A New Editor

The Greenbelt News Review now has a new editor. Russell Greenbaum, editor since February, 1960, has stepped down after two and one half years in that post and has left for California on a temporary work assignment. Virginia Beauchamp has been appointed his successor.

Russ can leave his post with a great deal of satisfaction. He has seen the paper emerge from the deep shadow of fiscal insolvency to a position of relative (for us) financial security. As the result of the fund drives and improved advertising, the paper has been able to provide the initial financing for Greenbelt's 25th Anniversary publications. This improved financial situation has been accomplished without any sacrifice of the high standards that have prevailed throughout the years with respect to news coverage analytical reports, special features, and editorial content.

This year is also the News Review's 25th Anniversary. It therefore is fitting to repeat the original goals set down in the first issue of the paper (then known as the Cooperator).

1. To serve as a nonprofit enterprise.
2. To remain nonpartisan in politics.
3. To remain neutral in religious matters.
4. To print news accurately and regularly.
5. To make its pages an open forum for civic affairs.
6. To develop a staff of voluntary writers.
7. To create a "Good Neighbor" spirit, promote friendship, advance the common good, and develop a "Greenbelt philosophy" of life.

These principles still guide the motives and actions of the present Greenbelt News Review. Under Virginia Beauchamp's editorship, the city of Greenbelt can be assured that the paper will continue to live up to its original aspirations.

Al Skolnik, president

Greenbelt Cooperative Publishing Association

Mrs. Marjorie Muir, assistant coordinator of children's services in the Prince Georges County Library, and director of the Greenbelt Poetry Hour, hands a copy of this year's anthology of verses to Randy Smith, 11.

Chief Williams Resigns

Police Chief James Williams announced his resignation as Chief of the Greenbelt Police Department, effective June 15. Williams has accepted a position with the Department of Agriculture in the Investigative field. He has been Greenbelt's Chief of Police for five years and one month.

The Personnel Board is at present engaged in studying the overall job structure in the city and rewriting various job descriptions. The city council will review the position of Police Chief with the Personnel Board before making any decision as to Chief Williams' successor.

Mosquito Control

City Manager Charles McDonald has announced the annual Mosquito Control Program will go into effect on Wednesday, June 13. Subsequently, the spray truck will be in Greenbelt on alternate Wednesdays throughout the summer. Housewives may wish to hang out laundry after the spray truck has passed.

Poetry Club Publishes Its Fourth Anthology

Greenbelt's Poetry Hour program for elementary school children has printed its fourth anthology, received nationwide publicity, and inspired numerous imitations (or should we say "plagiarism?") in other communities.

"It's the best anthology to date," stated Mrs. Marjorie Muir, with justifiable pride. She inaugurated the poetry hour four years ago, while branch librarian at Greenbelt. Now assistant coordinator in the children's services division at county library headquarters, Mrs. Muir still conducts the poetry hour. Mrs. Muir emphasized the fact that the purpose is not to create poets so much as to develop a love of poetry.

In the beginning, only a handful of youngsters joined the group which is for third through sixth graders only. This year, 65 children attended some of the meetings and 20 of them appear in the current anthology.

Members come from St. Hugh's, Center, and Cynthia Warner schools. Those whose verses appear in this year's anthology include: Margaret H. Cormack, Kathryn Labukus, Anne McCarthy, Karen McFarland, Gail Miller, Elizabeth Nelson, Walter Penny, Laura Simonson and Linda Simonson (twins), Lisa Laster, Randy Smith, Pamela White, Anne Evanosky, Ruth Amberg, Janet Frese, Helen Warner, Becky Kraft, Debby Carriere, Benise Ungar, and Hally Berman.

The poetry hour has grown in fame as well as in numbers. An article in Woman's Day national magazine in April 1961, followed by stories in local newspapers, sparked interest in other communities. As a result, the public library in Richmond, Va. sponsored a "poetry party," after learning of the Greenbelt group through the Academy of American poets. In Dumont, N. J., an interested mother read the magazine article and started a poetry hour in her home, while a Florida housewife was inspired to urge the Winter Park local library to start a poetry hour.

The Greenbelt poetry hour is divided into two parts. The first 30 minutes are spent reading aloud from the works of well-known poets, or watching a special film, such as Robert Frost, The Red Balloon or White Mane. Sometimes recordings of poets reading their own works may be played. The second half hour a large, colorful candle is lit and the children read aloud the verses they have composed at home or during the poetry hour.

