Greenbelt's Great Fabulous Festival Gets Going Friday thru Labor Day

by Sandra Surber Smith

The 1980 U.S. Census reports the population of the City of Greenbelt to be 18,000; and most of them will take part in this weekend's Labor Day Festival as will hundreds of visitors from nearby communities or from far away. Visitors include former residents of Greenbelt who look forward to seeing old friends during the Festival and participating in the events they remember from past festivals. Tradition and adventure are part of Greenbelt's 34th annual Labor Day Festival. Thus, participants can join in many activities which were in the first festival in 1954 as well as enjoy something new every year.

The Festival's theme, "Unity through Community Involvement," is illustrated by the hundreds of people who work for months to organize and run the Festival, making the Greenbelt festival the largest all-volunteer event of this kind in the State of Maryland.

From Friday, September 2 through the afternoon of Monday, September 5, the Labor Day Festival will be filled with activities, games, entertainment for residents and visitors of all ages. New this year as part of the Festival is the Little Miss Greenbelt pageant for younger girls in the community. This year as a special fundraiser for the Quest Drug Program, the Lion's Club is sponsoring a raffle of two season tickets to the Redskins. Drawing of the winning raffle ticket, on sale throughout the Festival, will be during the Miss Greenbelt Crowning on Sunday evening.

Festival Opens

The festival officially opens with a concert by the Greenbelt Concert Band, followed by the introduction of city officials, the announcement of the 1988 Outstanding Citizen, and drawing of the free ride tickets. Free chances for the tickets are distributed throughout the carnival midway just before the ceremonies begin. Also at this time, a traditional favorite, Notlim the clown, will be back to entertain children in the midway area.

Carnival

The carnival midway will be open from 6-11 p.m. on Friday, 1-11 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday and after the parade on Monday. In the midway, there are games, rides and activities for all ages. Riders can enjoy the carnival rides at a special low rate with an "all you can ride ticket." Discount coupons for these tickets are on sale throughout the city. Bingo, zoo dip, used book sale, ring toss, peace and environmental board games, dunking booth, goldfish toss, and first aid and ident-a-kid are just some of the activities sponsored by community groups at carnival booths. The Board of Elections Vote-Mobile will be set up at the carnival for all four days. On Saturday, Information Please, will feature table displays by community groups.

Entertainment

Entertainment is a special part of the Labor Day Festival, with talented acts on stage throughout the weekend. Friday night's band is the cajun sound of Little Red and the Renegades. The children's talent show, signing to music, sahara dancers, and juggling mania entertain Saturday afternoon.

The Little Miss Greenbelt and Miss Greenbelt contestants will be on stage Saturday night, followed by an original rock and roll group, Airwave. On Sunday, the musical entertainment begins with Leon Morris and Associates, a bluegrass group and continues with the Bob Brown Puppets, and the magicadabra act of Christian the Magician.

On the stage, Sunday evening both the Little Miss Greenbelt and the 1988 Miss Greenbelt will be selected and crowned. Visitors can catch Talent Show highlights next and then enjoy the Ralph Case Square Dancers, who have performed at many Greenbelt Labor Day Festivals. This theme continues with Diamond Wheels, a square dancing demonstration on Monday, followed by the folk-singers, Partners in Song, Studio of Korean Karate, and the contemporary music of Ray

Greenbelt Lake - - The Greater The Help, the Higher the Price Tag

by Betsy Likowski

In recent years Greenbelt lake has been rapidly filling up with sediment and masses of water plants. This process has happened more rapidly than it would have naturally because of the development of the core of Greenbelt—the area that drains into the lake. Since man has caused the problem, man-made solutions, city officials believe, need to be tried to help Greenbelt lake.

Consultants Dames & Moore, a Bethesda firm have recently outlined the problems with suggested solutions for the lake, in a report presented to the city council on July 25. Council will discuss the options at a work-session on September 8 and will act at the next council meeting on Sept. 19. If the city is ready to go to bid in October, work can be done during the winter. This timing would avoid working when fish are spawning and hatching in the spring.

Problems

Dames & Moore's tests discovered what is visibly apparent: too much sediment (bits of soil and dirt) and too many weeds are in Greenbelt Lake.

For example, the lake was thought to be 18 feet at its deepest point, but was discovered to be only 12 feet deep. See LAKE, page 12

Clumps of weeds and algae fill the surface of the lake near the end of the peninsula (back right).

County Schools to Open Tuesday, September 6

by Barbara Likowski

Tuesday, September 6 will be the first day of school for approximately 104,300 students in the Prince Georges County school system. Enrollment which had been decreasing for the past few years had begun to increase last year and about 1,000 more students are expected this year. The county will operate 173 instructional facilities, including two vocational education centers, ten special education centers, 44 Magnet schools, and 19 Milliken II schools (schools of limited integration which offer additional staffing and enriched resources to students).

Currently the Prince Georges County School system maintains a fleet of about 900 school buses which has one of the best safety records in the state. Bus transportation is to be considered a privilege which can be lost if students misbehave. Transportation then becomes the responsibility of the parents. For Greenbelt bus schedules see the box elsewhere in this paper.

New Programs

Thirteen programs will be offered at 44 Magnet schools this year. The Magnet schools are specialized schools instituted as a means of achieving integration. They are open on a first come, first served basis, based on integration guidelines. There was a special registration for these last winter. Two new magnet school programs will operate this year. A Biotechnology magnet program at Fairmont Heights High School is designed to provide rigorous 4-year preparation for further studies and professional training in biotechnology. Also a Communication and Academic Studies magnet program will be offered at Kettering Elementary School in Largo. The focus here will be on strong scholastic skills for communication. Emphasis will be on higher level thinking skills such as analysis, problem solving etc. and will include use of a writing lab, instruction in Spanish for grades 4-6, in-school television broadcasts produced and developed by students, student publication of a newspaper and a literary magazine. Communication and Academic Studies will be provided at Kettering Middle School beginning in the 1989-1990 school year.

