City Gears Up for Election Of Council, Tuesday, Sept. 21

More than 2,000 Greenbelters are expected to trek to the polls next Tuesday, September 21, to cast their votes for the five city council members who will head the municipal government for the next two years. The three polling places at Springhill Lake community center, North End elementary school, and the Municipal Building will be open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Whoever wins, the new council will be dominated by new faces. Only two incumbents — Mayor Richard Pilski and Elizabeth Maffay—are seeking reelection. Other candidates are Gil Weidenfeld, Eileen Turner, Charles Schwan, John Reynolds, Charles Collins and Rhea Cohen. Biographies of the candidates appear on page 4.

Election Procedures

All council members are elected at large. In order for a candidate to be elected, he must receive 40 percent or more of the votes cast. If fewer than five candidates receive such a vote, a run-off election will be held one week later on Tuesday, September 28.

In the run-off election, the ballot will consist of those unsuccessful candidates receiving the highest number of votes, up to twice as many names as there are positions to be filled. Candidates polling the greatest number of votes are declared winners in the run-off election, regardless of the percentage of votes received.

The 40-percent requirement for election was introduced in 1967. Prior to that a majority vote was required, usually resulting in run-off elections. Since 1967, no run-offs have taken place.

Each voter is entitled to vote for five candidates. Voting for fewer than five candidates increases the possibility of a run-off election.

Registration Count

The number of Greenbelters registered to vote is 3,433. In 1969 the number was 2,991, of whom 2,267

Festival Contest Winners

By Michael Burchick

Children of all ages, their parents and friends, gathered on the grassy area below the Mall on Labor Day for the special contests held by the Festival.

The tiny ones in the Diaper Derby were the hit of the program and prizes went to Nickelena Fendley of Greenbelt, Frank Ginter of Fort Meade and Anthony Guarini of Greenbelt.

In the balloon burst for preschoolers the winners were Mark Kitchen, Paul Jankowski and Michelle Kennedy all of Greenbelt.

In the bubble gum contest, for 6 to 8 year olds, the winners were Laura Shaw of Annapolis, Dawn Zelenski of Bladensburg and Susan White of Greenbelt.

In the sack balloon race, ages 13 to 15, the winners were Newt Merricks of Greenbelt, Frank Conny of Berwyn Heights and Gary Welte of Laurel.

Engaged and married couples then took their turn in the three-legged race; the winners were Greg and Megan D'Esposito, Howard and Lydia Fleischer and Robert and Cathy Schumaker, all of Greenbelt.

The winners in the frisbee toss, for ages 11 and 12, were Paul Birner and Doug Crossman, both of Greenbelt; the third prize was taken by Leonard Matthews of Hyattsville.

Prizes for the hands-behind-the-back pie eating contest, for older teen-agers, were won by Scott Powell, Ronald King and Rickey Newkirk, all of Greenbelt.

Winners of the watermelon eating contest were Pat Leech of Greenbelt, Karen Blum of Hyattsville and Danny Walker of Glen Burnie.

GHI Charges Said to Be Exempt From "Freeze"

The Cost of Living Council last week released a ruling on the effects of the wage-price freeze on cooperative apartments. The Council ruled that owners of cooperative apartments are to be treated like homeowners. Accordingly, the monthly charges they pay for general maintenance and other costs are not rent and, therefore, are not covered by the freeze.

If, the Council said, the owners wish to increase the quantity of services they receive (e.g. added trash collection day) they may pay increased charges reflecting the cost of the added services.

However, the Council said, the cooperative is subject to the freeze relating to wages or fees paid for managing the cooperative.

Roy Breashears, manager of the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. housing cooperative, told the News Review that he interprets the ruling as applying to GHI.

Beltway Cliff Plans Approved; Brown Seeks Easement on Top

by Elaine Skolnik

After months of inactivity, the Beltway Plaza cliff erosion problem came to the forefront last week with news that the County Office of Building Inspections and Permits (BIP) has finally agreed to the proposed engineering plans worked out by the developer, Sidney Brown of First National Realty. At the same time, Prince Georges Board of Education officials reported that Brown has requested approval of proposed plans for an easement to be located at the top of the slope.

