County Increases Charges for Filing Zoning Applications

A major zoning amendment to raise the cost of filing and "speculative" zoning applications was passed June 28 by the Prince Georges County Commissioners.

Modifying their filing charges from a flat $75 fee for all zoning applications to a sliding scale, the Board set $500 as the top fee for four acre tracts or more for any type of zoning change.

However, the commissioners made it clear that when more complex zoning categories such as cluster and town sectors and other planned communities are adopted, increased fees will be charged to pay for the additional staff work needed to study the proposals.

In addition to the increased cost of filing, the Board voted that applications cannot be withdrawn "without prejudice" once the Park and Planning Staff has studied and filed their report on applications. Past practices have permitted applicants to file for zoning and then, in the face of an adverse staff report some months later, withdraw the application. Applications withdrawn "with prejudice" may not be re-submitted within 18 months.

Acting to meet the July 1st date for filing of zoning applications - the first permitted in a year in the County - the Board also made it clear it expected to make further amendments "where inequities exist" at present.

These would include petitions where several contiguous parcels of land could be considered by the Planning Commission as a single unit or where applications for differing land uses within a single parcel would unjustly increase the costs of filing.

Today's action puts the Prince George's Filing fees in line with those charged in Montgomery County, which is also part of the Maryland - National Capital Park and Planning Commission. However, Montgomery County does charge more for the more complex zoning categories, some of which have not yet been adopted by Prince George's.

Representatives of the Home Builders Association endorsed the amendments in general, but did ask clarification on the two exceptions, where the Association felt filing costs could be prohibitive.

LITTLE LEAGUERS

The D.A.V. Tigers, coached by Lonnie Palmer, have cinched the pennant in the National League; however, the American League is still in contention at the present time, so come on out and cheer on your favorite team.

Farm Director Don Evans is at home, at 19-U Ridge, and will welcome any visitors. We hope he continues his good progress.

Sunday afternoon is the game between the Minor League All Stars and the Little League Benchwarmers. Come on out at 2 p.m. and watch the ball game. Don't forget the Friday night game under the lights at 8:30 between the Athletics and Orioles.

More Street Lights For Springhill Drive

The following is an excerpt from "Action Line" published in the Evening Star.

How can we get street lights in the 6000 block of Springhill Drive in Greenbelt, Md.? We have lived there over a year and there are no lights in this block although other blocks on the same street are lighted. This is a main road, well traveled and very, very dark at night. Can Action Line help us?—Mrs. J. G.

Action Line started with James Giese, Greenbelt city manager, who said a street light survey had been requested from the Potomac Electric Power Co. last September. Giese then called PEPCO and was told the engineering estimates were not yet completed but would be expedited. Action Line followed up with a call to PEPCO and learned that the estimates had been prepared and the drawings would be completed within a day. In all, more than 50 lights in the Springhill Drive area are covered by the survey. PEPCO's layout of what is needed is now on the way to the city manager. When it is approved, PEPCO will get to work on the actual installation.

City Notes

The new pathway from the foot of Olivewood Ct. to the south shore of Greenbelt Lake saw plenty of use on Monday night, when many pedestrians took that route to see the fireworks display. The next step in the city's program of preparing pathways around the entire lake will be to build a bridge over the stream behind 38 and 42 Lakeside Dr. to what is known by local children as "the island"—actually a long peninsula stretching well out into the lake. With this bridge complete, it will be possible to walk around the east end of the lake.

The priority job for the public works department this summer will, however, be putting permanent patches on those roads to receive the smoothseal program this summer. The crew were at work this week on Crescent Rd. between the lake and the fire station. Other patching will be done on Lakeside Dr. The city crew will also remove about half of the curbing and gutters along Lakeside. New ones will be installed by the paving contractor.

An extra summer crew of six high school students augment the public works department. Last week they hand mowed the long grass on the islands at the intersection of Southway and Greenbelt Rd. They also painted lines for parking spaces at 4, 6, and 7 cts. of Plateau. This was the last day of city maintenance of GHI courts. On July 1 GHI took over all maintenance responsibility.

