Citizens Ask Council to Close Overpass, Not Build Curbs Near Police Station

by Christine Pearce

A record breaking number of petitions were presented to city council at its regular meeting on April 17. Citizens asked council to close the Spellman overpass at night and to place temporary barriers instead of curbs near the new police station. Representatives of Greenhorne & O'Mara spoke about their rezoning application.

Two petitions requested that the footbridge which passes over the Baltimore-Washington Parkway between the Gardenway and Greenbriar neighborhoods be closed late at night. Julian Weiss, vice president of Citizens for Greenbelt, and Roscoe Butler of Gardenway expressed concern (Weiss in writing, Butler in person) about the increasing crime rate in the area.

Butler cited instances of vehicle damage (including his own) and said he thought people were parking in Greenbriar and crossing over or parking on the Parkway and climbing through holes in the fencing.

Bub Zugby of Greenbriar said he was skeptical that the footbridge was being used as an escape route, but said they "have had problems from the Parkway," with people crawling through the fence. Councilmember Edward Putens requested staff to find out how many incidents have been reported to police from the Gardenway corridor.

Greenbriar resident J Davis exclaimed she was "insulted by this petition." "You're saying 'Keep those Greenbelt East people where they belong.'" Davis said. Greenbelt as a whole has a crime problem, not just Gardenway, she said.

Curb Petition

Council passed a motion to refer the plans for the Crescent and Ridge Roads intersection near the new police station to both the Advisory Planning Board and the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board for their comments. Council agreed to consider the issue at a special meeting on April 25.

Nancy Neupert presented a revised petition for her husband, Werner Neupert, requesting the city place temporary barriers instead of concrete curbing at Crescent and Ridge roads until a "coherent design" is developed for the general area, including "Buddy" Attick Lake Park. Both Neupert and Joanne Volk expressed concern that the road's naturalistic appearance will be compromised by concrete curbing or a concrete path through the park.

"A naturalistic road says something good to those passing through and about those who live in the community," said Volk.

The hill that surrounded the utility pole at the intersection of Crescent and Ridge roads was cut away to provide better visibility for emergency vehicles that will leave the new police station. Staff considered the $10,000 price tag for moving the pole too costly and had selected concrete curbing based on the stability and safety it provides and the cost (about $2,000).

But Councilmember Thomas X. White, after hearing Neupert and Volk speak, suggested getting input from the city's advisory boards on landscaping the area. "We go to great pains to require developers to abide by landscape designs, yet sometimes we don't apply the same rigor to ourselves," White said.

City Staff Offers $9 Million Budget

by Diane Oberg

City Manager James K. Giese's proposed 1989/90 budget calls for total expenditures of $9,076,300. After adjusting for an accounting change, this figure represents an 8.8 percent increase over the current fiscal year.

The bulk of the increase (60%) provides for increased costs for employee salaries and benefits, including a five percent cost-of-living adjustment and increased health insurance and retirement costs. Bond issue projects account for 32 percent of the increase with 23 percent covering increases in debt service costs and nine percent due to the cost of operating the new police station.

Giese does not recommend a change in the tax rate, which was increased four cents to $1.21 per $100 assessed value last year. However, he estimated that, on average, city property tax bills will rise six percent because of increases in property assessment. Total property tax revenues are projected to increase 13.6 percent due to these reassessments and new construction. State officials estimate that, excluding revenues from new construction, the city could reduce its tax rate to $1.14 per $100 and receive the same revenue as last year. The city estimates that each one cent change in the tax rate would result in a gain or loss of $44,158.

The city's income tax revenue is projected to increase 10.4 percent. These revenue increases will be partially offset by a decrease of $155,000 in interest revenue earned from investment of bond revenues prior to their expenditure.

However, as the city completes and begins operating the 1985 bond issue projects, it will face increasing budget shortfalls. In the 1990/91 fiscal year, Giese projects a shortfall of $1,068,82 which will increase to $2,269,559 by 1993/94. He cautioned council that "I believe it is very likely that a rate increase will be proposed next year."

