Reorganization, Metro-Stations, Greenbriar Buck-Passing, GHI Topics

by Alexander Barnes

At its Thursday, June 14, meeting, the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors formed the committee structure for the upcoming year. In addition it accepted with commendation the final report of the Home and Garden Tour and acted favorably on a motion to be represented at a hearing on "Transportation Alternatives."

The board abandoned last year's practice of limiting committee membership to board members. Five standing committees will serve during the coming year:

1. Executive - chairman, James Smith, Joseph Comproni, Thomas White, Hugh O'Donnell.
2. Finance - chairman White, Theodore Byerly, Howard Brooks.
3. Planning, Engineering and Maintenance - chairman O'Donnell, Donald Volk, Tony Lynch, Byerly.
4. Member and Community Relations - chairman Comproni, Stephen Polaschik, Volk.
5. Member Complaints - chairman Polaschik, Brooks, Lynch.

Two non-board members will be added to the finance committee. Five non-board members will be named to the Planning committee thereby outnumbering the board members by one. The same situation will exist on the Member Relations committee when they add four non-board members.

Transportation Story

In a memorandum to the board, Volk summarized the issues to be discussed by the Maryland Department of Transportation to be held on Saturday, June 16. Under consideration will be the location of a Metro station and the widening of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway, Volk suggested that the board go on record as favoring one of the three Metro locations situated along the B&O right-of-way over the two possible locations near the intersection of I-95 and I-495. The board approved that and his recommendation that they "oppose any improvements which will change the essential parkway character" of the B-W Parkway. Specifically cited was opposition to "any widening which would destroy the median or the buffer between the road and the adjacent users of land, and any use of the Parkway by trucks."

Greenbriar

Director White requested the board to obtain the services of the corporation attorney to keep tabs on the Greenbriar sewage treatment plant situation. Members of the board seemed to feel that there was some buck-passing going on between the city council and Dr. Perry Sterns, county health officer. Each seemed to want to get the other to make the decision as to whether the point of discharge met the city's criteria.

Plans are currently being held in abeyance since a pipeline must be constructed across NASA and the space agency is reviewing an environmental assessment. White suggested that the corporation attorney, Albert Ginsberg, should make appropriate inquiries of the State Department of Health to see if it was proper for them to issue a point-of-discharge permit before the applicant had obtained necessary easements.

Appeal of Contempt Citation

The appeal of Rhea Cohen's contempt citation will be heard by the Special Appeals Court of Maryland in Annapolis on Tuesday, June 26 at 9:30 a.m. Circuit Court Judge Perry G. Bowen cited Ms. Cohen for contempt at last December's trial involving a suit filed by local citizens against the use of Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission parkland for the Largo sports arena.

Center School PTA Honors Robert Ellis

Robert Ellis, principal of Center School will be honored by parents and teachers at a reception on Sunday, June 24, at 3 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Ellis is leaving Center after serving as principal for seven years. He first came to Center in September 1966 and has served continuously since. His daughter, Susan, has been enrolled in Center for most of this time and finished sixth grade on Tuesday.

While at Center, Ellis worked with the PTA to set up an adult volunteer program which has functioned for six years providing teachers with help inside and outside the classroom. This year a student tutoring program was started and older students were encouraged to help or "tutor" younger students. Also, under Ellis's direction, swimming was added to the Physical Education program.

Ellis, his wife and two children reside in Brandywine where his newly assigned school, Baden Elementary, is located.

All Greenbelters are cordially invited to the reception to honor Ellis. Charles Brawn, Center's new principal, is also expected to attend.

Lofgren Resigns Post As City Rec. Director

Darald G. Lofgren, the city's recreation director since July, 1966, regretfully tendered his resignation, to become effective July 9, 1973. Lofgren has accepted the position of program director with the Montgomery County recreation department.

Lofgren told the News Review that he hated to leave the community and the many worthwhile projects of which he was a part. He noted that for a small city, Greenbelt was doing everything that the county was doing in recreation except on a slightly smaller scale. In a letter to the city manager, Lofgren stated that he appreciated "the meaningful opportunities I have been given in contributing toward the goals of the city of Greenbelt."