A third new program is the addition of computers in every second and third grade classroom in the non-magnet and non-Milliken II schools. These computers will be used as "instructional aids" within the classroom helping teachers provide individualized lessons in reading

St. Hugh's Starts Tuesday

St. Hugh's elementary school will open this year on Tuesday, September 6. Second through eighth graders will attend half day sessions during the first week. Readiness tests will be given individually throughout the week to first graders.

and math. A language arts program will be added next year. Each classroom will have four Computers linked or networked to one another and together with a master computer station in the principal's office. The system employs the advantages of "Compact Disc - Read Only Memory" (CD-ROM) technology for allowing as many as 40 students to simultaneously use a wide variety of instructional lessons.

The students wear headphones that allow all four computers to be used without disturbing one another or the rest of the class. Each computer station includes a full-color monitor, keyboard and a pointing device (called a mouse). The students respond to visual or audio questions or prompts as the lessons proceed, allowing the students to learn by hearing, seeing and touching.

Lunch Prices

Lunch prices have increased slightly this year. Lunch will be $1.10 for elementary school pupils and $1.15 for secondary students. Breakfast will be 75 cents for all students and milk will cost 25 cents.

A reduced lunch price of twenty cents and breakfast, 10 cents will be charged to those children whose families qualify under income guidelines. Information about this will be sent home with the children.

Registration

State law requires school attendance by every child between the ages of six and 16. Those See SCHOOLS, page 2, col. 2

Greenbelt Museum Salutes the Family

by Sandra Barnes

The Friends of the Greenbelt Museum salute the family in a special Labor Day exhibit, "A Greenbelt Family Works at Home." -The Greenbelt Museum will be open additional hours during this week-end: Saturday, 1 to 4 p.m., as well as Sunday, noon to 4 p.m. The house will be set up with artifacts that demonstrate how a 1930s family maintained a home. On display will be a treadle sewing machine, a rug beater, a mangle and other household wares.

The Greenbelt Museum has had over 665 visitors since January 1. These have included a history class from Prince Georges Community College, a group of architects, a cub scout troop, and many first family members.

A few weeks ago, Margery Taylor, the former secretary of the architect for Greenbelt, Reginald Wadsworth, was thrilled at her first visit to the town in over 50 years. She had never been inside one of the homes and was delighted at the opportunity to visit and exchange stories with the docents on duty that day before returning to her home in Florida.

"Me and My Girl" Is Funny and Charming

by Mavis Fletcher

The current hit show at the National Theatre and the town of Greenbelt have a lot in common—they both opened in 1937 to long and successful runs. The revival of the vintage musical "Me and My Girl" opened August 17 at the National to bravos from the first night audience and critical acclaim in the reviews which followed. Both were richly deserved.

The musical hangs its hat (actually, its derby) on one of those improbable English plots about the sudden appearance of the rightful heir to an earldom and the efforts of his stuffy relatives to whip him into shape to be worthy of his new position. Never mind the plot. It doesn't matter at all. What matters is charm—loads of charm, overflowing abundance of charm. And in addition to that, it has funny lines, wonderful songs, and superlative dancing.

This is the show which introduced the world to the Lambeth Walk, the dance craze which swept Europe and America in the '30s. When you see "Me and My Girl" you'll know why and you'll be humming it for days.

Tim Curry as the new earl and Donna Bullock as the girl he won't give up even for an earldom are marvelous. The show belongs to Curry but the whole cast is wonderful. Special mention must be made of Erick Devine as the solicitor, Barrie Ingham as Sir John Tremayne, and Lenka Peterson as the new earl's formidable aunt. Everyone in the large cast, including the ensemble, is just right.

"Me and My Girl" is directed by Mike Ockrent with choreography by Gillian Gregory, sets by Martin Johns and costumes by Ann Curtis. It will play at the National Theatre through Oct-2, Tuesdays through Sundays at 8 p.m. with Saturday matinees at 2 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 3 p.m. Tickets are available at all Ticketron outlets, by Telecharge at 1-800-233-3123 and at the National box office at 1321 Pennsylvania Ave. NW. For general information call 628-6161.

Chronic Pain Outreach Association to Meet

The Prince Georges chapter of the National Chronic Pain Outreach Association, will meet on the first Monday of every month from 7-8:30 p.m. at the offices of Dr. Robert Gerwin, 7500 Hanover Parkway. This self help group meets for the purpose of sharing experiences to help each other alleviate some of the suffering associated with chronic pain.

For more information call Mike Vaccaro, chapter coordinator, 441-1780, or Toni Powell, 982-7944. There is no fee. This month's meeting will be held Sept. 12, due to the Labor Day holiday.

who will be five before January 1, 1988 may attend kindergarten. Parents of students new to the school system who have not pre-registered should bring their child's birth certificate, proof of residence in Prince Georges County (deed, rental contract), record of immunization and the child's last report card if entering first grade or above.

Extra-Curricular Activities

Students will still need to have a 2.0 or better grade average in order to participate in sports or activities, but averages will be computed each quarter instead of each semester as was done in the past.

Expulsion Policy

Strict standards will continue to be upheld for drug, alcohol and weapons (including knives) abuse. Students need to be aware that none of these may be brought to school at any time, and that expulsion will result should this rule be broken. According to the Code of Student Conduct, students will be expelled for the first offense involving the use of or possession of weapons. For incidents involving drugs or alcohol the students will be expelled for the first offense involving distribution and the second offense involving possession. Most of these students are not eligible for readmission to the Prince Georges County school system. Students who are readmitted must remain expelled for at least the remainder of the semester in which the incident occurred and the following full semester. They must also present documentation of satisfactory participation in the alcohol/drug treatment program.

Newcomers to the school system should call the School Boundaries office, 952-6300 to ascertain which school their children should attend.

Medical Waste Alert

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) has advised citizens who come upon medical waste not to touch or handle it in any way. Joe Lechman, telephone 794-6800, of Prince Georges County Health Department should be contacted regarding disposal of medical waste.