In recent years, the city has benefited from rapid expansion of its tax base and revenues as new commercial and residential developments were built and outlying properties were annexed. However, Giese now writes that, in the not too distant future, as the buildup is completed "it will become increasingly more difficult to balance the budget without increasing the property tax."

The city manager also notes that the proportion of city revenues derived from commercial and residential property taxes is increasing. In the 1979/80 budget these taxes accounted for 41.1

percent of city revenues, versus 58.9 percent in the current proposal. This trend is expected to continue, reaching 61.8 percent in the 1993/94 fiscal year. If the shortfalls in the future years' projections are resolved by increasing the property tax, this proportion will be even higher.

Refuse Collection

The county plans to raise landfill tipping fees twice in the coming year, once in July and again next January. To offset these increases, Giese proposes raising the city's refuse collection fees to $36 per quarter, up from the current $31.50. However, he noted that the city currently charges more than private collection firms, in part because of council's decision last year to add an additional crew member so that the trucks would not be left unattended. After last year's increase, Windsor Green townhouses canceled their refuse collection, causing a 22 percent decline in the city's refuse customers.

Other reasons for the city's costs being higher than private firms, according to Giese, are the higher level of service provided and the provision of recycling services. The city currently recycles more than 10 percent of the refuse it collects. However, if the city is to meet the county's goal of 35 percent, it will have to initiate new programs.

Council Accepts Master Plan For Schrom Hills Park

by Betsy Likowski

At its regular meeting on Monday, April 17, the city council accepted the Master Plan of the Schrom Hills Park as the guide to developing the park. The plan outlines the location and types of recreational facilities that will be in the park, with detailed decisions to be made later. Two issues of contention, the lighting of the ball fields and whether there will be a pond in the park, were not decided.

Schrom Hills Park is located east and north of Hanover Parkway and south of Greenbrook Village. It is currently 43 acres in size, but the city is seeking to acquire several more acres for the park.

Recreation facilities planned for the park include: a soccer/football field, a baseball field, a multipurpose court for volleyball and basketball, and a rebound wall in the southern end of the park; a sledding hill on the east side of the park; and several playground and picnic areas scattered throughout the park. The central section will remain wooded with trails running through it. A trail will also encircle the wetland area in the northern part of the park.

The entrance to the park will be from Hanover Parkway opposite Space Court on the south side of the park. Ninety parknig places are planned. A formal planting of trees—an allé—will lead north into the park. On either side will be the ball fields, with a concession building and restrooms nearby.

City consultant Grace Fielder of Greenman & Pedersen, Inc., created the master plan for the park with input from citizens at four meetings held the last year. Citizens were especially concerned about the lighting of the ballfields and the pond.

At the April 17 meeting, James Fov presented council with a petition signed by 226 people stating opposition to any lights at

In addition, the city collects from less than one fourth of the households, leaving council to decide whether the city should initiate programs in the unserved areas or leave recycling efforts in those areas to the county, private refuse firms and development project managers.

Police

Giese proposes to increase the police department budget 12 percent over last year's authorization. Part of the increase stems from the cost of operating the new police station. No changes in staffing are recommended although the department had requested a Records Information Supervisor and a part-time crisis intervention specialist to be shared with CARES.

Other major expenditures are the purchase of six new vehicles. The department recently received five new vehicles. Giese writes that Chief James R. Craze would like to retain eight of the older cars that would otherwise be replaced with the new cars for use as take home vehicles for officers.

Since these take home cars would be fully equipped, new radios and other accessory equipment would need to be purchased for the new cars, at a cost of approximately $50,500. Giese's budget comments indicate that Craze plans to increase the police fleet over the next few years until all officers are assigned take home vehicles.

A number of requests from the Greenbelt Lodge of the Fraternal Order of Police were not funded including: a 25 year retirement system (estimated annual cost See BUDGET, page 5 the ballfields in the park. The petition called the lights an intrusion into the community and said they would mean lights in homes and increased traffic and noise from the increased use of the ballfields.

It is still not known whether a pond will be built in the northern end of the park or whether the area will remain as wetlands. The Army Corps of Engineers has not yet made a final decision. However, the city staff believes the lake may be built.

