GHI Financial Condition Shows $16,000 Improvement

by Al Skolnik

A favorable Greenbelt Homes, Inc. financial report for the first six months of 1963 was submitted by comptroller Don McGinn to the GHI board at Thursday's meeting on September 26. Total income was up $4,700 and total expenses were down $11,300 over a similar period last year, thus leaving the corporation some $16,000 better off than a year ago.

McGinn cautioned, however, that the first-half-year report understates expenses for repairs and maintenance as the result of the delay in the frame re-roofing and special trim painting programs. As of June 30, 1963 only $1,500 and $2,700 had been spent for these programs respectively, compared with $17,600 and $10,800 expended as of this time a year ago. The 1963 budget calls for a total of $31,500 to be spent on frame-roof replacement and $25,400 for the special trim paint program.

On the other hand, the corporation spent $11,700 for replacement of hot water lines in the first six months of 1963, compared with no expenditures for this item in the first six months of 1962.

The improved revenue position of the corporation is due to increased income from sources other than members' charges. Such income amounted to $63,000 in the first half of 1963, compared with $49,200 for a similar period in 1962. The return from GHI's refinancing program for resales totaled $3,300 and interest on other investments $17,500.

Most expenditure items showed little deviation from a year ago. Heating costs were up $3,800 to a 1963 half-year total of $191,608, mainly due to higher expenditures for fuel oil. Board and membership costs were down $1,700.

Jorgensen Resigns

Hans Jorgensen announced his resignation from the board effective October 1. He told the board that he is moving quite unexpectedly from town. Jorgensen had served on the board since 1954 with one year of interruption and as secretary for the 1961-62 year. He is best known for his efforts to beautify the project with hedges and trees and his initiation of landscaping programs.

The board decided to open nominations for Jorgensen's successor at the October 10 meeting and to conduct a vote at the following meeting. In the meantime, the board will pick a successor to Henry Brautigam at the next meeting. Names placed in nomination for the latter vacancy include Seibert Meade, Joseph Wilkinson, Mrs. Josephine Seay, Nat Shinderman, Seymour Kaplan, and Jim Fritz.

Pension Plan

The board gave final approval to the pension plan for its employees after hearing a series of clarifying statements from their pension consultant, William Werber. The employees had earlier signified their 100 percent approval of the plan.

A chief item of confusion centered on director Bill Helm's charge that the plan as finally adopted was not submitted to competitive bidding. Werber explained that the rates for the combined insurance and retirement benefit plan were obtained through sealed competitive bids submitted by 8 insurance companies. Upon receipt of the rates — so much per $10 of monthly retirement income and so much per $1,000 of life insurance, they were applied to the specifications for Plan A, B, C, and D. Each one of these Plans involved a different combination and amount of benefits.

Plan D — the plan finally adopted — provided the most benefits for the premium amount that the corporation had set aside to spend for a pension plan. Hence, Werber said, while Plans A, B, C, and D as such were not bid upon, the rates that applied equally and were basic to all the Plans were subject to sealed competitive bids.

Director John O'Reilly asked Werber to explain the advantage of the type plan as finally adopted — group permanent ordinary life — over the type plan that takes into account labor turnover such as a deposit administration plan. Helm had made much of the point that the bids would be lower if the latter type plan were adopted.

Werber pointed out that in a small employee group such as GHI, the law of averages cannot be counted on to work favorably. Hence, a deposit administration plan which assumes average mortality and labor turnover rates runs the risk that premiums will have to be raised steeply in future years if GHI has one or two deaths or no turnover in employment. Under the group permanent ordinary life plan, which the corporation adopted, the premium rates, while higher, are guaranteed for the life of the individual employee, Werber said. The bidding for the two types of plans are not comparable, Werber concluded, because of this difference.

On the final vote, Helm and Joe Cherry voted no. Directors Frank Lastner, Ed Burgoon, and Henry Brautigam were not present. The first year's premium will cost GHI $18,856. The employees will contribute $8,768.