GREENBELT CONNECTION HOLIDAY SCHEDULE

Six Hour Runners Not Deterred by Heat

The Prince Georges Running Club held its second annual Six Hour Lake Run, not a race, at Greenbelt Lake starting at 7:30 a.m. and finishing at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, August 14. The purpose of this event is to allow participants to see how far they can run in six hours. Runners can, however, run any distance or time they wish in that period. Dick Good (58) of Greenbelt ran the greatest distance of 31.9 miles (25 laps of the lake) in the six hour time limit. Good is a veteran of many 50 and 100 mile races. Notably the second longest distance was made by Paul Robertson (49) a race-walker from Gaithersburg who did 27.1 miles. He said it was his --40th time at or over the marathon distance of 26.2 miles as a runner or walker. The first woman runner was Sharon Leigh. Arlington 11.5 miles. The only woman walker was Pauline Stickels of Greenbelt who did 6.4 mile. Ray McCawley did 10 miles and Larry Noel 4 miles. Both of Greenbelt.

It was a very hot day, over 90 degrees, and the PGRC cautioned the runners and walkers to go slower than usual and drink plenty of water. Jim Wass, one of the better racewalkers in the area, from Riverdale, did 12.7 miles. Wass holds a clinic and training program for beginning walkers at Roosevelt High School early on Saturday mornings. His number is 699-1477.

Upcoming races include the annual D.C. Road Runners 15 kilometer (9.3 miles) on Sunday, September 4 at 6 p.m. starting at Braden Field as part of the Labor Day Festival and a 3 kilometer (1.8 miles) at 6:10 p.m. On Sunday, September 25 the Second Annual Coakley & Williams 10 kilometer (6.2 mile) race and a one-mile run will be held at the Greenway Shopping Center. Call 345-9730 ext. 360 for information or entry; information about running from Larry Noel 474-9362.

College Park's Feud with County Could Delay Finish of Green Line

by Elaine Skolnik

The longstanding feud over Metrorail between College Park and the county could delay the scheduled 1993 completion date of the Green Line to the Greenbelt terminus. The latest flap involves the unwillingness of the College Park City Council at its August 9 meeting to approve the sale of a 19-acre city-owned tract to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority. The council wanted assurance that specific guarantees are contained in an agreement with the county before signing off on the sale (see separate story).

In the meantime, County Executive Parris Glendening has asked the state to initiate condemnation procedures on behalf of WMATA. In his August 4 letter to Richard H. Trainor, Secretary of the Maryland Department of Transportation, Glendening said "... it appears that the City will continue to holdout on voluntarily selling the land, or permitting WMATA right-of-entry to commence construction."

WMATA temporarily requires the 19 acres for the construction of the Metro Green line through that area. Fill from the land will be used to create a haul road between the site at Cleveland Avenue in College Park and the Greenbelt Station to avoid heavy truck traffic on city, county and state roads. The haul road, in turn, will become the trackbed for the rails and the remainder of the fill material will be used at the Greenbelt Station parking lot. When this process is completed, the 19 acres, along with additional land, will be developed as Lake Metro, which will be conveyed to the Maryland-National Capital Park & Planning Commission.

WMATA would pay the City of College Park about $1.3 million for the 19 acres which the city acquired from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for the Lakeland Urban Renewal project. Any proceeds the city receives from the sale will revert to HUD, according to College Park City Administrator John V. Doane.

EPA Letter

Another complication surfacing recently was a letter from the Environmental Protection Agency to the Corps of Engineers questioning the approval of permit applications for construction of the proposed Greenbelt Metro station because wetlands would be destroyed. A spokesperson for the Corps said the EPA letter is being evaluated. However, a request by the News Review for a copy of the letter, was refused. It was explained that the letter should not have been released. (Councilman Alvin Kushner brought the letter up at the August 9 meeting of the College Park City Council. Several others at the meeting also had copies.)

Over the years College Park City Councils have battled with the county and WMATA over the alignment of a permanent replacement road for Calvert Road, which will be closed when construction begins on the College Park station. The city has pressed for a southern route to avoid running the road through the residential district. However, a northern alignment, preferred by the county and the University of Maryland, was approved by the county.

According to Erwin Nase, president of the College Park Pilots Association, the organization, along with others, will continue to fight plans to run the subway line close to the College Park Airport. (About three eighths of an acre of land at the extreme southwest corner of the airport will be used.) Nase said that other groups may join the organization in filing an injunction to restrain construction of the College Park station. A suggested alternative by airport supporters to construct the line underground has been described as prohibitively expensive by WMATA officials.

Efforts by College Park Councils have also been unsuccessful so far in getting the county to agree to build a temporary replacement road between Route 1 and Kenilworth Avenue. (When

Green Light

The Urban Mass Transportation Administration has given the green light for completion of the last leg of the Green Line through College Park to Greenbelt. UMTA released $149.6 million on August 29 after major environmental and historical studies received approval. Reportedly, these funds do not cover the cost of the Greenbelt service yards to be located north of the Beltway on Beltsville Agricultural Research Center land.

Tim Ayers, press officer for County Executive Parris Glendening, said there was hope that the College Park Council would sign off on the agreement proposed by the county in light of UMTA's action and the assurances Glendening has received from Governor William Donald Schaefer that the state would quickly move forward with condemnation proceedings for the 19-acre tract needed for the Green Line construction. The county, he said, would prefer not to go to condemnation.

Calvert Road is closed, drivers traveling east-west will be forced to use East-West Highway or Greenbelt Road instead.) County and WMATA officials estimate an 18 to 24 month delay if a temporary road were built, with the probable increased cost ranging from $4 to $6 million.

College Park Council Not Ready to Vote

by Dan Kulpinski

The College Park City Council remains unhappy with Prince Georges County Executive Parris Glendening's proposed revision of an agreement to accompany the sale of land for the College Park Metrorail station. The city council met August 9, to consider the county's terms, but left the issue on the table subject to further negotiations.

