Festival and Parade Survive Weather

by Nancy Spang

At its Opening Ceremony on Friday, August 29, the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee and the City of Greenbelt were presented a proclamation from the Prince Georges County Council proclaiming "August 29 through September 1, 1975 as Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Weekend in Prince Georges County". The proclamation also congratulated "the City of Greenbelt and the Labor Day Festival Committee on its 21st successful adventure into community togetherness". Thus, the four-day extravaganza got under way and not even the heavy rains could stop it. Food and game booths that were gaily-decorated on Friday and Saturday looked like a disaster area after Sunday's rains. Stage events, contests and the Pancake Breakfast were moved to the Youth Center. On parade day, the Channel 5 T.V. camera crew arrived in town and decided to film a "small town that won't let bad weather stand in the way of having a good time".

The Festival's theme, "Unity through Community Involvement", was evident as local citizens Dave Lange and Bob McGee drove about town using a loud speaker to inform citizens that the parade would get under way at 11 a.m. Crowds began to line the streets and by parade time were standing 4 and 5 deep in the reviewing stand area.

As the police informed the committee that the parade had moved out from its starting point, Festival committee members joked about having the parade circle St. Hugh's twice until the reviewing stand was placed in a new location. As the first police car passed the Mobil station, the last chair was placed on the reviewing stand.

Henry Fisher, Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen of 1975, was honored as the Parade's Grand Marshal. The award for the best float was presented to the Sligo Seventh Day Adventist Pathfinders while the C & P Telephone Company received the award for the float with the Best Bicentennial Theme. The Color Guards Awards, junior division, was received by the Boy Scout Troop 1253 while the senior division first prize was won by the U.S. Coast Guard Colors Team. Mt. Rainier American Legion Post 110 received second prize. The Charlestowne Craziest won the award for the best Comic Unit, U. S. Coast Guard for the Best Drill Team, and the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad for the best civic unit. The Best Individual Award was won by "Miss Zip", Wendy Lawson. The U.S. Coast Guard received an award for traveling the greatest distance. A 1915 Ford, driven by Charles Hughart, received the 1st place award in the Antique Car division.

The Judges Awards were presented to Sligo Seventh Day Adventist Pathfinders for first place; U.S. Coast Guard, second place,

City Prepares to Give Break to Aged, Disabled

Coming up for consideration at the next city council meeting on Monday, September 8 are two measures designed to bring Greenbelt law into conformity with State law with regard to tax and other credits for elderly and disabled persons.

The first measure would provide a tax credit to disabled homeowners comparable to the tax credit that elderly homeowners received from the city prior to the adoption of the new State "Circuit Breaker Law" which made a city ordinance unnecessary for the elderly homeowner.

Under the city proposed ordinance, the tax credit would be applicable to permanently disabled homeowners under age 60 whose gross income is not in excess of $7,000 a year. A person, to qualify, must be receiving a disability pension from social security, railroad retirement, or some other government agency.

The tax credit would be equal to the city real estate tax rate times the assessed valuation of the dwelling, up to a maximum valuation of $7,000.

The other measure deals with the credits given by the city in refuse collection fees to the elderly and disabled. These credits in the past were based on eligibility for a city tax credit but with the establishment of the State "Circuit Breaker Law", there is no longer an applicable city law dealing with tax credits for the elderly homeowner.

The new measure would establish a qualification that the homeowner or renter be over 60 or permanently disabled, and that the total household income from all sources be not in excess of $7,000. The credit would be in the form of a 50% reduction in refuse collection rates — no change from the past.

Is It Working In P.G. County?

"Is the Land Use Planning Process Working in Prince Georges County?" will be the topic of a special public forum on Wed., Sept. 10, starting at 7:45 p.m. in the County Library in Bowie, located on Md. Rte. 450 at Belair Drive. W. C. Dutton, Jr., Chairman of Prince Georges County Planning Board, and Walter H. Maloney, Jr., former County Attorney, and long-time leader in county civic and citizens associations, will be the featured speakers. The Patuxent Sierra Club is sponsoring the program, which is open to the public.