On Tuesday the special contractor for WSSC put in permanent patches on the pavement of Lakeside extended, which had been cut open to raise the lampholes in the sewer beneath the street. The pavement topping of Lakeside extended is now expected in the near future.

The new estimated date for the opening of the Park Police substation in Greenbelt Park is July 19. After a number of postponements, the parking lot for the station has now been paved. Only sodding and landscaping remain to be completed. The police detachment will not actually occupy the building until it has been declared finally complete by the inspector for the U.S. Dept. of the Interior.

SMITH TO RUN FOR STATE SENATE

Greenbelt Mayor Edgar L. Smith announced this week his candidacy for the office of State Senator from the First District. He will compete in the Democratic primary on September 13.

Smith stated his motivation in running is to assure adequate representation for Greenbelt at those county and State levels where decisions affecting Greenbelt are made. "We need only consider our experience of the last few years," Smith said, "to realize that we have had little assistance from those we elected to represent us."

Among these experiences, he cited the Jaeger tract zoning for high-rise apartments, commercial zoning for a regional shopping center on the Golden Triangle, and the school board decision on the senior high school site.

He noted that in the case of both the Jaeger tract and the Golden Triangle, the city was forced to go to the courts because county officials turned a deaf ear to Greenbelt appeals.

And in the case of the senior high school, Smith said, "Many Greenbelt residents were present at the public meeting when we met with many of our county and State officials, presented the seriousness of our problem, and literally begged for assistance from them. Our plea was completely ignored and we find that the arbitrary action of the school board has been acquiesced in by our elected officials."

Smith warned that the worst is yet to come. The petitions for commercial rezoning of parcels 7 and 8 in Boxwood Village are still pending, he noted. Also, parcels 1 and 2 in the northeast corner of the city are still up for R-30 apartment zoning.

"Unless we have someone in a position of authority in the county, who is interested in and willing to fight for us, the next few years will complete the destruction of Greenbelt", he declared. He also emphasized the need for better liaison between county agencies and all municipalities.

Smith said he was disturbed by the fact, not only that the various slates being organized have no Greenbelt representations, but also that "many who have been selected for re-election are the same persons who have failed or refused to help us with our problems in the past."

Smith, an attorney, was selected "Outstanding Young Man of America (1964-65)" by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. He served on the Greenbelt city council from 1959-61 and was again elected to the council in 1963, at which time he became Mayor. He is the chairman of the Prince George's County Chapter of the Maryland Municipal League.

KEYS ANYONE?

Attention: Did you have 1962 Maryland car tags nos. DL 6481 or ES 8617? or 1963 tags CL 4671? Does your name begin with R and you drive a Ford or your name start with W and you drive a VW? If so, have you noticed that your keys are missing? Try the Police Department, 474-5454; they also have rings.

Operation Firefly

Scores of eager youngsters, from all over the area, will be catching fireflies as usual this summer. But this year, at the request of the Prince Georges County Recreation Department, they will be turning dard Space Flight Center.

Scientists use certain chemicals in the firefly's tail lamp for the development of a life detection instrument used in research in the earth's upper atmosphere and possibly on other planets.

A tour of the Goddard Space Flight Center has been promised the playground collecting the most fireflies. Summer playground programs are operating at Springhill Lake, North End and Center School.

4-H CLOVERBUD NEWS

by Linda Simonson

The Greenbelt Cloverbuds held their annual club picnic at Greenbelt Lake on June 20, with a potluck supper, sack races, and an Indian campfire minus the fire. Mr. Hanyok took over the job of cooking the hamburger patties and hot dogs.

Dr. Simonson, as the traditional "O Chief," conducted the campfire. The 4-H'ers and their families were grouped into three tribes; the Big Feet tribe (parents); the Shawnee tribe (half of the 4-H'ers and their brothers and sisters); and the Apache tribe (the other half). Mrs. Simonson was chief of the Big Feet tribe and Mrs. Hibbs her sagamore; Mimi Noel the Shawnee chief and Jenny Simonson Shawnee sagamore; and for the Apaches, Linda Simonson was chief and Ellen Hanyok sagamore.