Among the terms of the agreement are: (1) construction, "in a timely fashion" of Lake Metro along with recreational facilities, (2) "minimization, through appropriate buffering and screening, of adverse noise and visual effects on residential neighborhoods from the northern roadway," (3) "minimization, of the time between the closing of Calvert Road and the opening of the alternative northern roadway," (4) County Executive support for a transportation district overlay zone to eliminate density of development in the vicinity of Metrorail facilities in College Park, (5) completion of new hiker-biker trails along the northern roadway, (6) "opposition to locating any proposed mass burn facility within the city and its vicinity, inside the Capital Beltway."

In return for these county commitments, the proposed agreement states that College Park would provide WMATA with the "immediate right of entry, as necessary, to City property for construction of the Green Line so that Green Line construction is not delayed." Conveyance of the property would follow.

Councilmembers Michael Jacobs and Joseph Page expressed concern over the lack of specifics in the new proposed agreement. Page said that correspondence from constituents revealed a desire to clear up what a "minimum of time" between the closing of Calvert Road and the opening of an alternate route, would be.

Jacobs also complained that the document did not address traffic maintenance in specifics, but only stated that Calvert road would be closed. Jacobs, who called the earlier draft of the agreement "loose" and "superficial," was disappointed with the language in the revision. "For the most part, I think the agreement covers the things the city needs to move forward," conceded Jacobs, but he also pointed out that it is not clear where the replacement road for Calvert Road will go because there is only a baseline, giving the general area of where the road could go, on the planning map.

Council had received the revised proposed agreement the Monday night before the meeting. News of the county's plea to the state to start condemnation procedures on 19.4 acres of land was common knowledge, Glendening wrote Governor Schaefer Aug. 4 asking for condemnation procedures to begin. Councilman Alvin Kushner felt the county was trying to intimidate the council, and remarked, "I don't like rambo-type politics." Jacobs called the action "foolish."

If the land is condemned, a court would decide if the land must be sold by the city at fair market value to the government because the public good is served.

Mayor Anna Owens pointed out that "we have to be realistic about what we can get and what we can't get." She also expressed concern about the "trickle-down effect" on other areas of the city if the debate went on for an unspecified amount of time.

"I can only believe the county wants to see this issue resolved," said Owens, who said she would call a special meeting as soon as the city administrator has resolved the debated issues with the county. Council will meet in worksession on Tuesday, September 6 to discuss the matter.

Another obstacle came up at the meeting, when Kushner mentioned that the Environmental Protection Agency has asked the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to withhold construction permits because of EPA's concerns over destruction of wetlands by Green Line construction.

Helen Chasanow

Helen L. Chasanow, 76, former long-time resident of Greenbelt died of cancer on August 27 at the National Institutes of Health.

Born in Philadelphia, Mrs. Chasanow moved to the area in 1933. In 1939 she and her husband Abraham moved to Greenbelt where they raised four children. She was active in the Woman's Club. "She was in everything," related her daughter Phyllis Richman, "and then she was president. She liked to organize events." For example, when Greenbelt brought refugee children from Europe for a week's vacation in 1940 and '41, she was the organizer. The Greenbelt Cookie Jar was another war-time project. Women's groups baked cookies for area servicemen on home leave or in area hospitals. A photo of the tall cookie jar along with Mrs. Chasanow and several others which appeared in the Cooperator (forerunner of the News Review) was repeated in the Washington Post and the national Red Cross newsletter. Mrs. Chasanow was also a news editor for the Cooperator. "She liked organizing and sponsoring things to help people directly, offering personal assistance," reflected Richman. Greenbelt was a "life-time community" for the family, she added.

In 1955 Mrs. Chasanow began her career in real estate when her husband purchased the building that housed the town's early police and fire departments for his new enterprise — Greenbelt Realty. She was a founder and headed both the county and state Women's Councils of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Mrs. Chasanow retired in 1977, and in 1981, they moved to Silver Spring.

Mrs. Chasanow is survived by her husband; daughters Phyllis Richman of Washington, Myrna of Silver Spring and Ruth Heitlin of Alexandria; a son, Howard S. of College Park; two brothers, a sister and seven grandchildren.

Interment was at King David Memorial Garden on August 28. Expressions of sympathy may be made to the American Cancer Society.

Raymond DuBois

Raymond O. DuBois Jr., 29, died Thursday, August 25, after his car crashed into a burning tanker truck on the Beltway.

Mr. DuBois was only a few minutes away from home during his daily commute when the truck skidded across the Beltway median into the path of Mr. DuBois' Toyota and burst into flames.

A computer specialist, Mr. DuBois worked for the Department of the Army in Northern Virginia. He also played the string bass and the electric bass and had performed with the Fairfax Symphony.

Mr. DuBois had been married for two years to his wife, the former Janet Clemens. He was a 1977 graduate of Parkdale High School and graduated from University College at the University of Maryland, College Park.

The couple moved to Greenbelt a year ago. Mr. DuBois' sister, Renee DuBois, said that her brother had been "very involved with his work and his new marriage."

Mr. DuBois is also survived by his parents, Raymond Sr. and Therese DuBois of New Carrollton, and by his brothers, Michael and Daniel DuBois. A Mass of Christian Burial was said on Sunday, August 28, at St. James Catholic Church in Mt. Rainier. Burial took place the following day at Ft. Lincoln Cemetery.

One of Greenbelt's first families, the Shields moved into 43-C Ridge Road in 1937 and later to 6-E Hillside. They moved to College Park in the early 1950's.

Mrs. Shields is survived by her husband William S. Sr., of College Park; sons, Stape Shields of Dickerson, Maryland, and Lee Shields of Greenbelt; daughters Faith Rodell of College Park, and Penny Rothrock of Georgia; two sisters, eleven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

In accordance with her wishes, her remains have been donated for medical research to the Johns Hopkins University.

Friends and relatives are invited to attend a memorial service at 11:30 a.m., Saturday, September 3, at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 6905 Greenbelt Road.

