90-Day Delay Granted On Pool Exception

The Prince Georges County Commissioners, sitting as the District Council, voted unanimously to postpone for ninety days the hearing on a special exception for a swimming pool and bathhouse on the 25-acre tract being developed as the University Square Apartments. The city requested the postponement because of its appeal case, pending in Maryland's highest court, which objects to the development of the 50-acre Charles-towne tract, including the University Square Apartments, as a violation of covenants.

Commissioner Frank Lastner made the motion which was seconded by Gladys Spellman. Councilman William Hoff and Superintendent of Public Works, Albert Attick, represented the city. Citizens from the Lakecrest development were present. There was no representation from Lerner Development Company, owners of the University Square Apartments.

C. Kennedy Represents Greenbelt at Pageant

The State of Maryland Junior Miss Pageant, in which Greenbelt will be represented by Claudia Kennedy, will be held Saturday evening, November 26 at 8 p.m. at Franklin Senior High School 12,000 Reisterstown Road, Reisterstown, Md., near Baltimore. High school seniors throughout Maryland will compete for the right to represent Maryland in the finals for the U.S. Junior Miss Pageant at Mobile, Alabama, in March.

Miss Kennedy, 17, of Regina High School, who won the Greenbelt Junior Miss Pageant in the Labor Day Festival organized and presented by the Greenbelt Toastmasters and Jaycees, will arrive in Reisterstown Friday evening to participate in the Pageant welcoming festivities.

Special City Council Meeting

There will be a special city council meeting on Monday, November 28, concerning the status of the city's legal cases (1) on the Charles-towne Village covenants and agreements, (2) the Golden Triangle zoning for a regional shopping center and (3) open space land acquisition. The meeting will start at 8 p.m. and will be open to the public.

Greenbelters Attend Municipal League

City manager James K. Giese, assistant manager Michael Fischetti and councilmen Edgar Smith, Richard Pilski, David Champion and Francis White attended a three-day convention of the Maryland Municipal League in Salisbury, Md. on November 16-18. The meeting was primarily a session concerning business problems of the League. Giese was re-elected to the League Council as a representative of the city and town administrators. William Gullett, of College Park was elected vice-president of the League for this legislative district; and Mayor Wilson of Bowie was also elected to the League Council. Councilman Champion served as a member of the resolutions committee for the convention.

Two major themes dominated the convention — the pending constitutional convention for the state of Maryland and future legislation. On the former subject, E. Dale Adkins, Jr., a member of the constitutional convention committee, addressed the group on the various recommendations for changes to the constitution passed by his group. These included a change to a stronger executive branch, with Lt. Governor and all other offices, such as Comptroller, Attorney General, and department heads appointed by the governor. Another recommendation favored a bicameral legislature — although the committee split 12 to 11 on this. Others were for a four-layer court system, compulsory home rule for counties, and a tentative proposal that cities be made subordinate to the counties, rather than to the state as at present.

GOLDEN AGE CLUB RUMMAGE SALE

Beginning Dec. 2, there will be a rummage sale, sponsored by the Golden Age Club in the store between Twin Pines and the bank. The sale will continue until all goods are sold.

Besides a good selection of rummage sale items, the sale will also include brand-new merchandise donated by the merchants of Beltway Plaza and the local Greenbelt stores.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for a fund to buy furniture for the proposed Golden Age Club building.

Committee Matters Occupy GHI Board

by Rita Fisher

A report from the Parking Committee, Finance Committee, and a discussion on the problem of committee activities in general were the main matters of discussion at last Thursday's meeting of the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. Board of Directors.

Acting on a report given by the Parking Committee, the Board passed a motion affecting courts containing at least one parking space for each unit. The motion stated that everyone in the court be assigned a parking space, whether or not he owned a car. On another motion, board members agreed that, in such courts, remaining spaces would be marked for visitors.

Two requests for long (15-year) loans for home improvements have been received by the Finance Committee for consideration. Both requests involve the construction of additions to the homes involved. The Board stated that the plans for the additions were to be subject to the approval of the manager.