Tid-bits

General Manager Roy Breashears reported that the Circuit Court, Upper Marlboro, has issued a temporary injunction prohibiting the erection of a fence or other barrier across the sidewalk in the 26 Ridge Court, pending the preparation of briefs by the contending parties.

A question was raised but not resolved as to the legality or propriety of a civic organization using "Greenbelt Homes" in its title.

The board has gone on record in favor of the Department of Interior purchasing the 76-acre Jaeger tract to be incorporated into the Greenbelt Park.

Local Library May Lose Children's Poetry Hour

The Prince Georges County Memorial Library has announced that it plans to discontinue the Poetry Hour conducted for the past five years for elementary school children with increasing success by Mrs. Marjorie Muir in the Greenbelt library. The county plans to start a poetry club in the new regional library opposite Prince Georges Plaza, to be opened early in 1964.

The PTA organizations of Center School and North End and the St. Hugh's Home and School Association voted unanimously at their recent meetings to urge county library officials that the poetry club be retained at the local library. The arguments presented to Miss Elizabeth Hage, Director of the County Library, include a suggestion that the Poetry Hour be extended to all local libraries through a special training program for leaders.

It is also argued that only those who live in the immediate area of the new regional library will be able to attend the poetry club and that it would not truly serve the county. At the same time, Greenbelt children who have joined the poetry group in ever increasing numbers will not be able to attend because of the transportation problem. Finally, it is pointed out that the establishment of the Poetry Hour at the local library in the first place was due not only to the dedicated leadership of Mrs. Muir, who was then Greenbelt head librarian, but also to the cooperation and promotion of the community.

Notice

The meeting of the Recreation Advisory Board with members of City Council present to review Swimming Pool plans with the engineer which was announced for Tuesday, October 8th is rescheduled for Wednesday, October 9th at 8 p.m. This change is due to a conflict with other meetings scheduled for the 8th.

Smith Elected Mayor, New Council Takes Office

by Charles T. McDonald

Edgar L. Smith, top vote getter at the September 17 council election, was elected mayor by unanimous choice of his colleagues last Monday at a special charter meeting. The oath of office was administered by Circuit Court Clerk Waverly Webb.

New Library for Greenbelt?

A public meeting to discuss the possibilities of Greenbelt obtaining a new library will be held next Thursday, October 10, in the Co-op Hospitality Room at 8 p.m. County library officials and members of the city council will participate in the discussion to explain the problems involved and possible solutions. Citizens will be encouraged to express their views.

The meeting will feature an added note of urgency with the recent revelation that additional classroom space needed to accommodate the influx of students from the Springhill Lake apartments might force the library to vacate its quarters in the Center School next September. If this should occur, Greenbelt would be without a library unless a new building is available.

Although Greenbelt is one of three communities already marked for a new library by the County Library Board, Greenbelt is low on the priority list because the other two communities (Accokeek and Laurel) have made available free sites for library buildings. The problem of finding a suitable site in Greenbelt will be a major topic of discussion at Thursday's meeting. Present will be George Hammond, Chairman of the Library Board of Trustees, and Miss Elizabeth Hage, County Library Director.

Library officials have informed the city that a local library must be entirely on a ground floor level and be housed in a building that is in or immediately adjacent to the Center. The most favored site at the present time is right behind the postoffice. However, the major part of the land is owned by Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc. (Co-op) and would have to be purchased from them. The city owns the remainder of the land.

Two other possible sites would use city-owned land. One of these is the area between the new municipal building and Center School. However, it is feared that if Center School should expand in that direction, this would create an unattractive crowding of buildings. Another possibility is the grove of trees behind the Co-op Supermarket. However, this site is not as close to the Center as library officials would prefer.

The library board has indicated that one criterion which might move Greenbelt higher on the priority list is the degree of support for a new library expressed by the citizens as well as by the city.