In lieu of flowers, sympathy may be expressed by contributions to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, 7307 MacArthur Boulevard, Bethesda, Maryland 20812.

Edgar L. Hunter

Edgar L. Hunter, former post commander of the Greenbelt American Legion, died on Thursday, August 25.

A past resident of Greenbelt, Mr. Hunter was well known in the community. He was involved in the Legion for 35 years, and during that time held nearly all the offices on the executive committee.

Mr. Hunter is survived by his sons, Michael, of New Carrollton, Daniel, of Crofton, and Mark, of College Park; his grandchildren, Ryan and Jessica; his stepfather, mother, one brother and one sister. Burial took place at Ft. Lincoln Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, P.O. Box 704, Adelphi, MD 20783.

Hunting Ridge Seeks Parking on Parcel 57

by Diane Oberg

Representatives of Hunting Ridge met with the city council at an August 11 worksession to discuss their request for a transfer of land for a future parking lot.

At its May 16 regular meeting, the council agreed to support a rezoning request by developer Michael T. Rose for three tracts near Hunting Ridge. Among the conditions for this support was that Rose would deed the 5.3 acre Parcel 57, located nearest to the Greenway Village Apartments, either to the city or to Hunting Ridge.

According to James Foy, president of the Hunting Ridge Homeowner's Association, the association does not wish to receive the entire parcel since they would then owe taxes on it. However, they would like to reserve the use of one acre near their entrance to build additional parking in the future. In addition, Hunting Ridge would like to ensure that the remainder of the parcel will never be developed.

Ownership Options

One question raised at the worksession was how the land should be transferred. Among the options were the direct granting by Rose of four acres to the city and one to Hunting Ridge; transfer of all five acres to the city, which would then deed one acre to Hunting Ridge; the granting of a special use to Hunting Ridge to use one acre of city land for a parking lot; and deferring the transfer until Hunting Ridge is ready to build the lot.

City Manager James K. Giese ruled out the special use option, saying that city land cannot be dedicated to a private use. The Hunting Ridge representatives rejected the idea of a public lot, saying that they needed to be able to control the lot.

Councilmembers Antoinette M. Bram and Joseph Isaacs preferred a direct transfer from Rose to Hunting Ridge of the one acre plot. Bram said that a later transfer of city land to a private group would set a bad precedent. Isaacs said that it would be difficult for council to give up city-owned green space for asphaltting. He also suggested that it would be better from Hunting Ridge's perspective to transfer the land now as it is impossible to determine whether a future council would agree to the transfer.

Giese also preferred a direct transfer. However, although the covenants do not restrict use of the parcel, he recommended that Hunting Ridge present the proposal to Rose, since under previous discussions the land was to be left undeveloped. City Planning and Development Coordinator Celia Wilson said that the deed transferred by Rose is likely to be restrictive so that the city must verify that the lot would be permitted.

Councilmember Thomas X. White suggested that Hunting Ridge petition council to take their unmet parking needs into account and set aside some of the land when plans for expanding their lot are more definite. He said that enough special circumstances exist that the transfer would not become a precedent.

WIC Meeting to Be Held

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) will hold a public meeting to discuss different options available on infant formula rebates for the WIC (Women, Infants and Children) program.

The area meeting will be held on Wednesday, September 7, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. in the Hyattsville branch library, 6532 Adelphi Road, Hyattsville.

The WIC program is exploring formula rebates as a means of decreasing cost and thereby enrolling additional participants in the program.

He noted that the transfer would "clean up" the Hunting Ridge property line by giving the condominium title to its entranceway.

Concilmember Edward Putens said that the city should require that the lot be properly buffered from Hanover Parkway and that Hunting Ridge grant the city site and landscape plan approval.

Weidenfeld agreed that Hunting Ridge should petition council for the land; however, he favored an immediate transfer. He also suggested that their representatives work with city staff on plans for the lot, but cautioned that constructing a one-acre lot would be very expensive.

Giese added a warning that too great an expansion of parking would detract from the complex's appearance. Hunting Ridge Board member Bob Titman said that 60 to 100 spaces would eventually be required.

Our sincere sympathy to Janet Clemens DuBois on the tragic death of her husband, Raymond DuBois, Jr. who was killed in a freak accident on the Beltway last Thursday.

Sympathy, too, to Lee and Stape Shields and their families on the death of their mother, Winona Shields of College Park who died Sunday of congestive heart failure. Mrs. Shields was a Greenbelt pioneer moving here with her family in 1937.

Condolences to Doug Sutherland, Lakeside, whose mother died recently. A memorial service was held August 13 at Paint Branch Unitarian-Universalist Church in Adelphi.

Greenbelters were saddened to hear of the death of Edgar "Skip" Hunter, former post commander of the Greenbelt American Legion and a former resident of Greenbelt.

There will be no bridge game on September 2. Last week's winners were Clare Jacobs and Lucille Lushine. In second place were Lars Bronstein and Louise Kramer. The next game will be Friday, September 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Youth Center. All are invited.

Jenni Baldwin of Edmonston Rd. received a birthday present of a three day cruise to the Bahamas. Sailing on the "Fun Ship," the T.S.S. Mardi Gras of Carival Cruise Lines, Jenni celebrated her birthday during the cruise. Her companion was her brother Steve Cochran of Greenbelt, who gave her the gift cruise.

Glad to hear that GHI board member Betty Deitch is home and recovering nicely after surgery.

Jerry Conway is out and about and looking great after his angioplasty. He's already back playing ball with the Green Belters senior softball team.

Get well wishes to Carla Kappes, secretary at Center School, who is recuperating after recent surgery.

Greenbelters Not in New Greenbelt Phone Book

This year's edition of the College Park/Beltsville/Greenbelt Community Directory does not contain entries for most Greenbelt residents.

The telephone book published by NAPCO, a division of Data National, does contain entries for people involved in the city's businesses or government. However, no private individuals from Greenbelt seem to be listed in the directory.

