School Budget Slash Forces Severe Cutbacks

by Barbara Likowski

More than 500 fewer teachers and aides; no new books; reduced school maintenance; elimination or severe cutbacks in school athletics; music, TAG and summer school programs are some of the changes which will result from action taken by the Prince Georges County Board of Education in an attempt to fit their program into a budget more than $30 million less than anticipated for 1982-83 and $2M. less than the present operating budget.

Cuts became necessary when the County Council passed its $524.6 M budget June 1 and allocated $306.3 M for education. This was $5.4 M more than had been proposed by county executive Lawrence Hogan but much less than the $337.4 M that the board had projected it would need for the coming school year.

Although council members regretted having to underfund education, they felt it necessary to increase police and fire personnel. Restricted by voter initiated restraints on raising the property tax (Tax Reform Initiative by Marylanders-TRIM), council was unable to raise the money necessary to fully fund the schools and other county programs.

The Board of Education went into emergency session Tuesday and Wednesday, June 1, 2, to try to pare down what they believed already to be a "bare bones" budget. The only way to fit the program into the money allotted, they argued, was to eliminate some, cut down others, do without some things. While they agonized over the decisions now, worry about how much worse the situation might become in 1983 has also surfaced.

Proposed Cuts

Fewer teachers in the schools will mean larger class sizes, about 2 more students per class, making about 32 altogether. (This change will save $1.6M in elementary schools and $3M in secondary schools.) The elementary school instrumental music program has been eliminated ($548,000). Athletic programs have been reduced 40% ($400,000) and the Talented and Gifted program (TAG) reduced. Elementary schools will have no more than half time librarians (eliminating 55 librarians to save $1.0M). The elementary school vocal music and physical education classes will alternate two in one week and three the other. (Nineteen music and 19 physical education teachers will be dropped—$695,000). Fulltime elementary school reading teachers will be cut by 31 teachers—35% ($550,000).

A moratorium has been put on the purchase of textbooks ($900,000) and library books ($600,000). The only textbooks which can be purchased are the consumable books for first grade—books in which beginners write and so cannot be used again—and 5th and to the science center ($136,700). A proposal to require athletes to pay transportation costs was not passed, although unlike field trips which educationally benefit the whole class, these only apply to a limited number.

Tuition has already been established to make both summer school and evening school self supporting ($600,000). Funding for 1983 summer school has been deleted ($1.0M). Head Start will go from 5 to 4 days per week ($390,000).

Transportation costs will be pared by increasing by one-half mile the walking distances for students to 1½ miles for elements—

6th grade reading books. These latter books are part of a series that have been purchased one grade at a time and have to be completed. No additional equipment will be added ($313,000) and there will be a 10% cut in materials ($609,000).

Field trip subsidies will be reduced and pupils will have to pay for all field trips, including trips

Castaldi Hopes to Capture Council Seat for Greenbelt

Greenbelt, which views itself as having been cut out of the county's political power structure by last fall's county council redistricting, is carefully laying plans to challenge its low status. In the person of its popular mayor Richard Castaldi, Greenbelt will battle Bowie for ownership of their shared county council seat.

In a related effort, the Greenbelt Democratic Club is spearheading an all out voter registration and voter education drive this summer.

Castaldi, a 9-year veteran of the Greenbelt City Council with 20 years of experience in zoning through his Park and Planning Commission job, is considered to be this community's strongest candidate for the District 4 county council seat. District 4 includes Greenbelt, Bowie and Upper Marlboro and comprises a population just over 77,600 which is 85% white. Its unusual shape is the mirror image of the original Massachusetts gerrymander.

Three Bowie candidates, school board member Al Golato, present county council member Roy Dabney and past mayor of Bowie Bill Wilding are also vying for the seat.

Castaldi told the News Review this week that he expects to make his formal announcement at a fund raiser in early July. He has been forming a campaign committee and is now preparing biographical and issues material for distribution when he begins campaigning. Castaldi's concerns center on crime prevention, the county's budgetary problems and zoning and development.