City Budget Ups Expenses $2,000, Cuts Tax Rate 28c

by Al Skolnik

A 1962-63 municipal budget calling for increased expenditures of $2,000 but a cut of 27 cents in the property tax rate was approved for first reading by the city council last Monday, June 4. The budget of $316,385 will be up for final reading and passage tonight.

The new real estate levy of $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation is the lowest in the history of Greenbelt. In order to achieve this cut, the council allocated $28,756 from the $31,214 available in surplus to the revenue side of the budget. Part of the surplus consisted of excess amounts anticipated from this year's operations.

The council action left only $2,458 in surplus to cover future contingencies. When questioned from the floor, city manager Charles McDonald said that he was disturbed by the small amounts allotted in this year's budget for miscellaneous and contingency items. "Usually," McDonald said, "we allow close to $5,000 for contingencies and this is usually gone by the end of the year. This year's budget only contains $1,000 for miscellaneous items."

Mayor Francis White, however, pointed out that there were many cushions in the budget. He said that the tax base was estimated somewhat conservatively, as was also the amount of anticipated surplus at the end of this year's operations. Also, the amount of State-shared taxes has been estimated at the same level as last year, when generally it rises each year. Finally, White felt that the delay in starting construction of the municipal building will result in some lowering of the payments for debt service this year.

In addition to the surplus, other factors contributing to the 27-cent cut in the tax rate were an increased tax base. The estimated revenues from sources other than real property taxes were $141,188 which, when combined with the surplus of $28,756, left $146,441 to be raised from real property taxes if the budget were to be balanced. Applying this amount against the assessable tax base of $9,762,740 yielded a tax rate of $1.50. The increase in the tax base last year was $567,240 and accounted for about ten cents of the 27-cent cut.

Capital Improvements

The cut in the tax rate was made without any major cuts in present services. In fact, a long-awaited accomplishment was the inclusion in the budget for the first time of provisions for financing capital improvements. The Advisory Planning Board had recommended an annual tax of 5 cents per $100, but council settled for 3 cents on the grounds that this would yield sufficient funds to finance a 10-year loan for those capital improvement projects which it felt desirable.

The recreation department was cut some $5,000 from last year, mainly in the hope that the substitution of full-time personnel for part-time assistants will effect a savings. Mayor Frances White, however, gave assurances that if these cuts handicapped the operation of the recreation programs, the council would make money available for additional assistants.

A cut was also made in bus service. Expenditures for the bus were scheduled to rise by $1,000 over last year if the present service of 16 trips daily were continued. The council, by eliminating three trips, was able to effect a savings of $1,400, or $400 under last year's appropriation. The bus is expected to operate at a deficit of $3,800 in 1962-63.

The budgets of other departments showed slight changes, mainly downward, reflecting primarily cuts in replacement costs and expected savings in centralized control of office supplies and materials. A $7,000 expanded road-sealing program proposed by city manager Charles T. McDonald was eliminated and expenditures for road-sealing cut back to this year's level. Taken out of the municipal park and playground budget was $700 for projects which the manager stated had already been accomplished with this year's funds.

Included in the budget are $19,400 — $4,800 more than last year — for the servicing of the $200,000 loan incurred in the building program and $1,750 for the 25th anniversary celebration of Greenbelt.

The adopted budget anticipates that the swimming pool and waste removal programs will pay their own way through charges to users. The Youth Center is expected to run at a deficit of $2,600.

Police News Review

An assault and battery charge has been placed against a former Greenbelt man who was seen speeding through town by a citizen. The citizen gave chase and caught up with the speeder at Ridge Rd. near the water tower. When the citizen spoke to the speeder, he was assaulted and punched in the nose, causing bleeding. Besides the other charges, the man was also charged with resisting arrest and being drunk and disorderly.

A juvenile was caught shoplifting last week when he stole a carton of cigarettes from the Co-op store. The boy was released to his parents, who agreed to pay for the stolen merchandise.

Two residents reported the theft of lawn furniture last week.

A dog was struck by a car near 62 Crescent last week. A young boy, trying to comfort the stricken animal, was bitten by the dog before it died. The animal was taken to the University for a rabies check, which proved negative.

A Greenbelt resident called the Police office Saturday at 5:32 p.m. and asked for assistance. He had gone to Virginia to attend his brother's wedding and discovered that he had forgotten his tuxedo. He told the clerk a friend of his would stop in Greenbelt, and asked the police to help him get a key to enter the house. The mission was accomplished, and at 5:51 p.m. the tux was on its way.

