more years of instruction.

Further information and a brochure about the program can be obtained by contacting the music department at the university.

French Classes

The Foreign Language Association of Greenbelt is planning a French class for adults during the school year. The class will be given in the afternoon by the regular teacher of the children's classes and should be of particular interest to the parents of children who are already enrolled in the program.

The regular after-school French program is planned to begin the week of October 2. The classes will be held in half-hour sessions twice a week for a total of thirty weeks for children in the second through fifth grades. Sixth graders who have already taken some French will also be accepted.

For further information about the classes telephone Mrs. White, GR 4-7123.

City Hours

by ALAN KISTLER
The endorsement by the "Lakewood Citizens for Good Government" of candidates in the coming Greenbelt city election introduces a new element into the city's political life.

To my knowledge, this is the first time a formally organized group, originally formed for other purposes, has transformed itself into a political force for the purpose of influencing the election of Greenbelt city officials.

Without denying the right of persons to do this, and without reference to the qualifications of the candidates they have endorsed, I look upon the move as an unfortunate departure from the spirit of non partisan elections, a feature and requirement of our local government. Political partisanship in customary terms has not been introduced, but such endorsements can have the effect of establishing area partisanship whose divisive consequences might produce the same results.

Members of the City Council are elected at large and they are chosen to represent the general interests of the community. I look with dismay upon any innovation, deliberate or inadvertent, that injects any other concept into our electoral process.

It is possible that this development may have no immediate adverse effect, but if other Greenbelt citizens should be encouraged by this move to form voter groupings on the basis of residential areas, or any other artificial bias, then those responsible for this current activity will have rendered a disservice to us all.

In the many discussions of capital improvements for our City, attention has centered upon the Greenbelt lake area, roadways, sidewalks, storm drainage, and the like. There is one community facility that could be improved immeasurably with minimal, ultimate cost to the taxpayers -- the Greenbelt swimming pool.

Now a quarter of a century old, the pool is in need of updating. But since it is a revenue producing facility, in time the cost of improvements could be reimbursed through membership and general admission fees.

We have taken a good, necessary, first step in adopting a family plan. Now we should take further steps to make it a family-centered facility. We should encourage family use! Greenbelters have used the pool in family groupings this year more than in the recent past, we are far from achieving maximum family use.

Comfortable, shaded sitting space is extremely limited. The acquisition of light-weight, folding chairs and over-head canvas coverings for use in the grassed enclosure would contribute greatly to added attractiveness and usefulness of the pool.

Addition of a diving well at right angles to the present pool would release the entire length of the present pool for general swimming purposes, thus adding possibly 20% useable swimming area. The deep end could be filled to a gentler slope with resultant, substantial water savings -- and with the further result of meeting the preferences of most pool users, for national research shows that over 95%

1901 Olds Wins Award

In the Labor Day Parade the Woman's Club entered a 1901 Oldsmobile, loaned to them by the National Historical Wax Museum of Washington D.C. 26th & E St. NW. This little antique car, which has a top speed of 20 miles per hour on level roads, was towed to Greenbelt from Washington.

The driver was a Museum representative dressed in the traditional outfit of linen duster, cap and goggles. The passenger was Mrs. Carrie Hall, a charter member of the Woman's Club of Greenbelt, and one of its senior members. She was dressed in an authentic period style and carried a fantastic parasol of mauve taffeta.

The little old car kept up with the parade on level stretches of road but faltered on the up grades and willing hands from the crowd came to its rescue and pushed it over the tops of the grades. This entry won for the Woman's Club of Greenbelt a silver trophy, for the oldest car in the parade.

of pool patrons swim in areas where they can comfortably touch bottom.

A general spectators area could be created by low fencing between the west high fence and the present pool-side benches, while in the interest of tot safety, the wading pool should be isolated from the regular pool by adequate fencing.

Local artists could be induced to do murals on the L-shaped walls now enclosing the present eating area which could be changed to a sunning patio with the concession stand, improved, moved to the vicinity of the refurbished grass area.

