Greenbriar Sewage Treatment Plant Supported by SDWR, County Council Health Dept. Yet to Rule

The State Department of Water Resources (SDWR) has recommended to the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene approval of the Greenbriar application for a discharge point for its temporary sewage package treatment plan. (The application covers part of the Glen Ora apartments as well as the Greenbriar apartments).

However, approval carried with it a requirement that the applicant (Ben Dyer Associates, Inc. on behalf of Greenbriar Associates) must include certain design features, among which are:

(1) Alteration and adjustment to culvert downstream at the Baltimore-Washington Parkway so as to avoid a ponding condition which has hindered the continuous flowing of the stream.

(2) Incorporation of a tertiary treatment plant which through technically advanced features would provide a high quality of effluent (liquid discharge).

The developer, Alan Kay, is seeking the package sewer plant as a temporary measure until the State moratorium on sewage hookups is lifted. Greenbriar has received the approval of the county to connect with the Western Branch basin in 1973 when the latter treatment plant is expected to be expanded. In order to meet mortgage commitments, however, the developer needs to have immediate sewage so as to construct 400 units by next summer.

The major problem that has been facing the package treatment plant for Greenbriar is the disposal of the effluent from the plant. The proposed point of discharge is an intermittent stream — a small unnamed tributary to Beaver Dam Creek. State law is silent with respect to restrictions on discharges into intermittent streams. On the basis of calculations performed by the SDWR, the latter concluded that the proposed discharge from the sewage treatment plant "will not result in violation of the State's water quality standards and/or the Department's regulations."

Other conditions laid down by SDWR called for treated wastewater flow not more than 700,000 gallons a day, adequately disinfected at all times. Sufficient space should be provided and reserved at the treatment plant so as to allow for the addition of advanced waste treatment facilities in the event that such additional treatment is deemed necessary. The applicant is required to provide for immediate connection of this interim facility to the WSSC system as soon as trunk lines are available.

The SDWR also specified that the applicant consult with its engineers in Surface Water Management on the alteration in the culvert. According to SDWR official Paul W. Slunt, Jr., the engineers will keep an eye on construction so as to avoid wash outs. "We want to keep our hand in — to make sure we have done everything we can with respect to the project," he said.

He said that the SDWR evaluation of the Greenbriar application does not consider the total situation, but is primarily confined to the application of water quality standards and other regulations and standards contained in the Water Quality Act of 1965 and environmental factors.

Other agencies consider other factors. Dr. Perry Stearns of the county health department, for example, expressed concern about the health hazard created by discharging effluent into an intermittent stream.

The State Department of Health, which has the final say on the package plant, has indicated that it will not make a final decision until hearing from county officials. Last May County Executive William Gullett disapproved of the package plant, but is presently reviewing the application.

Judge Refuses Dismissal Of Pollution Charge

On December 26, Circuit Court Judge Robert B. Mathias ruled that the Beltway Plaza owners, First National Realty Corporation and Sidney J. Brown, personally, will have to stand trial for allegedly polluting Indian Creek. Two of the eight counts brought by the State of Maryland against the developer were dismissed because the alleged violations occurred more than a year prior to October 6, 1971, the date of the suit.

The other six counts, which Mathias refused to dismiss, concerned charges that the accused had failed to obey correction orders issued by the State Department of Water Resources with respect to alleged erosion from the shopping center's land that had occurred in April, May, and July 1971. Each count carries a maximum fine of $10,000 and/or up to a year in jail.

Judge Mathias denied the contentions of Karl Feissner, Brown's attorney, that the Water Resources statute under which the accused was sued, was unconstitutional because of its vagueness, and had been improperly titled since it did not indicate that the Act provides criminal penalties.

Judge Mathias asserted that the charge was "not so vague as to be unconstitutional or lacking in factual allegations (as) to inform the defendant of the crime." The statute, he said, does establish a standard of conduct sufficiently definite to afford an ascertainable test of guilt.

Warren Rich, special assistant Attorney General, argued the case for the State and County.

