Bragonje Request for Addition Finally Denied by GHI Board

By Bob Philleo

The long delayed request of Earl Bragonje, 45-A Ridge to build a free-standing addition was denied in a tie vote at GHI board meeting last Thursday. Chairman Harry Zubkoff cast the deciding vote, joining Directors Henry Brautigam, Frank Lastner, and Charles Schwan in opposition. Directors Edward Burgoon, Joseph Cherry, William Helm, and John O'Reilly voted for the request. Hans Jorgensen abstained.

The request, which has been modified a number of times, was for a garage-like structure to house a hobby shop. The current proposal had deleted a breezeway that connected the house and structure. The building was to be in the rear yard separated from an existing row of garages by the current walkway. The request clearly constituted an exception to current board policy of not permitting free-standing structures in the rear of GHI homes. An architect's opinion at an earlier board meeting recommended against the exception to policy. A final decision had been deferred until a Joint Committee of the Standards and Maintenance committees restudied the policy on additions to the board.

The committee, under the pressure of the unresolved Bragonje request, presented their report. The report contained two parts. Part one: it will take considerable time, perhaps one year, to review, study and recommend a comprehensive policy on additions. However, the committee in part two of the report sought to prevent excessive delay on Bragonje's request by stating that it found no objection to the revised building plan as an exception. At the same time, the committee felt that the board should consider each objection to the proposed building on its merits. After discussion, the committee report was accepted.

After Burgoon made the motion to make an exception to existing policy, Bragonje was given the opportunity to diagram and explain the most recent changes. A number of the court residents, who still objected to the revised plan, reiterated their objections. David Lange, a member of the joint committee, pointed out that those court residents who have been objecting actually live furthest away from Bragonje's end row home. Eight court residents in the immediate vicinity of Bragonje's home have signed a petition agreeing with the proposed plan. The board members who voted against the exception explained their positions to Bragonje after the voting. Principally, it was felt a case for an exception had not been made.

Brautigam Resigns

The resignation of Henry Brautigam from the GHI Board of Directors was accepted with regret at the September 12, 1963 Board meeting. The resignation will be effective Sept. 30. Brautigam has lived in Greenbelt for 25 years and has served as a Director since 1960. He will be moving to Belair, Bowie, Md. The entire board and the manager expressed profound thanks for Brautigam's many years of service to the corporation and the community. Nominations for a successor will be scheduled for the first board meeting in October.

Royal Breashears, the GHI manager, presented a 4 page Maintenance Study to the Board. Three problem areas were defined. They are: replacement of hot water supply and return lines in the frame homes, replacement of flat roofs in masonry-type homes, and the future of the frame homes. The report was favorable commented on and referred to the Maintenance Committee for study. A report to the board is requested for the Oct. 10 meeting.

Land Use Report

The land use committee presented a preliminary report on possible uses of three GHI tracts. It was recommended to the GDC Board that a survey be made on the GDC land across from the Community Church. The economics of selling the two GHI lots on Northway next to Woodland Hills appear to be unfavorable, consequently the board indicated the committee should explore GHI building possibilities. The tract opposite North End School will be examined for building uses. Members of the committee have been visiting new town house and other developments in Washington D.C. and in Virginia to acquire new concepts in home design.

The manager reported that of the employees eligible for the new pension plan, 100% have voted for it. The first reading for the appropriation of funds for the plan was given. The GHI share of the plan will cost approximately $17,000 - $20,000 per year.

An audit committee report criticizing the current self-help frame painting program was referred to the Maintenance Committee.

Panagoulis Passes Bar Exam

Years of evening classes and home study were rewarded this week when Prince Georges County Police Chief George J. Panagoulis was notified he had passed Maryland's bar examination. Upon completion of his law course last fall, the Chief spent six months preparatory work prior to taking the bar exam.

The Chief came to the County Force from Greenbelt in 1955, where he had served as Director of Public Safety since 1940.

GHI Begins Discussion Series for Members

On September 11 in the GHI Board Room a small but articulate group of new GHI members leveled questions about Greenbelt at members of the board and resource persons from the community. This meeting was the first of a series of coffees planned by the GHI member relations committee to help newcomers become better acquainted with the history and special characteristics of this community.

The member relations committee began functioning during the winter of 1961-62, its purpose being to improve communications between the membership and the board and from member to member. In addition to the coffees, the committee hopes to issue bulletins on developments of general interest to the corporation, contribute to the GHI newsletter, keep various committees informed of other committee's activities, and serve as a sounding board for citizen needs and opinions.

