Council Creates Plans for Responding Promptly to All Referendum Outcomes

by Mavis Fletcher
City Council worked expeditiously at Monday's regular meeting by passing for second reading the resolution setting forth actions the city will take following the referendum on a community center.

The June 27 referendum on the $3 million bond issue will decide whether the bonds will be sold and, if so, whether Center School or North End School will be renovated as a community center. The resolution, which passed 4-0 with Councilman Edward Putens absent, sets forth the actions the city will take as a result of choices made by the voters.

If the voters approve the bond issue and indicate a preference for the community center at North End School, the city will advise the board of education that that site is not available for a new school and will make plans to renovate the building as a community center.

If the voters approve the bond issue and indicate a preference for the community center at Center School, the city will negotiate with the school board to exchange the North End School site for the Center School site and undertake planning to renovate Center School as a community center after the pupils are moved to the new school.

If the voters do not approve the bond issue, the city will notify the school board that the North End School site will not be available for a new school and will make a plan for utilizing the North End site, bearing in mind that the citizens have voted not to approve funds for its renovation as a community center. Such a plan will be the subject of a public hearing prior to its adoption.

Bond Issue Info Wanted

The $3 million bond issue for the community center (which will be on the ballot with $1 million in bonds for the development of Schrom Hills Park) called forth several questions about the availability of information for the voters. Rick Meetre asked whether the city was putting out an info sheet for the voters before the referendum. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld replied that in the past a pamphlet has been mailed to each household.

City Manager James K. Giese confirmed that such a pamphlet is expected to be ready for mailing in the first week of June. When Meetre inquired whether the pamphlet would be received before the June 6 public meeting, Giese said it probably would not. He said that essential information could be extracted and published in the News Review prior to the meeting.

Charles Hagelgans was also concerned about access to information. He felt it would be helpful if the fact sheet could be available so that it could be discussed at the public meeting. "It's a lot of money to be riding on such a hasty decision," he said.

Councilman Thomas X. White agreed, saying that the cost data (only recently presented after a study by Coakley & Williams) should have been available before the decision was made to hold the referendum.

Council member Antoinette Bram asked whether voters would still have time to register after the public meeting. Giese said that registration would be open until seven days before the referendum, so that there would be plenty of time between the meeting and that deadline. Sheldon Goldberg asked about absentee ballots and was assured by City Clerk Gudrun Mills that absentee ballots can be picked up until Monday noon, on June 26.

GHI Members Approve Bylaw Changes

by Pat Scully

The question of indemnification for directors and officers of the corporation dominated the annual membership meeting of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI), held Wednesday, May 17, at the Center School. Other business included the election of the Nominations & Elections (N&E) Committee and the presentation of the candidates for the Board of Directors and Audit Committee.

Elections

The N&E Committee contest, voted on at the meeting, saw six candidates vie for five positions. Those elected are: Yelena Gaponova, Peter Liebscher, John Taylor (incumbent), Susan Walker (incumbent) and Helen White (incumbent chairman).

Exactly enough candidates were running to fill the available vacant spots on the Board of Directors and Audit Committee, in the election held during the recess on May 18. Charles Hess, who received the fewest votes for the Board of Directors, will serve the one-year term opened upon the resignation of Nancy Hutchins, whose term would have expired next year. Directors elected to a two-year term are Betty Deitch (incumbent), Margaret Hovensen (incumbent), Kenneth B. Mileski, Wayne F. Williams (incumbent president) and Suzanne Zappasodi.

Elected uncontested to the Audit Committee were Lynette Andresen (incumbent), Marsha Barratt and Robert Rashkin.

Bylaws

The proposed amendment to the bylaws to revise the language on indemnification of GHI officers and directors and the proposed revision to the Charter to protect them from liability generated the most discussion of the evening. The revisions are intended to provide those covered with protection to the full extent of the Maryland state law, which was changed in 1988.

Two motions to amend the proposed bylaw revision on indemnification were made and defeated. Mat Amberg moved to add language to restrict the indemnification in cases of "willful misconduct, gross negligence or fraud." GHI's attorney, Marjorie Corwin, gave as her legal opinion that the language was ambiguous and the terms could not be legally defined. Discussion addressed such issues as the purpose of the state in changing its law, who would define the misconduct or negligence, and whether a director could be indemnified for committing fraud. That motion to amend failed.