Previously, Lofgren worked for Prince Georges Recreation Department as its Community Director for the Calverton-Beltsville-Adelphi area.

SWIM TEAM NEWS

Greenbelt's first meet of the 1973 season will be a practice meet against Cheverly on Saturday, June 23 at 9 a.m. The team is in need of adults who can drive to the meet, as well as about twenty persons who can act as officials at the meet. Swimmers and officials should be ready to leave the Greenbelt pool by 8 a.m.

An official's clinic will be held at the Greenbelt pool on Sunday, June 24 at 11 a.m. Each meet this year will require between fifteen and twenty officials from Greenbelt, and all parents of children on the swim team are urged to attend this clinic.

GHI Responds to Lawsuit

Greenbelt Homes, Inc., through its attorney, Albert Ginsberg, has responded to the suit filed by Eunice Coxon, et al. against the corporation and seven GHI board members. The corporation is seeking dismissal on the grounds that the petitioners failed to state a cause of action against the defendants either in equity or law.

Coxon, along with nine other GHI members, had filed a petition for writ of mandamus and declaratory judgment on April 30, 1973. Ginsberg, in his reply, states that the petition failed to allege any facts for a mandamus nor was there any prayer for a writ of mandamus. He further alleges that the general relief requested by the petitioners cannot be obtained in a mandamus action.

Ginsberg concluded his demurrer by charging that the petition does not set out a justiciable controversy. The petition, he said, is merely asking for an advisory opinion and is not the proper subject for a declaratory judgment suit. Ginsberg referred to the issues raised by the suit involving the 1973 fiscal year budget as "no longer in controversy" and thus moot.

City Taxpayers Get 5¢ Rebate, County Rate Reduced 20 Cents

by Al Skolnik

Greenbelt residents, as well as other Prince Georges county taxpayers, are in for a 20-cent cut in the county property tax rate as a result of the $322 million budget approved by county council on June 15. The new county tax rate is $3.37 per $100 assessed valuation. To achieve this tax reduction, the council cut $6.9 million from county executive William Gullett's proposed budget, most of it from school board and capital spending.

Council To Inspect Sewage Stream

Greenbelt city council had some second thoughts last week on the best procedure for resolving the question of whether the on-site Greenbriar sewage treatment plant will discharge its effluent into a free-flowing stream. County Health Officer Perry Stearns had asked for city comments on the decision of the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene approving the piping of the effluent to a point of discharge near the exit ramps to the Goddard Space Center. The SDH-MH had ruled that the unnamed tributary to Beaver Dam Creek was free-flowing at this spot.

At its June 11 meeting, council bucked the question back to Stearns, asking him whether he agreed with the State's findings. Apparently feeling the heat of citizen dissatisfaction with the situation, council at a special June 19 meeting reopened the subject.

A resolution was adopted by unanimous vote asking the city manager to arrange a field trip for council to the point of discharge and inviting Dr. Stearns and a hydrologist from the State Department of Water Resources. The city manager was also directed to hire a hydrologist to determine if the stream is free-flowing at said point of discharge, should such determination be deemed necessary by council after the field trip.

Councilman Gil Weidenfeld, who introduced the resolution, said that the majority of city council had originally recommended that county and State approval of the sewage treatment plant be based on maximum dilution of the effluent and the piping of said effluent to a location in the stream where it is free flowing. Since the council members do not have the expertise to decide these questions, he thought the most appropriate procedure at this time in light of Dr. Stearns' query was for the city to hire its own hydrologist.

Council member Rhea Cohen welcomed the suggestion, noting that it was similar to the suggestion she had made at the June 11 meeting. She also thought that the council should broaden its inquiry to include such questions as to the downstream effects of the effluent.

Amer. Legion Benefit Dance

The American Legion is sponsoring a dance at the Greenbelt Post June 29 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Funds will be used for the "Sport-Van-Mini-Bus" that will provide transportation for the multi-handicapped to Great Oaks Center and various clinics. This is the 1973 children and youth project undertaken by Southern Md. American Legions. Tickets will be available at the door.

Evening High School

Registration for the Evening High School Program is set for June 26 and 27 from 4:30 to 9 p.m. at Parkdale Senior High School. Classes will be held from July 2 through August 16 with schools closed on July 4.