FOR THE PRESENT

No More Additions For GHI Members

by Al Skolnik

Greenbelt Homes, Inc. members wishing to build additions will have to await upon such time as the 1976 GHI budget includes funds for heavying up the electrical lines. At its August 28 meeting, the GHI board was notified that the county will no longer issue electrical permits using the old existing feeder lines. In addition, PEPCO will not provide heavy-ups for individual units; the whole row must be heavyed up at one time.

Cambodian Family Arrives

On Friday, August 29, the Huol family, refugees from Cambodia, arrived in Greenbelt. During their stay here they will be living with the Francis Scott family, 3 Olive-wood Court.

The relocation of the family from Indiantown Gap to Greenbelt is being sponsored by St. Hugh's Church parishioners. It is expected that the Huols will live here until they are integrated into American culture and are self-sustaining, probably six to eight months. The family includes the mother, Chantou, and four children two girls Pondroy 15 years and, Monychinda, 11 years and two boys, Ponroo and, Samkol, both 14.

The family was separated from Mr. Huol as they were being evacuated from Cambodia. He is still in that country and there is no information as to his whereabouts.

People in the community have been most generous in responding to the needs of the new family. Anyone desiring to participate may make contributions to the fund account at the Twin Pines Savings and Loan office.

Boys and Girls Club

More boys and girls are enrolled in the club for fall sports than in past seasons. 65 - 75 - 95 and 120 pound football teams will represent Greenbelt this season. Also 12 and under boys, 12 and under girls, 16 and under boys and 16 and under girls soccer teams are forming. Coaches and assistant coaches are needed for both sports. Please contact Oscar F. Clabaugh - 474-7413 or Jim Sacco 345-7847 to volunteer assistance.

Notice to Account Holders

TWIN PINES SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN. WILL RECONVENE ITS SPECIAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING TO GIVE A PROGRESS REPORT ON THE ARTICLES OF AMENDMENT TO THE TWIN PINES CHARTER — Wednesday, Sept. 10th at 8:00 p.m. in the Twin Pines Office.

If you cannot attend, please cast your ballot on these Articles of Amendment next time you are in the office.

THE PARADE WENT ON

by Sandra Barnes

Not a baton twirled nor leg lifted in time to the beat of drum. But the parade went on.

The reviewing stand was stuck in the mud. But no one panicked. And the parade went on.

The U. S. Army Band couldn't wait. And the majorettes didn't want their dresses to get wet. And the drummer boys didn't want their drums to get wet. But the parade went on.

The man from the U.S. Park Service arrived at 8:15 a.m. to ask whether the reviewing stand was still wanted. In the midst of the torrential downpour, this seemed like a logical question. "But, of course, we want the reviewing stand!" the Festival committee members howled. And the parade went on.

At 10 a.m., only a few hearty souls braved the elements to stand on street corners and wait. Would there be a parade this year? In its 21-year history, there have been many disasters for the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival—but the parade always went on.

Disaster Chairman, Dave Lange, assisted by Bob McGee circled the streets of Greenbelt, urging the faithful. It was 11 a.m. And the parade went on.

The clouds lightened, but there never was a promise of sunshine. They hung there, seeming to match their will against those of the Festival members. But, with a last frowning look, the parade chairman gave the signal—and the parade went on.

There were floats: the C & P Telephone Company, the Right to Life, Gino's, the Pathfinders (who lost their way, but turned up later), the Maryland Medieval Mercenary Militia, an antique car or two, the Miss Greenbelt contestants, hastily dressed in blue jeans or other casual attire (they were among those of little faith), Miss Zip, local dignitaries (incumbents and hopefuls), and two drill teams, from the Coast Guard and the Navy, who performed with precision and elegance. There were clowns, balloons, candy and bubble gum.