Lucille Jacoby made the second motion to amend the indemnification revision. She moved that the language "the Corporation shall pay reasonable expenses in advance of final disposition" should be changed to "may pay." This amendment also failed.

Discussion then moved to the proposed revision itself. Some members who opposed the revision felt that the current bylaw offers sufficient protection. Others were concerned that providing more protection for directors and officers would take See GHI, page 13

Petey Renzi and teammates say thanks for a good game to their Beltsville opponents after one of 40 games played during the Spring Soccer Tournament to benefit Muscular Dystrophy last weekend. The Greenbelt Kids went on to trip up the Greenbelt celebrities on Sunday afternoon.

Greenbelt Kids Gang Up, Whip Celebrities for M-D

by Marie Hite

"Oh, my Gosh! The Greenbelt Kids are ganging up on the Celebrities!" Doctor Dave, WPGC, shrieks in mock horror. What a sight - it's the fourth and final quarter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association Celebrity Soccer Game and the Celebrities go under.

"It's mass confusion out there!" Albee Dee, fellow WPGC DJ, plays it for all it's worth. The Greenbelt Kids obviously have the advantage over the Greenbelt Celebrities.

Kids? Celebrities? And just who are these Celebrities? It's a long and distinguished list: Greenbelt Mayor Gil Weidenfeld; City Council Member Ed Putens, who mysteriously failed to show up at the City Council meeting the next day (reports are that his son, Ryan Putens, nailed him very good during the game); also City Council Members Joe Isaacs and Tom White; State Senator Leo Green; State Delegate Joan Pitkin; County Council Member Richard Castaldi (what a foot!); Dan Jobe, owner of Capitol Cadillac; John Lann, FOP President; Officer David Buerger, Project Dare; the Greenbelt coaches, Jane Cosner, Julie Greer, Sue Cornelius, and

Memorial Day Ceremony

American Legion Post, No. 136 invites all Greenbelt residents to attend the annual Memorial Day observance on Tuesday, May 30, at 10 a.m. at the Greenbelt War Memorial on Centerway.

The Honorable Edward Derwinski, Secretary of the newly established U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs is expected to be the speaker.

This program is sponsored by the city, Post No. 136, Auxiliary No. 136, SAL Unit No. 137 and the George Seal Chapter DAV. There will be a ceremony with speeches and music will be furnished by members of the Roosevelt High band and chorus.

If the weather is inclement, the service will be at the American Legion Post auditorium on Greenbelt Road.

Jay Jenkins, Greenbelt Center School teachers Marsha Marino and Stave Shields; and, finally, Greenbelt's own Doc Jones, who played goalie and who was forcibly removed from the game several times by James Greer and Clete Mehringer, fathers of three of the Greenbelt Kids (they said it was in the rules).

The Celebrities all played a valiant game, but fate, and the Kids, were against them. Perhaps the fact that Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club coach Garth Wells refereed the game gave the Kids a bit of an edge. The Kids, led by Petey Renzi, PG County MDA Goodwill Ambassador and a Greenbelt Kid himself, were from the four combined Greenbelt B&GC teams, ages five to 16.

No doubt about it, the Kids won. And so did the kids with the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The Celebrity Soccer Game was the grand finale of the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club Spring Soccer Tournament, a weekend-long, forty-game event. The proceeds from the tournament, roughly $5,000, will go to MDA. Local area sponsors, led by Capitol Cadillac and including Lucian's Trophies, the Alden Shattuck Soccer Camp, St. Mary's Soccer Camp, WUSA-TV 9, and Ryland Homes, contributed greatly to help the tournament reach its fundraising goals.

Swim Team News

by Gail Drake

The Greenbelt Swim Team will begin summer workouts for 11 to 18 year old swimmers at Greenbelt Municipal Pool on Tuesday, May 30 at 8 p.m. Practice for younger swimmers will begin on Monday morning, June 19, when the water has warmed and school has closed.

Due to a change in Prince Mont Swim League's seeding policy, Greenbelt will be swimming its 32nd year of League competition in 'C' Division. That makes this a particularly good year for new swimmers to be involved in the program. The swim team will be taking advantage of this year's 'C' Division status by making an extra effort to recruit and train new swimmers.

