PRAB Receives Report On Use of Woodland

by Rhea Cohen

Innovative play equipment, benches, a full basketball court, and a bike loop around the playing field — all are part of a proposal for a new look for the City-owned woodland between Northway and the Lakewood subdivision. The seven-acre stream valley slopes from behind the 13 Court of Hillside down to Crescent Road.

During the summer, after residents complained about a dangerous gully, the City crew filled in the deepest part of the stream bed with concrete and asphalt chunks and covered the fill with a layer of dirt. The City Council then asked the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board to consult the neighborhood for suggestions to improve the park.

The result was a report presented to PRAB on December 17 by the students of Richard Stevenson's University of Maryland class in recreation planning. Stevenson, former Greenbelt Recreation Director and until recently also a member of PRAB, is a visiting instructor at the University. With the approval of PRAB, he assigned his class to the Greenbelt project this fall, both to give the class some practical experience in park design and to offer the City a variety of open space ideas which can meet the needs of the community.

Of the 61 students, Tom Fink, David Broida and Matthew Guidry are Greenbelt residents. Another, Rick Mest, works for the City Recreation Department, and several others have been employed in the past in the City's recreation program. In their study they employed soil conservation surveys, aerial photographs, topographic maps, and several neighborhood surveys.

To meet the twin needs of conservation and recreation, the plan suggests landscaping and clean-up of the stream, and beveling and widening of its upper portion, along with a series of improvements in the park. The report states that, "The more frequently expressed specific desire was to improve the already existing bicycle path to promote easier travel through the park, as well as to provide a place for jogging, and a place to exercise pets." Thus, the existing asphalt path is proposed to be extended in a loop around the present baseball diamond at the upper end of the park. The report continues that the playing field itself should be graded and the backstop repositioned, a full basketball court should be installed near the beginning of the loop trail, and a tot lot with new "environmentally styled equipment" should be located in the south-central portion of the park, near Greendale Place.

Also proposed are benches placed throughout the park in the tot area, along the stream, and beside the basketball court. Wooden signs are suggested for the park entrances, and the study concludes with the proposal that the park be named to stimulate local pride and to facilitate official identification.

Stevenson said that he feels the report offers realistic suggestions that can be implemented at a relatively low cost. PRAB will discuss the study in a future meeting, which will be announced. Generally held on the third Thursday of the month, PRAB meetings are open to the public.

Four Items Held Over From Council Agenda

The next city council meeting on Monday, January 18, will take up several matters held over from Monday's meeting.

A major item concerns a city decision about whether to go ahead with the purchase of parcel 8, the 2½-acre tract at the corner of Crescent and Kenilworth. A Prince Georges Circuit Court jury set the price at $75,000, or slightly more than $30,000 an acre. According to city manager James Giese, the jury awarded this sum to the owner (trustees: John Lewis Kelley and Solomon Grossberg) on the basis that the land was highly suitable and well located for commercial use, even though the land was presently not so zoned and the Greenbelt Master Plan had not indicated this tract for commercial zoning.

The purchase price was initially estimated at $49,000. The city received a HUD grant in the amount of $24,500 toward its purchase. Giese, however, feels that HUD will probably give the city a supplemental grant to raise its share of the cost to 50 percent of the purchase price.

Police Agreement

Another item held over concerned a police mutual aid agreement under which the Greenbelt Police Department would have the limited role of back-up to the Prince Georges police department. The Metropolitan-Washington Council of Governments has advised the city that such an agreement, if desired, should more properly be made between the county and the city. The question facing council is whether it wants to modify its concept of the role of the Greenbelt Police Department and thus become a true participant in the metropolitan area mutual aid pact.

Fire Department Lease

A third item held over concerned the execution of a new lease agreement with the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department covering the repayment by the GVFD of the bond issue plus interest costs over a 15-year period for the city construction of the addition to the Fire Station. The new lease is required in order to incorporate into the land within the lease the new parking lot construction by the city.

Bond Issues

A final item held over was a proposed charter amendment dealing with the conditions under which a city bond issue need not go to referendum. A clarification is being sought as to whether Federal or State grant money could meet the definition of "cost" of a project coming from special fees, service charges, or special assessment. Under the proposed amendment, if half or more of the "cost" comes from such sources, then a referendum would not be needed to approve issuance of city bonds to finance the balance the "cost." At present, more than half the cost of the project must be met from a special assessment against the benefiting property owners before bonds can be issued without referendum approval. This, the city feels, is too restrictive.