If the crowd was not as great as in past years, if the marching units did not seem endless, if the Greenbelt Fire Department was greeted with warmth rather than relief, the thrill was still there. That magic that is inherently part of a parade was there and it made the effort, the delays, the problems worthwhile. Because of the undaunted optimism of the Festival Committee, and especially of the Parade Chairman, Wayne Williams, the parade went on.

GHI has no funds for heavying-up the electrical lines which cost, on the average, about $1,000 a row. The original 1975 budget included some funds for this purpose but when the membership in December 1974 refused to approve an increase in the budget of 10 percent or more, this item was knocked out.

The board directed the manager to prepare a long-range program for renovating all utilities, including electrical lines, with the idea that some funds will be included in the 1976 budget and approved by the membership. In the meantime, the board has declared a moratorium on approval of all additions until the budgetary situation clarifies. This moratorium apparently will also affect approval of plans for kitchen remodeling, if additional electrical appliances are involved.

Not only is the limited electrical capacity of the GHI homes being taxed by additions, but also by the purchase of modern appliances such as larger refrigerators, freezers, washers, dryers, rotisseries, hair-dryers, garbage disposals, air conditioners, etc.

No More Excess Capacity

In the past, the county felt that there was some excess electrical capacity available at the meter trough so that it would be acceptable for individual units to run additional cables from the meter to the kitchen panel, without any heavy-up from the weatherhead (eave of building).

Now the county feels that with the increased use of appliances the old original service from the weatherhead to the kitchen fuse box is not capable of handling these individual overloads without creating a fire potential. GHI manager Roy Breashears noted that while a single request for heavy-up in a row may not necessarily mean danger, the problem can become serious when added to other requests from neighboring units.

Breashears also noted that many of the electrical conduits and insulation on service wires had deteriorated because of age, and have exceeded the danger point. The board directed that any master plan for renovation of electrical services give priority to areas where overload problems exist.

Breashears further noted that other utilities are also being used in excess of design capacity. He said that the strain on the water and heating system produced by additions and appliances has reached and exceeded the safety factors built into the original 40-year old system.

Other Matters

The board directed the manager to secure the services of Greenhorne & O'Mara to make a survey and recommendations for a permanent solution to the leaking basement problems of the new townhouses. . . . The board went on record in favor of the site opposite the GHI administrative offices on Hamilton place for a city-sponsored housing for the elderly project. . . . The board received word of the resignation of GHI director of maintenance Nicholas Dunlap, effective October 31. . . . The board indicated a desire to have the matter of auditors for next year to be opened for selection. . . . Installation of storage tanks for solar heat project is expected to begin before the end of the month.

That Dauntless Festival

Did you go to the Festival this week-end? Perhaps you thought the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival ended on Saturday night because, after-all, the rains came down with a vengeance, it seemed.

But the Festival—like the News Review and other Greenbelt institutions—has a history—21 years of history. And it never occurred to Sy Pristoop, this year's chairman, to shut down the carnival area, cancel the stage events, or stop the parade.

The Festival is a community effort to provide that last summer fling right here in the community. It is a salute to labor — and the Festival itself requires many hours of labor.

A Rain Schedule had been prepared. But no one really wanted to admit that the worst could happen. So, perhaps, the Rain Schedule wasn't as well-publicized as it might have been. But, events took place. The Recreation Department, under Hank Irving, was ready and welcomed the participants. The audience, smaller than hoped for, was nevertheless enthusiastic.

In the carnival area, the decorations passed into oblivion with each falling raindrop. But, there was a dauntless spirit prevailing. Under threatening skies and chilling temperatures, the booths opened and the rides continued.

It rained on Chairman Wayne Williams' parade. The reviewing stand didn't show up, and then, when it did, it got stuck in the mud. Majorette groups cancelled. But the spirit to go on was there. The efforts of the many were fulfilled—the tradition had been carried on.