Upon assuming the chair, Mayor Smith expressed his gratitude and the appreciation of the other members of the new Council for the confidence that the citizens of Greenbelt had placed in them by their expression at the polls. Mayor Smith promised complete adherence to continued efforts to maintain Greenbelt as a planned community and for good, residential living. He promised that all meetings of City Council will be open meetings and urged citizen attendance and participation.

For the office of Mayor pro tem Councilman David C. Champion was the only nominee and was duly chosen to serve the new Council in that office.

Prior to the election of the new mayor, retiring Mayor Francis White administered the oath of office to the newly elected members of council before a packed house.

On leaving office, retiring Mayor White expressed his appreciation for the experience of having been able to serve the residents of Greenbelt and extended his best wishes for the success of the new Council.

In the first order of business Councilman Champion nominated Lewis Bernstein for temporary chairman and he was unanimously elected. Mr. Bernstein then called for nominations for the office of Mayor. Councilman Champion presented the name of Councilman Edgar L. Smith for nomination and set forth the special qualifications of Smith for the office of Mayor, his experience as a member of Council 1959-61, his professional experience as a lawyer and City Solicitor, his association with the State as an assistant to the Attorney General of the State, and his acquaintance with the several governmental agencies that the municipality must deal.

There were no other nominations and the Temporary Chairman asked and received unanimous vote for Edgar L. Smith as Mayor for the new 2-year term.

Under new business, Councilman Bernstein read a memo from the City Manager listing items requiring the early attention of the Council. By motion, it was decided to hold a special meeting to discuss the priority of the items and to receive further briefing on the subjects from the manager. The meeting date was set for Thursday, October 3 at 7:30 p.m.

Councilmen Bernstein and Simonson submitted their resignations as members of the Advisory Planning Board, and Councilman Hoff submitted his resignation as a member of the Personnel Board.

Library Crisis

There is no glory in being a Cassandra proven right. The fact that we have repeatedly warned that one day Greenbelt may find itself without a library gives us no satisfaction now that this possibility looms large. Up until now the city council has taken no initiative in obtaining an urgently needed new library for the community. It is hoped that the new city council will take a more active interest, but in the last analysis the citizens themselves will have to demonstrate to county officials that a library is considered essential in this community.

This opportunity will occur next Thursday night, October 10, at the meeting in the Co-op Hospitality Room arranged to discuss the library problem. For the first time, library patrons and all those who feel the need for a library here will learn just what are the problems and how they can be solved. It is not an official meeting, and no decisions will be made. Nevertheless, the meeting will be critical. The tenor of the discussions and the attitudes of the participants will indicate whether we can expect a new library soon or whether we must resign ourselves for a long wait.

It is not clear whether sheer numbers will impress county library officials as much as expressed enthusiasm and cooperation. A small attendance, however, is bound to be a discouraging factor. It is up to all those who want a new library to show that they are large in number and that they want construction to start on a new library building in time to eliminate any possibility that we will be reduced to relying on the periodic visits of the county bookmobile.

KEEP POETRY CLUB

To the Editor

I have heard that the County wants to move the Poetry Club to the County Library. I know that I want it to stay in Greenbelt, and I'm sure the other Poetry Club members want it to stay too.

The Poetry Club means a lot to me. I've been in it since the third grade. Last year I was elected Second Officer and took over as First Officer when the First Officer left. I'm sure it means a lot to my fellow Poetry Club members too.

The Poetry Club should stay in Greenbelt because of the fun it has brought to many children, including me. It has been a very successful club and I believe people are waiting for the opportunity to have a part in the club.

So, if all past and present Poetry Club members will write to the County Librarian and tell her why we need it, maybe it will stay in Greenbelt. Her name and address is: Miss Elizabeth Hage, Prince Georges County Memorial Library, 5403 Annapolis Road, Bladensburg, Md.

Sincerely yours,
Helen Warner,
First Officer of 1962-63

PARTICIPATION URGED IN HOME FIRE DRILLS

October 6 marks the start of Fire Prevention Week. This year special emphasis has been placed on fire safety in your home.