Anyone between the ages of 8 and 18 who loves to have fun, wants to lengthen the summer vacation time by starting the days earlier in the morning, is not afraid of a little hard work that brings quick results, should find a lot of support from the Greenbelt Swim Team.

For more information on practice schedules call Gail Drake 345-2522 or Betty Sonneveldt (345-1033).

CITY COUNCIL HONORED FOR ASSISTING MUSEUM

The Friends of the Greenbelt Museum (FOGM) will honor the Greenbelt City Council with a plaque on Sunday, June 4, at 1:15 p.m. The plaque commemorates the efforts of the City Council in establishing the museum on the occasion of the City's 50th Anniversary, October 10, 1987. The brief ceremony will take place at the museum, 10-B Crescent Road.

Also on Greenbelt Day, FOGM will host an old fashioned tea party in the museum garden from 1 to 5 p.m. Tea, sandwiches and sweets will be served for a small donation. The museum will be open for free tours, during the tea party.

FOGM is collecting receipts from Fante's (formerly Dart Drug). Receipts that equal $25 or more will qualify for a five percent contribution under Fante's "Good Neighbor Fund", established to assist community nonprofit organizations such as FOGM with fundraising. Receipts in any amount can add up to FOGM's benefit. They may be mailed to FOGM, P.O. Box 1025, Greenbelt, MD 20770, or dropped by the museum.

6% Increase

To the Editor:

This year, our taxes will increase about six percent, and you can say that you heard that here first. All you have heard so far is talk about a "Stay the Course" budget and "No Rate Increase." How many readers know that, according to information received by the City from the State of Maryland, our tax rate could be cut by 7 cents to $1.14 and yield the same dollar amount of taxes? This cut in taxes would offset the roughly six percent increase from our real estate assessments.

How about the future? Property assessments are being increased by about 22% for the next three years. That means 16% increase in our taxes over the next two years without Council having to raise the tax rate. According to this year's budget next year we will see a $1.1 million deficit between projected revenues and expenditures. Next year an increase in the tax rate seems unavoidable, thus providing a double whammy by coming on top of an already sizable increase in assessed values. All this does not take into account the costs of a proposed $1 million mortgage (with higher interest rates than Bonds), nor the costs of the proposed $4 million bond issues.

Having a good grasp of the City's finances is even more important this year than ever, as we will have to decide this month on two bond issues. As fiscal conservatives we urge you not to be lulled to sleep by such phrases as "no increase in the tax rate" and "stay the course budgets."

 City Council 1969-1973

Let's Read the Report

To the Editor:

An advertisement in last week's News Review sponsored by the "Citizens for Education and Community" included the following statement in support of a community center at Center School: "A COMMUNITY CENTER in the renovated Center School building — The $3 million bond issue would pay for all the required structural, heating, air conditioning, safety and handicapped work (sic)". There are two points of clarification that should be made.

It is true that a cost figure of $3,070,738 to renovate Center School as a community center is listed in the recently completed cost study compiled by Coakley and Williams. However, the report also states that all cost figures given are at today's prices. At the council work session, Coakley suggested that we estimate 5% annual inflation. Since Center School would not be available to the City for at least two years, the renovation cost at that time should be estimated at $3,385,488. Furthermore, Coakley stated that the cost figures in the report did not include architectural fees. When these are added, the cost estimate is $3,588,618—not $3 million as stated in the advertisement.

Secondly, a person reading the advertisement might think that a complete renovation is covered by the $3 million dollars. It is not. That estimate does not include roof replacement, window replacement, or exterior painting and it provides minimal interior finish work and nothing for equipment and furnishings. In this option (alternative 1), needed renovation work is deferred until some future date. Coakley and Williams' estimate for a complete renovation of Center School as a community center at today's prices is $4,211,405 (alternative 2). Adding two years of inflation and architectural fees, the true estimated cost is closer to $4,921,658. Finally Coakley advised that doing the work in stages (as in the $3 million option), rather than all at once, would add significant cost to the renovation, which would in the long haul make the project more expensive still.

While I know that the advertisement is well intentioned, I would prefer that we get accurate information upon which we can make our own decision.

I recommend that everyone read the Coakley and Williams report available at the reference desk in the library—and attend the June 6 public meeting where a clear, concise report on the issue is to be given. Then, with the facts, you can make up your own mind.