We Greenbelters always assume there will be a Labor Day Festival each year. We rarely recognize the effort—the months of planning, the hours spent on the telephone, the endless meetings, the last-minute cancellations and additions—that go into producing a Festival over a four-day period. To all these undaunted spirits—Sy Pristoop; Bob Grigsby, vice president and facilities chairman; Ethelyn Bishop, treasurer; Wayne Williams, parade; Sandra Barnes, special events; Mary Clarke and Olga Penney, whose Salute to Workers and Special Contests had to move to the Youth Center; to Muriel Weidenfeld, recording secretary—to the unsung heroes, Kenny Voigt and his sound crew who, in addition to their regular stage duties, helped extricate the reviewing stand from the mud and practically spent 24 hours each day in their sound truck during the entire four days—we thank you for your efforts and your gallant optimism which made the 21st Labor Day Festival a success for all who attended.

THANKS

As chairman of the Carnival Area for the Labor Day Festival, I would like to take this opportunity to thank those who worked so hard to make my job so much easier.

Mrs. Castaldi and her wonderful ladies of the Greenbelt Woman's Club who served the information booth with unparalleled perseverance, grace, and complete composure when faced with the crush of people, the storm of questions, the constant ring of the telephone and the lack of cooperation from the weather. To each and everyone of you, my heartfelt thanks.

To Katie Basinger who, with the Golden Agers, served as ticket-takers for the rides, what can I say? To endure the strain of coping with lines of people, some smiling, some grumpy, some ruly and some unruly, deserves a special medal created for those who smiled through it all. To each and every one of you, also my heartfelt thanks.

To the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department, my thanks for taking upon themselves the thankless task of hosing down the carnival area each morning. True, the weather helped on Sunday and Monday mornings, but on Saturday when the crowds entered the carnival area, the spilled mustard, splattered catsup and dropped pizza stains had disappeared. To the GVPD for offering their services as a public gesture and for a job "well done", let me add my sincere appreciation.

To the city employees who, whenever called upon to re-erect a broken booth, move a piano, wire another electrical outlet, or remove the trash, did so with the professionalism and competency expected of these people, but never publicly recognized. To each and everyone of you also my heartfelt thanks.

To Ken Voigt and his co-workers I shall always be grateful, for without them the carnival area would have been a total disaster. Ken and that wonderful crew of his operated the sound system, harbored lost children, moved mud-mired trucks and in general, kept the carnival area running smoothly. To Ken and crew, my most profound and deep-felt thanks from the bottom of my heart.

Raymond Krasnick

A Unique Community

To the Editor:

In his recent quite logical critique of our city council, and his consequent dismissal of any significance to the forthcoming election, Mr. Gunn has erred, in neither his logic nor analysis, but in his understanding of Greenbelt as a unique and extraordinarily complex community, the fabric of which includes a mayor and council, however human, however frail, who function fully in reflection of the strength and weaknesses of all of us, their constituency.

Past columns of the News Review show that I have not been in agreement with the council's majority position in many matters affecting the growth and development of the city. That, however, is history and future issues are to be those which concern the qualities of our lives - their's also. They do care and they have accumulated many years of valuable service in our behalf.

We have, indeed, a considerable community investment in our mayor and council. As with all good investments, we ought to let our profits run, and re-elect those friends and neighbors of ours.

GHI Reserves Found In Perilous State

by Al Skolnik

The perilous state of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. earmarked reserves was brought home to the board at its Thursday, August 28 meeting. After allowing for 1974 experience, the reserves of the corporation allocated for specific purposes such as heating, maintenance, utilities, taxes, and contingency were down to a new low of $76,878 as of December 31, 1974. A year earlier these specific reserves had amounted to $282,586.

(These amounts should not be confused with the cash reserves of the corporation. (The $76,878 figure at the end of 1974 represents the sum of the pluses and minuses of the various specific reserves.)