Elderly Housing Proposal Put Off as Council Seeks Data

by Al Skolnik

Upon the recommendation of city manager James K. Giese, the city council has delayed consideration of a proposal for using 1+ acre of the Ridge Road Center site for a housing for the elderly project. Giese told council at its Monday, January 1, meeting that his staff is making an inquiry into several questions, including the possibility of combining the elderly project with other proposals.

This decision was upsetting to James Cassels, who is leading the Senior Citizens Housing Cooperative (SCHC) movement for a city lease of the former Lutheran Church site for construction of a 3-to 5-story, 100-unit, cooperative apartment project. Such construction would require special zoning (R-10). Cassels told council that the deadline for filing for such zoning is January 31. The next filing date would be in July.

Mayor Pro Tem Edgar Smith, who was presiding in the absence of Mayor Francis White, said that while the delay was unfortunate, there were too many unanswered questions regarding the proposal which as council member Elizabeth Maffay added, "is relatively new." Smith said that he would not want to act hastily.

Several persons from the audience also suggested that it would be useful to have a public hearing on the subject. One of the areas of concern was the extent of the need for such a project among Greenbelt residents. In response to a question as to how many elderly persons had indicated their willingness to participate, Cassels said there were about 20 but that no attempt had been made recently to recruit people because the site was indefinite. He said it is hard to get commitments from people "when you can't tell them where the project is going to be."

Perimeter Road

Council also disappointed a representative group from the Save Our Community Committee who asked council to request the State Roads Commission to halt their study of the perimeter road. SOCC spokesman William Lathom noted the changed conditions in parcels 1 and 2 (namely, the decision of the school board to find another location of the senior high school) and the possibility that the high cost of sewer service to the area would reduce the likelihood of the area being developed for housing.

The city had asked for this study last March because of the imminent construction of the senior high school on parcel 2. The SRC's Bureau of Location has been conducting a location engineering study of the proposed perimeter road. Lathom felt that the city might be irrevocably committed to the road if the study proceeded.

The council, however, had a different outlook. In the first place, Smith pointed out, the need for a perimeter road had predated the decision to locate a senior high school on parcel 2 and this need continues, even with the removal of the school as long as the possibility of parcel 1 and 2 development remains.

Control of Skating On Greenbelt Lake

The Greenbelt Lake is open for ice skating when weather conditions are favorable. In order to provide wholesome, safe activity, the City has developed certain guidelines that should be followed. During cold weather, persons interested in ascertaining the condition of the ice at the lake should call the Greenbelt Police Department, 474-8000. It is impossible to continually test ice thickness over all areas of the lake, so skating will always be at the risk of the participant. Recommended areas of skating are the shore lines and the bay around the peninsula. The lake area around the dam and spillway should be avoided, as open water is usually found in these areas. Parents should accompany young children. Skaters also avoid gathering in groups on the ice.

The Recreation Department will attempt to provide supervision at the lake during weekdays from 4 p.m. to dark and on holidays, Saturdays and Sundays from 9 a.m. to dark. No skating will be allowed on the lake after dark. No fires will be allowed at the lake except those provided by the City because of the scarcity of firewood and danger from brush fires.

All skaters and parents should keep in mind the dangers involved in ice sports. A person who falls through the ice is in danger of drowning and freezing if he is not cared for immediately.

SHL Demo Club to Present Candidatas

On Sunday evening, January 17, at 8 p.m. at the Springhill Lake Community Room (above the drug store), the Springhill Lake Democratic Club will present the following candidates: Steny Hoyer for County Executive and the following County Council candidates: Mayor Francis White - 1st District, Royal Hart - 2nd District, Frank Santangelo - 3rd District, Frank Komenda - 4th District, Ronald Richardson - 5th District and Perry Smith - At Large.

As a follow-up to their recent endorsement of these candidates, the Springhill Lake Democratic Club is pleased to give the voters a chance to hear the views of the candidates and present questions.

Secondly, all the councilmen emphasized the fiscal and other advantages to the city of having an independent outside body make the survey. Council members Maffay and Joel Katz said that to have a definite road site would "allay the fears of the unknown" especially for persons who feared that the road would come close to their property lines.

Giese further observed that the SRC has promised to hold a public hearing before any firm decisions are made and he also noted that it would be very difficult to get SRC to reinstate the study (which had been obtained only through the intervention of Governor Mandel) once Greenbelt asked for its suspension.