Bresler Suggests City Hire Planner Jointly

At an informal meeting following the budget meeting last Monday, Charles Bresler unveiled his plan for future land planning in Greenbelt. He suggests that a professional planner be employed jointly by the city and by the owners of the vacant land to work out a plan for Greenbelt that would meet with the approval of most of the people and interests involved.

Bresler stated that he and his new partners, Ted N. Lerner and Isadore Gudelsky, own about 350 acres of the vacant land and that they want to develop this land as closely in accordance with the wishes of the city as they can. Otherwise, he said, there will be constant bickering and waste of time in zoning controversies.

An overall land plan, Bresler continued, will be able to consider all factors in the town, such as adequacy of highways and other utilities, and the need for schools, parks, and playgrounds. Such a land plan, if adopted, would give landowners assurances of what they can expect in adjacent areas.

Bresler indicated indirectly that an overall land plan will also be able to provide for all types of housing, including apartments, while preserving an overall proper balance between free-standing homes and other types.

The council will meet with the Advisory Planning Board and Bresler representatives, for further discussion on Thursday, June 14.

Co-op Kindergarten

There will be a meeting of the general membership (those enrolled for the fall) of the Greenbelt Cooperative Kindergarten on Tuesday, June 12, at 8:30 p.m. in North End School.

A Budget Appraisal

We wish to congratulate the city council for the care with which it reviewed the 1962-63 municipal budget. It spent close to a dozen sessions going over the individual accounts with a fine-tooth comb. It came up with several useful suggestions for cutting some of the fat from the budget, such as centralized control over office supplies and materials and better accounting of the coke machine operations. It conducted a thorough investigation of the replacement account to determine if the yearly amounts allocated for replacement of equipment were excessive. It initiated a review of the coverage and rates of insurance policies held by the city.

And all this was done without cutting into the heart of the services and programs provided the people of Greenbelt. Moreover, the council was able to introduce a capital improvement budget, while getting the tax rate down to $1.50 per $100 of assessed valuation.

While we don't relish the role of wet blanket, however, we think it should be noted that the low rate of $1.50 was primarily accomplished by using $29,000 of surplus funds accumulated over a period of many years. In fact, the council went so far as to allocate surpluses that have not yet materialized from this year's operations.

This means that the chances of next year's budget having a surplus of any sizeable amount to relieve the tax rate are not good. The council is hopeful that other factors will intervene to make up for the absence of a surplus such as increases in the tax base and in revenues from State-shared taxes. We can only share their hope, but, in the meantime, we think the citizenry ought to be alerted to the probability that a $1.50 tax rate cannot realistically be adhered to next year.

The Name Is Familiar

by Dorothy Sucher

Greenbelt's new Director of Recreation is tall, blond, and handsome James A. Wooldridge, born 36 years ago in Hammond, Indiana. He brings to Greenbelt a solid background in many phases of recreational work, begun at the age of 17 with a part-time summer job as playground supervisor. "I've always been interested in the field of recreation," said Wooldridge. "And I feel that one of the main qualifications is that you really have to love children."

Wooldridge has two of his own, a four-year-old boy and a two-year-old girl. His wife, Barbara, whom he met in college, shares his professional interests; while still in high school, she was included in the Girls' All-American Basketball Team. She made the first team," said Wooldridge, also a high school All American; "She did better than I."

Upon graduating from high school, Wooldridge (who is 6'-7" tall) was offered 20 basketball scholarships. He chose to attend Newberry College, preferring a small school. During his four years in college, his team won its conference 2 out of 4 years Wooldridge himself made the All-American Conference for 3 out of 4 years. He is still an active player, and participated in the Alexandria League last year. He has also played a good deal of football and baseball.

The Wooldridges are house-hunting now, for they plan to move from their present home in Vienna, Virginia to Greenbelt in the near future. Our new Recreation Director is familiar with the town and its history, for he has friends here. "Greenbelt's facilities are exceptionally good for a community of its size," he commented, singling out the Youth Center, the pool, ball field, and lake in particular. "We want to keep our program on a par with these facilities, and with the growing population of the town."