Failure of the members to approve a budget increase of more than 10 percent was a major factor contributing to the drawing down of reserves by $205,708 during 1974. The 1974 budget also did not include any collection of members' charges for building up contingency reserves. The 1975 budget resumes collection of such amounts, so that the reserves today are approaching $100,000. But all the corporation needs is one good hike in fuel oil prices to wipe out this increase.

The 1974 decline in reserves occurred in the following areas:

Heat	$ 14,800
Maintenance	109,900
Taxes	62,600
Utilities	3,900
Capital improvements	8,600
Contingency	5,800

$205,700

Heating Reserves

Even though monthly charges were increased in mid-1974, the 1974 heating deficit for the frame homes amounted to $37,200. Since the frame home heating reserves were already in the red by $51,500 at the end of 1973, the total deficit in frame heating reserves at the end of 1974 amounted to $88,700.

The brick homes are somewhat better off. Their heating expenditures in 1974 came to some $23,100 less than charges. Since, however, the bricks like the frames had a deficit at the end of 1973 ($20,800), their reserve position at the end of 1974 showed only a small positive balance.

Maintenance Reserves

For both the brick and frame homes, maintenance expenditures exceeded the charges to members—by $34,900 in the case of the bricks and $73,500 in the case of the frames. These deficits were attributed to the following major areas: replacement of roofs $43,000; trim paint program $37,200; materials used over budget $13,100; and extra labor costs $13,700. At the end of 1974 all that was left in reserves for maintenance was $17,600 for the bricks and $1,100 for the frames.

For both brick and frame homes, taxes exceeded the charges to members—by $28,400 in the case of the bricks and $32,900 in the case of the frames. These deficits wiped out all the tax reserves. The corporation is still hopeful of getting a rebate on taxes as the result of its appeal of the county reassessment.

The contingency reserves as of the end of 1974 amounted to $72,600 for the brick homes, $48,100 for the frames and $800 for the new homes—a total of $121,500. They had been as high as $217,700 in 1964.

Elem. Addition Approved

Senator Edward T. Conroy was informed today by the Board of Education that the schematic drawings for the addition of a gymnasium and diagnostic wing for the Springhill Lake Elementary School were approved by the Board. Both the diagnostic wing and the gymnasium are slated to be ready for the opening of school in September of 1977.

The drawings are now at the Interagency Committee for Public School Construction for review within the next week. After approval by the Interagency Committee the architect will then go into design development drawings.

Senator Conroy, who met last year with the principal, representatives of the PTA and parents has expressed his delight with this development.

by W. Michael Chiville
Part IV Transportation

One of the greatest causes of air pollution is the automobile. Many efforts are being made to control this pollution through catalytic converters, returning apparatus and new engine design. However, if you own an older car without this equipment there are many devices you can use to increase your gas mileage and lower pollution.

When you get good gas mileage you are getting maximum power and combustion from your engine, and when combustion is complete waste products are at a minimum. Therefore it is necessary to keep your engine tuned and use low pollution fuel such as unleaded gas when possible. If your car operates well on regular gas use it, not premium grade. The octane level is important too. You should use what the manufacturer calls for and when buying gas keep the octane in your gas record book and when using other brands of gas seek the closest octane rating to it.

Oil changes produce waste oil. Too many people dump oil down the storm sewers, from which it floats into waterways, severely damaging animal and plant life. If your local gas merchant is cooperative he will allow you to put your waste oil in his collection can, which sometimes is sent off for recycling. If this is not possible, put the waste oil in an old bleach jug (plastic), cap it tightly and put it in the trash. In Greenbelt, according to Mr. Attick, head of public works, such oil is deposited in a landfill with the garbage and does not run off because the garbage soaks it up if the bottle breaks.