A question was raised whether the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which had been asked by the county commissioners to replot the perimeter road in view of the high school shift, and the SRC were fully aware of what each was doing in this area. PG Council Candidates To Appear at Library

District One candidates for Prince Georges County Council have been invited to discuss the charter, a mass transit system and county zoning ordinances at the Greenbelt Library on Thursday, Jan. 14, at 7:30 p.m. Doctor Parris Glendening, Assistant Professor of Government and Politics, University of Maryland, will be the moderator.

CITIZEN'S SLATE RALLY

The Citizens' Slate, headed by State's Attorney Arthur A. Marshall for County Executive will hold a "Prince Georges Tea Party" campaign rally in Greenbelt Lake Park on Saturday morning January 16, at 11 a.m.

Reception for Gullett

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Maffay and Mrs. Eunice Coxon are hosting a reception for County Executive Candidate, William W. Gullett, on Sunday, Jan. 17, at 4:30 p.m. at the Jaycee Center adjacent to St. Hugh's in Greenbelt. Gullett was a former three-time Mayor of College Park.

Report on Embankment Expected Next Week

According to a Water Resources official, plans to correct the problems caused by the embankment at the east end of Beltway Plaza adjacent to S. Klein's are expected to be finalized by the end of next week. The report, which will be reviewed by the State Department of Water Resources, will also include plans for the restoration of other areas of the Beltway site.

On November 17, state agency officials met with representatives of the shopping center and the county attorney's office to seek a resolution of the five-year-old embankment hazard, as well as removal of the other hills of clay on the Beltway Plaza land. Sidney Brown, president of First National Realty Corp., agreed to undertake further implementation of plans to complete work on the embankment and signed a statement to this effect. Brown has contracted with sedimentation consultant Robert Balter of Baltimore, who drew up the original corrective plans.

Parkdale P.T.A. Postponed

Due to scheduling difficulties, the third regular meeting of the Parkdale High School Parent-Teacher-Student Association originally scheduled for January 19, has been postponed until February 2 at 8 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room of the school.

The meeting will include a discussion of the present and future curriculum for Parkdale students. Leaders of the discussion will be the school guidance counselors, Connors, and school administrators.

... Letters to the Editor ...

For Communication

With reference to GHI's delirious dilemma, this letter is written in the interest of honest, sincere communication. The president of GHI belatedly announced in his hurriedly conceived flyer that the membership fails to "relate" to each other. Many members of the "old guard" trust that Mr. Shinderman's remark includes himself as well as the entire board, for therein lies their combined proven inability to "relate" to those who wisely vetoed their presumptuous budgets. As a business corporation the board's prime responsibility becomes one of relating to the membership rather than the other way around. Of noteworthy interest, no one will deny that the membership in astronomical numbers overwhelmingly related to the board and the manager when the blue cards became a backdrop before their eyes. In fact, Mr. Shinderman's comment is tantamount to bureaucratic buck passing. In any organization of people, the most essential component part is understandable communication, whether written or spoken. Without this all important ingredient even the most powerful groups decay. But the ability to relate to others effectually and convincingly is a God given gift, a gift not given to the multitudes.

As attested at the budget hearing, the more conservative element of the membership thinks the board is unsuited as a group to perform its function. During the battle of the bulge (excuse the pun), the presentation of budgets A and B developed many lingering and qualmish questions including the solvency of the corporation. False prophets are deceiving GHI and each day they hold office the hour of accounting is delayed. The shocking truth is whenever a proposed budget increase of 20.71% can be slashed more than 50 percent it clearly indicates a dangerous and adventurous trend.

Some of the board's failures and setbacks can be attributed to their insensitivity to the definition of the phrase "capital improvement program". . . . As used in the budget it has become a catch-all phrase which makes it difficult if not impossible to readily identify sums of money in the budget that the membership is unaware of. In any capital improvement program in the budget each project should be related to its estimated cost.

In developing a case in point, in chronological order, the News Review on November 26, 1970, published the following: "A survey of the present condition and future outlook of the frame homes has been proposed. Chairman Jim Smith, (133 Greenhill) of the maintenance committee gave its go-ahead for the survey, recommending one particular architect for the job. Director Dave Lange noted, however, that open bidding is required according to the by-laws. A motion to this effect was accordingly passed, with details of the bid to be worked out by the staff. The estimated cost of the survey, not to exceed $16,000, was included in the capital improvement program on a motion by Lange".