Both the Advisory Planning Board (APB) and the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB) reviewed the Schrom Hills Park Master Plan and approved it with reservations. These reports and the comments were accepted by the council as addenda to the master plan.

The two boards came down on opposite sides of the ballfields lighting issue with APB opposed and PRAB believing a compromise solution can be reached. The APB report also expressed concern that 90 parking spaces may not be enough.

The PRAB report disagreed with the master plan of the park in several respects. A preference for a pathway system of natural, not paved, material was expressed. PRAB also suggested that the locations for the building were not the most aesthetically desirable and that the allé extends too far north into the natural area of the park.

One Bond Issue at a Time

At a special meeting on April 25, the city council introduced an ordinance for a one million dollar bond issue to finance development of Schrom Hills Park. This would be in addition to a three million dollar bond issue for conversion of either North End or Center School to a community center. A referendum on the bond issues would be held in either late June or early July.

We urge council not to adopt the Schrom Hills ordinance at this time. The other bond ordinance has at least been publicly discussed for several months, while borrowing for Schrom Hills was suggested for the first time at the April 17 council meeting. The school bond issue is urgent since it is being driven by a deadline imposed by the school system and by the city's need to know whether citizens will support funding for a community center.

The city should not rush into a second major commitment. The city's financial advisors have determined that if the city borrows more than three to four million dollars, it will exhaust its debt capability for several years. Before this happens, council and the citizens should carefully examine the capital improvement needs of the city and make an informed decision as to which projects should be given priority.

The potential costs of several city commitments remain unknown. Currently the city is pursuing condemnation suits for Parcel 1 and the Steiner property, adjacent to Schrom Hills Park. The juries in these cases could determine a fair price for these properties above the city's estimates. Another uncertainty is the cost of the indoor pool. Until plans are finalized and a bid is accepted, cost estimates for this project remain guesswork. The city's experience with the police station does not encourage us.

The development of Schrom Hills Park is a worthwhile and much-needed project. Nevertheless, the city cannot afford to make hurried borrowing decisions. The city will hold a general election in November. If, after careful consideration over the next few months, council feels that the city should borrow money to speed the development of Schrom Hills Park, a bond referendum could also be held at that time. Realistically, this postponement would only moderately delay work on the project.

Study Committee Needed

In 1986, Mathew Amberg, Eunice E. Coxon, James Foster, Lucille Jacoby and Steve Polaschik were appointed to an Ad Hoc Bylaws Committee (for the) task of correction, addition, and deletion to this document of regulation of our housing corporation. The Board was generous in its praise for the thorough and time-consuming job we undertook, including the article on indemnification, the protection of Board Members and agents acting in good faith from financial loss due to law suits filed by members, vendors, et cetera.

Two outstanding Greenbelters, Jim Foster and Steve Polaschik, are no longer with us due to untimely deaths.

Matthew Amberg has already proposed in a very informative letter to the News Review the formation of a members' study committee dealing with a proposed amendment to the charter by the GHI attorney.

I support the members' study committee before a vote at the Annual Meeting, May 17. If, as I understand, there was a change in State corporate law in 1987, what explanation is there for the delay in informing the members at virtually the zero hour, in April 1989? Furthermore, I understand there is "no time" now for committee formation.

Sad to say, in my opinion there has been, for several years, a gradual erosion of the members "right to know" and participate.

Mark your calendar, please, for May 17. To me, this is one of the most important meetings in years for concerned GHI members to attend.

Eunice E. Coxon
Editor's Note: The changes in the law on the issue of indemnification were made in 1988.

THANKS

On behalf of the Greenbelt Center School PTA and the Spring Fair Committee, we would like to express our heartfelt gratitude to all who contributed time, effort and/or resources to the Greenbelt Center School Spring Fair. The tremendous success of this year's fair was due mainly to the dedicated efforts of the school administration, faculty, staff, parents, students and others, all of whom worked tirelessly to guarantee the event's success.

We are grateful, also, to the merchants, professional associations and homeowners' organizations on both sides of the Parkway, who contributed prizes and refreshments for everyone's enjoyment. The 1989 Spring Fair was truly a community undertaking, in the cooperative tradition that is the major source of our pride in this city.