A 6-month impasse had developed when BIP did not join the State Department of Water Resources (SDWR) in approving the plans which had been drawn up last winter by Robert Balter, soil consultant for First National Realty. Last November, SDWR, armed with new powers under the State Pollution Abatement law, had secured an agreement with Brown to complete corrective embankment work next to Klein's. In January Balter submitted plans which were generally approved by SDWR.

BIP, however, had reservations about these plans because they represented a modification of the original plans that had been used several years ago to correct that part of the slope extending from the school board's maintenance building to Greenbelt Road.

The original plan provided for stabilization of the soil by replacing some of the unstable clay with a granular type material having sufficient weight so that it would hold like a wall. The new plan, according to Tom Rennie, BIP Grading Control Engineer, no longer showed this means of control. Instead, there was a provision to control the soil by intercepting the water through a paving ditch on top and a flattening or benching of the slope.

Opposition Withdrawn

BIP withdrew its opposition after a recent clarification by Balter, who said that plans applicable five or six years ago were not realistic today because conditions have changed on the eroded slope, such as the moving and shifting of the soil. "You can't do now what you would do then," he said.

BIP, however, has indicated that certain technicalities would have to be adhered to by the engineers before a grading permit is granted, including a certification from Brown's engineers that the plan conforms to the grading ordinance and an estimate of the amount of square footage involved for determination of the cost of the permit.

SDWR, while approving the Balter plan, noted that if serious internal seepage conditions occur during the construction of the new slope, they will request on-the-spot adjustment of the plans.

School Board Easement

According to the engineering plans, an easement is needed at the top of the slope where the bus lot is located so as to permit construction of a ditch to insure proper drainage and a proper slope. The school board's attorney is now reviewing the plans from the standpoint of legality.

The easement will presumably run north of the school's maintenance building and therefore will not endanger the building. "No work is to be done in the area of the building - that was completed years ago," said Brown.

Brown stated that the technicalities required by BIP were being taken care of and that he had hopes of commencing work soon. He noted that his plans also included "dressing up the slope with attractive greenery."

Another element that may enter the picture is the proposed addition to the bus lot. Bid solicitations for additional concrete surfaces are now being advertised.

COUNCIL CANDIDATES AIR VIEWS AT FORUM ON ELECTION ISSUES

by Al and Elaine Skolnik

About 70 Greenbelt voters took advantage of the jointly-sponsored Greenbelt Jaycees-Memorial Library forum on Wednesday, September 8 to get a first-hand look at the eight city council candidates in action. For two hours the aspirants fielded questions dealing with a wide variety of subjects, few of which were controversial.

The meeting was chaired by Stuart Filler and John Lally of the Jaycees, who had the candidates introduce themselves in short 3-5 minute speeches. Then the audience was asked to direct questions to the candidates, under a procedure which assured that each candidate received an equal number of questions.

The topics stirring up the most attention were location of ball fields and a recreation center for Springhill Lake, use of school facilities for city recreation purposes, indoor swimming pool, Beltway Plaza cliff erosion, environmental problems, enforcement of anti-pollution measures, and need for open-space.

SHL Recreation Center

Candidate Rhea Cohen expressed concern over city plans to build a recreation center on the SHL golf course (corner Cherrywood Lane and Springhill Lane) because this would leave only flood plain land for the ball fields. In her view, ball fields do not belong on flood plains.

Incumbent Elizabeth Maffay and candidate Gil Weidenfeld disagreed, stating that ball fields on flood plains were not unusual. As an example, Maffay noted that Braden Field, one of the most-used fields in the county, is in a flood plain. Candidate Charles Collins, chairman of the City's Advisory Board, also stated that flood plains can be used, provided there is adequate water control.