In view of the foregoing this letter alleges: 1. That the aforementioned $16,000 is in the approved 1971 budget. 2. That the members living in the frame homes were not given the opportunity to accept or reject the plan prior to its inclusion in the budget. 3. That whatever the plan is eventually intended to accomplish and its ultimate cost to the frame home dweller is pure speculation. . . . Follow

Time To Consider

The City Council on January 11 was very generous to postpone for a week the Second Reading of "Charter Amendment Resolution to amend Section 40-55, Bonds - Issuance." This gives the citizens extra time to think over the matter.

This is a very important amendment to our City Charter. If passed by the Council, it would apparently authorize it to vote, without a prior referendum for bonds for capital expenditure of certain kinds.

Please come to the next City Council meeting (January 18) and contribute your valuable time and wisdom to the city in this matter. Maybe you have an idea that could further improve our Great City of Greenbelt. Once again, "Thank you," City Council, for postponing the second reading of the resolution.

Charter Amendment

The city council will offer for second reading and passage at its meeting of Mon., Jan. 18, an amendment to Section 40-55 of the City Charter. This amendment, if passed, will give the city greater leeway in approving bond issues without subjecting the same to a referendum. It might be wise to attend the next city council meeting to see if these new conditions are in the interest of the people of Greenbelt.

Good Intentions?

To the Editor:

We are grateful to Mrs. Rhea Cohen for her exposure of the apparently well-laid plans of Greenbelt Mayor Francis W. White and the Greenbelt City Council to give away to the Springhill Lake Apartment Developers nearly a quarter of a million ($250,000) of our citizens' tax money, for about eight acres of flood plain land, which as Mrs. Cohen has pointed out, Mayor White knows well to be virtually worthless.

Those of us who have followed Mayor Francis W. White's incredible political career are not surprised. This is the very same man whose City Council in 1962 gratuitously (we are constrained to presume) gave high density R-18 Zoning to the developers of the 100-acre previously low density (single family) zoned Charlestowne Tract.

The fact that Mayor Francis W. White has a long and consistent history of favoritism to speculative developers' interests is further shown by comments of his fellow citizens the next year. A statement published in the Greenbelt News Review dated September 5, 1963, was signed by many civic leaders of Greenbelt, said of Mayor Francis W. White and his Council majority: "The three-man majority of Council, in pushing for development of the vacant land at breakneck speed, has given primary consideration to the developers' interests."

Another citizen in the same issue asked: "Should we be as gullible as the Mayor and his Council majority in accepting hasty, indefinite proposals by external speculative real estate interests?"

Two weeks later, Mayor Francis W. White and a fellow councilman provided interesting answers to these and other charges, including the following bit of humor: "Since our opponents made up this high-rise apartment issue and Greenbelt has swallowed it hook, line, and sinker, we only have this to say: Look around town.—If you find one shovel full of dirt that has been turned over for a high-rise apartment, vote against us."

Well, you know what comes next. If you visit the aforementioned Charlestowne Tract today, you will find, surrounded by a jumble of garden apartments, Charlestowne North, a nine-story (count them, Mr. White) high-rise apartment building.

Greenbelt's good earth has been raped. What happened to us? We were a well-planned, low-density residential community when Mayor White first assumed office in 1961.

The answer to what happened to us can be best understood with reference to the political philosophy of Mayor White and the Greenbelt City Council as published in the Prince Georges Sentinel December 17, 1970: "While certain actions of the City may be of some benefit to land developers, the reasons for these actions have been, and always will be, what is in the best interest of the City of Greenbelt." (Italics supplied)

The road to hell is paved with good intentions.

This same Mayor Francis W. White of Greenbelt is now a candidate for Prince Georges County Council. We urge our fellow citizens not to vote for this man.

You cannot afford to.

was asked to acquaint all parties with the current situation.

Police-Community Relations

A third item to which council acted negatively was a request by Bertram Donn that the council give support to county efforts to improve police-community relations — efforts which had been the result of charges of alleged police brutality, excessive use of firearms, racism, etc. Council felt that it did not have sufficient facts to take a position, but asked the city manager to advise council.