Karen Thorne Wins Local "Miss Greenbelt" Pageant

by Rusty Beeg

Karen Elizabeth Thorn, a computer scientist at Goddard Space Flight Center's Data Systems Technology Division, edged out a strong field of eight to win the title of "Miss Greenbelt" in the "Miss America" preliminary pageant held at Eleanor Roosevelt High School on April 16.

The pageant, sponsored by Greenbelt Unit 136, American Legion Auxiliary, invited the audience to take a "Sentimental Journey" complete with an old time paddle wheel steamer and big band music. As the seventh Greenbelt winner, Thorn will carry the city's banner to the state competition in Hagerstown June 29-July 1 to compete with 20 other local winners for the right to represent Maryland at "Miss America" in September. As this will be her third trip to the state competition, she hopes that three will be her lucky number.

Thorn, a 22-year-old graduate student in computer science at the University of Maryland Baltimore County, performed a rousing clogging routine to "Dixie Train" for her talent presentation. First runner-up and winner of the talent award was Tina Castaldi of Greenbelt who performed a dramatic recitation. Second runner-up and swimsuit winner, was Kelly Bowling of Mechanicsville who sang a country song. Rounding out the field of eight were Miriam Fernandez of Takoma Park, Jacki Finch of Chesapeake Beach, Stephanie Larsen of Lanham, Kathleen McGinn of Beltsville, and Montgomery College student, Leslie Murphy. Mistress of ceremonies was 1988 Greenbelt winner, Tammy Ann Wyatt, who shared her duties with Lori Windsor, "Miss Maryland 1988." Both women entertained during the course of the evening along with Darlene Fuehrer and Cindy Astlin, who held the Greenbelt title in 1986 and 1987 respectively; local entertainers Terry Toot and Bubba Frye; and several winners of the "Queen of Hearts" children's pageant. On hand for a bow were Amy Heller, winner of the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival pageant, and Cheri Gainor, "Miss Community Service 1988."

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

would pay two-thirds of salary for five months, to an employee suffering a temporary disability, beginning 31 days after the disability began. Half of salary for an additional six months would be paid if the disability continued that long.

During the first 30 days the employee would use sick or annual leave (or leave without pay). Employees would not be required to contribute to the cost of the plan. The city would self-insure for the benefits.

Second reading will be deferred until after the June 29 work session on the plan.

Bus Shelter & Lake Park Path
Public Works Director George Smith and City Horticulturist Bill Phelan presented plans for the bus shelters to be constructed at the bus stops near the entrance to the lake park and for an access path to the park opposite Ridge Road at Crescent.

The path will take the form of a Y, with the two parts of the top of the Y linking up to the sidewalks on either side of Ridge Rd. Smith said that he was anxious to get the pathway completed before July 4 because some erosion was occurring where the pathway will go.

Bram asked Phelan if it would be feasible to extend the path leading from the bus shelter on the north side of Crescent to Lastner Lane. Phelan replied that he thought that would be an attractive option.

The plans were referred to the Park and Recreation Advisory Board and the Advisory Planning Board with a recommendation that action be taken as soon as possible, at least on the Y-shaped path, which staff hoped could be completed before the Fourth. PRAB chairman Keith Chernikoff said the board would want to take a look at the plan. He anticipated approval of the path which the board had already seen.

Sovran Bank Site Plan
Council spent almost an hour on consideration of a site and landscaping plan revision for a bank pad near Commerce Center 2 on Ora Glen Drive. The 2300 sq. ft. building is to be occupied by Sovran Bank.

Celia Wilson, Planning and Development Coordinator for the city, said she was concerned that the plan's queuing space for cars lining up to use the drive-in teller windows was insufficient to accommodate the traffic on busy Friday afternoons. She feared that cars might back up on Ora Glen Drive during peak use times.

Richard Reed of Fossett & Brugger argued that the queuing space was calculated on the basis of 20-foot lengths for each car and that the area could actually accommodate many more cars (up to 25) than the plan showed. He also insisted that the average bank user would bypass any line that long in favor of going to one of the other Sovran branches in the area.

Council decided to defer a decision on the plan to see if some modification could be found to forestall the danger of cars lining up on a public highway. Reed warned that the plan would now be taken to the Park and Planning Board for a decision, because the experts had all looked at it and "no doable solution has been proposed." Weidenfeld urged him to give it one last revision which might solve the problem.