County Resolution

As a follow-up to the county resolution introduced on December 15 proposing general policy for temporary package sewage treatment plants, a special resolution dealing with the Greenbriar and Glen Ora tracts was introduced on Tuesday, January 4, by county council members Francis Francois, Francis White, and Gladys Spellman.

The resolution approves the sewage treatment facility for Greenbriar and Glen Ora apartment complexes, subject to the following conditions:

(1) The facility must meet all standards imposed by the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene as to construction and operation.

(2) The facility shall be maintained and operated by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission (WSSC) at the expense of the owners of the tracts.

(3) As soon as additional public sewage capacity is available, the temporary plant shall be discontinued and the development shall be connected to the permanent WSSC system.

The resolution finds that the Greenbriar and Glen Ora tracts are in Area 3 of the County 10-year Water and Sewer Plan and therefore would be ready for immediate development were it not for the existence of the State sewer moratorium.

The county council emphasized that its action is not to be construed as an expression of judgment on questions of health. Rather, it is confining its views to the question of land use and planning and notes that the installation of a temporary plant in the case of Greenbriar - Glen Ora would not lead to premature development of the area in light of the previous action of the county council.

The resolution will probably come up for final action toward the end of the month.

Paper Pick-up Friday

Friday morning, January 7, is the time to have your bundled newspapers and magazines ready by 8:30 a.m. for pick-up.

Remember to follow these simple regulations:

1. Bundle papers.
2. Place papers at designated location for your area by 8:30 a.m. University Square and Springhill Lake - next to any yellow curb; Greenbelt Homes, Inc. - At the entranceway to the court; Lakeside North - at the Ridge Road entrance; Charlestowne North - in the central storage area; Charlestowne Village - Along Lakecrest Drive; Single Family Homes - Next to the curb by your driveway.
3. If inclement weather (rain or snow) do not put papers out but save until next collection date.
4. Papers placed in storage areas will not be picked up (except Charlestowne North).
5. If papers are missed, call 474-8000 and give location.

There will be a second paper pick-up on January 21.

PEOPLES PARTY MEETING

A meeting of the Peoples Party of Prince Georges County will be held on Sunday, Jan. 9 at 3:30 at 14-X Ridge Rd. The coming congressional race will be discussed and plans will be made for the state convention in Baltimore on Jan. 15.

GHI REGULATIONS ON HEDGES, VISITOR GUIDELINES DISCUSSED

by Alexander Barnes

Committee reports highlighted the last meeting of the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors for 1971 on December 28. In considering the October thirteenth report of the Aesthetics Committee, only minor wording changes were made until the board got to the fourth paragraph. This part of the regulations proposed to limit the height of hedges within three feet of sidewalks to seven feet. A battle was mounted to lower that height to 5½ feet.

Director David Lange suggested that safety was compromised by having hedges so high. This was confirmed by director Janet James, who said there were certain places she did not feel she could walk at night because of tripping over a child's toy. Other board members mentioned that police chief William Lane had voiced concern about the hiding places the taller hedges provided.

Director Donald Volk said that the committee had selected the seven-foot level to provide privacy. He also said that while some board members might think lower hedges were more attractive, he did not think it was the proper role of the board to make its aesthetic judgments a matter of regulation.

When it came to vote, Lange, James and Katherine Keene, who had favored the lower height, found themselves outnumbered by Tom White, Volk, James Smith, and Norman Weyel. Chairman Nat Shinderman indicated he would have voted with the majority.

Consisting of only six paragraphs, two of which are informational, the new regulations state that hedges must not overhang sidewalks. The city requires that they be kept no higher than three feet at intersections. Poison ivy and thorny hedges are prohibited. New plantings, except hedges, must not excessively restrict the sunlight on adjacent property or produce limbs which grow into adjacent property without the advice and consent of that property owner. Hedges which are not trimmed to the seven-foot limit will be trimmed by the corporation to a height of three feet.

the Ad-hoc Committee for Conduct at Board Meetings. This committee was suggested by director James, and she was appointed chairman. The report consisted of suggesting that a handout, which the committee had drafted, be given out to visitors to the Board meetings. The Committee noted that the Board had fairly recently passed their own set of rules of conduct, and that the Committee report in no way was meant to infringe upon that set of rules. The Committee also indicated its intent to publish the document in the GHI Newsletter. Members of the Committee had hoped that their fairly loosely worded document might receive Board approval since its intent was informational rather than policy-making. The Board, however, got into an analysis of the document and remanded it back to the Committee.