The council, however, received some praise. One Springhill Lake resident got up to express appreciation for the council's efforts in paving Gentry Drive, in securing a traffic light at Gentry Drive and Greenbelt Rd. and in supporting a SHL Recreation Center. City manager Giese was also praised for the city's annual report, which is being distributed to each household.

SHL Recreation Center

Giese expressed doubt that joint use of the school board property where the Springhill Lake elementary school is located for a recreation center is feasible. The city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board had asked the city to look into this possibility, with the idea that there would be advantages to having adjacent and adjoining recreational facilities.

Giese said that it would be difficult to undertake such a program without spoiling the design of the school building and eliminating some necessary part of the school facility. "In front of the school there is a parking lot for parents and teachers," he noted. "On the east side of the school, the building is relatively close to the property line and there is a service driveway for deliveries to various sections of the building. To the rear is the school playground, which extends between the building and the property line. On the west side is the school athletic field, which is minimal in size for ball fields."

Since there are few other locations available in SHL for the Recreation Center, the council decided to explore the question further with the school board.

New Ordinances

The council gave final approval to two ordinances. One was a change in the holiday schedule for city employees to coincide with the new Federal holiday schedule. The latter calls for changing the dates of Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, and Veteran's Day in order to provide for 3-day holiday weekends and adding a ninth holiday in recognition of Columbus Day.

The other ordinance involved acceptance of portions of Gentry Drive into the city roadway system. This matter had been pending since 1968, as council had not been agreeable to accepting any portion of Gentry Drive until it was completed into Springhill Lake. This has now been done.

Final action was also taken on a charter amendment which would pledge the full faith and credit of the city for the full payment of tax anticipation notes. Previously, such notes were required to be a first lien upon the taxes to be collected, but this was no longer possible inasmuch as all previous bond issues are also a lien upon these taxes. The amendment would also allow tax notes to mature up to 18 months after issuance instead of at the time that pledged taxes or revenues become delinquent.

Other Action

Council appointed James P. Shaughnessy, 129 Hedgewood Drive, to fill an unexpired term (until May 1971) on PRAB. Resigning from the Board was Commander Mark Hanlon, who is being transferred from the Washington area.

The council accepted the recommendation of APB that builders be required to obtain a city permit (in addition to a county permit) in order that the city might keep better tabs on what building construction is taking place. The city manager was directed to prepare an ordinance, keeping in mind certain objections from the floor that the individual homeowner not be

The Police Blotter

An automobile accident occurring on the afternoon of December 11 resulted in the death of one elderly female passenger 17 days after the accident occurred. One vehicle was traveling west onto Greenbelt Rd. from Southway. The second vehicle was turning left from Greenbelt Rd. onto Southway. The two cars collided, the second car then striking a third car which had been stopped for traffic. The woman who subsequently died was riding in the second car. No charges have been made.

Chief Lane reports three important arrests during the last several weeks. Cpl. Salvatore stopped a suspicious car in the vicinity of 10 court Southway. Inside the car he found tools and tape players, some of which had been reported as stolen from cars on Hillside Rd. Three boys, from College Park and Berwyn Heights, were arrested. Some of the tape players have been returned to their owners; others are being held pending identification.

In the second case, Officer Janney, while on regular early morning patrol in Springhill Lake, noted a suspicious parked car. The car drove off as the officer approached. When Janney stopped the car, he found tape players, two seats from a Volkswagen, tools and parts, and narcotics. Two persons were arrested and charged with tampering with a motor vehicle, possessing narcotics, carrying concealed weapons, and possessing stolen articles.

Thefts from autos are still a major crime in Greenbelt, Chief Lane notes.

During the first week in January, Officer Combs also stopped a suspicious car on Lakecrest Dr. The car turned out to have been stolen from Fairfax, Va., while the license plates were stolen from Takoma Park. The car was one of several 1966 Pontiacs which had been stolen in the area recently. One Pontiac stolen in Greenbelt was recovered in Laurel; another stolen in Laurel was recovered in Greenbelt; a third was stolen in Baltimore. The arrested youth is from Berwyn Heights.

NARFE MEETING

The National Association of Retired Federal Employees (NARFE) will hold its January meeting in one of the meeting rooms of the Greenbelt Library, 11 Crescent Rd., on Monday, January 18, at 1 p.m. unduly burdened.

In an attempt to correct a deteriorating sidewalk situation along Crescent Rd., the council has asked for recommendations from the city engineers. The problem, Giese said, is that the existing sidewalk is below the grade of Crescent Rd. and that a permanent sidewalk should be tied in with the construction of a permanent street.