Another help is using car pools and public transportation. When you have four occupants in your car and get 15 miles to the gallon, you are getting 15x4 or 60 people miles to the gallon. If a bus holds 60 people and gets 5 miles per gallon, we have a vehicle capable of getting 300 people miles per gal.

Henry Fisher Named Outstanding Citizen

by Nancy Spong

Mr. Henry Fisher, of 7-E Southway, was honored at the Opening Ceremonies of the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival as the Outstanding Citizen of 1975. In the quiet, humble way that is typical of Henry, he listened while others praised him for his 10 years of volunteer service through the Greenbelt Lion's Club as chairman of Health Tests to help discover diabetes, glaucoma, tuberculosis, hearing loss, hypertension, blood cholesterol and triglyceride. In February, 1973, Henry served as co-chairman of the Heart Disease Screening Project for 2,000 Greenbelt residents conducted by the Heart Association of Southern Maryland. His name is enshrined in a book belonging to the Heart Association for his participation on Greenbelt's Risk Factor Screening Committee. He has served as chairman of the Greenbelt Health and Welfare Group which provides aids to those citizens needing eye care and glasses. As an individual, Henry has always made himself available to provide transportation and errand services for senior citizens of Greenbelt in regard to their health care needs.

Recognition for his voluntary services in the health care field has been given to Henry from the Maryland Health Department and the Board of Directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. where he was employed in the maintenance department for 15 years until his recent retirement. An honorarium was contributed in Henry's name to the Lion's Club Eye Bank and he has received numerous appreciation awards from the Greenbelt Lion's Club for his active participation in the health clinic. Henry doesn't remember what initially interested him in working in the health field, but says, "I receive great satisfaction when I see the smile on the face of an 80-year-old man when the doctor tells him his eyes are okay."

Humanitarian interests have always been an active part of Henry's life. Before moving to Greenbelt, he was employed by the B & O Railroad for eight years. Upon the death of a co-worker, Henry organized a dance and raised approximately $700 for the widow. As a representative of the Riverdale American Legion for 3 years, Henry chaired the bicycle rodeo in cooperation with the Prince Georges County Police. After moving to Greenbelt, Henry served for 10 years as chairman of the Bicycle and Tricycle Parade that participates in the Labor Day Parade under the sponsorship of the Lion's Club. Henry describes this project as "his baby" and could be seen at last Monday's parade beaming as this part of the parade passed the reviewing stand. He could even be heard yelling to the marshalls, "Keep them back" for he wanted to see them receive personal recognition as they passed T.V. cameras and judges.

Words could not describe the many times Henry has given unselfishly of his time, talent and money to Greenbelt. Among flash bulbs and embraces from citizens and fellow Lions Club members, Henry could be heard at the opening ceremony saying, "Greenbelt - you're my kind of people. Stay healthy!". Greenbelt is proud to say, "You're our kind of person" to Mr. Fisher and to call him our Outstanding Citizen.

JACK M. QUEEN

Your independent voice

PLEASE GIVE ME A MINUTE OF YOUR TIME

As Tuesday, September 16 draws nearer, the candidates for City Council enter the home stretch of their campaign. Whether the candidate is just starting his campaign after Labor Day or whether the candidate has been out working hard for the last two months (as Jack Queen has), the next two weeks are very important. The next two weeks are the last chance to touch the minds of the voters.

Qualifications:

Jack Queen has put forth a special effort to win the confidence and the support of our community with his own unique qualifications. A few are listed below.

- 1) Queen's main qualification for public office is his devotion to integrity in politics — a public office is a public trust. As Chairman of the Speaker's Bureau for Common Cause, Queen has been monitoring the conflicts of interest of officeholders for several years.
- 2) Who would be better qualified to deal with problems of city management than Jack Queen? He has formal training in City Management and City Planning.
- 3) Although Jack Queen has served on local boards (Advisory Planning Board, the Council of Government Human Resources Board and the Housing Technical Committee) Queen understands how senseless duplication of efforts at the local and higher levels of government costs the taxpayers dollars.
- 4) Jack Queen has had the opportunity to visit with many Greenbelters to rediscover the good spirit of this unique town and also to discuss some of the annoying problems. Although Queen hopes to get to each door, he has publicized his address and phone number for those he may miss.