Proclamations

The Mayor proclaimed the week of May 22 as Public Works Week. He characterized public works as "the backbone of the city in keeping the city going." Smith and Phelan received the formal proclamation.

Weidenfeld also read a proclamation announcing the 17th annual observation of Ride-a-Bike for the Retarded, an event co-hosted by the city of Greenbelt. The proclamation was presented to local booster Eileen Labukas and Susan Holland representing the county office of the Association for Retarded Citizens. The bike ride fundraiser will take place June 4 (raindate June 11).

Richard Gardner was the recipient of the Hosea D. White Memorial Award for 1988. This award is given to the Ride-a-Bike participant who displays the most outstanding achievement during the state-wide Ride-a-Bike event.

Marie Hite, Chairman of the Soccer Tournament to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association, reported that the Celebrity Game held on Sunday (with Weidenfeld and Putens among the celebrities) was a great success and had raised at least $3500. Hite was awarded a plaque for her outstanding efforts in the fund raiser. White put the game results in perspective by revealing that "The kids beat the celebrity adults 3-2 using the same rules as the council—holding."

Future Meetings

The council set future meetings as follows: June 13—work session on the Green Ridge House budget to be held at Green Ridge House; June 15—public meeting on the bond issues to be held in Greenbelt East (probably Windsor Green community building on Frankfort Dr.); June 29—Special Council Meeting, if needed, to deal with year-end financial matters and/or matters arising from the results of the bond referendum; also June 29 (after the special meeting) work session on the temporary disability plan and administrative leave.

Patuxet Wildlife Center Celebrates Anniversary

The Patuxet Wildlife Research Center Laurel, Maryland, will celebrate 50 years as the nation's oldest wildlife research station and the world's largest wildlife research center on June 2 and 3. There is a minimal registration fee, and all participants must be registered to attend. The deadline for registration is May 26. 464-6706.

Sixth Graders Stage Musical

by Mary Moien

The auditorium of Greenbelt Center School took on the look of downtown New York City on May 18 as the sixth grade class presented "Rags to Riches". The musical play encompassed parts of two other plays, "Annie" and "Oliver", and had students singing their way from the orphanage to Daddy Warbucks' mansion.

In major roles were Julia Kender as the very wicked Miss Hannigan, Bradley Hewitt as Oliver Warbucks, and Alton Johnson as the magical Punjab. Lindsey Dial was the popular Miss Farrell.

As the play opens, a large group of orphan girls are singing in Central Park. Later, Miss Hannigan arrives on the scene and reminds them that they're just orphans and have no right to be happy and singing. Out in the street, sixth grade boys are pickpockets who are urged by the girls to give the stolen money back. Later, when Punjab arrives on the scene, he stages a magical sequence complete with space aliens to show his magical powers. The play has a happy ending with all of the orphans and boy pickpockets being adopted by Daddy Warbucks.

Many familiar songs were sung by the cast, including "Little Girls," "Hard Knock Life," and "Tomorrow."

This presentation is another in an annual series of extravaganzas produced by Wilma Vasquez, vocal music teacher at the school. Months of work were devoted to this project by the sixth graders and a handful of fifth graders. Most were on the stage, but others worked backstage on props, lighting, etc.

The sets for the play were designed under the guidance of Barbara Simon, High rise buildings, trees, and signs from Radio City Music Hall and Times Square filled not only the back of the stage but both sides of the auditorium front. Lois Wickline was in charge of costumes. Sixth graders Bum Jong Koh and Harry Flores did a professional job designing the program cover.

The plays produced by Vasquez always have live music, not often seen in elementary school productions. Former students Carl Wickline, Aileen Criswell, Tina Attick, Charles Attick, and David Erickson accompanied the singers on viola, violin, sax, and clarinet. These students are now in middle and high school. In addition, bass guitar and drums were provided by professional musicians Brian Hogan and Tom Adams from the band "Signals."

The play will be seen on the City Cable Channel in the near future.

Woody Found Guilty

On May 17 a Prince Georges jury found Frank Elmer Woody guilty of voluntary manslaughter in the death of Greenbelt resident Tiffany Christine Blair. Woody had been arrested by Greenbelt Police and charged with the June 5, 1988, slaying of Blair. Woody, who now faces up to ten years in prison, will be sentenced on June 12.