Weidenfeld, the lone candidate from Springhill Lake, declared that the preference of SHL recreation leaders is for a total recreation area — ball fields adjoining recreation center — and that they therefore favored the golf course site, which, he said, could be acquired for the low cost of about $25,000 (after deducting open-space Federal and State grants). Weidenfeld stated that the county's Soil Conservation District told him that they saw no reason why the golf course could not be used for ball fields.

What had sparked the exchange was a question as to why Mrs. Cohen favored an alternate site for the recreation center that would entail the cutting down of trees. Mrs. Cohen at an earlier date had suggested a wooded site next to the SHL elementary school.

Use of School Facilities

Collins took the opportunity to reaffirm his feeling that the city recreation program was not making maximum use of county school facilities. "It hurts me to see the schools go unused after 3 p.m. and in the summertime." He also wanted the city to make full use of the county recreation program which city taxpayers help pay for.

In rebuttal, Mayor Richard Pilski listed the various recreation programs that are now using school facilities in SHL, Center School, and Greenbelt Junior High School, though he acknowledged that the schools are not available in the summer. Mrs. Maffay said that the city has constantly been pressuring for such things as lighted ball fields, citing also the city interest in having an indoor swimming pool built in the new F.D.R. senior high school.

Indoor Swimming Pool

Several of the candidates were asked their views on a city-sponsored pool. Candidate John F. Reynolds, Jr., feared that only a small minority favored the indoor facility and wanted a referendum to make sure that the majority would not be saddled with the costs. Collins was concerned that the integrity of the summer outdoor pool would be threatened by the inability of the indoor pool to be self-sufficient. He did not want to see "the outdoor swimming pool users paying for the pool in the winter time."

Candidate Charles Schwan, chairman of the city-appointed Indoor Swimming Pool Committee, said that the committee was in the process of gathering facts for the council as to whether the pool would be a self-supporting operation. Until the facts are on hand, he said, he thought any comments would be premature. Candidate Eileen Turner agreed with Schwan's approach.

Beltway Plaza Cliff

As might be expected, all candidates voiced their concern over environmental and pollution matters. The erosion of the Beltway Plaza cliff was frequently mentioned as one area where nobody was doing anything. Mrs. Turner termed the development of Beltway Plaza as a betrayal "of the Greenbelt dream." Mrs. Cohen said that, if elected, she will urge legal action by the city, either singly or jointly with the county, to secure proper correction of the slope, using the grading ordinance.

Mrs. Cohen also urged a public education program on water pollutants, noting that everything that is dumped in the gutters ends up in Greenbelt Lake. She also urged enforcement of recently adopted anti-littering and related ordinances.

In this connection, Reynolds, in response to a question on why the ordinance was not enforced during the Labor Day Festival, said that he favored only reasonable enforcement. He facetiously said that if the anti-littering ordinance had been enforced during the Festival, some 4,000 of the 5,000 persons attending might have ended up in Hyattsville (before the judge).

Incumbents Pilski and Maffay pointed to their record of having enacted several anti-pollution measures and a paper and glass recycling program during the past two years. Pilski said that the city was now exploring a program of recycling tin cans. Mrs. Cohen urged that the waste collection program be revamped so as to have special pick-ups for recycling waste.

Open-Space

The need for open-space and additional recreational land was also stressed. Mrs. Cohen emphasized that letting parcels 1 and 2 — the property in the northeast part of town near the Baltimore-Washington Parkway — be developed with its loss of tree protection will "give us the full benefit of the Parkway," meaning noise and gasoline fumes.

Schwan said that a city-appointed commission should immediately look into the possibility of acquiring some or all of parcels 1 and 2. If the latter is done, he added, then the need for a perimeter road would practically evaporate.

Pilski and Mrs. Maffay pointed to their record of land purchased for parkland during the past two years.