A long discussion was held regarding the activity of current committees. Attendance at committee meetings has been very poor, and the Board commented that there appeared to be insufficient organization, structure and life in some committees. The Board approved a motion to hold an informal meeting between Board members and committee chairmen and scheduled it for Tuesday, December 6.

Included in the discussion was a commentary on the Newsletter. After further discussion, the Board moved to employ the services of G.H.I. employee Sherry Brubaker to set up the Newsletter. Mention was made of the fact that no Newsletter had been issued for quite a few months and an attempt will be made to issue the G.H.I. publication again soon.

Council Discusses Cat Ordinance, Pushes for Reforestation Program

by Jacqueline Lenchek

A flurry of protests were brought forward by cat lovers against Greenbelt's animal control ordinance at the meeting of the City Council on Nov. 21. The ordinance requires that all animals must be kept confined at all times when out of doors.

Kathryn Keene introduced a petition calling for modification of the ordinance as it pertains to cats. The petition, bearing 141 signatures, states in part:

"This ordinance works an inadvertent hardship upon owners of cats, since it is not possible to give a cat outdoor exercise by walking it on a leash, due to its independent nature."

In denying that cats deserve the designation of public nuisance, the petition notes that: "cats do not bark excessively, molest passers-by, chase vehicles, or attack other domestic animals; they avoid crowds of children; they do not leave excreta in public places, but cover it politely. They are less emotional than dogs and need less restraint. They are almost always polite. They live and let live."

The petition also stresses that "we are not merely negative, we are in favor of some restrictive measures." The petitioners felt that cats should wear collars and tags and be confined at night.

Other Reactions

Mrs. Bonnie Roden spoke briefly, and charged that her kitten, duly licensed and wearing a tag collar, had been impounded while it was "quietly sitting, watching the cars go by." She asserted that: "You cannot own a cat; it lives with you."

Councilman Richard Pilski wondered out loud if the animal warden, who is a city employee, could have been guilty of overzealousness. Albert "Buddy" Attick, Superintendent of Public Works, defended the warden, saying he was gentle with animals and "the most meek and timid man we have." He added that wardens are now paid by salary, not according to the number of animals they apprehend.

Animal patrol activity in Greenbelt was increased following an accident last summer in which a little girl was killed by a dog in the southern part of Prince Georges County.

History of Ordinance

Councilman David Champion recalled how the ordinance came about originally; it was drawn up under the guidance of the then executive director of the National Humane Society.

Miss Keene expressed her amazement that the NHS would have presented such a bill since it could hardly be enforceable.

Mrs. Bernice Kastner exclaimed: "This ordinance is ridiculous," adding that if there were a need, "let's have a law that works!"

Councilmen Francis White and Pilski protested that the ordinance does work to a certain extent by giving the city the authority to impound stray animals.

Several people admitted that they flouted the law in regard to their cats — something they did not like to do. All agreed that more discussion was necessary, and the matter was taken under advisement. It will be reconsidered at a future council meeting.

Jog Along, Races To be Held Saturday

Three long distance races and a Jog Along event will be held Sunday, Nov. 27, at 1 p.m., starting at the Municipal Building. The races are 20 miles, 5 and 1/2 mile handicap, 1 and 1/4 mile and a Jog Along of 1 and 1/2 miles. Anyone may enter, and a number of girls usually compete.

Out of town Canadian and U.S. runners will challenge the present course holder, Lou Castagnola, the number 3 marathoner in U.S. championships. The Greenbelt JAYCEES sponsor these races, as well as the Jog Along to encourage physical fitness. The Jaycees and local merchants are providing prizes and trophies. At its meeting Monday night, Nov. 21, the City Council voted to plant some trees and shrubbery on the city's right-of-way bordering Parcel 7 to improve the appearance of the area. The 8-acre parcel, which is bounded by Crescent and Ridge Rds. and Ivy and Lastner Lanes, was cleared of trees several weeks ago by the owners, Charles Bresler and Associates.

The rights-of-way had been cleared several years ago in connection with the construction of the roads bordering the area. Councilman Francis White, who authored the motion, said that the area was now in need of dressing-up because of its proximity to the scenic entrance to Greenbelt.

The motion which called for an expenditure of $500 passed, four to one, with Councilman David Champion dissenting.