TRIM Plus Four Amendment Would Ease Budget Slightly

by Virginia Beauchamp

Far-reaching effects of the 1978 amendment to the county charter — TRIM — which froze the amount of money that could be raised from property taxes at that year's level, $144 million, are being felt deeply this month as citizens face drastic cuts in the budget for public schools. Anticipating such an eventuality, a group of concerned citizens has for several months been circulating a petition to amend the 1978 charter change by raising by 4% each year the amount of money that can be collected.

Those circulating the TRIM Plus 4 petition, as it is called, note that the original measure contains no provision for meeting the increased costs in police and fire protection that accrue to the county with new construction. Furthermore, the taxes collected from the new construction do not, under the terms of TRIM, increase the total tax limit. "The county must stretch its services to accommodate this new construction," the petitioners claim, "using existing resources. The question is—How far can these services stretch before they begin to break down?"

Gladys Spellman Parkway

The Gladys Noon Spellman Parkway Bill (H.R. - 4848) cleared the House of Representatives by a unanimous voice vote on Tuesday, June 8. The bill names the National Park Service's Baltimore-Washington Parkway for the popular 4-term congresswoman from Maryland's Fifth District (Northern Prince Georges County).

Spellman, who was instrumental in obtaining funding for repaving the Parkway in 1976, rode each day from her home in Laurel to her office on the Hill, using what had come to be known humorously among her family and friends as "Gladys' Parkway." Spellman's sister, Dorothy Noon Lupo, had appeared before the Greenbelt City Council last December to urge the city's support for the name change. "We were never able to ride with Gladys," Lupo told the council, "and not have her extol its elegant beauty, its magnificent trees, its graceful curves, and on and on." The council agreed to support the name change.

House Action

Several members of the House spoke on behalf of the bill: Steny Hoyer, elected to fill the vacancy left when Spellman was stricken by heart arrest just prior to the last election; Don Young, (R-Alaska) who was a friend; Parran Mitchell (D., Baltimore); and John Seiberling (D., Ohio) who is Chairman of the subcommittee that dealt with the bill — Public Lands and National Parks.

Hoyer asked for a unanimous vote and received it.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where Sarbanes and Mathias will be its managers. Hoyer's staff believes the Senate may act fairly quickly as there has been no opposition to the bill.

Besides the impact on the schools' budget, as noted in another article in this issue, TRIM has forced reductions in fire protection, according to the Professional and Firefighters Assn., such that 10% of fire calls go unanswered or are answered by undermanned equipment — as compared with 2% in 1978. Fire department response time has also increased.

The Fraternal Order of Police claims similar deterioration in service. Some police beats go virtually uncovered for a week at a time, they claim, and officers must shut off their car engines for extended periods of time to save gasoline, instead of patrolling neighborhoods.

The petitioners also claim that county officials have developed a "can't do" attitude toward many county programs and that programs and services are being cut without regard to their worth. At the same time county officials seem not willing to seek aggressively for alternative sources of revenue.

The Plus Four Committee's petition would place an amendment to TRIM on the November ballot. The amendment would improve TRIM by adding the property tax collected from new construction to the TRIM limit, thus providing new revenue. It would also give the County Council the flexibility to increase the TRIM limit by no more than four percent per year, if needed.

Members of the County Council, at their June 1 meeting, weary with trying to manage within the tight constraints of the TRIM amendment, have urged repeal of the measure.

Gray Panthers Organize In Greenbelt Tuesday

Persons interested in organizing a Gray Panthers group in Prince Georges County will meet Tuesday, June 15, 7:15-9 p.m. in the Greenbelt Library Conference Room. Irving Riskin, Convenor of the Gray Panthers of Montgomery County, will answer questions about the new organization and discuss Social Security.

The Gray Panthers, founded by Maggie Kuhn, are a coalition of young middle-aged, and old who fight the injustices of ageism. In ways similar to racism and sexism, ageism discriminates against persons because of chronological age in cultural relations and in social and economic institutions. Gray Panthers advocate fundamental social change that would eliminate injustice, discrimination, and oppression in the present society, help create a humane society, and heighten opportunities for people to realize their full potential, regardless of age. This year the National Gray Panther priorities are work on housing, Social Security, budget cuts and work (employment/unemployment).

Available at cost at the Greenbelt meeting will be the new book of the Metropolitan Area Gray Panthers, "Does Your Doctor Take Medicare Assignment", a Directory of Doctors accepting Medicare Assignment in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties, D.C. and Northern Virginia. For additional information telephone Esther Webb, 474-6890 or Nancy Knoll - 345-4452.