Taking on a new post is always a challenge, but Wooldridge's task will be increased by Greenbelt's 25th Anniversary. However, he is full of plans. June is National Recreation Month, and he wants to correlate our program with national trends, which point to more shared activities for the whole family. Special events this summer will probably include a fishing carnival at the lake for young and old, with prizes for the smallest fish and the ugliest fish, as well for the biggest catch, largest fish, etc. When your reporter asked how the ugliest fish would be selected, Wooldridge laughed, "We'll get hold of some poor fisherman and let him be the judge."

Summer swimming activities will include team competitions as well as a Water Carnival, if enough interest is shown. The Carnival, a special 25th Anniversary event, might feature races, diving contests, clown diving, and water ballet. The Recreation Department is also planning a giant float for the Labor Day parade, depicting the various activities they sponsor.

School Patrol News

Sgt. Austin R. Green, School Patrol Advisor, arranged a tour of Andrews Air Force Base for all the local school patrols. The Center School group participated on June 5, and St. Hugh's and North End Schools made the trip on June 6. For many of the patrol members this will be their last year of duty since they will leave their posts to enter Junior High School.

Sgt. Green would like to "thank all the members for keeping Greenbelt crossings safe. In a few days school will be out," he said, urging patrols to "keep alert on your post and do not let an accident happen at your crossing. Keep your Safety Banner for 1962 for your school."

Attention, Local Groups

In gathering material for the special 4-page editions commemorating the 25th anniversary of Greenbelt, the News Review has asked all the organizations in town to submit histories. If, by some chance, your organization has been overlooked, please get in touch with Al Skolnik, GR 4-6060.

No such thing? Just ask any veteran who wisely kept up payments on his G.I. policy. Or, take a look at the group life insurance your employer offers. For the money, these are mighty hard values to beat. How about individual policies? They're all excellent buys—when they give you the right combination of protection and savings, and allow you to change this combination later on, if your needs change. For one thing, I'd suggest you deal with an agent who wants you as a long-term client—and speak with him frankly about your financial set-up. For another, do some comparison shopping.

too. Enough life insurance can be a sizable item in your budget, and it's well worth knowing its principles—how it works, and why. Condolences to Mrs. Lawrence T. Burns, 42-D Ridge, who recently lost her brother, Hoones T. Garner, of Martinsburg, West Virginia. Garner was a former Greenbelter. A very happy birthday to Tom Denson, 13 Hillside, who was two years old.

Happy-happy birthday to first grader Jerry Fontaine who was seven years old.

Greenbelt Nursery-schoolers go to college! The youngsters invaded the laboratory of Professor William Bailey of the University of Maryland's Chemistry Department. They were fascinated by the magic hand of the professor who made "smoke" rise from dry ice. When a beaker of peppermint was passed under their noses, they chorused "Tooth-paste," and when they sniffed ammonia, one sensitive young man piped "Diapers!" Professor Bailey was challenged immediately when he informed the group that air could not be seen. An indignant youngster cried out, "MY SISTER CAROL SEES AIR." The professor wisely turned to another subject. Thoroughly enjoyed was a demonstration of glass blowing, even the popping noises sent little hands flying to cover ears. Teacher Lisa Dalton reports that it was a wonderful experience for the children.

Helen and Harvey Geller, 117 Northway, are back from a combination business-pleasure trip to Puerto-Rico (he for the former, she the latter). They stayed at the La Rada Hotel in San Juan and toured the island, admiring the beautiful beaches and lovely mountains. The Gellers dined with the Charles Cormack, Srs., who were also in San Juan at the time.

The weatherman said "No rain tonight," "Good," cried the Girl Scouts with delight, And off they went to Conestoga Park

To sleep in the woods so very dark. Around campfires they sang. When suddenly there was a BANG: Lightning flashed. The girls they dashed. Oh, it was fun allright To sleep on the ground in the wet, wet night.

But what was the matter with the weather man? He can do better - I'm sure he can. (Leader Virginia Wilkinson of Girl Scout Troop #42 and helper, Carolyn Francisco, deserve much praise for their courage during what must have been quite an ordeal.)

One cloudy morning last week, Recreation Director, James Wooldridge received this call: Little girl - Will there be swimming today? Wooldridge - If the sun comes out. Little girl - When will that be?

The vigorous sawing of Michael Sucher at Nursery School prompted Richard Skolnick to caution, "Better watch out or you'll cut your finger off." Undaunted, Michael retorted, "I still have my feet." Congratulations to Jack Dillinger, 20-N Hillside, who was one of 34 University of Maryland students tapped for Omicron Delta Kappa, a national honorary society for college men.