Champion objected to the city's doing any planting on rights-of-way (on Crescent and Ridge) under the jurisdiction of the State Roads Commission. White explained that his motion would give the city manager wide latitude in deciding how the reforestation program could best be accomplished in light of all existing conditions.

City manager Giese mentioned that he would first like to check with the city solicitor the legal status of the right-of-way along Ivy and Lastner Lanes, since these roads have not yet been accepted into the city's network.

Champion also expressed concern that the city's action would be "putting more oil on the fire". He stated: "I think you're starting a small war here." He suggested that an attempt to screen the cleared land might lead the developer to "start clearing across the street."

Councilmen White and Bill Hoff did not see how city efforts to beautify its own property would antagonize anyone.

Condemnation Suits

Giese reported that the owners of Parcels 11 and 12, Charles Bresler and associates, will challenge the city's need for the land as parkland. The city has filed a condemnation suit to acquire the 18 acres which are located along Crescent Road adjacent to Greenbelt Lake and west of St. Hugh's Church.

A similar plea was filed several weeks ago by Crescent Leasing Corporation, owner of the other two tracts (parcels 9 and 10) being sought by the city through condemnation. The city will move for a declaratory judgment in both cases.

Other Business

An ordinance prohibiting parking along the north and east side of Crescent Rd. from Gardenway to Hillside was introduced for first reading. Giese explained that because of the curve in Crescent in this area, vehicles tend to sweep wide and cars headed towards Kenilworth Ave. drive partly on the shoulder area. He also noted that the shoulder area is no longer distinguishable from the remainder of the street since Crescent was smooth-sealed two years ago.

Because of this, according to Giese, cars parked on Crescent tend to present a hazard, causing cars traveling this street to swing out around them. He felt that the gravel shoulder on the opposite side of the street is ample to handle all extra parking needs for the area, noting that the service courts exiting onto Crescent road have fairly adequate parking.

The council took under advisement a request by the Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt for the seeding of a fill area at the lake and for urging the Prince Georges Municipal Association to promote countywide legislation to institute essential erosion and pollution controls.

The following bids were accepted: a bid by International Harvester on a heavy-duty plow at $5,247.92; and on a bid by International Harvester on a Scout 800 utility vehicle (jeep) at $2,452.64.

Three major jobs engaged the Public Works Dept. this week. One was the construction of a asphalt stairway at the end of the pedestrian walkway along Crescent, nearest St. Hugh's. They also re-finished the floor of the gymnasium at the Youth Center. The third job was further grading of the landfill area behind the dam at the Lake Park. Future plans for that space including planting to grass and landscaping to expand the present picnic area.

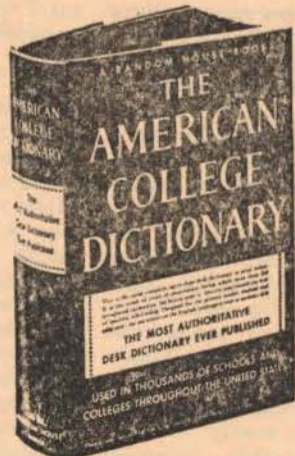

Reviews of Concert To be Played Here

The BALTIMORE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA, scheduled to play an unusual series of 4 major concerts in Greenbelt this winter has already opened its concert season with a flourish at the Lyric Theater in Baltimore. The program on that occasion will also be performed for the patrons of the area, December 5. According to music critic R. P. Harriss of the Baltimore News American, guest artist Kyung Wha Chung, proved "a thoroughly delightful surprise." Dr. diBonaventure of the Baltimore Evening Sun went further in praise of Miss Chung: "The playing of the young artist belies her frail, fragile, beauty; it is anything but puny and feminine. From the moment she strode on the stage . . . she was musically in command." He commented that "her technique is marked with faculty and skill; her tone is robust, yet capable of delicate graduations; her phrasings are subtle and stylistically well turned". The viewers gave full accolade to the orchestra's performance under conductor Peter Herman Adler of Beethoven's Leonora Overture and the Symphony No. 1 in C Minor of Brahms. These masterpieces opened the 52nd season of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.