City Budget Allocates Funds For Arts and Sports Groups

by Mary Lou Williamson

Volunteer organizations in Greenbelt, serving a variety of age groups and interests, traditionally receive contributions through the city budget to assist them with certain kinds of expenses — equipment, uniforms and coaches fees. Requests this year from 12 groups total $38,450.

Representatives of most groups were present to answer questions of council members during the review on May 10 of this portion of the budget.

Requests
Boys/Girls Club	$7,000
Aquatic Booster	1,200
Coaches	2,300
Concert Band	1,000
Band Director	3,200
Little League	5,300
Running Club	300
Tennis Association	300
Cultural Arts Center	4,200
Manager	800
Golden Age Club	1,800
Babe Ruth League	1,050
Senior Softball	1,000
Soccer Association	5,500
Arts Coalition	3,400

The Park and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB) assists in arriving at recommended contributions by meeting with each group in March to review their requests. PRAB made two suggestions: increase the tennis association by $150 to provide for promoting the junior tennis league and shift the proposed uses of the funds requested by the Greenbelt Arts Center.

Running Club

Larry Noel met with council for the last time representing the running club. He thanked the city council and Recreation Department for their cooperation over many years. Noel is moving out of Greenbelt shortly. A committee is expected to take over the operation of the club.

Arts Center

Marie Tousignant spoke for the Cultural Arts Center. The group, she said, would agree to the changes sought by PRAB. Of the $5,000 request, $800 would go to pay a manager and the $2,000 requested for a computer to support the club's now state-wide bulletin board for performing arts groups would, instead, be used to support programming in Greenbelt. Other funds could be raised for the bulletin board, she said. The Arts Center now needs to pay rental fees for facilities to keep their programs within Greenbelt as the arts center has not had its own home since losing the lease for the Utopia Theater last July. Their request also includes $500 for costumes, "the uniform of the theater." Council also showed some interest in helping to fund the bulletin board. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld asked to have the Arts Center come up with an adjusted plan for the use of the $5,000 request.

Arts Coalition

Barbara Simon, a member of the Greenbelt North End Arts Coalition, added her organization to the city's roster for contributions for the first time. Her group had requested funding ($1,500) from the Prince Georges Arts Council to conduct a community survey of specific needs and interests by residents for arts programs. To qualify for the grant, her group needs $3,000 in matching funds from the city. Primary costs would be printing and mailing the survey. In response to council's questions, Simon said she was sure that "in kind" help from the city would satisfy some of the arts council requirements. Also, she expects to work with the Cultural Arts Center to incorporate performing arts needs in the survey. She added another $500 to help pay for transportation and other expenses for the coalition. Simon is also chairman of the newly formed Arts Advisory Council of Greenbelt, which has endorsed the request.

Boys and Girls Club

PRAB made no recommendation on the request by the Boys and Girls Club, which had not

Boys and Girls Club president Ernie Vayda was unable to attend the meeting. The snafu is the result of a major shake-up in the administrative and board positions of the club during the past year.

Gray Panthers Meet

Maryland Public Interest Research Group is a state-wide non-partisan, non-profit research and advocacy organization funded by contributions from Maryland residents. It conducts independent research on consumer and environmental problems, monitors corporate and government actions, and lobbies for legislative reforms. Issues they address include hazardous waste cleanup and prevention, consumer protection, environmental preservation, and open government.

All are welcome to come and learn what can be done to stop such air pollution, now the third leading cause of lung disease behind smoking and passive smoking. Free refreshments will be served.

GREENBELT CONNECTION HOLIDAY SCHEDULE

Greenbelt to Foggy Bottom-GWU.

Does getting to Foggy Bottom-GWU from Greenbelt throw you a curve? Well, consider this angle. Metrobus to Metrorail.

We can get you where you want to go with no geometry problems. All you have to do is catch the R-11 or R-15 Metrobus. That will get you into the New Carrollton Metro station in no time flat. From there, it's just a few minutes on the Orange Line and you're at Foggy Bottom-GWU.

It's that simple. And when you take Metrobus to Metrorail, you can leave the parking cost and worry behind. You'll also save wear and tear on your car.

So next time you're wondering how to get around, no matter where you're headed, remember this simple axiom. Sometimes the shortest and most convenient distance between two points is Metrobus.