Ragtime, Renaissance At Cultural Arts Center

by Paula Lipman

On June 11 and 12, Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m. the "Rosebud Ragtime Ensemble" will play the zestful classical rags of Scott Joplin and other music of the early 1900's at the Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center. The "Rosebud Ragtime Ensemble" uses the authentic style of a small salon orchestra of 1900's and brings its audience such toe-tapping Scott Joplin favorites as "The Entertainer," "The Rosebud March," and "The Sunflower Slow Drag."

The band was first formed in Greenbelt in 1976 and its instruments range from tuba to piccolo. The term "Rosebud" in the title refers to the cafe in St. Louis where early ragtime pianists met at the turn of the century.

Seven musicians currently perform in the ensemble: Tom Pacl, the leader and founder, plays piano; Marcy Jacobs, flute/piccolo; Joe Stevick, clarinet; Bruce Weaver, trumpet; Jack Gurin, violin and trombone; Bob Resnick, drums; and Don Dehart, tuba.

On Saturday June 19 at 8:15 p.m. the choral group "Musikanten" will perform "A Renaissance Musikfeste" with singers in full courtly costumes of the Renaissance period at the Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center.

This concert is a benefit for the Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center and Wolf Trap. "Musikanten" (literally musicians) was founded in June, 1979 by director Kerry Krebill with singers interested in classical and renaissance music suited to a chamber chorus. The ensemble became an instant favorite with early music lovers through its elaborately costumed and lively Renaissance performances. The choir has made appearances at the Kennedy Center, Wolf Trap, Maryland Renaissance Fair, the Smithsonian Institution and as guest singers at many special church services and festivals. For information call 474-7763, 345-3516, 345-4487. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

CFG Zoning Group Hears Talk On Excess Research Farm Land

by Barbara Likowski

Dr. Paul Putnam, director of the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC), gave an informational talk at the Greenbelt Library on May 24 to the zoning committee of the Citizens for Greenbelt (CFG). To better inform Greenbelters about the proposed "excess" BARC land that Senator Charles Percy's resolution had dealt with, CFG opened the meeting to all interested citizens. Despite the fact that a city council meeting was being held that night, about 25 people attended.

Percy's resolution would declare federal land as "excess" that was not being used to its optimum. Such land would be sold and the resulting money, Percy contends, would help to reduce the national debt. The proposed action represents a basic policy change by the administration. Criteria used to dispose of the land would now be the financial (real estate) value of the land. Formerly Federal land declared surplus was offered to other federal agencies, then to state, county, or local municipalities or charities. If none could see a public use for it, it was then sold to the highest bidder.

In 1979 NASA and the Patuxent Wildlife Refuge received BARC "excess" land. Greenbelt received 13.9 acres in 1972 and 1.9 acres in 1975 for parkland. Under the Percy plan this practice would be discontinued and land would be put up for sale at its current market value.

Because of the estimated high value of the BARC land, public agencies and local governments with limited budgets probably could not afford to buy this "prime" land, leaving the sale open to developers. It would be up to the agencies involved to review their land and decide what was no longer being used to the optimum.

Putnam gave background material about the Center, illustrated by maps that showed where land had been disposed of in the past to federal and local government agencies and where proposed "excess" BARC land is located. Location of wetlands, forested areas, and research areas was also shown on the maps. In 1979, he explained, a land use master plan was approved. The new proposal to sell represents a departure from that plan. Copies of the Master plan are available at the city offices.

Presently some BARC land which might be thought to be less than optimum use is being kept as a buffer, as wetlands, drainage areas needed to support acreage used for crops, research programs, and the like, Putnam noted.

At this time parcels 5 and 13 are targets for "excessing." Parcel 5, about 10 acres, lies north of the agricultural library, bordered by Route 1, Sunnyside and Rhode Island Ave. Parcel 13 is in the northern part of the tract Odell Rd., to Springfield Rd. and the Baltimore-Washington Parkway (north side of the brook). Other areas will be reviewed in about a year to see if they are being used to their utmost.

do and to whom they could write, Putnam reminded his audience that he had been requested to come and give information only. It was up to people to let their representatives know how they felt about the sale of the land, which Putnam had characterized as (1) an agricultural research center for all, (2) a showcase for what public service can do for the population that is constructive and (3) a wedge planned for the metropolitan area and about the only open land its size left in the area.