Center School PTA

Center School PTA officers elected to serve during the 1973-74 school year are: John Bogumill, president; Pat Savage, first vice-president; Mendoza Yearwood, second vice-president; Edna Tolson, recording secretary; Pat Eakins, corresponding secretary; and Nancy Falk, treasurer.

In addition, the approved budget allows $664,628 for rebates to the county's 28 cities and towns for services provided by both municipal and county government. Greenbelt's share will be $32,211.

City Acts Fast

The Greenbelt city council wasted no time in passing the rebate on to the city taxpayer. At a special meeting on Tuesday, June 19, the council authorized a credit of 5 cents on the city's property tax rate of $0.97 per $100 assessed valuation. This means that the city's tax rate for 1973-74, in effect, will remain the same as its 1972-73 rate of 92 cents.

The county council adopted Gullett's proposal that the tax rebates be made directly to the municipalities instead of to the individual taxpayers. The rebates will cover services provided by the city which are provided by the county in non-municipal areas. These include leaf collections, special trash pickups, snow removal, animal control and street lighting.

Gullett had refused to include police services on the grounds that the county provides such services throughout the county regardless of where a citizen resides. Despite municipality opposition, Gullett's position was upheld by the county council.

White Tries in Vain

Francis White, vice-chairman of the county council, who authored the original tax differential bill adopted by the county council in November 1972, tried unsuccessfully to amend the budget to include reimbursements for municipal police services. Greenbelt would have qualified under this proposal for a rebate of $222,756.

Greenbelt city council members were busy all week trying to round up votes for White's motion. Council members Dick Pilski, Charles Schwan, and Elizabeth Maffay were also lobbying all Thursday at Upper Marlboro. In the end, White's motion received support from only two other county councilmen.

Opposition

Opposition to the motion apparently centered on the feeling that the measure would encourage proliferation of municipal police departments without any provision for adequate standards. Also, the proposal would have cost an additional $1,180,102 in tax rebates.

White expressed regret at the failure of his motion to pass, but felt that the coming year would see opposition to his motion fade away. He thought that adequate standards for police departments could be devised. He also hoped that the coming year would see resolution of a legal question raised by the county Office of Laws as to whether the tax differential law could operate by setting up special taxing districts.

SPECIAL BLOODMOBILE

A "leukemia-platelet" bloodmobile has been scheduled for Saturday, July 7, at the Red Cross Chapter House, 6206 Belcrest Road, in Hyattsville. Greenbriar Sewage

To the Editor:

"Not interested" is how Greenbelt's mayor summed up the city council majority's attitude about the Greenbriar sewage treatment plant during a public meeting this spring. I had asked that a city staff member be sent to the State Health Department in Baltimore to get the latest plans to dump treated sewage into the wooded valley behind the North End frame homes of Greenbelt Homes, Inc.

Since October 1971, when I first exposed the developer's proposal to put a package sewage plant on the garden apartment tract, four-fifths of this city's council have tried to head off all discussion of the project.

Last week I said that we owe it to Greenbelt citizens to hire a hydrologist to determine the flow characteristics of the stream. My reason is that while a continuous year-round flow of surface water is, in my estimation, a necessity to provide dilution of sewage effluent as a safety factor, the quantity of the flow should be sufficient to cause significant dilution. In other words, a trickling stream would be insufficient to dilute 325,000 gallons per day of treated sewage.

Also last week I attempted to find out from the developer just what the sewage plant would spill into Parcel 1. My inquiry was ruled out of order, but it was not the first time in the past year and a half.

Regular readers may not realize that the News Review has given either very scant coverage or none at all to several Greenbriar problems, including the problem of the city council's unwillingness to pursue lines of inquiry about the pending development.

Greenbriar treated sewage, based on figures in State Health Department and Water Resources reports, would contain a daily load of phosphates equivalent to a dozen large-size sacks of Scott's Turf Builder. Combined with a massive dose of nitrates, this would speed overgrowth and decay. A higher salt content and a lower acidity level than are natural for the valley would quickly alter local animal and plant life. Not only the sight and smell, but also the safety of Parcel 1 would be changed by "Effluent Creek" — it would bring residents into contact with more human bacteria and viruses than at present.