Inevitably, there was one question on the police department. Why does Greenbelt need a separate police department when there are county and State police departments nearby? Reynolds replied that the Greenbelt police department can provide immediate service, whereas the county police department, which has a shortage of officers, takes hours to respond. Moreover, he didn't see any tax savings for the city taxpayer because greatly increased manpower would have to be employed in the county to adequately serve the area, the cost of which would be borne by the taxpayer. Finally, he believed that the Greenbelt police were doing "more than an adequate job."

Objects To Zoning Bill

To the Editor:

The County Executive has asked me to withdraw my objections to Bill No. 53 which eliminates the R-18 and R-30 zoning categories and to re-introduce the Bill to the County Council. The Executive has stressed the fact that the County has been overburdened with R-18 and R-30 garden style structures. I, too, agree that there is an excess of this type of development.

I have respectfully considered this request but I find that my objections to this proposed Bill still persist. First, I would point out that tying the hands of the County Council which has the responsibility for planning and zoning is NOT a solution to this problem. The County Council sitting as the Zoning Authority presently can halt any further R-18 or R-30 zoning where it conflicts with need and good planning. Indeed, the Council has repeatedly stated that as our policy. However, we would be hard put to turn down zoning for elderly housing or similar needs, if properly located.

Further, the District Council can solve this problem by adjusting these present areas of overzoning to other categories. The Francois Resolution presently before the Council is giving direction to this effort. The Executive states that "this Bill would not affect any property which has already been rezoned to the R-18 and R-30 zones." Granted, this is so . . . Then of what value is the Executive's proposal?

The County Executive's proposal also raises a dangerous specter as to adopted master plans, where they indicate R-18 and R-30 as possible land uses. Releasing the presently assigned uses shown on adopted Master Plans would open the door to new, higher density applications by land owners, a fact the Executive has made no provisions for in his proposal.

Adult Study Group

At Lutheran Church

Holy Cross Lutheran Church is offering two courses of study for adults this fall in addition to the regular Sunday morning program.

A course in Christian doctrine will be offered on Sunday evenings, 8 to 9:30 p.m., beginning September 13. Ten meetings are planned. Topics to be discussed are: The Bible—the Word of God; God—the Creator; Sin—the Fall of Man and its Consequences; A Survey of the Life and Redeeming Work of Jesus Christ, and other topics.

A course on First Corinthians will be offered on Wednesdays from 9 to 10 a.m. and also on Wednesday evenings, 8 to 9 p.m. These groups meet the first time on Wednesday, September 22, and will continue meeting throughout the church year.

All study groups will be led by Rev. Edward H. Birner, pastor of Holy Cross, and will meet at the church, 6905 Greenbelt Road.

The Sunday morning class for adults meets from 9:50 to 10:50 a.m. and is studying the First Epistle of St. Peter.

Scenario Unfolds

To the Editor:

Your article on the Greenbriar sewage hook-up transfer seems to substantiate the concern I expressed in my letter of Aug. 26.

As the scenario unfolds, it appears as if the city council did not have all the facts when it gave approval to the special exception request of the developer of Greenbriar.

The lack of public facilities has always been the major reason why this development should have been disapproved by the District Council. The technical staff of MNCPPC stated this in their report of July 2 which recommended disapproval.

At every hearing on this matter interested citizens were unable to obtain information on sewer and water planned for this site.

The overall cost to county taxpayers for the sewer facilities was never taken into account, let alone any rational discussion and consideration of the priority needs of the county in relation to existing facilities and the current moratorium we are under.

The city should immediately initiate action to rescind the agreement they entered into with the developer, the reason being that information they required was not made available to them. Likewise, the city should urge the District Council to reverse their decision of August 10 and deny approval of the Special Exception. (A decision, by the way, which has not been officially handed down as yet.)

One additional note: The financial difficulties of a risk type development are no concern of mine, nor should elected officials or county taxpayers be affected by such arguments which use as their premise—"the fiscal solvency of this project is at stake." That's the way it is in a free enterprise system.

Unfair Coverage?