The "Members' Guide to GHI Meetings" as proposed would have tightened up the procedures through which visitors communicated with the Board. The Board does seem to be willing to modify its current free-wheeling approach to visitor participation. The proposed Guide would have provided that "If a member feels he is particularly well-informed or unusually interested in an agenda item . . . he should give his name to the recording secretary . . ." indicating the agenda item on which he wishes to speak. This might be done under the "Visitors" item on the agenda or when the item in question was discussed. Director White said that he felt that "Visitors" should be changed to "Petitions," at which time the Board would receive only prepared statements. A subsequent suggestion that this be modified to place "Petitions" early on the agenda while moving "Visitors" to the latter part of the agenda received support.

Recycling
Early in the meeting the subject of recycling was brought up by Michael Chew under "Visitors." He spoke first with enthusiasm. But upon feeling that the board was not giving his ideas proper consideration, his enthusiasm turned to vehemence. He had, he said, given details on recycling to board member Lange. He was angered that these had not been circulated to all the board members. When, upon his offer to describe in "black and white" how money could be saved by recycling, the board demurred, he shouted that all the board cared about was increasing charges to members instead of saving money, and left the meeting.

Much later in the meeting under "board members" Lange stated that he had received a substantial amount of literature from Chew on recycling and that he was in the process of preparing a presentation to the board based on that literature. Nevertheless, chairman Shinderman pointed out, the city is currently responsible for trash collection and recycling; discussions would be more fruitfully carried on with the city council than with GHI.

Some visitors raised questions about the recent letter mailed out by management on the deferred payment plan passed by the membership at the last special membership meeting. The chief complaint was that the letter was not detailed enough. Don McGinn, GHI Comptroller, answered that the letter had been deliberately brief because it would not be applicable to the large majority of the members. The letter instructed those people who felt they might be eligible to contact him for further details. This contact was also to be used to inform the member of other programs/benefits for which he might be eligible. McGinn cited food stamps, tax rebates, and medical assistance as examples.

SURVEY ON PARKLAND AND DUPLICATE SERVICE

By William Edwards
City Administrative Assistant

This is the final in a series of analyses of the questionnaires filled out by voters at the September, 1971, city election.

The questions pertaining to parklands were designed to sample citizen feelings concerning the purchase of more parkland, development of the parkland just purchased or further development of existing parks. In response to these questions, the City-wide results were: 31% of those completing the questionnaire felt the City should buy more parkland; 35% felt the City should develop its recently acquired land; and 28% felt that there should be improvements to the existing park facilities.

On all three of these questions, the Center and North End precincts were fairly close together in response. The Springhill Lake Precinct, however, showed a marked divergence from the other precincts in that 20% of the participants showed an interest in purchasing more parkland, 54% were concerned with the development of the parkland the City recently acquired and 19% felt the City should improve existing parks. These differences in response might be due to a mistaken belief of some Springhill Lake voters that the City now owns the Springhill Lake golf course and their desire to have it developed into a City park. However, the City has not yet completed the purchase of this land.

The results of this question are inconclusive. In addition, the wording of the question has been challenged as tending to encourage the voter to favor development over acquisition. The fact that all three choices were fairly evenly supported might indicate that voters feel there is a need both to acquire and develop parkland — to acquire more land, develop newly acquired parkland and to develop other parkland as well. Present plans of the City call for further efforts in all three areas.