On hand to answer questions were Harry Zubkoff, Chairman of the Board, Frank Lastner, board member and chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, James Giese, City Manager, Roy Breashears, GHI manager, and David Kane and Eleanor Ritchie, representing maintenance and sales staff. President Zubkoff introduced Frank Lastner, who described briefly the early days of Greenbelt, calling on his own recollections as an "early settler".

He emphasized the town's development as a part of the development of Prince Georges County, the "fastest growing county in the United States". He pointed out that controversy is part of the fabric of this community - at the time that the federal government gave up ownership of Greenbelt, a number of citizens did not wish it to become cooperative housing. Then, as now, it took citizen action over an extended period to evolve a desired end.

Nearly all questions asked were concerned with land use, past and present, and maintenance policies. Bruce Bowman, who had been invited in his dual role of long-time resident and member relations committeeman, explained that the maintaining of vacant land had been an

Six Candidates Will Compete In Runoff; Referendum Passes

Local citizens marched to the polls last Tuesday in record numbers to register a protest against the majority of the present council, but the final outcome will be settled next week. Only two councilmen secured the necessary majority of the 1,393 votes cast to win seats outright — Edgar L. Smith and David Champion, incumbent minority member of council.

The run-off next Tuesday, September 24, will be among the following six candidates who finished in this order: William Hoff, Lewis Bernstein, Clifford Simonson, Francis White, Dick Pilski, and Ben Goldfaden. (The votes are given in the accompanying box).

The electorate also gave an overwhelming endorsement to the proposed $150,000 bond issue for the renovation of the swimming pool by a 881 to 188 vote.

Edgar Smith was top vote-gatherer with 833 votes — 132 more than his nearest competitor, David Champion. Champion with 701 votes just eked out a majority — three more than the 698 votes needed for election.

The surprise of the election was the low vote registered by the four incumbents, exclusive of Champion. Mayor White, who was high among the four, registered 558 votes and finished sixth in the balloting some 9 votes behind Clifford Simonson. Bill Phillips was low among the incumbents, with his 434 votes failing to qualify for the runoff.

Other unsuccessful candidates, in order of finish, were Joe O'Loughlin, Gerald Boisvert, and Rita Fisher. There were five write-in votes — for Allen Morrison.

The 1,393 votes cast were the highest in the history of Greenbelt. The previous high was 1,096 in 1959. Thirty-one citizens cast absentee ballots in Tuesday's election.

The election was one of the most spirited in recent years and next week's run-off is expected to be a repeat performance, with two incumbents White and Goldfaden pitted against three challengers, Bernstein, Hoff, and Simonson, and one independent, Pilski.

The councilmen elected will serve two-year terms and will receive annual salaries of $1,000. The Mayor, who will be chosen by the council, will receive $1,250.

ALL THE FACTS

To the Editor:

As a member of the Advisory Planning Board since its inception three years ago, I could not sit idly by and ignore Mr. Neumann's attack on the APB. He states that viewing problems objectively is one of the most important functions of the APB, and then ignores this in presenting his four "statements!" It is obvious that one of Mr. Neumann's standards for measuring qualifications for APB is loyalty to the council rather than objectivity.

While I realize that these are serious charges, the facts of the matter support them beyond any shadow of a doubt. Let us take his points one by one.

1. Mr. Neumann is correct that there is a procedure for holding APB meetings without a quorum, but the chairman, Lewis Bernstein, was reluctant to use this procedure, since it would have allowed one or two members of the board to act officially for the board — a procedure which the Mayor has even objected to. Despite the lack of quorums, due mainly to the failure of council to fill vacancies promptly, the APB subcommittee has held numerous meetings on the 40 petitions for rezoning in and adjacent to Greenbelt. With reference to the Golden Triangle, the APB had requested a meeting with the petitioner. Mr. Neumann knows that the lawyer for the petitioners requested that this meeting be postponed until after the city election, so that it could be discussed without becoming a political issue.

2. At the time Ewing and Smith submitted their petition for rezoning at the intersection of the Parkway and Glenn Dale road, they had no plan for the development of the land, except that they wanted high-rise and other types of apartments. At a meeting attended by councilmen, and Mr. Neumann and myself of the APB sometime after the petition was filed, the land planner for the developer admitted that he had only started the plans that day. Not only that but they had changed the zoning requests. The APB's position at that time was that Greenbelt had enough land zoned for apartments in the city to take care of any foreseeable needs.