Building permits appear to have been issued illegally because the sewage treatment plant 1) is not a permitted use in the R-30 residential zone, and no zoning action was taken to allow it; 2) was not shown on the plans the county council approved in the 1971 special exception proceedings, and in fact the presently planned sewage plant site was represented at that time as being part of the required green area and recreation space, thereby violating the terms of the special exception grant; and, 3) is not shown on the current adopted County 10-Year Sewer Plan for either location or point of discharge, and according to State health law, building permits can be issued for a sewage treatment plant only if it conforms to the Plan.

An overflow pipeline is designed into one of the on-site sewage pumping stations, which, in case of power brown-out or mechanical breakdown, would pour raw sewage into a storm drain that empties near or onto the new senior high school property. Such by-pass lines are commonly built into sewage treatment facilities, as the Greenbelt Save Our Community Committee and the Prince Georges Environment Coalition warned 18 months ago. Both groups successfully pressed the city and county councils to prohibit bypass lines on the Greenbriar tract and to require a standby generator. Present plans show no hook-up from the sewage plant generator to the pumping station in question.

These and several other matters demand more, much more, consideration by your city council. Violation of our Master Plan and our Community Goals (which state that sewage treatment in Greenbelt should be handled by permanent sewage facilities of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission) and

More on Greenbriar Sewage

To the Editor:

It was very interesting to read in your account of the city council meeting of Monday, June 11, that the Greenbriar issue can be likened to "Watergate". That may be truer than you realize.

It is unfortunate that the record of the News Review can not compare to the vigorous reporting of the Washington Post. I am sure that the several citizens who were in attendance at that meeting were probably wondering if they really were there after reading the doctored account of your reporter.

Mr. Pilski conducted the meeting as if he were the chairman of the board of the Greenbriar project. There is something peculiar about his overzealous advocacy of the project, but that does not excuse his rude and discourteous treatment of Greenbelt citizens.

Mr. Weidenfeld contributed his usual specious reasoning that the Glen Ora condominiums would be a worthwhile development in Greenbelt because there is such a great need in Greenbelt for homes to which apartment residents can move. That's fine, but to where are the Greenbriar people going to move? Perhaps Weidenfeld would consider future expansion of the Greenbriar plant to 1,500,000 gal/day to serve townhouses on parcels 1 and 2 to which the Greenbriar residents could move.

Mrs. Maffay, at least questioned whether the desirability of Glen Ora townhouses was outweighed by the risks of expanding the sewage plant capacity.

It is clear that Mr. Schwan, the author of the resolution which gave city approval to the sewage plant, is not very diligent in seeing that all the provisions of that resolution are being carried out. His condition on removal of pollution causing nitrates has been totally ignored by the developer and the State Health Dept. His condition for fail-safe mechanisms is subject to scrutiny, especially in regard to the pumping stations which are an integral part of the proposed plant. His condition for a defined method of sludge disposal has also been ignored. His condition for piping the sewage effluent to a point in the stream where the flow is not intermittent has been misinterpreted by the developer and the State Health Dept. This was the concern of Dr. Stearns, the county health officer in his letter to the city.

At the very least, several of the citizens present at the council meeting suggested that it was about time that council stop listening to the developer and take action that would protect the interests of Greenbelt citizens and that they could do this by obtaining the services of a professional hydrologist or limnologist who could provide a scientific report to the city on the nature and assimilative capability of that stream valley in regard to receiving a large amount of treated (?) sewage effluent.

The developer was present to read a legalistic letter addressed to Dr. Stearns which in effect was stating that the city of Greenbelt has no rights in this matter and stop delaying my project or you will be held responsible for my losses — this he is saying to a health officer who is carrying out his duties to protect the health of P. G. Co. residents.

Of course, we couldn't expect the News Review to report as I am in this letter, but it would be nice to read accounts that approach what actually happened, rather than the fairy tales we are treated to by your reporters.

imminent violation of our water pollution law are matters of immediate importance to the residents of Greenbelt.