REPUBLICANS FILL SEATS

Three important positions were filled at the regular meeting of the Republican Central Committee for Prince Georges County on March 15.

At the February meeting the committee filled two empty seats with Roberta Deegan and Teresa di Stefano from the 21st and 23rd Legislative Districts.

MOLECULAR BIOLOGY LAB DEDICATED AT BARC

A new Plant Molecular Biology Laboratory, a focal point for genetic engineering in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was dedicated on April 21 at the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center.

R. Dean Plowman, administrator of the USDA's Agricultural Research Service, said the new laboratory will provide special leadership to biotechnology programs at the Beltsville Research Center. It will cooperate with over 100 scientists in about 25 laboratories at the center and with many other federal, state and industry scientists nationwide.

"This new team of some of our top scientists will be making better use of rapidly expanding knowledge in molecular biology," said Plowman.

Plowman said that despite a broad understanding of the molecular chemistry, physics and genetics of agricultural crops, scientists lack reliable and practical tools for transferring genes. "Discovery and development of adequate genetic engineering tools will be one of the goals of our new lab," he said.

Plowman said that future payoffs of the new laboratory may include high protein rice and other cereal crops, super-sweet sugar beets, highly unsaturated soy bean oil, more efficient light-harvesting crops that put more energy into edible plant parts, disease-resistant plants to lower pesticide needs, and pollen-engineered exotic crops.

One project will fine-tune a new method to inject genes into single pollen grains. Scientists then dust the pollen onto female flower parts. Nature then grows a seed for a transgenic plant.

Another project has discovered a protein that acts as a spark plug to ignite photosynthesis in a cell. The goal is to engineer the protein to supercharge the process. More energy could be converted by a crop into food energy.

Still another project has developed an experimental rice strain, that is more nutritious and has higher levels of protein.

V. SCHEDULING OF FUTURE MEETINGS

NOTE: THIS IS A PRELIMINARY AGENDA, SUBJECT TO CHANGE

Center School Children Remember Mrs. Muldoon

The children filed quietly out of Center School and gathered in a semi-circle around a young dogwood tree. Then they sang "You're Wonderful". They were there to remember Bette Muldoon who had been a Chapter I aide at Center for about six years and their friend. Mrs. Muldoon had died suddenly on November 21.

The dogwood had been presented to the school as a living memorial to the Muldoon family and had been planted with the aid of city horticulturist Bill Phelan along Crescent Rd. in front of the school. Members of the Muldoon family were present, including husband Joe and sons Pete and Danny who had also worked at Center as substitute teacher and tutor.

Pete read from "the Fall of Freddie the Leaf" by Dr. Leo Buscaglia, a book that explains life and death in terms that children can comprehend. Principal John Van Schoonhoven put into words what many of the children could not—how much they had loved Mrs. Muldoon, how much they would miss her.

The sixth grade chorus ended the brief program with "Over the Rainbow." It was a bitter-sweet time.

$220,000), take home cruisers for all officers (cost $310,000), 10 percent pay raise ($68,800), and night pay differential ($42,000). Other unfunded FOP requests for which the costs are unknown include: changes in overtime pay regulations, no increase in employee contributions to health benefit costs, optical plan, prescription plan, free dental insurance, day care, and four week paid maternity leave.

Other Accounts

Giese proposes increasing the Parks and Recreation budget by 8.1 percent with the largest increase in the budget for maintaining parks and athletic facilities. A much larger increase (31%) is projected for the 1990/91 fiscal year, assuming that the indoor pool opens in September 1990. Pool and concession fees are expected to cover the operating costs of the outdoor pool, at least for the next fiscal year. However, in 1990 with the opening of the indoor pool, a city subsidy of $134,800 will be required.

Tax supported debt service is expected to increase 28.6 percent to $590,700 in 1989/90.

Expenditures for all other city departments are expected to increase by no more than six percent.