The three tribal chiefs, in Indian regalia, led their respective tribes in Indian cheers, songs, stunts and challenges. The song "4-H Spirit" replaced the traditional Omaha tribal prayer and concluded the highly successful campfire.

Four Cloverbuds will attend 4-H Camp this summer: Mimi Noel and Jenny, Laura, and Linda Simonson.

CFPG Drive Underway

The door-to-door membership and legal fund drive conducted by the Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt is underway. Over forty volunteers are already visiting their neighbors for the two-fold purpose of gaining memberships and collecting funds intended to support legal action to maintain the garden-city character of Greenbelt and to help realize the city's Master Plan. Citizen suits will be filed shortly in connection with an eight-story high-rise apartment on Charlestowne-Village acreage and other actions of developers which are contrary to the Greenbelt Master Plan.

To carry out its current drive, CFPG needs the assistance of all Greenbelters. Call 474-6666, 474-6060. The next meeting of the steering committee will be Tuesday, July 12 at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building. Everyone is invited.

ACCESS Worker Struck

George Harris, executive secretary of the Action Coordinating Committee To End Segregation in the Suburbs (ACCESS), was knocked unconscious by an unidentified object last Wednesday, on Greenbelt Road near the Beltway overpass. Harris is a Greenbelt resident. He has been carrying a "Now" while walking to work at sign reading "End Segregation the University of Maryland, for the past two weeks. Earlier in the same day a passing motorist threatened him with a gun. Harris said that "When the time comes that a citizen in a peaceful protest movement can't walk down the highway, Washington's suburbs have gotten just like Mississippi." Despite the incidents Harris said he feels he has been successful in "Making a few people look at themselves."

Laura and Linda will serve as camp counselors. Greenbelt Shamrock 4-H Club members attending camp are Carl Simonson, Scott Hand, and Edward Karlander.

How to Get Rich Quick

As a public disservice, we shall reveal to you a sure-fire method of netting half a million dollars. The hard way, it would take most of us more than a lifetime to earn that much. But we are not speaking about the hard way: our process is quick and easy.

Begin by buying an undeveloped parcel of land in some expanding suburban community. No, you need not pay cash: someone will surely give you a mortgage. Your land, a fair-sized parcel zoned rural residential, is well worth the $250,000 you pay.

Next, petition the county's authorities to rezone the land for a higher density - one allowing the construction of, say a thousand apartment units on your land. Of course, you can expect opposition: the local planning authority will claim that such a development would overload roads and schools and the community in which your tract is located will charge that it would completely change the character of the city.

That's the time when you have to be nice to everybody. Tell the city that you do not intend to make full use of the new zoning and that you will sign covenants limiting development to a lower density. Do not hesitate to sign these covenants wording them as strongly as the townspeople wish. For good measure you may even throw in a promise to deed parkland to the city. Just make sure the mortgage is all sewed up before you sign the pledge.

Now that you've got the city's support for your petition and the county authorities have reluctantly approved it, do not make the error of paying off your mortgage, even when you can do so. For if you did pay it off, you'd become sole owner and as such you'd have remained stuck with the covenants.

Instead, go easy on those payments. As a matter of fact, why not stop them altogether? The bank will foreclose your mortgage and auction the tract to the highest bidder. In doing so it can claim that it doesn't know anything of the covenants which, after all, did not exist when it granted the mortgage. And since the property now carries a higher zoning category it is bound to fetch a nice price at the sale. Such as $750,000.

And that's when everybody gets paid off. The bank takes back the amount of mortgage that is owed to it, plus its fee for the foreclosure - five percent or thereabouts. The rest is handed back to you - including about half a million dollars that's pure profit.

That then is your cue to easy wealth: Be audacious and presumptuous, but as far from here as can be.

The Police Blotter

The Fourth of July produced sounds of fireworks and more fireworks. Several boys were picked up and later released to their parents for trying to celebrate without having permission. One young man, apparently trying to outdo everyone else, gave a display of his ability to throw fire-crackers at the lake. There were no injuries.