An Intemperate Outburst

To the Editor:

What could have persuaded Tom White to write the type of letter he inserted in last week's News Review? Does he believe that such an intemperate outburst serves the cause he professes to support? Can he not see that he harms the purposes he seeks to advance by substituting passion for reason, distortion for accuracy, and accusation for proof? Is it impossible for him to understand that there may be a course to an end other than the one he urges? Does he find it repugnant to concede that it was the Greenbelt city council that recommended the requirement that the Greenbriar plant effluent be piped to a flowing stream? Will he not acknowledge that it was at the insistence of city council that county council required from the County Health Officer assurance that the proposed plant would not constitute a health or ecological risk? Must he charge that the facts he cited were ignored by council when, in truth, on the basis of those and other considerations, council urged the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene to impose every requirement to serve health and ecological purposes that had been suggested to council?

If council had adopted an inflexible position as Mr. White urged, there is every reason to believe that the Greenbriar sewage treatment plant would have been built by now. Moreover, because of council's recommendations, if and when the plant is built, it will meet health and ecological safeguards greater than those that otherwise would have been imposed. Mr. White's course would have meant abandonment of council's position to influence the county and state. Council took the path that permitted it to maximize its influence.

Abuse of Trash Service

To the Editor:

Driving around Greenbelt the last few weeks has acquainted me with a new problem confronting G.H.I. This one, however, is one we can all do something about. The problem is the illegal dumping of refuse along the city streets and walkways.

Recently, in G.H.I. areas, I have seen mattresses and box springs, VW fenders, transparent plastic bags containing discarded medicines, perfumes, household cleaners and insecticides — in addition to the normal amount of pasteboard boxes, leaves and grass trimmings. Aside from the hazards to the men who haul this junk to the city's landfill, I would like to ask what happens to the child who is hurt while playing in or near these trash heaps? What of the unmarked medicine bottle, not quite empty, with no antidote listed; or the broken fluorescent lamp tube waiting to slash a vein?

The asking price seems to me to be too high for a "free" service. The price may only have to be paid because the "free" service is abused. Boxing and bagging the trash, placing it in one's own yard, where it can be controlled, and calling the city at 474-8000 will result in its removal within one or two days. (In my own experience, it has never been more than three days!)

My points here, in closing, are that: (1) The service is being extensively abused. (2) The service is not free. It costs tax dollars to collect, truck and dispose of the junk we generate. (3) It costs far less to dispose of bagged leaves and grass by composting and far less to handle "hard" trash such as discarded household items which are properly boxed and tied. (4) Glass and newspapers, including pasteboard boxes and containers, should be recycled. (5) Poisons, chemicals and auto parts should not be disposed of by dumping them in common areas.

Further abuses could result in injury or death and will certainly result in curtailed service by the city or a tax increase to support it.

Concern Over Erosion

To the Editor:

For a few years I've noticed an eroded area that lies along the Beltway west of the hi-rise in Charlestowne Village. With what I have read and heard about keeping Greenbelt green, but it might have been mentioned before and I might have missed it, I think that maybe with a few wood chips and some grass seed the red clay could be turned green. Lack of such mulch is one of the reasons for the many dead trees that you see along the fence where the lake drains.

A staff member of the Animal Control Division will be on hand from 1 to 9 p.m. both days.

Bridge over troubled waters.

It's easy to forget that emergencies do happen. And when there is a crisis, you'll need a nest egg to fall back on.

The Payroll Savings Plan is one of the easiest ways to make sure you've something saved for when you need money fast. When you participate in the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, an amount you designate will be set aside from each paycheck and invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. It's an effortless way to build up a reserve.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Let's hope there are no troubled waters in your future. But remember, emergencies don't always happen to the other guys.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America. Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

How to save money without ever leaving your home.

Two good things happen when you get thrifty with electricity. You can save money on your electric bill. And you help us conserve the limited resources from which electricity is produced. The smarter you are about using electricity, the better for all of us.