Mechanical changes should be effected that would permit the filtration and re-use of water now lost down the drain by way of the pool gutters. This would provide substantial savings.

Such changes, plus renovations of the dressing rooms and allied improvements, would have to be accomplished over a period of time or with time-financing. In either case, increased family plan use of the pool, accompanied by then possible savings in pool operating costs, would pay for the changes without ultimate cost to the city's taxpayers.

Horseshoe Pitching Had Tight Contests

The Labor Day Festival Horseshoe pitching contest was a success, drawing 24 entries in the Men's Singles, 14 teams in the men's doubles and 14 entries in the boys' singles.

The first place trophy for the men's singles was won by John Horstman and the second place trophy taken by Walter Maxwell. The winning team in the men's doubles consisted of Frank Horstman and Fred Wilson. One of our Junior citizens, Raymond Hudson, age 13, pitched his way unbeaten to first; with Duane Burchick taking second.

In the men's singles, John Horstman pitched his way to first place, without a loss. Walter Maxwell came back through the losers group with one loss and hotly contested the first place position only to lose in a close game and place second.

The men's doubles contest proved to be an exciting tournament with the team of Frank Horstman and Fred Wilson coming from behind and winning the championship trophies. The team of Don Shegogue and Otis Keyes had been the unbeaten contenders until the finals, when they fell prey to the victors in a two game defeat.

For the Boys' singles, Raymond Hudson, age 13, copped the first place trophy in a tremendous show of strength in the final game. Ray had been unbeaten up to this game and met with Duane Burchick the winner of the losers' bracket.

Troop and Post 746

The Boy Scouts and Explorers of Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church left the 19th of August for their annual summer camp at Magnolia, West Virginia. The Explorers acted as instructors on the rugged, eight-day camp trip. Tents and lean-tos were erected and all patrols built raised fireplaces and camp equipment requiring lashings. Each patrol prepared its own food and carried its own water a quarter of a mile up hill. Twenty-one boys participated in the event, which was climaxed with an Indian ceremony and the naming of five new Chiefs for their skill on a 24-hour survival ordeal.

Any boy over eleven years of age wishing to join Troop 746 is invited to call GR 4-5874.

Tips on Hanging Credit Union Pays 5%

Where you hang pictures depends on what you like, their size and relationship to furniture groupings and wall space.

You must decide whether you will feature single pictures or groups of small ones, says Elizabeth Langsdale, extension home furnishings specialist at the University of Maryland.

Often one large picture is better than several small ones. Mounted and framed as one, small pictures may be used effectively. This makes for less confusion on the wall and may give added importance to the pictures.

Small pictures can be mounted on top of heavy cardboard, wallboard, or plywood. The mounting material may be painted or covered with wallpaper or fabric. Use paper or fabric that is solid in color and maybe textured if it suits the picture. Often linen works well for this purpose.

Another way to use several small pictures of like subjects, size and coloring is to place them in a frame made with right-size mortised molding. Attach molding to the wall in the proper place and paint it to match the walls or in a color that will enhance pictures being used.

Tired Out?

Tiredness all the time, or even most of the time, is not normal, not something to resign yourself to. Your doctor can find out what the basic trouble is and treat that. If you try to treat it yourself, you probably won't do any good. And you may delay diagnosis of a condition which should receive medical care.

In this capacity he assists in the planning and programming of new construction; the development of long range expansion plans; the preparation of feasibility studies and cost estimates for construction of roads, utilities and buildings, and conducts bid openings for portions of the work contracted by the University of Maryland.

White is Vice President of the Maryland Classified Employees Association, Chapter 21, and has served as Chairman of the Greenbelt Recreation Advisory Committee, 1960 & 1961.

Other civic activities have included - Principal Junior High Department; Cub Scout Board, and Board of Ushers at the Greenbelt Community Church, and President of the Little League, 1957-1958.

The White's reside at 2-A Gardenway, and include wife, Edna, son Robert, and daughters Linda and Sandy.

The board of directors of the Greenbelt Credit Union has voted to continue the 5% per year dividend rate. Dividends of 2 1/2% have been credited to savings accounts for the half-year ended June 30.