3. Mr. Neumann knows that it was not the APB who considered the traffic circulation so important, but the council. We had considered our job finished when we submitted our original recommendations. However, council kept referring it back to the APB periodically because one of the center businessmen wanted it changed.

4. What Mr. Neumann considers the most significant deficiency of the APB is also the biggest distortion of the facts. Last October the APB presented to the Council a set of goals for approval. Council's lack of action on these goals has stymied the APB in its task of developing a master plan. Mr. Neumann may be able to work in a vacuum, but as a scientist who is responsible for research of a major health program, I know the necessity for having some well-defined objectives before starting to plan. Maybe Mr. Neumann has found a shortcut to science which will revolutionize the whole field of research and planning.

These, Citizens of Greenbelt, are the facts as they exist, not as manufactured by Mr. Neumann.

NEGATIVE NOTE

To the Editor:

I wish to comment on a letter circulated to "citizens of Greenbelt", dated Sept. 12, written by B. J. Fritz as ad hoc secretary of a purported Greenbelt Homes Civic Association. I assume this is a group in embryo, awaiting a public response - unless it was written simply as political ammunition. Mr. Fritz would have been better advised to delay his letter until after the election - or to name names and avoid the aura of mystery.

Putting aside the political implications, which are, as of this publication date, a dead issue, it is regrettable that any Civic Association should begin on so negative a note as "we cannot look to candidates nor to parties for honest information" or "it's not your town or your county . . . but it could be". Developments in Prince Georges County and in GHI during the last year or two amply demonstrate that the citizen voice can be heard and attended to - witness the success of a group of intelligent insurgents in the county election, the appointment, at long last, of a Human Relations Committee, the burgeoning of library service the outstanding turnout at the last GHI election. No one involved in any of these things should feel completely futile. I do not wish to criticize Citizen's Associations - certainly they give minority groups in our area a voice they would not otherwise possess, and certainly they may accomplish things for a community - but I question the note of desperation. The democratic machinery is always there - we have but to drive it with rational and honest minds, dedicated, sustained effort, and patience.

GAINED MUCH

To the Editor:

Now that the campaigning is over for me, since my 168 votes did not make me eligible for the run-off, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who encouraged my efforts. I have gained much, even though I lost.

Greenbelt Housewife Meets Space Monster

(Ed Note: The following letter was received by the News Review from a local housewife who prefers to remain anonymous. Although we are not prepared to vouch for the authenticity of her account, she appears to have a justifiable complaint. Perhaps her story will also relieve the tension of the current election campaign.)

To the Editor:

I wish to call your attention to an alarming situation which exists here in Greenbelt and which I feel sure is due to the presence of NASA.

Yesterday, I was in the dining room setting the table for dinner, when I heard some rumbling noises. I didn't pay too much attention at first, because I have a noisy neighbor next door and my son's room is directly overhead and he is always working on inventions. You know the way nine year olds are. Well, all of a sudden, our beagle began to bark and just then there was a bang like one of those sonic booms, only not so loud. Naturally I thought the furnace had exploded because Maintenance had just been there working on it in the afternoon. I ran upstairs to save the children, pulled open their door, and screamed. There was the most repulsive looking thing I have ever seen. It was about six feet tall and had legs all over it. Where it didn't have legs, it had arms. I've never trusted anything with a lot of legs. I don't even care too much for our beagle, and she has only four. Any more legs than that and I call the exterminator.

So, here I was looking at this monster and screaming, and guess what it did. It talked to me, in English. "Madam," it said, "I am here because your son has called me." Well, that was too much. That boy brings home stray kids and cats and turtles, but this was really too much. "What did you do that for," I yelled. The boy looked guilty, like he always does, but denied it. "I didn't call him, Mom, all I did was make this Moebius strip." He held up one of those tricks you do by taking a long strip of paper, twisting it once, and pasting the two ends together. It's supposed to make a one sided surface, but I've never seen the point of it myself. My son said he had made this one out of one of those sheets of plastic that they gave us at the Space Agency the day the people of Greenbelt were invited to an open house there.

The leggy creature tried to explain. "Your boy has made a glincum," he said. "Glincum made out of phentico is what intelligent races use to call each other across space." I'm not absolutely sure I got those words right, but he said something like that. Then he continued, "Your son and I will now travel to my home planet. We must have a specimen of your species for our collection."