Giese noted that the budget still leaves many of the capital improvement needs of the city partially unfunded or unmet. These projects include renovation of the North End Center, rehabilitation of the city owned common areas at the Roosevelt Center, construction of an athletic field complex at the Northway Fields, improvements to Attick Park, development of Schrom Hills Park and construction of an addition to the Public Works facility.

In his budget, Giese proposed seeking approval for a $1.9 million bond issue to finance renovation of the North End School as a community center. Council is currently considering a $3 million bond ordinance to create a community center at either North End or Center School. Council will consider the capital

When It All Stacks Up, Merrill Lynch Realty Associates are #1!

The Figures are in! When the Washington Business Journal added it up, Merrill Lynch Realty came out ahead. According to their April 25, 1988 report, we sell more properties per associate and average a higher sales volume than the four other major brokers in the area. In fact, Merrill Lynch Realty averaged 10 sales units per associate in 1987. That's almost 30% more than our nearest competitor. In addition, our average sales volume was almost $1.5 million per associate.

COUNCIL

simply to maintain a dialogue. The firm's representative from the law firm of Fawcett and Brugger, William Shipp, specified that Greenhorn & O'Mara was not asking for council to change its position, but wants to keep council apprised of the firm's actions regarding the proposed construction of its national headquarters next to Westchester Park. Back in January, council opposed the firm's application for rezoning that tract of land.

Sunrise Petition

Concerning other petitions presented to council, Mark Brey of Windsor Green reiterated to council that many homeowners did not want apartments to be built on the Sunrise tract at the end of Hanover Drive. He submitted to council 74 more signatures on the petition he introduced at the April 3 meeting. Brey said he would have more to add to the total of 184.

The Mayor said this petition and the letters received from citizens of Windsor Green and Greenbrook would be considered in conjunction with council's scheduled meeting with Trammel-Crow on May 17. Trammel-Crow is the developer who has proposed building a 480 unit luxury apartment complex on the Sunrise tract.

Secretary of the Windsor Green Homeowners Association, Sheldon Goldberg, made clear to council that Brey had not presented the petition to the board and did not represent the view of the Association. The board is still formulating a position, Goldberg said.

Other Business

The city of Greenbelt received, for a second time, the Distinguished Budget Presentation Award for its fiscal year 1988/89 budget document. Joseph Pedone, liaison for the Government Finance Officers Association, presented the award to Casimir Prybyl, the director of Finance and Administrative Services on behalf of the city manager, James Giese. The award reflects the dedication of the city's officials and the public to bring "good government and responsible budgeting and administration to the city of Greenbelt," said Pedone.

The evening's ceremonies had begun with Mayor Weidenfeld administering the oath of office to two police recruits. Joining Greenbelt's police force are Barry P. Byers and Ronald F. Walter.

Regarding the development of Kenilworth Avenue, council voted to support the county's plans to widen Kenilworth from Ivy Lane to Cherrywood Lane. But Councilmembers Antoinette Bram, Joseph C. Isaacs and White and Mayor Gil Weidenfeld explicitly stated that this in no way indicates support of any further widening of Kenilworth Avenue north toward Virginia Manor Road.

In other actions council:

- Passed the motion to hire Dr. Michael Stadter to counsel city employees as part of the Employee Assistance Program. The program is designed to assist people with personal problems (whether physical or emotional) that might affect their job performance. Employees will be able to contact Dr. Stadter and meet with him for up to three sessions without having to notify their supervisor.

- Accepted the resignation of Larry Noel from the Park and Recreation Advisory Board because he is moving. Noel served for 22 years, longer than any other member in PRAB's history. Accepted PRAB's report recommending contributions to various organizations. These will be considered at council's budget work session. Council will also consider at that time Greenbelt Arts Advisory Committee's request for a total of $3,500.

- Authorized reimbursing the Greenbelt Arts Center for approximately $1,700 in expenditures. Council established the Arts Center budget at $10,000 for the current year, $7,000 more than last year.

- Authorized purchase of a multi-station weight lifting machine for the Recreation Department at a cost of $8,420.