Loan terms of up to 5 years may now be obtained by assigning a G.H.I. unit as collateral for a loan, with interest computed only on the unpaid balance.

The rate of growth of the Credit Union accelerated during the quarter ending June 30. Savings increased $22,119.00 to a total of $228,577.00 while loans increased $26,662.00 to a total of $271,784.00. Assets of the Credit Union now total $271,784.00.

You will be interested to hear that the Potomac Cooperative Federation engaged Mr. Albert Marble, who for several years was Managing Director of the Michigan Credit Union League, to study the possibility of developing credit unions in the Washington area. In his report Mr. Marble favored Credit union expansion keyed to Greenbelt Consumer Services (GCS) membership areas. Mr. Marble discussed a number of ways this could be done. However, he recommended merging the assets of the Greenbelt and Wheaton credit unions with the main office of the credit union located in the GCS offices at Beltsville, with service centers in Greenbelt and Wheaton, plus new service centers in the remaining GCS areas as rapidly as they could be opened. Your Board reviewed the plan in great detail and it was the consensus that we could not go along with the plan as presented. Another possibility discussed in the report was a credit union encompassing GCS areas except the Greenbelt area, or the Greenbelt and Wheaton areas, as the case may be. There is no word from the Federation or GCS as to whether or not this is being considered.

During the period May 29, through June 6, your Credit Union received a periodic (at least annual) examination by the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions. In a meeting with the Board of Directors of the Credit Union, Mr. Clarence Rodgers, the examiner, commented that the Board and membership may well be proud of the Credit Union we have here in Greenbelt.

Remembrance Of Summer

by VILMA CORMACK

The day dawned gray, the waves looked dour and uninviting. The books were "all read" - the games "a bore"! What to do on a murky shore? Gloom - gloom - gloom!

Suddenly, an inspiration. What better time to go for a Shell Walk?

The children were not too enthusiastic, but "anything is better than just sitting around," they decided. So armed with sand pails and sturdy metal sand shovels, we piled into the car. Our unenthusiastic but patient Grandfather drove us along the shore road, a few miles beyond the Boardwalk--far enough to be away from the tramping of noisy humans. Leaving the car by the side of the road, we walked down to the water's edge. We scanned the forbidding ocean, but not even a boat did we see. Our spirits still dragged. There were no people - no lifeguards - "not even a popcorn stand," muttered the insatiable grandson!

But the air did smell fresh and clean, and the breeze was balmy. The fine sand under foot was soft, and invited us to walk bare foot-which we immediately agreed to do. And then, while removing her shoes, No. 1 Granddaughter saw the tip of a lovely moonshell peeking out from under the sand. Immediately the interest of every member was aroused, and the inspiration of the collector descended upon all of us. The sky was clearing up a bit too, and our steps took on a little more buoyancy as we walked on along the desolate beach, our eyes searching the sand for interesting shells. At times we walked near the water's edge-then farther inshore, to the high tide mark, where the towering night waves often hurl unusual specimens of sea life.

Suddenly a wild, raucous scream broke the silence, freezing us in our tracks, petrified! And when we looked up, all we saw was a pair of playful terns, noisily chasing each other out to sea.

So we continued our walk, and then, out of nowhere, a big ghost crab appeared! Were it not for his shiny black eyes, we might not even have seen him, as his color was exactly that of the sand around him. He stood absolutely motionless, scrutinizing us humans. We, too, stood still, and for a few seconds exchanged stares with our visitor. His tan body seemed almost transparent, and his eyes utterly fascinating-truly beyond belief. He would pop them out, one at a time-or both together-at will! They then looked like a round black bead, stuck on the tip end of a toothpick. When he, or his eyes became tired in that position, he would rotate them around, like antennae on a TV set-or pull them back into their sockets altogether! Grandfather tried to photograph Mr. Crab, but like many humans who dislike having their pictures taken, the crab preferred to leave. Silently, but with incredible speed, he scurried back to his home, diving through a big hole in the sand, and we saw him no