If I was shocked before, you can imagine how I felt now. My son, of course, was jumping up and down and yelling, "oh boy, oh boy". To him this was sort of like going to camp. Someday when we have some money I do intend to send him to camp, but after all I can't be expected to ship my own flesh and blood to some forsaken planet full of things with legs. I thought real fast, and asked the monster if he wouldn't like to take the beagle instead. He said no, so I offered him the noisy neighbor. Nothing doing, it had to be a child, because a fully grown specimen would be too heavy. Then inspiration hit me. I said, "Take the baby, we haven't got too used to her yet." Of course, I didn't give him the baby, because we are used to her. I picked up my daughter's talking doll instead and pulled its ring. It said "Hi, dada."

COMPETITIVE BIDDING

To the Editor

After reading John O'Reilly's letter last week, one is still faced with the question of why John and his cohorts voted against sealed competitive bidding as required by the By-Laws. John writes about bids, meetings and enterprise, but he never mentions the fact that on August 22, 1963 he voted against the following motion: "That we submit Plan D as specifications for sealed bids from any company that wants to bid on it."

Is John trying to convince us that we get a better deal without sealed competitive bids? If so, I will point out that within the past year, competitive bidding has substantially lowered our costs on automobile, creditor life and fire insurance. However the proof is still in the bidding.

Therefore, as John O'Reilly appears anxious for me to leave the Board of Directors, I am willing to publicly bet my resignation against his that if Pension Plan D is submitted to sealed competitive bids, in its present form plus including a standard rate of labor turnover, GHI will save money over the present proposed costs. Now the question is "Will John and his cohorts put up or . . . ?"

William P. Helm

(Editor's Note.—In a statement to the News Review, Director John O'Reilly stated that he voted against Mr. Helm's motion because he felt that his intent was merely to cause further delay inasmuch as sealed competitive bids had already been sought from 13 insurance companies.)

Baxter to Address Lions

David Baxter, personnel manager of the new Klein's Department Store will speak to the Lion's Club at the next regularly scheduled dinner meeting set for Monday, September 23, 6:45 p.m., at the American Legion Home.

Baxter will sketch the history and background of the Klein's organization and outline the plans for their new store here in Greenbelt. Mr. Sidney Brown, developer of Beltway Plaza, will also be a guest.

Well, to make a long story short, the creature said he was delighted and disappeared in a puff of smoke.

I haven't seen him since, but I had to buy my daughter a new doll, and they cost $9.95 plus tax at the toy store on the boulevard. I don't have that kind of money to throw away. Besides, what if the ring breaks and he comes back for another doll?

Honestly, I don't know what things are coming to in Greenbelt anymore. This used to be such a nice quiet community and we moved here especially because we thought it would be a safe place for the kids.

I hope the new city council will do something about this disturbing situation when it has its next meeting.

Harman Installed as Postmaster

Speaking at the installation ceremony for Greenbelt's new postmaster, Emory A. Harman, at the Youth Center last Thursday, Frank Lastner, Chairman of the Prince Georges County Commissioners, called for a new postoffice to go with the new postmaster. Harman was officially installed in his position by the Honorable Harold M. Jenks, head of the Post Office Department's Postmasters and Rural Appointments Division in Washington. Lastner's statement received sympathy from Howard Barker, Assistant Director of the Washington Regional Office, who noted that his office is well aware of the crowded conditions of the post offices in the region and is trying to alleviate such situations. Other post office and government dignitaries present at the ceremony included Congressman Carleton Sickles and Jack Sullivan, assistant to Senator Daniel Brewster. The proceedings were broadcast over radio stations WPGC and WQMR.

Emory A. Harman, left, is sworn in as postmaster by Harold Jenks, Post Office Department official from Washington. The ceremony held last Thursday at the Youth Center was witnessed by local, county and government officials.

DON'T BE DECEIVED

Despite attacks on a level hitherto unreached in Greenbelt politics, present Council running mates won about half of the votes cast during the September 17 voting. We appreciate that — but with the run off election scheduled for September 24, it is time to get down to brass tacks.

An issue has been made of zoning. We are the bad guys who favor a high rise apartment in every backyard. Mr. Bernstein, Mr. Simonson and Mr. Hoff see themselves as the good guys . . . Greenbelts Green Knights. They think they can conjure up a picture of Greenbelt as a rural Never-Never Land and Presto! . . . they wake up Councilmen. Doesn't matter what they do or what they've done . . . They've got the "Green Vote".

The gimmick is that Greenbelt doesn't own this undeveloped land. Bernstein, Simonson and Hoff don't own this land. Developers own it, and we doubt if they'll let it stand unused because our opponents want them to.