Issues:

Based on his own survey of Greenbelters, Jack Queen has some goals for the next council. A few are listed below. He will continue to listen for others.

- 1) Complete public disclosure of all campaign contributions.
- 2) Better crime protection against petty thievery and other nuisance crimes. (A better mix of foot patrol and squad cars deserves strong consideration).
- 3) Increase tax relief for the elderly on fixed incomes. Seek ways to lower or at least maintain present taxes for all Greenbelters through wiser spending programs and Revenue Sharing.
- 4) More citizen input in consideration of the housing project for the elderly.
- 5) More realistic transportation for the elderly and the handicapped . . . A mini-bus deserves strong consideration over a large bus.
- 6) Encourage more community participation and communication in city council meetings.
- 7) Safe bikeways are needed. Also a permanent bathroom facility would be most desirable at the Greenbelt Lake.

Jack Queen would like to help rebuild and refurbish the uniqueness of our small-town community. He would be a breath of fresh air in the chambers of City Hall.

Please vote for Jack M. Queen on September 16.

3 Juveniles Charged With Jaycees Fire

by Elaine Skolnik
Three local juveniles, ages 7, 8 and 11 were charged with setting the fire that caused about $2,500 damage to the Jaycees (Junior Chamber of Commerce) club house on July 30. The matter has been turned over to the Prince Georges County Juvenile court for an intake hearing (hearing on the merits) to determine whether the court will proceed further on the matter. Criteria used to make such a decision includes family background, seriousness of the crime, intent, prior delinquent behavior, etc.

A neighborhood investigation by Greenbelt Detective Robert Smith led to the apprehension of the youths. The youngsters had been identified as having set other fires in the area. Smith said "I wish to impress upon children the serious nature and consequences of playing with matches. Parents should warn their children of these dangers."

The Jaycees hope to restore the two-level clubhouse which they have leased from the city since 1966 if the site is not selected for the housing for the elderly project. Council has been studying the matter of federally-funded housing for Greenbelt's older citizens and has several sites under consideration.

When the Jaycees took over operation of the building they installed new doors, panelled the walls on the second level, added a bathroom and purchased chairs and furniture. The organization has plans to participate in the Bicentennial, and a separate building fund has been set aside to renovate the interior of the clubhouse, paint both the interior and exterior of the building and beautify the grounds. In the main, the project will utilize the labors of the members.

Neither the city nor the Jaycees carried fire insurance on the facility, which was constructed by the Greenbelt Athletic Association on government land in 1939 (the city did not control the land until later years). Volunteers constructed the two-story cinderblock building with federal government surplus materials and with the assistance of federal and city maintenance personnel. Since that time, various private organizations have operated the clubhouse.

Quilting Exhibit At the Library

Greenbelters will have an opportunity to see unusual and beautiful quilts at the National Quilting Association's Sixth Annual Quilt Exhibit at the Greenbelt Library on September 17, 18, 19 and 20 during library hours. According to the president of the Association, Ms. Lynn Harris, 9 Empire Place, there will be at least 300 entries from all over the United States. These will include both traditional quilt patterns and original designs. In addition the Stearns & Foster Company, makers of quilt batting, who also provide patterns for traditional designs will send six very old quilts from their collection. The firm gives one of the awards in the show.

Judges are Celene Mahler of New York who decorated the White House last Christmas, Doris Bowman of the Smithsonian Textile Dept., and Fay Goldex, a teacher. Quilts are judged for quality of workmanship, design, color choice, and in the case of the non-traditional quilts, for quality of the design and its originality.