The council voted to set up a 4-way stop at Ridge Rd. and Research Rd. It also directed the city manager to take steps to discourage vandalism around the Ridge Road Center. The city manager was also directed to look into drainage problems between Greenhill Road and Fayette.

Dependency Deduction

There are five tests to be met before you can take a dependency deduction.

1. Support Test. You must furnish over 50% of all support given the individual from all sources including the dependent himself. There are two exceptions to this rule. First exception: If more than two people support an individual but no one person furnishes over 50% of the support, any one of the individuals who contribute more than 10% of the support for the mutual dependent may claim the dependency deduction. Only one of those furnishing support may claim the deduction. Each of the others must file a form 2120 which is a written statement stating that he will not claim the dependent for that year. Second exception: A divorced person may claim his or her child if the divorce states he or she is to get the deduction.

2. Gross income test (not used for a full-time student or child under age 19). You may not claim a person who had gross income of $600 or more. Tax-exempt income is not included in the $600 income test. NOTE: If you supported your son who was a full-time student and who earned $2000 at a summer job, you may claim him as a dependent and he may claim his personal exemption.

3. Member of household or relationship test. If a person is a member of your household and lives with you for the entire year. He need not be related to you for you to claim him as a dependent (temporary absences are excluded from this rule). A dependent related to you need not live with you or be a member of your household if the relationship is any of the following: your child, grandchild, etc., stepchild, brother, sister, half-brother, half-sister, stepbrother, stepsister, parent, grandparent, other direct ancestor, stepparent, brother or sister of a parent, child of a brother or sister, or an in-law - father, mother, sister, brother, son, or daughter.

4. Citizenship test. Dependent must be a U. S. citizen or resident, or resident of Canada, Mexico, the Republic of Panama or the Panama Canal Zone for part of the year you claim the deduction.

5. Joint return test. You are not allowed a deduction if your dependent files a joint return.

City Notes

Workmen were beginning to put a roof on the new addition to the Youth Center, even as the question as to whether or not new concrete flooring would be required for the second story was still unresolved. Engineer consultants for the city, Greenhorne and O'Mara, have recommended that the first pouring, which was made without the specified steel mesh reinforcement, be torn out and a new floor laid with such reinforcement. The question will not be finally resolved, however, until reports from engineering consultants hired by the contractor have been received and studied by Greenhorne and O'Mara.

In the meantime, workers from the Washington Gas Light Company have made cuts in the pavements beside the Municipal Building, at the intersection of the driveway from the parking lot and Crescent Rd. These cuts indicate the location for a gas line, which will be brought to the Youth Center as a source of heat for the new addition. On Tuesday, telephone service to the city offices was temporarily disrupted during this operation.

As the year's ice skating season got underway at Greenbelt Lake, the Recreation Dept. has scheduled a man on duty to supervise the activity and to maintain rescue equipment at the shoreline on a standby basis. Wood for a fire to warm the skaters has been furnished by the Parks crew. The Parks crew has also undertaken to provide feed for the ducks, but this responsibility has been lightened by supplementary attention and concern offered by many residents along Lakeside Drive.

Although the second heralded snowstorm of recent weeks did not materialize, the Public Works Dept. was ready to go into action. On Saturday, January 9, following a light powdering of new snow, two men salted the streets in the early hours of the morning. During regular hours the crew has repaired pot holes in city streets, removed Christmas decorations, and performed touch-up work in snow removal.

Repairs have been completed on the standby refuse truck.

The city mechanic replaced an engine in a small dump truck.

The Parks crew planted more than 60 replacement trees in Springhill Lake, all oaks and maples purchased from the State nursery.

Parking Policy For the Disabled

The Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments recently adopted as a policy position that special parking privileges should be granted to disabled persons. The Board of Directors of the Council of Governments urged all local governing body members of that Council to consider the enactment of legislation to provide parking privileges for disabled persons as a means of increasing opportunities for the handicapped. The city manager's office is presently considering this matter with the purpose of making a staff recommendation to the City Council on possible legislation.

In Greenbelt there are relatively few parking restrictions. Therefore, the City staff is uncertain as to the special parking needs of disabled persons, although it is very sympathetic to providing special assistance where needed. To assist in this matter City Manager James Giese is asking persons who might have an interest to give the City staff their thoughts as to what the City might do. This can be done by either writing a letter to the City Manager's office, 25 Crescent Road, or calling the City Manager's office at 474-8003.