To the Editor:

In my opinion, the News Review owes seven of the eight City Council Candidates an apology. In the September 9, 1971 issue the News Review queried each candidate on the major issues facing the City in the coming two years. The News Review stated "The replies of the candidates appear below in alphabetical order." This quote appeared on the front page of the paper and just below it, appeared the response of just one candidate.

While one candidate got front page coverage, the remaining seven were buried on page four. It is distressing to see unfair advantage given, and one wonders why all of the candidates responses could not be placed on page four.

An Open Letter To GHI

To the Editor:

Even though I feel very much like Senator McVeagh in "Night at Camp David" or Edward G. Robinson in "Cry Wolf" and that my efforts will be useless and wasted, I must make a point for the record. I believe an outside $15,000 - $30,000 Engineering and Architectural Survey of any of the homes in GHI will be money wasted (as will any planned new sidings, etc.) for the following reasons:

1. GHI has a Director of Engineering, an Assistant Director of Engineering and an Inspector. Their combined 1970 wages were over $38,000 per year. There is also a foreman of structures and 11 positions to help him, total wages at 1970 level about $107,000. Grand Total in 1970 $145,000, approximately!

2. Therefore GHI must or should know the condition of all the houses. There are no hidden defects.

a. The painting problems, inside and out are due to standing water in the crawl spaces caused by broken or clogged drains and negligence over a long period.

b. There is a resulting foundation erosion due to this water.

c. Some houses need flooring because of this standing water.

d. The mold and its odor and the sick sweetish odor of corruption can never be eliminated in a house until the source is cleaned up

e. New siding, new paint, etc., will not stand up under these present conditions.

The Prince Georges Department of Licensing and Permits will be making an examination shortly. Let's see what they have to say. I for one, have too much invested to have my home neglected and permit it to be washed away from under me.

As for my health, I do not wish it to deteriorate any further. I have the Public Health Department report should any member wish to see it.

If GHI sets out to pump and clean up before PG County inspects, perhaps I will have made my point.

Conclusion - We have a serious health and pollution problem under a good many (perhaps all) of our homes. If the crawl spaces were properly maintained, even now, there would easily be another 25-40 years of life in these homes - a small effort for rejuvenation.

All of the foregoing is another indication of the definite need for a comprehensive management audit at an estimated $12,000-$15,000 not an architectural survey.

I am sincere in my efforts to preserve not only my home, but all homes; my health and the health of all.

Shell, City Champs

Greenbelt Shell finally became City Champions last night after winning softball crowns in the Regional, Metropolitan, and County Tournaments. Shell won the title Monday night before a small crowd and beat Sheet Metal Local No. 102 in two straight games. Sheet Metal was trounced in the first game, 29-13. In the second game, Sheet Metal played hard and forced Shell to come from behind and tie the game in the bottom of the sixth inning. A home run, hit by A. J. Nuzzo, earned Shell the 1971 City crown with the score 8-7. Mayor Richard R. Pilski, Sr. awarded the handsome City trophy to Shell sponsor, Jim Parsley, as well as individual trophies.

Personal Political Statement

by John P. Bogumill 9 Olivewood Court

I urge every Greenbelt voter to examine the candidates for City Council, to make an intelligent choice and to vigorously support your candidates. I have personally known and dealt with most of the candidates for some time and, after long thought, I have chosen four to whom I pledge my support.

CHARLIE COLLINS and I have been co-members of the Greenbelt Advisory Planning Board for about two years now. In that time I've become convinced that Charley is blessed with more than a normal portion of intelligence and wit. I have repeatedly seen him apply his mind to very complex problems and come up with some keen insights and solutions. Council needs Collins.

RHEA COHEN is a digger-upper and a finder-outer beyond comparison. She will tirelessly ferret out all the facts on an issue once she's gotten her teeth into it. Our City Government badly needs this kind of energy and I really do not see any other candidate who is likely to supply it in the quantities that Rhea can.