Citizens Comment on City Budget

by Mary Lou Williamson

Leonie Penney, identifying herself as a fiscal conservative, asked the City Council to keep the dollar amount of taxes constant. Penney was one of two members of the public to address council on May 17 at its annual Public Hearing held prior to the adoption of the city's budget for the coming fiscal year.

Penney had noticed, she told the council, that a policy decision by the city manager in preparing the 1990 budget "to not raise the tax rate" had succeeded. With no tax rate increase, she pointed out, the taxpayers will still face a six percent increase in the dollars they pay out because property has been reassessed upward by 22 percent — to be implemented over the next three years. If, as the city manager had implied in his budget comments for 1991, the city will need a tax rate increase next year, Penney called the effect on taxpayers "a double whammy." She challenged council to take a leaf from Giese's book and make a policy decision to keep the dollar amount of taxes constant and to start this year by not "inflicting a six percent tax increase" on taxpayers.

Repeating some of the information that City Manager James K. Giese had presented earlier in the public hearing and some from his written budget comments, she reminded council that the growth in the assessable tax base from new construction, which has financed the growth in the city government and services over the recent past, is about to end. She feared for the taxpayers of the future, she said, when increased financial demands of the city could only come from the taxpayers' pockets.

JayCee Club House

Timothy Karch, a member of the Greenbelt Jaycees, asked for the city's help in solving the problem of excessive moisture and sometimes standing water in the basement of their clubhouse next to St. Hugh's School. The city owns the building and leases it to the Jaycees.

Council requested that staff look into the problem and assess, also, whether substantial expenditures to the building would be worthwhile.

Sheldon Goldberg, secretary of the Windsor Green Homeowners Association, was also present during the hearing, but did not address council.

The city council is expected to meet tonight, May 25, to adopt the budget.

Other Information

New or expanded points of information which came out of the public hearing include the following:

—Recycling. Giese has asked the public works department staff for recommendations for an accelerated recycling program. The trash crews accomplished an increase in paper pickup this year after they were given the incentive of bonus money from the revenues from newspaper sales. The city is now looking at a variety of other programs and ideas. "At source separation," requiring each homeowner to separate glass, paper and perhaps metal cans, is one route under study. Another is to establish a Material Recovery Facility to separate recycling materials from general trash. Greenbelt and Bowie are considering a jointly-run facility using a county grant. Giese also pointed out that the city is recycling a large amount of yard trash, which at the present time is not measured.

—Transportation System. Should the city provide transportation for school children in the afternoon. This group of residents now exclusively utilizes the system from 2:30 to 4 p.m. daily. The city either provides makeshift arrangements or provides a poorer service for others during these hours. "A lot of times requests go unanswered," reported Public Works Director George Smith. "The program is well-received by the public. It could be expanded."

—Debt Service. Some adjustments may be needed in the amount of funds for debt service if the coming referendum alters the currently proposed renovation of North End School as a community center with the sale of $1.9 million in bonds. If those bonds are not sold, funds for repayment will not be needed. If the decision is to sell $3 million in bonds for North End School renovation, repayment costs would need to be increased. A decision to renovate Center School using the $3 million bond issue would postpone the sale of bonds for several years, also postponing the start of repayment. These adjustments cannot be made until after the results of the June 27 referendum are known, Giese pointed out, but the budget must be adopted this week.

—Insurance, Workman's Compensation, etc. Giese and Finance Director Cas Prybyl reported that the city is constantly working with the Maryland Municipal League and the Council of Governments to find the best coverage at the lowest price for the city's needs.

something away from members. Yet another argued that the new state law says corporations "may" extend indemnification, not that they "shall." Thus, GHI, while "allowed" to do so, was not "required" to.

Arguing for the revision, Margaret Hogensen stated that she would not feel comfortable serving GHI without the full protection that would be provided by the revision. Countering the argument that the present protection is sufficient, David Hutchins told of having been refused blanket liability insurance because his wife served on the Board of Directors of GHI.

The members passed the revision to the bylaw on indemnification by 82 to 16.

Charter

A further bylaw amendment was passed to allow amendment of the Corporation's Certificate of Incorporation ("the Charter") for the sole purpose of limiting the liability of directors and officers to the full extent of the new Maryland law. In a continuation of the "shall" and "may" theme, it was clarified that the new law said a corporation "may" limit liability, but if it does, it "shall" do so in its charter. Thus the need to amend the Charter and not merely the bylaws.