We continued our walk, and a few yards ahead, we saw a group of small whitish birds running back and forth along the water's edge. Grandmother recognized them as Sanderlings-a species of Sandpiper. Local natives sometimes call them Whiteys, because of their very pale gray underparts. The frenzied activity of these small shorebirds is their method of finding and securing their food. When the waves go out, the little sanderlings run to see and grab up any tidbits brought ashore by the receding waves. But as soon as the waves start back towards the shore, the little sanderlings have to run like everything to keep ahead of the rushing water and escape drowning! As a result the poor little things must surely get exhausted from this constant back and forth racing for a morsel of food. We mused on how much easier it would be for us humans to keep our weight down if we had to run so much before and after every bite we ate.

The morning was slipping by all too fast. We had been walking for nearly three hours, yet nobody had found time to be "bored" or even to squabble with his brethren! Even Grandfather enjoyed the walk, and the fun the little ones were having!

Hunger pushing us on, we gathered up pails and treasure, turned back to our waiting car, and headed for home. We washed our shells and spread them in the sun to dry. After lunch, we consulted our shell book and identified our collection. We had found moonshells, slipper shells, worm shells, egg ribbons of the par conch, one sea purse (the egg case of the skate), tiny angel wings, and some small sea clams and oysters. We were all as thrilled as the fisherman bringing in a big catch.

We made plans to mount and label our treasure--on another gray day! Now the sun was shining, and the waves were "friendly again," our littlest Granddaughter remarked. So we laid aside our collections and romped into the sea for a cool dip. And the day that had dawned so gloomy and frustrating turned out to be a very interesting and pleasant high light of a seaside vacation.

Local Guard Unit In Mosquito Battle

(ED. NOTE: The following is a first-hand battle report from S/F/C Austen Green serving with local National Guard unit Battery B during the two-week summer training at Camp Pickett, Va.)

By S/F/C AUSTIN GREEN

Camp Pickett, Va. -- It was not long after we arrived that it started to rain, and the battle with the Russian mosquitos began. They started their drive on us as we were getting our camp set up. We were not ready for them.

Their group commander gave them orders to fly in groups of six, fly low and bite hard. They came in like dive bombers. About daylight the group commander gave them orders to return to their mosquito base, refuel and prepare for the next drive. Battery B had many casualties.

The second battle started about dark the following night, but we were ready for them this time. They came in groups as before. However, every man had been issued a mosquito net, and most men had a can of 6-12. The mosquito nets turned the tide and won the second battle. It was the toughest mosquito fight in all my 28 years of service.

Robert Nelson was in the motor pool as was James Rock. (Both drive trucks but think they are driving sports cars.) Harry Davis did a good job as the first cook, keeping the members of the battery in good spirits and maintaining a high level of good food. But let's face it -- it was not like mother's cooking.

Volunteer Case Aides

Family Service of Prince Georges County is offering a unique opportunity for mature women to work as volunteer case aides. The women accepted for training have to have two local recommendations, be sympathetic and warm personalities, be able to keep people's confidences and be available to volunteer one-half day or evening a week.

Some aides will work directly with clients on the telephone; others will be engaged in typing and office work. It is compelling human interest work.

The training session is 10:00 to 12:00 noon on Monday, September 18, 1961 at 6124 Baltimore Avenue, Riverdale, Maryland. For an application and further information, telephone WARfield 7-1441, Dr. Joyce Gale Klein, Executive Director.

Oneg Shabbat at JCC

An Oneg Shabbat given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weiner and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rosenzweig will be held following services at the Jewish Community Center of Prince Georges County on Friday, at 8:00 p.m. The social event is in honor of David Weiner, Bar Mitzvah in July, and the 32nd anniversary of the Rosenzweigs.

A FEW WORDS OF EXPLANATION

No votes are registered until you open the curtains. You can therefore make as many changes in your ballot as you wish while the curtains are closed. There is no danger of anyone knowing how you vote, as the movement of the red handle to the left returns the voted levers to their unvoted position before the curtains begin to open. So leave the voting levers down before opening the curtains.