People might write to Secretary of Agriculture John Block, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. or Dr. Terry B. Kinney, Administrator of the Agricultural Research Service, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. People can also contact the National Capital Planning Commission, 1325 G Ct., NW, Washington, D.C. or their state and federal representatives.

Irene Hensel suggested that CFG might consider a petition drive to save the BARC land. Members saw the sale of BARC land as the beginning with possibly more to follow.

After Putnam's talk Barry Schlesinger, zoning committee chairman, described several zoning issues in the Greenbelt area, including the disposition of North End school, surplus school land, and parcels 1 and 2, which are up for rezoning for townhouses.

Schlesinger hoped to have an active zoning committee and with that in mind, passed out a sign-up sheet for prospective members. Enough people were needed, he said, so that CFG can keep track of what is going on. When information is gathered by the committee, they can notify the board so that it can take action.

President Dorothy Baluch added that the board hoped to approve a policy on zoning questions to take to the membership for approval. Then the board can work with that policy and not have to return to the membership each time an issue comes up. Faster action will then be possible, she said.

tary students and 2 miles for secondary students ($645,000). (Exceptions will be made in cases where hazardous conditions prevail.) Transportation routes will be revised so that underused buses can be eliminated by combining elementary and junior high pupils who are going in the same direction. (Thirty-seven new buses will not be purchased—$800,000).

School maintenance will be drastically curtailed. Auxiliary crews which fill in for absentees will be cut by 51 people, leaving 8 ($714,000). Housekeepers will be eliminated ($313,000), as will summer maintenance, week end and grounds maintenance help.

The closing of Bethune and one other junior high school will save $700,000. This had already been proposed.

Walk-in counseling centers for the whole family will be closed ($27,000). The present parent information booklet will be changed to a newspaper format ($22,000). Slashing board members' travel expenses will save $4,800.

The special education program has been cut in many ways, ranging from loss of specialists and aides to reduced summer camp.

In one instance a principal has been assigned to two elementary schools ($18,000). Twelve secondary vice-principals have been cut ($219,000), as have elementary school vice-principals, school psychologists and other administrative personnel. Clerical and other help has also been reduced.

Floating faculty will be eliminated. They will be partly replaced by a high school instructional team, which will help with the transition from junior high to high school ($220,000).

Hogan has maintained that the teachers' salary increase should be kept to 3 or 4% but had previously been negotiated at 6%. Representatives of the teachers union met Monday night, however, and voted to refuse to renegotiate their contract.

LaLeche League

La Leche League will hold a special meeting about toddlers on Tuesday, June 15 at 10 a.m. at 34 E Ridge Road. Mothers or soon-to-be-mothers of the "older nursing baby" are especially invited. For more information, phone 345-2670.

Woodland Hills 25th Anniversary

by Michael Burchick

Woodland Hills residents celebrated their 25th anniversary with a picnic last Sunday, June 6. It was a joyous double celebration which included the 45th anniversary of the City of Greenbelt. Former residents joining the reunion were Jim Cassels and Phil Wismer. The oldest residents were Walter and Leone Penney who moved here in May, 1957. The latest newcomers are Linda and Jack Richards. Woodland Hills development was made possible by Jim Cassels, Charles McDonald (former City Manager) and Tony Madden. We missed you, Tony, and wish you a speedy recovery.

A symbolic mortgage burning for 25 year residents was enjoyed by all. Credit for the success of the celebration goes to Betty Timer, picnic chairperson, and board members, Mark Davis, June Rousseau, Harvey Mann and Rick Barber. Elected to the board were Joe Wilkinson and Helen Geller.

Some quotable quotes during the celebration were:

Jim Cassels - "Greenbelt is a place for families."

Jim Bates - "It's nice when friends can get together."

Rick Barber - "Buy now." (What else did you expect from a Realtor?)

Betty Timer - "Lovely turnout."

Linda Richards - "It's a privilege to be a newcomer to such a fine community."