The exhibit has been held in Greenbelt since 1970, both because the Association "finds the library staff so pleasant to work with", according to Ms. Harris, and because it is centrally located with adequate parking. Demonstrations of quilting and related crafts will take place during the show. Admission is free.

Police Blotter

Following observation by Officer Ceccarelli of a littering incident on Centerway, the subject was approached by the officer and warned to clean up the mess, which he refused to do. The individual, an adult resident, was charged and incarcerated, in lieu of $100 bond, in the County Detention Center.

Investigation is continuing into the one residential breaking and entering which occurred during the week, on Ridge Road. Additionally, ten other larcenies and thirteen vandalisms were reported to the Department and were investigated.

Two autos, both from Springhill Lake, were stolen during the night hours. Neither vehicle has been recovered.

A total of twenty-five juvenile contacts were made during the week. A juvenile was charged on two separate occasions, once for disorderly conduct and once for operating an unregistered motor vehicle on the street. Following a dispute with a friend, a 14 year

County Council Sets Future Growth Goals

Convinced of the need for county commitment to clearly articulated goals and priorities, county council recently endorsed an interim statement of policies on fiscal and growth management, economic development, land use and environmental quality. Sponsored by Chairman Francis Francois, CR-47 asks that the county's population and employment growth be tied to its ability to pay for needed public facilities.

Reiterating a position taken by resolution last year, CR-47 asks that a six-year fiscal and growth management program be developed by next January that gives first priority to renewing urban areas already deficient in public facilities while also pacing urban growth and the consequent demands for facilities and services that new growth would generate.

On the subject of economic development, council is seeking a more desirable ratio of residential to employment growth and a greater stability in the county's economic expansion. According to the policy statement, Prince Georges must attract industrial, commercial and research firms with high income employees to help take the burden off personal income and property taxes. On the land use front, council aims to preserve and enhance the county's physical and cultural assets and save large open space and agricultural areas now threatened by over-encroaching urbanization. In the same framework county council seeks to assure citizens of an adequate supply of safe and sanitary housing and to encourage diversity in the design and cost of new housing.

On the theme of environmental quality, council endorsed moves to restore and maintain water quality, guarantee an adequate water supply at a reasonable price and to manage storm water to prevent loss of life and property from flooding. Generally, county legislators endorsed a comprehensive system of preserving air and water quality and devising an efficient system for disposal and recycling of the county's solid wastes.

Our Wilderness

William A. Aleshire

The Wilderness is nature's own community where man himself is a visitor. Its woods are blessed with a remarkable ability to regenerate naturally; however, abuses by man make the regeneration processes difficult, chiefly through negligence. This summer statistics find our park systems throughout the country being filled by thousands of campers, horseback riders, and hikers who are seeking escape and relaxation. Because fire is the number one cause of destruction in our wilderness, the following are a few tips to heed: 1) Don't smoke while hiking or riding, crush out your smoke by using a flat rock as your ash tray. 2) Clear the ground and area down to the mineral soil in a circle 10 feet across for cooking and warming fires; never leave your fire unattended; when you break camp, drown your fire. 3) Like Boy Scouts, leave camp site better than you found it.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenbelt announce the birth of a brand-new, bouncing Big Boy.

A new family restaurant's comin' to town. Big Boy.

And that means the famous, make that classic, Big Boy hamburger. With two patties of freshly-ground beef on a sesame-seed bun, lettuce, cheese and our own special dressing.

To say nothing of a whole bunch of delicious dinners. Zesty salad bowls. The most scrumptious strawberry pie you'll ever dig into. And even breakfast that's served any time of day or night.

All of which means that Big Boy has whatever you want, whenever you want good food.

And to make our Grand Opening even grander, we'll have free balloons for the kids.

And get this—Big Boy himself will be there. In person! This Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 11 A.M.

So come on out and meet your new arrival.

Your very own Big Boy opens
This week at Greenbelt Road and Beltway Plaza.