- Accepted the decision of the Community Relations Advisory Board that the Northway Fields complex cannot be named after the Reverend Kenneth Buker and the late Mrs. Buker because the nomination did not satisfy guidelines. Bram suggested, how-

Bay Fest and Bay Bridge Walk Are This Sunday

This year's Chesapeake Bay Day is Sunday, May 7. The day includes the 15th annual Bay Bridge Walk and the third annual BayFest.

The Bridge Walk will begin at 9 a.m. when shuttle buses leave designated parking areas for the walkers. Western Shore participants may park at the Navy-Marine Corps Stadium in Annapolis, the Anne Arundel Community College in Arnold, and the Annapolis Mall.

Free shuttle service will operate between the parking areas and the bridge from 9 a.m. until the parking lots are filled, which usually occurs about noon. Buses to accommodate handicapped persons will be available. After finishing the bridge walk, participants will be bussed to Sandy Point State Park where they may participate in the BayFest or reboard shuttle buses for the parking lots. Bayfest activities will include displays with Chesapeake Bay cleanup ideas; sale of refreshments by the Maryland Watermen's Association; bay educational exhibits; demonstrations by watermen; musical entertainment; and, one of the Budweiser Clydesdale horses.

LYME DISEASE

The history of Lyme disease goes back to the year 1974, to the little town of Old Lyme in Connecticut. The discovery of the cause of this disease is a fascinating detective story, but we cannot go into it in this short essay.

The occurrence of Lyme disease has now spread to at least 34 states, and there is every reason to suspect that it will spread all over the world. It strikes people of both sexes, all ages, and all races. Most cases occur between May and August. It is caused by a spirochete called BORRELIA BURGDORFERI, which infects a tick called IXODES DAMMINI, which travels on white-tailed deer inhabiting the suburbs of cities and towns.

SYMPTOMS: Lyme disease is a great mimic. Don't blame your doctor if he doesn't come up with the correct diagnosis right away. History of a tick bite is helpful, but often lacking, because the tick is so small. Incubation period can be as short as 3 days, or as long as a month. Usually the first manifestation of the disease is a spreading, huge, red circular rash called Erythema Chronicum Migrans (ECM) with the tick bite at the center. Smaller, secondary circles may appear all over the body. At this stage the disease may be confused with hives or ringworm. The rash lasts from 2 to 12 months and disappears spontaneously. It may persist without remission, or it may come and go.

Often when the rash appears the patients may develop a "viral syndrome"; fatigue, muscle and joint pains, headache, poor appetite, fever and chills, nausea and vomiting, liver, spleen, and lymph-node involvement, and other flu-like symptoms. Unlike flu, however, the disease is not transmitted to the rest of the family. At this point the disease may be misdiagnosed as "flu" or "infectious mono."

Weeks or months later the rash may reappear, this time with more serious signs and symptoms. JOINT pains may occur without other symptoms (arthralgia), or with heat, swelling, and pain (arthritis). Joint involvement may come and go for years. An erroneous diagnosis of Juvenile Rheumatoid Arthritis is not unusual at this time. NEUROLOGIC signs may also develop a few weeks after onset: headaches, involuntary movements, eye problems, mental problems, clumsiness, and even paralysis. These are usually temporary (for a few months), but sometimes they are long-lasting. These symptoms may result in misdiagnosis of meningitis, encephalitis, brain tumor, or psychological problems. HEART involvement is also possible: irregularities in rate, rhythm, and size. These are temporary and last less than a month or so. The diagnosis of Rheumatic Fever is sometimes mistakenly made at this time.

There are serologic tests on the blood which can be done to diagnose this condition, but they are far from accurate, and not universally available.

Not only is diagnosis difficult, but so is treatment. The drug of choice is TETRACYCLINE, but it should not be given to children under the age of 8 years because of its affect on bones and teeth. Young children should be treated with PENICILLIN or ERYTHROMYCIN. A new antibiotic, CEFTRIAXONE, may be better than the others.

Rarely, antibiotics can make matters worse. They can react with the germ to cause fever, chills, muscle aches, headaches, and rapid heart rate and respirations. These reactions are least likely with erythromycin. Even with vigorous and early therapy, the late symptoms may be unavoidable, although they will be milder. Severe neurologic and heart involvement requires drastic measures, such as intravenous penicillin, cortisone, and anti-inflammatory drugs.