Kristen Davis and Michael Kramer, speaking for the children said: "I like it. I like it."

Finally, in words that best expressed what we all feel in our hearts (from Jordan Choper) "A neighborhood is a rare item in

FIRST FLEA MARKET SATURDAY, IN CENTER

Saturday, June 19, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. marks the first flea market in the Greenbelt Shopping Center, supported by the City Council and sponsored by the Cultural Arts Center. While the event will be a fund-raiser for the Arts Center, the primary objective will be to bring residents and non-residents into the historic shopping center and boost the economic vitality of the shopping center. Such markets are extremely popular and the Arts Center hopes to benefit from it by promoting events running at the Arts Center while providing patrons with the additional attraction of live performances.

It is intended that the market will be a mixture of both yard-sale and arts and crafts items. There will be no food sales outside of freshly baked goods. Five by 8 foot spaces will be rented for a fee. To reserve a space, or to help out with the running of the market, contact Ann or Anthony Pisano at 474-7841.

Comical clowns Karl and Nancy Knoll will be an added attraction. If anyone else is interested in performing on a volunteer basis, please contact Konrad at 345-9369. In the event of rain, the market will be held in the Utopia Theater.

today's society. It doesn't occur by itself. It has to be cultivated by those who live there. That is why Woodland Hills must be continued."

Congratulations to all Woodland Hills residents for making this day a memorable celebration. I'm proud to be a member of this community.

SWEDISH DELEGATION

Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) is proud of its reputation among other cooperatives. For many years, members of co-ops from around the world have visited GHI. GHI's Rehabilitation Program has added a new dimension to this interest. Such was the case on June 3 when a Swedish delegation visited Greenbelt specifically to learn about GHI's Rehabilitation Program.

Approximately a dozen people from the Special Committee of the Counsel on Building Restoration in Sweden, the National Consumer Cooperative Bank and the Cooperative Housing Federation spent the afternoon at GHI. The delegation included one Norwegian, officials from the Swedish Ministry of Housing, the Swedish National Tenants Association and the University of Stockholm. Almost 15 percent of all housing in Sweden is cooperative housing.

General Manager Tim Mitter began the occasion with introductions. Next, GHI's historical slide show gave the visitors background information. Afterwards, GHI President Jim Smith spoke about developments leading to the Rehab Program. Then the slide show on heat and hot water conversion was shown. Visitors were also given a comprehensive packet of information: Rehab Bulletins, GHI Newsletters, the Annual Report and GHI Brochure.

Using several vehicles, the group toured Greenbelt. The progression of rehab work was illustrated by vinyl siding work as the visitors saw first "zebra-stripe" homes, then a frame building completely stripped of shingles and finally newly sided buildings. On the tour rehab work — new roofs, windows, insulation, crawl space work, etc. — was pointed out. The group stopped at 6 court Ridge intending to view the new windows from the outside. One

VISITORS OF GHI

GHI member, Richard Benson, kindly offered a spur-of-the-moment tour of his brick home. A scheduled tour was also made of Staff Architect Stan Sersen's block home.

The group returned to the offices for coffee and cake and a question and answer session. The visitor's questions reflected concern about staffing, pay, demographics, rehab financing and its effect on monthly charges. They were impressed with the number of members who expressed the intention to remain in GHI for their entire lives in a survey taken several years ago. One question was, "How were members persuaded to take this big step (rehab)?" "The biggest job was persuasion," explained Audit Committee member Katherine Keene. "We can't forget that we have members on low income," she added. Smith noted that to reflect member wishes, the program was adjusted and changed.

GHI staff took advantage of the opportunity to learn about Swedish cooperatives. "How do you handle resales in Sweden?" Sersen wondered. In many cases, the local community will guarantee part of the loan. Units are sold for whatever the market will bring which is naturally dependent upon the unit's condition. No actual inspection is made. Residents are only responsible for what doesn't affect a neighbor.

As the session ended, visitors expressed their thanks for a "very interesting day." "We're very impressed with the hospitality," said Lennard Myhlback, Head of the International Department in the Ministry of Housing and Physical Planning. He added, "I think you can be very proud of what you have here."

The Swedish delegation's tour will continue with brief visits to St. Louis, Chicago, Philadelphia