A representative from NAPCO said that the omission occurred because of a computer error. NAPCO is working to correct the error for next year's edition.

Walker, son of Adolphus and Lynn Walker, Mandan Rd, has been assigned to the 39th Security Police Flight here. He is a Security Police Specialist with the U.S. Air Force.

CURIOSITY SEEKERS

QUESTION: I'm try to sell my house on my own and I'm being swamped with "curiosity seekers." How do you limit these intruders?

ANSWER: Curiosity seekers are one of the plagues which the do-it-yourself broker has to contend with. It's not only an inconvenience, but it could be a risk to open the door, day and night, to all who knock. The best solution is to place your home in the hands of a local REALTOR. He'll weed out curiosity seekers from prospects at his office, visit you only by appointment, and will always accompany prospects. On top of that, you'll probably end up with more money than selling it on your own.

The Festival is a non-profit organization directed by a Steering Committee elected yearly. It receives its operating expenses from donations of local businesses and from a percentage of the profits from booths and carnival rides. Festival Fun Begins Friday

The Salute to American Workers takes place just after the parade. Spinning, violin making, fitness expert, naturalist, artist, blacksmith, florist and jeweler and nursing are some of the occupations—many new to the festival—which will be demonstrated.

The Art Show attracts many visitors each year with its display of a wide variety of artistic talents. Awards are given in many categories including an award for the work best demonstrating the theme "Americans at Work," and also an award for "Community Favorite" as determined by those visiting the exhibit.

The Photo exhibition and competition draws many entries as well. Awards are given for the best black and white photo, best color photo, and an overall winner, "Best in Show."

Children's Events
A number of children will be participating in the Children's Talent Show. Others will show up with their pets for the children's pet show on the Center School Lawn at 10 a.m. Saturday. There are numerous categories for judging and all types of pets are welcome.

Children can compete in a number of special events at 2 to 4:30 p.m. on the grassy area near the post office. From the youngest who enter the diaper derby for crawlers only to the pie eating contest for ages 13 and up there are contests for each age. The special contests end with new games for all to enjoy. The Tenth Annual Big Wheels Roadcross attracts competitors for the slalom, downhill and best decorated categories from ages 2 to 6. Children can participate in a treasure hunt following clues leading to various locations in Greenbelt and ultimately a special prize. There is a version for adults as well.

Athletic Events
A full schedule of athletic events is planned for the Labor Day weekend. The "Old Timer's" exhibition softball game kicks off on Friday and is followed by gym baseball, ping pong tournament, home run derby, tennis tournament, horseshoe tournament, hockey shoot off, golf contest, skateboard competition, and slam dunk competition. A local team will present a sports acrobatic exhibition at 4 p.m. on Saturday. Softball tournaments will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Parade
The Yankee Rebels Drum and Bugle Corps, Naval Sea Cadets, Majorettes and Cheerleaders, Blackthorn Stick Irish Dancers, and other marching units will be featured in this year's Labor Day Parade. Fire engines, decorated bikes and trikes and antique cars will also be there. Expect to see many of the local and State officials in the parade which marches down Crescent Road to the reviewing stand across from Roosevelt Mall. Greenbelt's 1988 Outstanding Citizen will be the parade's Grand Marshal. Look for Ronald McDonald as parade marshal.

Free Rides
Free rides are being offered to and from the Festival. Call 982-4019 to arrange for pick up or stop by the information booth to arrange for a ride home.

Rain or Shine
The Labor Day Festival goes on rain, or mostly, shine. There are rain locations for most events and the Festival has a tradition of drawing the best weather of the season. Another Festival tradition is drawing a big crowd for all of the events in the community's four-day celebration. So, Greenbelt citizens, former residents, and nearby neighbors are welcome and expected.

Greenbelt Library Adds Another Night
Beginning the week of Sept. 4 the Greenbelt Branch of the Prince Georges County Memorial Library System will be open until 9 p.m. on Thursdays, instead of 6 p.m., making their weekly service hours Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m.-9 p.m., Friday, 1-6 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m.-5.

Greenbelt Mayor Gil Weidenfeld congratulates Thomas Withrow, Jr. on qualifying for the U.S. team which will compete in the 17th World Games for the Deaf. The games will be held in New Zealand next January.

Greenbelter to Compete In World Games

Thomas Withrow, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Withrow, Sr. of 139 Westway met the mayor of Greenbelt, Gil Weidenfeld, on Friday, August 5 to receive personal congratulations for making the U.S.A. team that will participate in the 17th World Games for the Deaf. These will be held in Christchurch, New Zealand, next January 7-17.

The World Games for the Deaf, which are held every four years, are usually held on the year following the Olympic Games. Conditions of competition in the World Games for the Deaf are closely related to the Olympic Games. The United States has played host to these games twice—in Washington, D.C. in 1965 and in Los Angeles in 1985. The upcoming games will be the first held in the southern hemisphere, thus the early dates, during the summer season "Down Under."

It will be Thomas Withrow's third participation in the Games. His specialty is the hammer throw, for which he won a bronze medal with a throw of 170'9" in the 1985 games. This time he will participate in shot putt, discus, and hammer throw. Earlier he qualified as one of the top three in these events during the National Deaf Track and Field Championship held at Mt. St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg, Md. last June 22-25.

Withrow has been a life-long resident of Maryland, having graduated from the Maryland School for the Deaf in Frederick and from Gallaudet University, where he earned a B.S. in Physical Education. At present he is employed as Cottage Program Manager at the Texas School for the Deaf in Austin. Every summer, however, he returns to Greenbelt to stay with his parents while pursuing his Master's Degree in Deaf Education.

Unlike the athletes who will be participating in the Seoul Olympic Games next month, each athlete chosen to represent the

Club Toasts Humor

The Agricultural Research Center Toastmasters Club meets regularly on alternate Wednesdays in Room 114, Building 307 of the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center at 5 p.m. and serves the Beltsville, Greenbelt, Laurel and surrounding areas. On September 7 there will be a humorous Speech Contest. For more information, call Sam Bhatena at 949-5207 (eves) or Marilyn McGhee at 454-5059 (days).