Most children with Lyme disease recover within days or weeks. A few, genetically predisposed children may take longer. Pregnant women who have the misfortune of acquiring Lyme disease, however, are less fortunate: their babies may be born with severe congenital abnormalities, and may even be stillborn; all this in spite of vigorous antibiotic treatment.

Here, as always, prevention is the best therapy. Wear long sleeved shirts and long pants when going into the woods. If you find a tick on your body, remove it cautiously with tweezers; do NOT squish it.

I hope I did not scare you too much! Let me emphasize that Lyme disease is extremely rare. Most ticks are not the Ixodes variety and even if they are, most of them do not carry the spirochete of Lyme disease. Prophylactic antibiotics after every tick bite are NOT recommended. Furthermore, do not forget the possibility of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever after a tick bite — which is also very rare. But that is another story . . .

School System Revises Walking Distance Claim

The Prince Georges County Public School system announced that the proposed new elementary school in Greenbelt would not offer an advantage of a shorter walking distance for most students, as originally claimed by school officials. In fact, school authorities now believe that neither the new school nor the existing Greenbelt Center Elementary would offer "any advantage as far as distance is concerned."

"Whether to renovate the present Center School or build a new facility on the North End site is a decision in which 'walking distance' should not be a factor," wrote Francis G. Tracy, associate superintendent for supporting services in a letter to a Greenbelt resident.

A re-evaluation of the walking distances revealed that all elementary-age children living in Greenbelt "would be within walking distance no matter which site is selected," Tracy said. "In evaluating the Greenbelt situation, it remains my firm conviction that neither the Greenbelt Center location nor the North End site presents any advantage as far as distance is concerned."

Greenbelt Park Will Be Sprayed for Gypsy Moths

The National Park Service will be spraying approximately 800 acres of wooded parkland within Greenbelt Park and along the Baltimore-Washington Parkway in early May. This spraying, using low-flying helicopters, will be done to control Gypsy Moth caterpillars and to prevent tree defoliation. Only areas where high concentrations of Gypsy Moth egg masses have been counted will be treated. These areas are scattered throughout the Park and extend from south of Riverdale Road to north of Powdermill Road along the Parkway. The Park areas include the campground and Laurel and Holly picnic areas.

B.t. (Bacillus thuringiensis - a naturally occurring bacteria) will be used exclusively. B.t. is harmless to humans, pets, wildlife, and even other insects. Failure to spray could result in damage to the forest including defoliation, death of some trees, and possible loss of rare plants.

An environmental assessment for this spray program has been prepared for Greenbelt Park and the B-W Parkway. Questions or requests for more information about the spray program should be directed to Resource Manager Ron Clark at Park Headquarters at 344-3949 during normal business hours.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello Again,

A couple of weeks ago, I spoke in reference to your vehicle breaking down, and the hazards involved with this. At this time, I would like to add these few important items which we all take for granted.

First off, give the towing company or repair garage the exact location. Don't guess. If you are not sure, give them some type of landmark. Don't assume they know.

Second off, know! your tag number exactly, because most of us are multi-vehicle families and have a couple of different tag numbers.

Third off, give all the information as to where the ignition keys are, as well as the door keys. Color of vehicle is important, as well as the tag number. All of the facts will get your vehicle towed into the repair garage with the least amount of hassle. It's kind of tough when someone has a problem with their vehicle in the parking lot out front of a building, they say it's the blue Ford. You walk out there, and there are seven of them. Fords, and they are blue. Then you find yourself sticking keys in somebody's vehicle in which they don't fit. It's embarrassing.

Till next time

Police Blotter

As a man walked through the parking lot to the rear of Beltway Plaza Mall at 10:30 p.m. on April 22, he was approached by five men who demanded his money. When he resisted, he was stabbed several times in various places. The attackers fled. The victim walked to an apartment in Springhill Lake and was taken to Leland Hospital, where he was listed in stable condition. The suspects, all black, were described as: (1) age 20, 5 ft. 6 in., small build, close-cropped hair and wearing a heavy, beige down coat and blue jeans; (2) age 20, 5 ft., 9 in., 140 lbs., dark-skinned, close-cropped hair, and wearing a blue jacket; and three others with medium complexions and close-cropped hair.