Tuesday was crime day among the bicycle lovers of Greenbelt. By press time, six had been stolen—more than were stolen during the entire month of June.

Beware all swimming pool users! Money has been stolen from bathers' purses and wallets while they were in the pool. Carry in only what you need—the rest can be checked with an attendant.

John R. Salvatore has transferred from clerk-dispatcher to uniformed officer in our Police Dept. Salvatore, 6F Parkway, is married with one child. He is a student at the University of Maryland, majoring in Business Administration.

A young man was caught red-handed stealing gasoline from a neighbor's car. An officer on routine patrol found him using a siphon to remove the gas so that he could fill his own car.

Larceny at Springhill Lake? An individual very indignantly called the Police to report his boat stolen. Investigation discovered his boat where the boat belonged (in a special lot on Cherry Lane), instead of where he had parked it. It turned out that someone, maybe the management, had properly moved his boat but forgotten to notify him.

The heat is obviously on. Its been too hot for too much misbehavior during the past two weeks.

Layman's Retreat Held

A retreat for Conservative Jewish men of the Washington Metropolitan area was held last weekend, June 24-26, at Camp Comet in Waynesboro, Pa. The members representing the Greenbelt Jewish Community Center were Harry Weiner and son, Jerry; William Broughton and son, Warren, Max Horlick and Jeff; Harry Greenbaum and sons, Martin and Milton; Sam Schwimer; Murray Berman; and Abe Chasoff. The weekend was devoted to prayer, study, and recreational activities. The guest speaker was Rabbi Fritz A. Rothchild, a member of the faculty of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in New York. The theme of his lectures was "The Contemporary Jew and the Bible."

Tick Talk; Watch Out!

It's tick time again, and those innocent looking little brown dots, found on animals and people have already caused one case of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in Maryland this year. So watch for ticks, signs of fever and pink spots, and if in doubt, call a doctor immediately.

Five preventive measures are recommended: 1. Avoid tick infested areas; 2. Learn to recognize ticks (they are brownish, flat, small, about 1/8 inch long and cling to skin surfaces); 3. Know how to remove ticks from body (with tweezers, paper or rubber gloves so as not to infect yourself, then burn the tick and paint the bite with iodine or a similar disinfectant); 4. Inspect yourself, children and pets daily; and 5. Call a doctor if fever and rash develop three to ten days after a tick bite.

Poetry Hour Again Publishes Anthology

by Rena Friedman

The members of the Greenbelt Poetry Club have published their eighth annual anthology of poems.

The presentation of the anthologies to the children climaxed the evening party held on June 3 during which members and their parents also viewed a movie on Robert Frost and heard recitals of the children's own poems.

The Greenbelt Poetry Club was inaugurated in 1958 by Marjorie Muir, then branch librarian at Greenbelt.

For the past three years the group has been led by Mrs. Marjorie Donn. This season Mrs. Donn conducted two groups: one group of third graders and one group of fourth through sixth graders. The format, initiated eight years ago by Mrs. Muir, remains essentially the same today. During the first half hour professional poems are read aloud, recordings of poems are heard, or occasionally a movie is shown. At the beginning of the second half the children light a huge, colorful candle and read aloud the poems they have composed.

The purpose of the club is to stimulate enjoyment of poetry and to encourage creativity and self expression.

A copy of the Anthology is in the Greenbelt Library. Following are some contributions to the anthology:

Autumn

by Sharon O'Reilly

Autumn leaves falling from the trees.

Autumn leaves swaying in the breeze.

Autumn leaves look so bright, And they make such a beautiful sight.

Their colors are brown and red. I look out my window when I'm lying on my bed

And see them falling down, down, down.

Autumn is the best time of the year.

The birds fly south and you see running deer.

The leaves fall on the ground Without making the tiniest sound. When you feel the cool air, And the wind blows your hair, You know that winter will soon be here.

The Year

by Brandy Siegel

Where does the year go?

When it goes, Nobody follows,

So nobody knows.

Little Mrs. Tree

by Patty Piteleski

Little Mrs. Tree holds her branches up high.