Greenbelt plans to take part in a state-wide home fire drill on Oct. 9 at 7 p.m. The fire house siren will sound at 7 p.m. to mark the start of the home drill. We ask all residents to actively participate so that they may have a better chance of survival.

The factors for consideration by each family are listed below:

1. Hold a family conference.
2. Draw a floor plan in your home where the bedrooms are located.
3. Designate on the floor plan important information such as the normal route to safety for each room, an alternate route, locations of doors that can be closed against the spread of fires, windows that can be used as alternate escape routes and porch roofs that can be used for temporary places of safety.
4. Have all members participate in a practice exit drill by using their alternate routes to safety.
5. Remember the following safety rules:
 - a. Keep calm—do not panic.
 - b. If you smell smoke, arouse the family.
 - c. Call the fire department, if possible.
 - d. Close doors against smoke and heat. If door is closed, test it before you open it by feeling the top part of the door. If the door is hot, do not open it, but seek another way of escape.
 - e. If room is filled with smoke, keep down close to the floor where you can breathe better. f. Never re-enter a burning building.

g. Plan now where the family will assemble after evacuating the home. Notify firemen when everybody is safe.

Planning in advance for fire emergencies would save 85% of the lives lost annually in home fires—and home fires take about 6,000 lives each year.

In April 1963, Greenbelt recorded its first fire death as a result of a home fire in almost twenty years. Let's plan now for home drills so that there will be no new fire fatalities in Greenbelt.

On October 12, commencing at 6 p.m., the fire department will hold an open house. During this time we will have a hook-up contest, demonstrations (lowering a man from a building), movies, and free refreshments. So, everybody is welcome to take this opportunity to inspect, review, and ask any questions in regards to the Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS... WOULD YOU THROW AWAY $50,000?

Of course you wouldn't. Not on purpose.

But that's exactly what you do if you drop out of school before you graduate.

You see, the average high school graduate can expect to make at least $50,000 more during his life than the student who fails to finish.

Why lose all that money when you don't have to?

Make no mistake about it. The student who stays to get a diploma has the best chance to succeed.

It's true in every business operation—including ours.

Think it over. And if you're a high school graduate now, why not stop in and get acquainted at the Employment Office, 725 13th Street, N.W., Washington.

Holds Open House

The reinstatement of "Open House" nights for new members and friends of the Co-op was marked by a very successful affair on September 25. Thirty guests responded to the invitation, extended new area residents and recent joiners of the Greenbelt membership of G.C.S., an usually high percentage of acceptance of invitation-by-letter.

As groups of guests arrived, they were taken on a tour of the store by members of the local delegation, accompanied by the acting manager Ed Lewis. Personnel of the produce, meat, and bakery departments explained the highlights of operations in their respective areas. After the tour, the visitors were invited up to the Community room, where Carnie Harper, Chairman of the Greenbelt delegation to the G.C.S. congress, introduced a few of her fellow-cooperators and staff members. John Brown, staff representative for member relations, gave a brief but enlightening talk on the background and present picture of the cooperative, stressing the price advantages of Co-op Red Label shopping in a market basket comparison with comparable name brands.

Only one kind of heating is completely clean, silent, odorless, hidden

Here is the last word in home-heating luxury. Radiant Electric coils, hidden in ceiling, floor or baseboard, eliminate all the problems and annoyances you've ever experienced from less advanced heating systems. Electric Heating is clean—keeps housekeeping and decorating costs low. Electric Heating is silent—does away with sleep-disturbing thumps and groans. Electric Heating is odorless—no fuel, therefore no fuel combustion, no storage tanks, or chimneys.

Electric Heating takes no living space—no radiators or vents to reduce usable wall area and create problems of furniture placement. Electric Heating is even—no drafts or "hot spots", and you get individual temperature control in each room. The cost? Surprisingly less than you may think. Savings start with installation economy, passed on to you with a new home. For a free Heating Survey of your home by a PEPCO heating specialist call NAtional 8-8800, ext. 514.