A strong-arm robbery was reported on April 25 at 9:30 p.m. by a woman whose purse was taken by a man while she was talking on the payphone near Best Products at Beltway Plaza. As she resisted and fell to the pavement, the purse straps snapped. She received a minor cut. The man, with the purse, fled in a late model tan Oldsmobile with spoke wheels. The man is described as black, late 20's, 5 ft. 11 in., heavy build, beard, and wearing a light tan, long-sleeved shirt and dark, pleated dress slacks.

Pfc. Matthew Carr arrested five juveniles, one a resident, following a citizen's report that they were attempting to steal a road sign from the 8000 block of Mandan Road. When the officer found them, their car contained four road signs taken in this area. All were charged with theft and released to their parents pending action by the juvenile court.

A nonresident man, 27, was arrested on April 25 by Pfc. Steven Keller for indecent exposure as he drove throughout the 6900 block of Hanover Parkway. He was released pending trial.

While investigating a suspicious vehicle on April 25, Pfc. Troy Harding saw a man in the car smoking what he suspected was marijuana. The 34-year-old resident of the 9100 block of Edmonston Rd. was arrested. A search showed a quantity of marijuana on him. He was released pending trial.

On April 24, Pfc. Robert Musterman arrested a nonresident, age 24, for possession of phencyclidine (PCP) and theft. The man was seen leaving the Shell Food Mart with merchandise he had not paid for. A description of the man and his car allowed Musterman to locate and stop the car. The man was held in lieu of $10,000 bond pending trial.

Pfc. Harding was struck by a 19-year-old resident as he attempted to break up a domestic dispute in an apartment in the 6200 block of Breezewood Ct. shortly after midnight on April 24. The woman was arrested and charged with battering a police officer. She was released pending trial.

Two resident juvenile girls, ages 15 and 16, were arrested in separate shoplifting incidents at Safeway and Springhill Lake Pharmacy.

Listening To Your Body's Language

The human body is often likened to a machine, but there is no other machine that functions so effectively and efficiently. Even the seemingly simple act of eating requires enormous coordination of systems within. When something goes wrong, the body often sends out signals to warn us.

According to Dr. Frank Pisciotta, symptoms are the body's way of telling us that something needs attention. He states, "There are many signs that can give one a head start on potentially serious medical problems. The key is to be aware of what your body is trying to tell you."

"Common-sense preventive measures are extremely important to one's health. Eat slowly and chew your food well. Have plenty of high-fiber foods in your diet, drink alcohol only in moderation, don't smoke cigarettes and be aware of changes. If you have doubts, don't take chances. See your doctor. Ignoring symptoms for long periods of time may wind up to be very costly in terms of your health. Listen when your body talks to you."

Health Screening Questionnaire

This questionnaire is an educational guide and is not meant to substitute for a visit to your doctor. For additional information, check with your doctor, or call Dr. Pisciotta's office at 345-4111.

Bus & Train Geometry.

Greenbelt to Foggy Bottom-GWU.

Does getting to Foggy Bottom-GWU from Greenbelt throw you a curve? Well, consider this angle. Metrobus to Metrorail.

We can get you where you want to go with no geometry problems. All you have to do is catch the R-11 or R-15 Metrobus. That will get you into the New Carrollton Metro station in no time flat. From there, it's just a few minutes on the Orange Line and you're at Foggy Bottom-GWU.

It's that simple. And when you take Metrobus to Metrorail, you can leave the parking cost and worry behind. You'll also save wear and tear on your car.

So next time you're wondering how to get around, no matter where you're headed, remember this simple axiom. Sometimes the shortest and most convenient distance between two points is Metrobus.

One of these buses will get you there in no time flat:

- R-11 Beltway Plaza/New Carrollton Metro
- R-15 Greenbelt/New Carrollton Metro

For other buses to the New Carrollton Metro station or anywhere else, call