Naomi Baron, 19-M Ridge, was elected secretary of High Point's Interfaith Club.

When the stork arrived before Bernie Sisco's and Eileen Labukas' scheduled shower for Buddy Zanin, 30 Lakeside, the hubbies took over, with Bud and Pete serving as hosts for Bruno Zanin and the men bringing the gifts. Word has it the fellows had themselves a ball! The new baby's name is Colette. She made her debut on May 28, weighing 7 lbs. 15 oz. She joins two brothers and three sisters.

The Bachelor of Arts degree was conferred upon Richard W. Fonda, at Duke University on June 4. Rich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Fonda, 6-A Ridge. In September Rich will be at the University of Illinois, where he has been given an Assistantship in the Department of Botany. He will be working toward his Master's degree. During the summer he will be working for the Agricultural Marketing Service at the Beltsville Research Center.

June Named National Recreation Month

Greenbelt will join with thousands of other communities in the observance of June as National Recreation Month.

"New Horizons For Your Free Time" is the theme of the month, which is divided into four special weeks: the first is Youth Fitness Week, the second is Family Recreation Week, the third is Recreation and the Arts Week, and the fourth is Recreation Through Service Week. The first Saturday of the month has been designated as Recreation Sabbath, and the following Sunday as Recreation Sunday. For information concerning National Recreation Month, please call the Recreation Department, GR 4-6878.

YELLOW PAGES
Success Story

"The Yellow Pages is our best business builder!"

says Raymond Stone of Bethesda TV and Appliance Company

"Bethesda TV and Appliance Company was established in 1947 with two employees, one service truck, a few tools, and a small shop," reports Raymond Stone.

"Today, we have a modern showroom, a well-equipped Service Department, 10 employees and five service trucks.

"As our business grew in the field of servicing televisions, we began servicing other types of appliances.

"We have used Yellow Pages advertising to develop new business for many years. The Yellow Pages has been particularly successful in building up our suburban Maryland and northwest Washington market.

"To promote the many related products in our television and radio business, we are listed in the Yellow Pages under numerous headings.

"I use the Yellow Pages myself and I believe most people do—it's an excellent source of information and a fine buyer's guide."

Your Yellow Pages advertising may more than pay for itself with the first sale it brings.

And many advertisers have found that the Yellow Pages brings them many sales every day.

The reasons are clear. The Yellow Pages takes your message to virtually everyone in your trading area. And your message is always timely. Your prospects find you fast—call you fast—the moment they need your product or service.

Invest in success with Yellow Pages advertising. Call your nearest C & P Business Office and ask for one of our Yellow Pages representatives.

Little League Chatter
by Bud Dean

The Greenbelt Little League, now going into the fifth week of play, is far different from last year. All teams are fighting it out and the only team that hasn't won a game this season is CO-OP. The doormat of the League last year - the Jim Lemon All-Stars - and the surprise of the League this year is giving everybody a battle and winning their share of the games.

MONDAY - The Pepsi Cola athletics and the GHI Giants met for the league leadership with Mike Jones tossing a one-hitter and getting 3 for 3 with 2 of them homers, and Hillebrand getting 3 for 3, the Giants knocked the Athletics out of the undefeated class, GHI Giants, 9 - Pepsi Cola Athletics, 4.

TUESDAY - Jim Lemon All-Stars vs. CO-OPS. Game called at the end of third, account of rain.

WEDNESDAY - The National League leaders, the DAV Tigers, wasted no time in maintaining their lead by taking the American Legion Cardinals into camp. Bingham of the Tigers was the batting star with 3 for 5, 2 of them homers. DAV Tigers, 21 - American Legion Cardinals, 2.

THURSDAY - Rained out.
FRIDAY - No report.

SATURDAY - The Jim Lemon All-Stars making up their rained-out games, took on the CO-OPS and with Bergin and Long chucking for J. Lemon and allowing no runs. The Jim Lemons took another one. Jim Lemon All-Stars, 10 - CO-OPS, - 0.

In the afternoon, making up a rained-out game - the Indians with Doss on the mound and the Lions with Lundegan tossing, hooked up a real seesaw battle with the Indians leading on Kenny Doss' homer, 6 to 3. The Lions tied it up in the 6th and went ahead in the 7th to cop the win. Lions, 10 - Indians, 8.