DICK PILSKI is Pilski (and that says a lot). At one time I had the experience of a short but fairly close association with some people who consider themselves Dick's worst enemies. I noticed at that time that even these people would say of Dick that he works hard at his job on Council and that you always know where you stand with him. Fellow voters, once you've said that much about a man in public office, what more is required?

CHARLES SCHWAN has always impressed me as being a very capable organizer and administrator. I am not in GHI, but I believe that anyone who served for 6½ years in the difficult job of president of that organization and did such an apparently good job of it must have a lot on the ball.

County Backs City Land Aquisition Plan

Adhering to the desire of the Greenbelt city council to acquire a 13.9 triangular piece of soon-to-be-declared surplus Federal land between parcels 1 and 2 and the Baltimore-Washington Parkway, the Prince Georges county council on Tuesday, September 9, modified its own proposal for purchasing the land.

Upon an amendment sponsored by county councilmen Francis White and Francis Francois, the county council urged the county executive to render any help he could give the city in acquiring the property. The motion went on to note that in the event the city doesn't buy it, the county will.

"In the interests of county-municipal cooperation and since the City of Greenbelt has an immediate and pressing need for the property, the city should be given first consideration in the acquisition," the motion stated.

The city council had gone on record on May 17 in favor of acquiring the land. The city is contemplating using part of the land for a sanitary landfill.

CHARLES F. SCHWAN

LONG-TIME FIGHTER FOR GREENBELT GOALS

As president and board member of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. and steering committee member of Citizens for a Planned Greenbelt,

Schwan was in the forefront of the battle to

- . . . Secure a master plan for the Greenbelt area which would keep population densities to a low level. (Remember the fight to have the Charlestowne Village developer honor his covenants and to reserve parcel 15 near the Lake-side subdivision for single-family development.)
- . . . Preserve the original planned traffic-free residential concept of Greenbelt. (Remember the red flags and the fight against designation of Ridge and Crescent Roads as 4-lane divided highways.)
- . . . Purchase additional parkland in parcel 15, around the lake, and at the entrance to the city near Boxwood Village.
- . . . Remove the senior high school from landlocked parcel 2 through a program of petitions, hearings, and a GHI suit (carried to the Maryland Court of Appeals) which gained 5 years of valuable time.

Schwan will continue to be vigilant in protecting Greenbelt's way of life:

1. Will oppose land development contrary to the Master Plan and will encourage county efforts to downgrade property already zoned for apartments and commercial use.
2. Will seek measures to improve the quality of our environment by bringing to bear his experience as a private environmental consultant.
3. Will carry on the city's program of open-space acquisition of park land, especially in the undeveloped areas such as parcels 1 and 2.
4. Will support city programs that meet the recreational needs of all areas.

A radiance of beauty shone from her face, as Beverly Goulart was crowned "Miss Greenbelt of 1971". The annual Queen's Pageant, which has proven to be the highlight of the Labor Day Festival, brought an estimated audience of between 8,000 and 10,000.

Frame Home Owners Debate GHI Structural Survey

by Al Skolnik

Greenbelt Homes, Inc. hopes that a large turnout at last Thursday's open membership hearing on the proposed structural survey would give some guidance on whether to proceed with the survey were not realized. Although a slight majority of frame owners, in a straw vote, approved the survey, the number voting — less than 20 — could hardly be termed a representative sample.

Nevertheless, observers felt that the hearing was useful in airing the pros and cons of the survey. The purpose of the survey is to get a comprehensive picture of the existing heating, electrical, plumbing, and structural conditions of the 1,000 frame home units. The corporation is now engaged in a million-dollar capital improvements program and would like to get advice from a competent professional architectural and engineering firm as to how this money can best be spent to lengthen the life of the homes.

To Cost $30,000

GHI president Nat Shinderman said that the survey would cost about $30,000, according to the proposals received to date. This sum would be paid out of the capital improvements budget and spread over a 10-year period so that the cost to each frame homeowner would be $4-$5 a year. The survey is expected to take about six months, as each home will be examined.