U.S.A. in the World Games for the Deaf has to undertake a fund-raising effort to raise $4,500. Airfare is a major item. Withrow's fund-raising has been underway for some time.

Donations are tax-deductible and checks may be made payable to "USDA/WGD Team" and addressed to: Sam Sonnenstrahl, WGD Treasurer, 8126 Mandan Terrace, Greenbelt, MD 20770. Make sure that the check is intended for the Thomas Withrow fund.

What Is a Composite Filling?

A composite filling is a blend of special plastic resins, glass fibers and inert fillers. The composite filling is used in front teeth because of its closeness in color and appearance to natural teeth.

Composites were developed after many years of research and experimentation with earlier forms of acrylic resins which were first used in the 1950's and 60's. The advantages of composites over acrylic are improved resistance to wear and greater color stability. The only negative factor of composites is very poor strength to withstand biting pressure when compared to "silver" fillings. It is for this reason composites are not currently used routinely in back teeth. In the near future there is the promise of stronger forms which will be suitable for these areas.

The development of various forms of composites (liquid & pastes) plus a multitude of shades and stains, has formed the basis for the newest and most promising field of restorative dentistry, bonding.

A mass of water weeds floats on the lake across from the boat house. — photo by J. Henson

Greenbelt Lake Is Maturing

ered now to be only 14 feet deep. Water on both sides of the peninsula at the east end of the lake was found to be very shallow. For example, south of the peninsula water depth was as shallow as less than a foot deep. So much sediment has piled up near the peninsula that one point north of the peninsula which was 6½ feet deep is now 4½ feet deep.

From August through October 1987, Dames & Moore took samples of water and measurements to discover the condition of the lake. Analysis of the tests for nutrient levels, oxygen, and minerals in the water led the consultants to conclude that Greenbelt Lake is eutrophic.

A lake which is designated eutrophic has abundant nutrients, which is the mark of a mature lake. Lakes have a life cycle in which it is natural for them gradually to fill up with sediments as they grow older and have an increasing amount of nutrients. Therefore they became able to support more and more plants and animals in their waters. Over time lakes gradually fill in to become ponds, then marshes, and then fill in entirely to be dry land.

Phosphorus, an indicator of an eutrophic lake, was found in high amounts in Greenbelt Lake. Phosphorus is an element necessary for the growth of algae — the plants that form scum on ponds and on the objects in the water.

Beds of plants in the water of the lake are extensive and increasing. The predominant plant is coontail. Beds of it are most dense in the two arms of the lake. There are several problems with coontail: it is not an important food for waterfowl, it has an odor, and thick growths of it interfere with boating.

Almost the entire core of Greenbelt drains into the lake and 85% of this area is developed, which has resulted in the sediment build-up and deteriorated water quality. The large amounts of sediment and nutrients in the lake have come from such sources as excess lawn fertilizer that washes into the lake during rainstorms or dirt exposed in excavations for development.

Solutions

Dames & Moore recommend five alternative solutions that vary in price, the amount of disturbance to the lake park, and the amount of sediment and nutrients that will be blocked from entering the lake. Unfortunately there is no complete solution and all will require dredging every ten years for upkeep. Also recommended are two methods to reduce the beds of floating weeds.

The city has received a grant for $82,500 from the Maryland Water Management Administration for a lake improvement project. The city has also earmarked $27,500 in matching funds for the project.

All five suggested alternatives are variations of a forebay, a small body of water near the peninsula on the lake's east end which traps pollutants carried by creeks into the lake. The greater the surface area of the forebay, the greater the ability to trap pollutants and thus increase water quality in the lake.

Alternative 1 would be to build a 0.39-acre forebay at the present location of the sediment trapping pond on the other side of the lake trail from the peninsula. The new "pond" would be more than twice as large as the old and would extend south to lie across both creeks entering the lake near the peninsula (see drawing). At an estimated cost of $23,400, it would trap 38% of the sediment and 23% of the phosphorus entering the lake at this point. However, it would only reduce the total phosphorus entering the lake by 16%. In comparison, a 90% reduction in the phosphorus coming into the lake would be needed to make sure the lake is no longer eutrophic.

A 2.4-acre forebay is the second alternative, at a cost of $244,000. This would greatly increase the trapping ability to 90% of the sediment and 60% of the phosphorus, for an overall reduction of 41% of the phosphorus. However, the forebay would extend 500 feet upstream along the creeks, as opposed to 100 feet upstream for the first alternative, meaning the loss of many trees.

To avoid disrupting the lake park and to have a large area in which to trap sediment and pollutants, alternative 3 is to have a 1.8-acre forebay in the lake. This would mean building an underwater berm out beyond the peninsula across the east end of the lake. The top of the berm would be two feet below the water surface. The water on both sides of the peninsula should be dredged of accumulated sand and silt. It is assumed that the dredged material can be temporarily placed on the site of the former PEPCO substation. The total cost will be $133,000.

This option would reduce phosphorus by 55% for a reduction for the whole lake of 38%. Dames & Moore believe that water quality would noticeably improve in the lake, except the area behind the berm. There trapped sediments and nutrients would form a wetland.

The fourth alternative would be to build an underwater berm right off the end of the peninsula across the two fingers of water on either side to create a one-acre forebay in the lake. At a cost of $63,600 it would reduce the phosphorus entering at this point by 40% with a total reduction for the whole lake of 26%. This would mean some improvement in the lake's water quality with a wetland behind the berm.

The fifth suggested alternative is a combination of alternatives 1 and 4 — a one-acre forebay in the lake and a 0.39-acre forebay on the other side of the lake trail — for a total cost of $87,000. This would eliminate half the phosphorus for an overall reduction of 32%. This is the plan recommended by Dames & Moore.