It should be noted that the City can only grant special parking privileges on public streets and in public parking lots, which are primarily the parking lots around the Greenbelt commercial center. The parking lots serving GHI homes and the private apartment developments and other shopping centers are all privately owned and cannot be subjected to City regulations with the exception of fire lane restrictions.

Local Carrier Finds Money in Mailbox

One day during the recent Christmas rush at the local post office, carrier Ronnie Marks opened a collection box in front of Klein's department store and discovered one hundred dollars in loose bills with the mail.

Carrier Marks immediately reported his find to his supervisor and also to the postmaster. Soon after, the money was claimed by a very grateful and appreciative lady who rewarded Mr. Marks.

A commendatory letter is now being prepared by regional post office officials recognizing carrier Mark's honesty and integrity.

Lion Belles Activities

The Greenbelt Lion Belles have had an active and varied fall season, which opened with a potluck dinner at the home of Pat Hard. Two members were taken into the Club by transfer, Pat Bodine and Juanita Coffey. Members saw a demonstration of the Stretch-and-Sew technique and a display of the types of clothing which may be made from knit materials.

October saw a gala Halloween costume party at the home of Lion and Mrs. William Brookshire where the order of the evening was BY-OL (translation: Bring Your Own Lion).

Early in November a fund-raising Bee-Line Fashion Show, was a successful pre-Christmas event. Later in the month a dinner and business meeting was held at the Pigeon House.

The annual Christmas party, at which husbands were guests was at the Burn Brae dinner theater and included a performance of "I Do, I Do!"

A STATEMENT OF POLICY

My highest priority will be the development of an adequate sewerage system for the county. This is VITAL for future growth and the health of the citizens.

A complete review and evaluation of all tax assessments to assure fair and equitable assessment on all properties in the county. I will seek establishment of a Board of Review available to any taxpayer.

Reduction in the cost of government; rooting out waste; improve standards of efficiency of all county offices.

The tax burden is too great to tolerate "dead-beats." Welfare should be only for those physically or mentally unable to become wage-earners.

Support and assistance to build the finest educational system possible. I am a firm believer in vocational and distributive education.

When elected, my first request will be for a stronger law providing stiffer penalties for convicted drug pushers. As a former law officer, I know that drugs lead to crime.

I pledge assistance in the development of the public safety departments of fire and police to keep step with county development. The police and fire departments will never lack the support and cooperation of my office of County Executive.

I will devote my best efforts to finding "the right man for the right job" in county government, then make certain that he does his job effectively, economically and efficiently!

What kind of investment is Freedom Shares?

Shrewd? Safe? Patriotic? Exclusive?

You're right if you checked all four boxes.

Freedom Shares are a shrewd investment because they pay 4.74% when held to maturity. They mature in just four-and-a-half years, and are redeemable after one year.

There is no safer investment because Freedom Shares are backed by The United States of America.

Exclusive? Absolutely. Not everyone can buy new Freedom Shares.

You have to belong to the Bond-a-Month or Payroll Savings Plan. Freedom Shares are a bonus opportunity for these regular Bond buyers.

And, as you help yourself by buying Freedom Shares, you're also helping your country. Sign up for Freedom. Get all the facts from the payroll people where you work or any officer where you bank.

Student to Research City's Fringe Benefits

Under a special work-study program, in part paid for by a grant from the federal government, an undergraduate student from Bucknell University in Lewisburg, Pa., will spend one month in Greenbelt, assisting with special tasks in the office of the city manager. The student, William Eldred, of Lombard, Illinois, will work here during the break between semesters at his school. He is particularly interested in public administration.

The major study which Eldred will carry out is to compare Greenbelt with nearby businesses and other governmental jurisdictions, including agencies of the U.S., state, and county governments as well as other municipal governments, as to the quality and number of fringe benefits which they grant to their respective employees. As time allows, Eldred will also make other studies for the city manager.

The possibility of acquiring such research assistance at a minimal cost to the city was first broached at the annual convention of the City Management Association, which City Manager James K. Giese attended. His first investigations were directed toward finding such assistance at the nearby University of Maryland. All of that school's work-study assignments, however, had already been made at locations within the District of Columbia.

During the period of Eldred's assignment in Greenbelt, he will live with friends in College Park.