The opposition to the survey seemed to center on two things. One was the cost; the other was a feeling that the survey was not needed. Milton Hoffman said that "we know all the answers already" and George Adams added that as "homeowners, we know the condition of our homes." Both stated that GHI director of engineering David Kane and GHI manager Roy Breashears have been over the homes a thousand times. Moreover, Adams stated, the homes are examined and inspected when they are sold—about one-fifth each year.

Others in defense of the survey said that not only are there hidden conditions that cannot be ascertained except by professional engineers, but that what is also needed is familiarity with current techniques and new material and equipment, especially in the fields of heating, insulation, and sidings. "We need recommendations as to their applicability to a project like GHI," Shinderman said.

Opposition

Eunice Coxon stated that in her mind the suggestion of a survey is indicative of the mismanagement and neglect that has prevailed in the past. Shinderman replied that the purpose of the survey is preventive in nature, to make sound plans for maintaining and improving the quality of the homes.

Other critics felt that management could undertake the detailed survey. In reply, Shinderman pointed to the backlog of maintenance calls that are severely taxing the staff's time, commenting facetiously that "if management could take six months off to do the job, it must be badly overstuffed."

There appeared to be differences of opinion among those objecting to the survey as to what the GHI frame homes needed to lengthen their lives. Adams stated his view that the answer was converting the steam heat system to electrical heating. Mildred Murrow, in a letter read at the hearing, stated that much of the trouble was due to standing water in the crawl spaces citing her own experience. She was backed by Cathy Foster.

"If the crawl spaces were properly maintained," Mrs. Murrow wrote, "there would be easily another 25-40 years of life in these homes." She cited this as an indications of a need for a management audit and not a structural survey.

GHI board member David Lange said that he would draw an opposite conclusion. "Finding standing water under one frame building," he said, "would indicate to me a need to have a structural survey of all the buildings to determine how prevalent the condition is, and what should be done about it."

These different opinions on what the GHI homes needed prompted James W. Smith, chairman of the GHI Maintenance Committee, which recommended the survey, to emphasize the importance of getting independent professional advice as to the next steps to take in the capital improvement program.

One person asked whether some government financing could be obtained to help pay for the survey. Breashears indicated that some redevelopment funds might be available, if the corporation wanted to subject itself to all the Federal Housing Administration regulations.

Glass Crusher In Operation

The City of Greenbelt inaugurated its new glass crusher at the Labor Day Festival. During the three days the crusher was in operation almost three-quarters of a ton of glass was processed and is ready to be sent to the reclamation plant in Baltimore.

At the present time the City is not planning on having scrap glass pick-ups, as it does with scrap paper, because of the dangers of storing large quantities of glass along City roadsides; however, arrangements have been made to have a glass deposit area at the City Warehouse located at the corner of Crescent Road and Kenilworth Avenue. Glass may be left at the warehouse from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Please follow these simple instructions in turning in your scrap glass.

1. Sort it by color—clear, green and brown. There will be a separate barrel for each color;
2. Remove any metal rings or caps from the bottles as these cannot be recycled with the glass. Don't worry about labels since they will burn off in the glass furnaces.

Now that it's impractical to talk about electric heating, it's practical.

Don't let the nice weather you're enjoying now dull your memories of last winter.

Because the room you couldn't heat last winter will turn on you again the first chilly day this fall. And the furnace that made it through March on a wing and a prayer won't get any better this fall.

Now that nobody's pushing you to get your home in shape for winter, you have plenty of time to investigate all the advantages of all types of modern electric heat. Like the uncommonly clean and quiet electric furnace—compact enough to tuck under the basement stairs. Or the various kinds of easy-to-hide electric systems that have individual room-by-room temperature control.

You also have time to contact Pepco for a free heating survey and estimate of operating costs.

At 628-0389, 628-0506, or 628-0617.

And you have more than enough time to contact heating contractors, see what's available, get competitive bids and schedule installation at your convenience. While it's nice out.

Which, to us, seems rather practical.

Winter's coming back.
Get ready now with electric heat.