Since none of the proposed plans will completely eliminate nutrients entering the lake, either weed harvesting or the introduction of special fish could be used to reduce water weeds. Weed harvesting could cost between $3,600 to $6,000 per year, assuming two cuts per year and placing the harvested weeds south of the southern stream entering the lake near the peninsula. The initial harvest would be 6200 cubic feet or 46 feet by 46 feet by 3 ft. Two or three years of harvesting would probably be necessary.

The above drawing shows the approximate locations of five alternative plans to improve water quality in the lake. 1, 0.39 acre forebay; 2, 2.4 acre forebay; 3, an underwater berm a distance out from the peninsula; 4, an underwater berm right at the end of the peninsula; 5, a combination of 1 and 4. — courtesy, City of Greenbelt

Another option is putting sterile grass carp in the lake to eat the weeds. Thirty fish are recommended, at a cost of $300 for delivering the fish. The problem is that the carp eat all kinds of water plants, not just the coontail. Some plants are needed for a "healthy" lake. Also it would cost approximately $10,000 to remove the fish if there are problems.

GHI Okays Deferral of Coop Fee Increases for Eligible Members

by Mavis Fletcher

At its regular meeting on August 11, the Greenbelt Homes Board of Directors approved a program to enable eligible members to defer increases in monthly co-op fees and selected a test building for a possible solution to structural cracking in some of the units.

Deferring Increases

The board voted unanimously to approve a new program allowing members with limited incomes to defer the increase in monthly charges until their units are sold or transferred. The program will start with the increases which will be effective in January 1989.

Members whose household income is at or below 80% of the area median income and whose monthly charges (including that year's increase) would exceed 25% of the household income would be eligible for the program. Simple interest will be levied on the deferred charges; the interest rate will be two percent less than the rate on the National Cooperative Bank rehabilitation loan currently being repaid by GHI members.

This program joins the Rehabilitation Loan Deferral Program which already exists and which allows members on limited incomes to defer repayment of rehab charges until their units are sold or transferred. The latter program, which has a limited capacity, is open only to about 75 participants at a time, Colton said. In reply to a question, Colton said that members would be allowed to participate in both programs if eligible.

Director Chuck Hess asked how many members might be eligible but Colton said he didn't know. While members give income data to the cooperative when they move in, he said, incomes change over time. Colton pointed out that the program is not limited to any one group, such as seniors, but is open to all qualified members. The program will be financed out of the corporation's working capital, Colton said, and would not cause any increase in other members' charges.

Test Building

At the last meeting, the board had asked the staff to calculate the cost of testing improved surface drainage as a possible solution to the cracking being experienced in some of the masonry buildings. Since a complaint on this subject had been received from a member there, the building being considered was a six-unit row in the 17 Court of Ridge Road. The cost as presented to the board on August 11 was more than $6500; much of the cost was attributable to the extensive improvements members had made in their yards. Many of these features (patios, plantings, and walks) caused water to run back against the building, according to Colton's report, or interfered with the operation of the swale. Moving these features, regrading, and then replacing them would be time-consuming, Colton indicated.

Hutchins asked whether, if the test doesn't work out, the board might find itself ordering this work to be done over again if it became necessary to install underground drainage. Colton said that was a possibility.

The board decided to test the surface drainage solution on a four-unit building in the 3 Court of Ridge where equally serious structural damage is occurring and where the yards are largely in grass. Colton said that the cost of regrading to improve drainage and replacing grass would probably be only about a third as much as the project in the 17 Court of Ridge.

In response to a question, Colton reaffirmed that certain improvements (replacement of broken drain tile and a sidewalk section) would be undertaken in the yard of the member who had originally complained about the problem there. Moreover, splash blocks would be replaced, he said, wherever they were missing.

Jay Freedman, director of Technical Services, said that the test results would probably be known within a year, assuming normal patterns of rainfall. He also said that he had recently purchased some "fairly inexpensive" devices which monitor building and crack movement; he expects to get new data from the results of increased monitoring.

Other Actions

The board also approved plans for a scaled-down covered deck in the 42 Court of Ridge. Despite a favorable recommendation from the Aesthetics and Environment Committee, the board at its last meeting had rejected a plan for the deck on the grounds that it would be too large. When the members scaled the size back, the plans were approved with only Freas opposed. (Director Betty Deitch was unavoidably absent.)

The board unanimously approved construction of ten additional parking spaces in the 10 Court of Southway.

Also by unanimous vote, the board approved a $100 donation to the Labor Day Festival Committee. GHI will not have a booth this year but will host a reception and open house following the parade. There will also be a ceremony after the parade at I-G Gardenway when a plaque is unveiled commemorating that unit as the first home occupied in Greenbelt.

The board authorized the expenditure of an additional $10,000 for tree trimming and removal for the rest of the year. Colton explained that this item is over budget because trees are dying from the drought and because some of the pines have reached their life expectancy.

As part of the Quarterly Staff Report, Comptroller Don McGinn said he was making a preliminary presentation of the operating statement for the first six months of the year. He said he would present details at the board's next meeting on September 8.

P.G. County Fair Opens Labor Day

An old-fashioned County Fair with some up-to-date features will open on Labor Day at 11 at the County Equestrian center in Upper Marlboro. Each day will feature different events: on Monday there will be that essential Fair happening, a pie-eating contest. There will also be three concerts and an art show. Tuesday, when the Fair opens at 4, has lumberjack shows as well as the Miss County Fair pageant and concerts. Wednesday (a 4 p.m. opening) will have an appearance by Brooks Robinson, a beautiful baby contest, and an evening concert.

Thursday and Friday, 4 to 10 p.m., will offer concerts and animal shows. Saturday, a full 11 to 10 p.m. day includes clogging championships, rocket contests, a Double Dutch contest and many animal shows with two bluegrass groups in the evening.

Sunday, "International Day at the Fair" opens with a dog show and closes with a gospel music concert, with African dancers, German band, a presentation from India, Ecuadorean music and dance, an Irish group, and an Asian Pacific music and dance show in between.