As to duplication of services between the City and the County, no one solution proposed received majority support of the voters. The largest percentage (38%), of the respondents favored a tax credit to city residents from the County for services provided by the City which the County also provides in other areas. Thirty-six percent of the respondents, however, wanted the city to get maximum services from the County and then supplement this with City service. A ma-

Illegal Use of Minibikes

To the Editor:

To whomever it may concern on Woodland Way:

Please tell your boys to restrict the use of their motorized minibikes to properly designated areas as their use on sidewalks and public streets is against the law.

The law in this case is intended to protect not only pedestrians but also the children who ride the minibikes, who might collide with a pedestrian or car — to say nothing of the unnecessary noise pollution. (Name Withheld)

ADULT ED. COURSES AT PARKDALE HIGH

Adult education classes at Parkdale Senior High School which will begin the week of January 24 and continue for 12 weeks will include the newer classes in electronics, world affairs, speed reading, physical fitness and traffic safety as well as those in art, business, sewing, woodworking, bookkeeping, typing and other classes usually scheduled. Registrations will be held from 7 - 9 p.m. on Monday, January 17. For further information call 474-4700 after 2:30 p.m.

Parkdale Band Presents Program of Vienna Music

"Music, Music, Music" will be presented at Parkdale High on Jan. 8, at 8 p.m., featuring music of old and new Vienna from 1492 to 1972.

Majority of Springhill Lake voters favored this choice (54%), while the tax credit proposal received greater favor in the other two precincts. There was no strong feeling for the City discontinuing its service and relying on the County to provide it (only 9%). There was stronger feeling (17%) for the County not providing the duplicated services within the city and not taxing city residents for it. Nearly one out of every four voters in the North End precinct felt this way. The City Council has been actively working with both County officials and State legislators to improve the problems of duplication of services and double taxation.

A complete tabulation of the questionnaire can be obtained from the City Manager's Office, 25 Crescent Road. Any other questions? Call 474-8003 for answers.

Greenbeltville LWV

Members of the Greenbeltville unit of the County League of Women Voters will continue their discussion of election processes in the State of Maryland at their January 13th meeting in the Music Room of the Center School (lower level) at 8 p.m.

The adequacy and clarity of the present laws, the extent to which they meet criteria, and the responsibility for recommendations for their improvement will be some of the areas examined.

For the remainder of the membership year, the group will meet at the Center School. For further information on the League or to obtain literature or calendars, please call Mrs. James Cooley, Membership chairman at 345-1388.

IF YOU LIVE on Lakeside or one of the adjacent courts and are possibly moving sometime this year, could you please call us? 474-1873.

FOUND: Umbrella - at Rosewood and Lastner, call and identify. 474-1196.

Dog Obedience Class

Is your family dog able to follow the basic commands "heel," "sit," and "stay"? If not, obedience training may be the answer. The Prince Georges County 4-H Clubs and the Canine Training Association are offering their annual 12-week obedience course.

The 12-week course for beginners includes obedience training in the basic commands: heel, sit, and stay. Other sessions will include animal health and nutrition, legal responsibilities of dog ownership, and techniques of handling and showing dogs. One advanced session will work in the areas of jumping, retrieving, out-of-sight stays, and off-lead commands.

The course begins on January 8 and will continue on Saturday mornings through March 25. It is open to all Prince Georges County youngsters between the ages of 9 and 15. A small registration fee is required. Classes will be held in Hyattsville, Bowie and Oxon Hill. For information on how to register, call the 4-H Office at 627-5236.

Skinner-Dayton

Former Greenbelters Mr. and Mrs. C. Willard Skinner, of Silver Spring, announce the marriage of their daughter Marilyn Beth to James A. Dayton III, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Dayton, Jr., of Virginia Beach, Va. The ceremony took place on Dec. 18 at the Holy Cross Lutheran Church in Greenbelt. Pastor Edward Birner performed the candlelight service at 7 p.m. with Andy Birner serving as the acolyte. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

After a short trip, the couple will reside in Norfolk, Va. Mrs. Dayton, a graduate of Parkdale, is a junior at the Norfolk General Hospital School of Nursing. Mr. Dayton is associated with Lafayette Builders in Norfolk.