SCHEDULE FOR WEEK OF JUNE 11

Mon 11 Indians - Tigers; Tues, 12, Lions - Cardinals; Wed., 13, Athletics - Giants; Thurs., 14, JL All Stars - Co-op; Fri., 15, Lions - Indians.

program, which may include hayrides as well as skating, dances, etc. Under study is a proposal for a day-long educational excursion to a place of interest; Gettysburg and New York City have been suggested. Pre-teen activities, for children in the 9 to 12 age group, will be strengthened, and will include everything from arts and crafts to softball. A playground program is planned.

A summer day camp will be introduced, if the demand warrants it. The day camp for children from 7 to 12, will last for three weeks, with a fee in the neighborhood of $25. Two trained leaders would supervise each group of 24 children for the entire day, and the activities would include camping, swimming, sports, arts and crafts, and drama, among others. Each child will bring his own lunch, but milk is included in the price of the day camp, as are two camp shirts (which the child will keep), and arts and crafts supplies. A reduction would be offered to children whose families have already purchased a subscription to the pool. The day camp will not be offered unless at least 20 children sign up for it. "We want people to become more recreation-conscious," said Woolridge. "The facilities are provided

Inside Outer Space
by Ruth Amberg, 11

When I was inside outer space, I found it an amusing place. A place where unheard voices sing. A place for thinking over things. When I was inside outer space, I found it quite an interesting place. With frightening blackness for millions of miles, And stars in all the modern styles.

Baptist Bible School

The Greenbelt Baptist Church will conduct their annual Vacation Bible School from June 18-29 in the church building, located at the corner of Crescent and Greenhill Roads. The hours are 8:45 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. A city bus will be engaged to provide transportation for the children and workers.

All boys and girls from the age of four through sixteen are invited to enroll. There is no enrollment fee.

Seven departments with thirty-five trained workers will carry on the work and teaching program of the school. Daily features of the school will be worship, singing, Bible and character stories, mission study, memory work, creative activities, relaxation games, and refreshments.

For the first time the church is offering a well-planned program for intermediates, ages thirteen through sixteen, in Vacation Bible School. Special field trips will be highlights of their study and activities during the two weeks.

For further information concerning the school please call Mrs. Charles W. Reynolds, GR 4-4262, principal of the Vacation Bible School, or the church office GR 4-4040.

LUTHERAN NEWS NOTES

The Kindergarten Class at Holy Cross Lutheran Church held its "graduation" exercises on Thursday, May 31, in the church hall at 22 Ridge. The graduation program featured songs, hymns and a dance group by the kindergartners, and a short talk by Pastor Birner.

The Rite of Confirmation was performed on Sunday morning, June 3, at the 11 a.m. church service for this year's Junior Confirmation Class, who had successfully completed a two-year course of instruction in the doctrines of the church.

for the use of the citizens, and we'd like to hear from them. More and more Americans have leisure time, and a good recreation program fills a real need. We hope to offer young people something more constructive than TV and comic books. They need to learn how to get along with others; sportsmanship; companionship; and how to use their hands. Through planned recreation, they can develop physically, mentally, and emotionally."

Sholten New Owner

Robert Scholten, who has been manager of Chef Jerry's Pizza for the past few months, has announced that he has purchased the business from Ben Blank, former owner. Scholten had an option to buy the shop, but when the time expired he was not satisfied with the price and had not made the purchase. Blank lowered the asking price to within what the Scholtens considered a reasonable figure. Then the sale was consummated.

Scholten and his wife Frances will be operating the shop. Plans for a new name are being made.

Paint Job For Center

Contracts have been let for painting the exterior of the commercial buildings in the Center. Only the upper floors will be painted. In addition, a sample of the lower portions will be sand-blasted, to determine whether the original color of the brick can be restored. If the attempt is successful, the paint will be removed from all the brick-work on the lower floors throughout the Center.

The Scholtens reside in Carrolton with their six children, two girls and four boys.

Bowman - Sauls

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Prescott Neill, Lorton, Virginia, announce the marriage of their daughter, Roselle Frances Bowman, to Mr. William Clyde Sauls, son of Mrs. Rolfe Alexander Sauls and the late Mr. Sauls of Greenbelt, Maryland. The wedding took place at Bunston Hall in the formal Boxwood Gardens on Saturday, June 2. The Reverend Dwayne C. Carter, a friend of the bride's family and minister of the St. Paul's Evangelical United Brethren Church, Johnstown, Pennsylvania, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.