Her tender twigs nearly touch the sky,

But when it's winter she bows her head low

And keeps on sleeping until it's time to grow.

Jungle

by Carl Simonson

The jungle is dark, And lions roam,

So it is not At all like home.

Anyone who will be in the 3rd through 6th grade this fall and is interested in joining may contact either the Recreation Dept. or Mrs. Marjorie Donn at 474-1353.

Thank You

To the Editor:

A wonderful thank you to each and every one of the Greenbelt Lions.

May God bless each and every one of you, and our most grateful thanks.

Fred and Ruth Birdseye

Thanks

To the Editor:

To my friends and neighbors in Greenbelt, I want to express my sincere appreciation for all the lovely cards I've received, also for their prayers my deepest gratitude, during my recent illness.

News Review Voter's Quiz No. 1

How well prepared are you to vote in this election year?

The following quiz (the first of three) tests your knowledge of Prince Georges County. Most of these questions are not concerned with the coming election itself, but rather with the background knowledge a well-informed voter ought to possess.

Score one point for each correct answer; when the answer is a number, award yourself a point if the number you give falls within 20% of the correct answer. If you total 8 points or more, you can confidently wade into election-year politics. Even if you haven't you will have learned some new facts about your local government. Answers on page 4.

- Who was the Prince George after whom the county is named? (no score for this question)
 - What is the county's estimated population now?
 - What is its area?
 - Where is the county's government located?
 - How many incorporated towns and cities are there in the county?
 - How many of these have a population larger than Greenbelt's?
 - Who are the present members of the Board of County Commissioners? (name at least three)
 - Do the county commissioners serve full time?
 - What is the size of the county's present representation in the House of Delegates and the Senate of Maryland?
 - What will it be after the coming election?
 - How many delegates and state senators can Greenbelt residents vote for in the coming election?
 - What is the county's present budget?
 - What is the biggest item in the budget and what percentage of the budget does it cover?
 - When is Election Day this year?
 - What election district does Greenbelt belong to?
 - How many registered voters are there in Prince Georges County?
- State whether the following are true or false:
- You may not vote if by Election Day you have lived in Maryland less than a year.
 - You register only once after which you are qualified to vote in federal, state, county and city elections.
 - You may only register at duly announced registration drives.
 - Contributions which you make to support your candidate are deductible from your federal income tax.

Recreation Review

by Richard Stevenson
Director of Recreation
Ponytail Softball

The Girls' Ponytail Softball League got off to a flying start with four games. The Colts started things off with a 15-13 victory over the Chargers. The Fillies edged the Broncos 10-8. The Colts won again, this time over the Broncos 9-6 and the Chargers slipped past the Fillies 7-5. Games are played Tuesday through Friday at Braden Field at 10 a.m.

Powder Puff Softball

The 15 and under Girls' Softball Team has climbed to the top of the heap. The girls defeated Berwyn Heights A team 17-7 in the first game. Last Friday, the girls clipped Riverdale 23-0. Tomorrow, the girls play Calverton at Calverton Park School in Beltsville.

Swim Team

Congratulations to Coach Adams and his fine group of swimmers for winning the first swim meet of the year. The Greenbelters knocked off powerful Oxon Hill 255-209 at Oxon Hill. Next week, the team travels to Andrews. Let's hope they continue their winning way.

Playground Activities

Crafts, games, contests, stunts; These activities and many more are open to children ages 6-8 at the summer playgrounds at North End School, Center School and Springhill Lake Community Building. Come one, come all and enjoy summer fun.

Softball Tournament

The Sports rallied in the finals of the 4th Annual Independence Day Softball Tournament. Led by Ross Emerson, the Sports won the final game over Family Tavern, the 1965 Washington Metro Champs, 8-4.

Tennis Tournament

The Fourth of July Tournament was quite successful. In the Men's Singles Finals, Rod Johnson, from Virginia, defeated his doubles partner Bob Lightfoot in a three set match - 6-3, 2-6, 6-4. Johnson and Lightfoot then teamed up and defeated two local stars Carl Wendrick and Tom Kelly, in the doubles final.