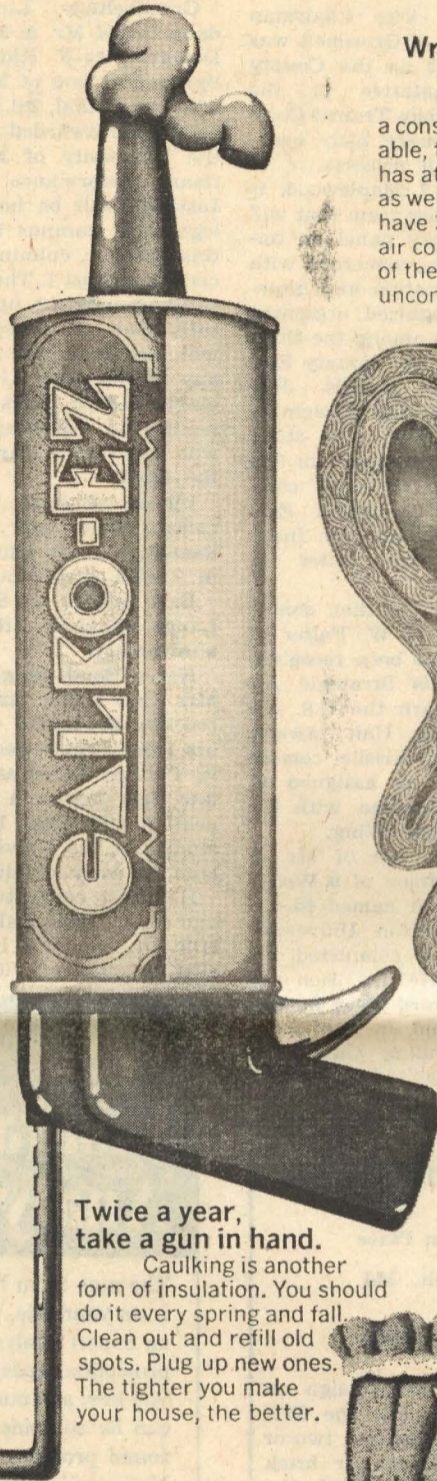

Don't buy more air conditioner than you need. Or less, either.

If you're shopping for a room air conditioner, consult an air conditioning expert beforehand. Or call PEPCO. The unit should be big enough to hold the temperature at a constant 75° in all but the hottest weather. Too large a unit might not give you proper humidity control.

One game of roulette you can't win.

Don't keep switching settings on your air conditioner thermostat. Set a comfortable daytime temperature and leave it. 75° to 78° is recommended. (If that's not comfortable, check your insulation.) Lowering the temperature five degrees can increase your costs up to 30%. At night, or if you don't expect to be home during the day, you can turn the temperature up a degree or two and save more. Another good idea is to keep your air conditioner fan running even when the cooling unit has stopped. This circulates the air and will keep the cooling unit from coming on so often.

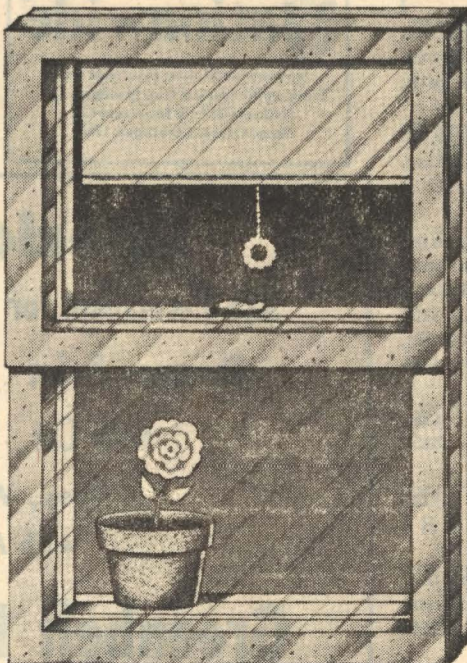

Twice a year, take a gun in hand.

Caulking is another form of insulation. You should do it every spring and fall. Clean out and refill old spots. Plug up new ones. The tighter you make your house, the better.