Since our opponents made up this high rise apartment issue and Greenbelt has swallowed it hook, line and sinker, we only have this to say: Look around town. If you find one shovelful of dirt that was turned over for a high rise apartment, vote against us. If you hear one man, whom you know to be honest, flatly say that we ever voted for high rise apartments, vote against us.

If you can't find either, you know that your opponents have been running on a false, emotional issue and you should vote accordingly.

We repeat — We are AGAINST High-Rise and Commercial in Greenbelt — — —

Remember when home canning took so much time and effort?
Today your Electric Freezer does it better.

Grandmothers seeing this picture will probably experience a wave of nostalgia. But when they recall the amount of work involved, they'll breathe a sigh of relief, no doubt, that "those days are gone forever."

Today, with an Electric freezer, you can buy and freeze produce and meats at in-season prices to enjoy later, whenever you please. You can eliminate frequent marketing trips. You cook up bigger batches, and freeze the "planned-overs" for another day. You supply your family with better nutrition, because fast Electric Freezing locks in nutrients. You can create a sensational meal at the drop-in of a flock of friends without fluster or embarrassment. All this (and more) because you've switched to "freezer living." What kind of freezer do you need? Upright? Chest? Or perhaps a new refrigerator that gives you more real freezer space? See them all at the Electric Institute, first floor, PEPCO Building, 10th & E, N.W., then become an Electric freezer owner at your favorite appliance or department store.

How to save a small fortune with money you'd fritter away

You do it automatically on the Payroll Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Bonds

The average American would save about $20,000 during his working years if he tucked away just a dime from every dollar he earned. If he bought and held U.S. Savings Bonds, he'd have close to $40,000.

The big problem is how to save the dime. But it's no problem at all when you sign up for Savings

Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

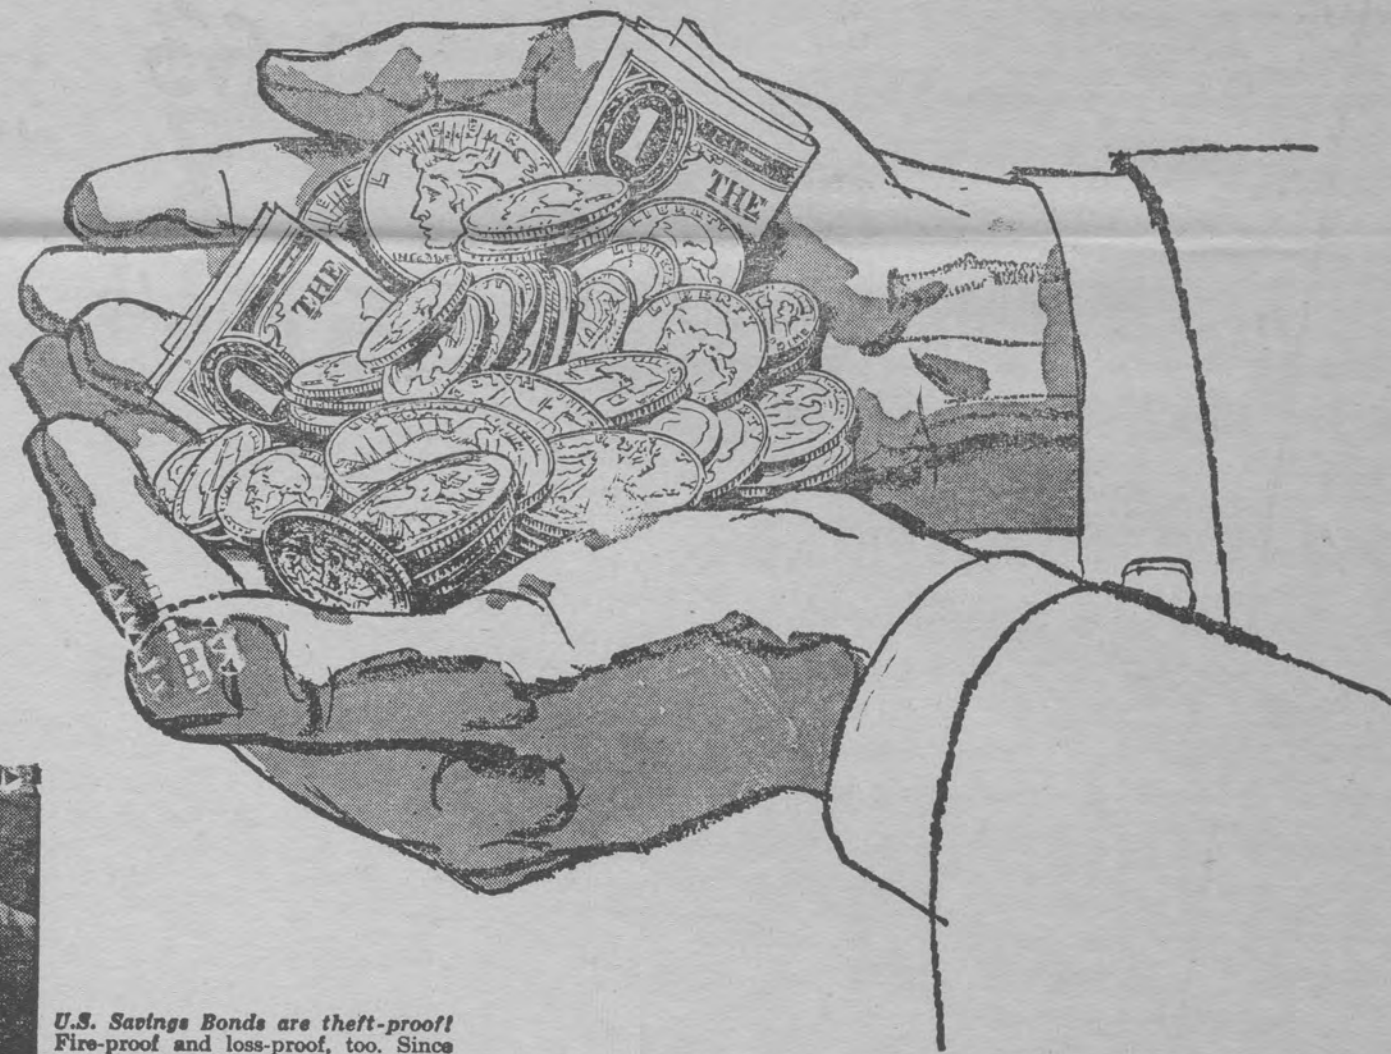

World's handiest savings plan
When you save on Payroll Savings, you just sign your name once. From then on your payroll clerk sets aside whatever amount you wish each payday, buys your Bonds, and delivers them to you. Millions of Americans are buying $2 billion in Savings Bonds yearly this automatic way for new homes, furniture, education, etc. What's more, they hold their Bonds an average of 7 years—and find the waiting well worthwhile.

Almost double your money back
U.S. Savings Bonds are guaranteed to grow. $1 becomes $1.33

in 7½ years—and $1.93 in 10 more years. You can get your money with interest anytime you need it. And the Treasury Department replaces your Bonds free if they're lost or destroyed.

Every Savings Bond you buy is a share in a stronger America. Get your shares the easy way... by joining the Payroll Savings Plan now.

U.S. Savings Bonds are theft-proof!
Fire-proof and loss-proof, too. Since 1941 the Treasury Department has replaced almost 1½ million Bonds at no cost to the owners.

Advice on Backaches

Ever have a backache?

Almost everyone does now and then. All the way from a dull, uncomfortable ache to sharp, almost incapacitating pain. Some physicians credit soft beds, soft chairs and the other comforts of modern civilization with an increase in the number of persons who suffer from low back pain, says Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association.

Once called lumbago, back pain is often caused by poor posture, obesity, ill-fitting or inappropriate shoes, a sedentary life, over strenuous work, or participation in sports. It may also be due to disease not directly relating to the back or to injury or strain. Low back pain may occur at any age but it seems to bother middle-aged persons most. It occurs in both sexes and in all races, and is more common with people who do work that requires stooping or lifting.

Good posture of the entire body is important in preventing low back pain. Sit with the head, shoulders and trunk erect. When standing, the spine should be straight. Not the military "ramrod" posture, but straight. A soft, saggy bed and low, soft chairs contribute to backache. Chairs, ideally, should be firm, straight and have the contour of a normal back.

A low-heeled shoe is best for standing or walking. High-heeled shoes tend to throw the posture off balance and increase strain on the lower back. Loafers, ballet slippers and sneakers also may lead to backache if worn extensively.

In lifting heavy objects, keep the back straight and lift with knees and thigh muscles, rather than bending over and straining the spine. Like many other ailments, backache may be aggravated by emotional tension or anxiety. Treatment of backache varies with the cause. When it's due to strain, usually rest, heat and a pain reliever will help. Massage, used in moderation, may help relieve discomfort. Your doctor may also recommend exercise to strengthen the muscles of the back and to improve posture.

Backache is a common ailment among Americans. If your back pain persists, consult your physician.