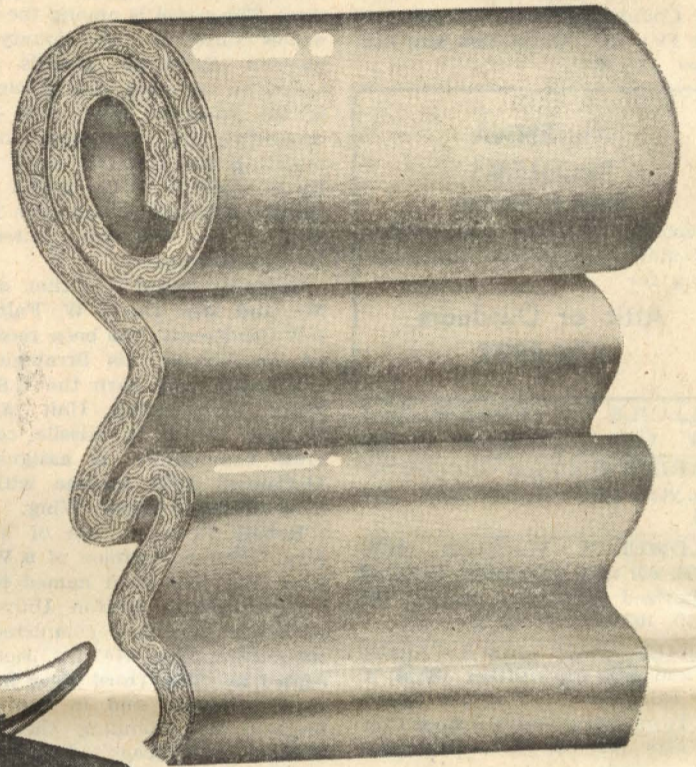

Why put in storm screens during the summer? You may never open the windows anyway.

Think twice before replacing your storm windows with screens this summer. We know it's a temptation during the cooler days when the fresh air feels good. But it'll be a lot cheaper for you to walk outside. Finally, if you have a fireplace make sure the damper is closed.

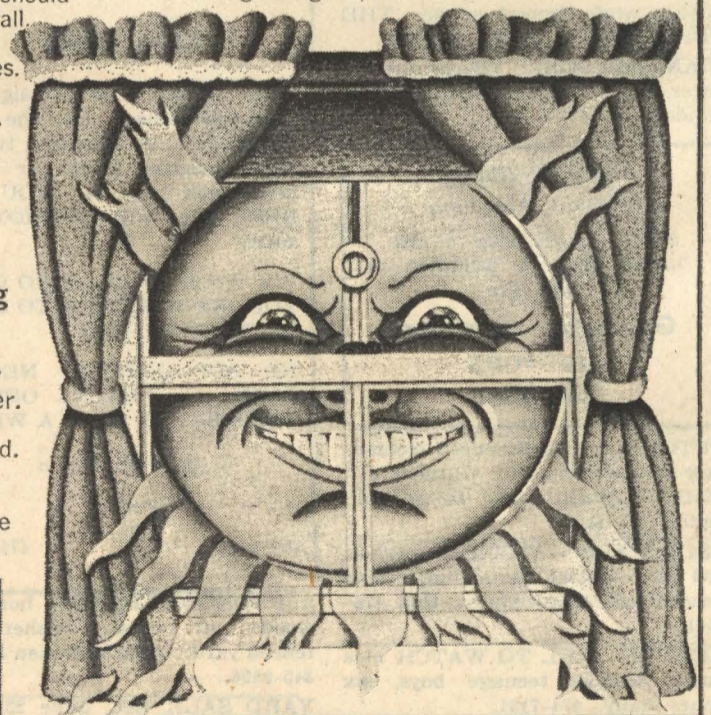

Wrap your home in comfort, and save money in the bargain.

Your properly insulated house will save you, a considerable amount, and it will be more comfortable, too. Make sure the ceiling below your attic has at least 6 inches of insulation. All outer walls, as well as floors above unconditioned areas, should have 3 to 4 inches. Ducts for heating and central air conditioning should be wrapped with 2 inches of thermal insulation if they're located in unconditioned areas.

Keep the sun out and you'll keep more cool in.

Drapes and blinds can reduce your heat gain through glass by at least a third. Light, opaque shades or drapes work better than dark ones. Awnings and overhangs are good, too.

There are more good ideas where these came from.