Amberg again moved to amend the revision by adding language limiting the freedom from liability in cases of bad faith, deliberate dishonesty, or receipt of improper benefits, as well as negligence, misconduct, or fraud. The same arguments concerning ambiguous language were raised as in his motion on the indemnification amendment. His motion failed. He then moved to add language limiting the freedom from liability in cases of bad faith, deliberate dishonesty, or receipt of improper benefits. Such language is in the new legislation, he said, and he wanted to see if the members would be willing to accept bad faith, deliberate dishonesty, or receipt of improper benefits from their officers and directors, since they were apparently (to him) willing to accept negligence, misconduct or fraud. This motion to amend also failed.

The motion to revise the charter to limit the liability of officers and directors of the Corporation to the full extent of Maryland law was approved by a vote of 59 to 22.

Other Bylaws

Three other bylaw amendments were approved with little debate. One will allow voting in the Board of Directors and Audit Committee elections immediately after the Annual Membership Meeting, beginning in the 1990 election. A second amends one section of the bylaws to increase the period of time before the Annual Meeting under which a censure or removal petition must be filed. This brings that particular bylaw into compliance with actions taken at the 1988 meeting to extend the time and give the accused individual time to respond.

The other amendment clarifies the duties of the president in signing contracts, specifying that the president shall sign all Mutual Ownership Contracts and those dealing with transfer of real property. This brings the bylaws into accord with actions taken by the Board over many years in allowing the manager to sign many contracts, such as those for office products and routine services.

Reports

A common theme ran through the President's Report, the Treasurer's Report and the General Manager's Report: the establishment of programs to allow the Corporation to plan ahead for preventive maintenance and major expenditures. Wayne Williams, as president, Ray McCawley as treasurer and Ron Colton as general manager touched briefly on the highlights of the annual report, including the interior and exterior maintenance programs, the common area and tree planting programs, and the financial reserves that will allow GHI to address problems in advance. Leta Mach presented the report of the Audit Committee, which certified that at least one member of the committee had attended all board meetings. The committee had also looked into member / management relations and recommended some procedural changes in cases where members have continuing problems.

Awards

The Employee of the Year award was presented to Bill Lavelle of the maintenance crew. Since coming to work for GHI in 1985 as a laborer, Lavelle has apprenticed as a carpenter and has taken advantage of training opportunities to become working leader of the ground crew. He is not often seen by members, said President Williams, as he supervises water and sewer repair, operates the backhoe and snowplow, and maintains heavy equipment. Lavelle was recognized for his hands-on leadership and the example he sets for new employees. After accepting his award, the newly

For the first time in years, Greenbelt Boys & Girls Club has a 16 and under soccer team. They played this spring in the Bowie league, which consists mostly of all-male teams. (Bowie also has a separate girls league.) The Greenbelt team was coed, with 11 girls and 10 boys. Only 5 players were over age 13, but they played their hearts out, never gave up, never got discouraged and had the time of their lives. Out of 8 games, they won one, and were close in most of the others. Their team spirit was so high that even the constant rain couldn't keep them from practice. Many parents were disappointed when day after day the kids showed up to practice in the pouring rain and even requested additional practices in the rain for drills. A coach's dream come true!

GEAC Achieves Consensus Opposing Sunrise Midrise

by Mavis Fletcher

At the May 4 meeting, the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee found it had failed to win approval of three-fourths of its parent homeowner boards for a motion passed unanimously by GEAC members at its April 6 meeting. The motion called for support of commercial development of the 9.94-acre tract known as the Sunrise property, which is now zoned for high-density residential development.

GEAC chair Robert Zugby said that the motion had been approved by the boards of Greenbrook Village, Greenwood Village and Greenbriar. (Hunting Ridge was not represented at the meeting and no vote had been received from that board.) Greenbrook Estates representative Tim Sechrist said that the Greenbrook Estates board had abstained from acting on the motion because there was no information on "size, type and bounds of what we are seeking."

Windsor Green representative David Lychenheim reported that that board had refused to approve the motion although the majority of the board was opposed to development of the property in midrise apartments. He said that, in choosing not to support the motion for commercial development the board wanted additional information about how much commercial square footage and what specific type of commercial was proposed.

Lychenheim and Windsor Green Homeowners Association President Ed Schilling wanted the motion revised to oppose residential midrise apartments without specifically supporting commercial development. Zugby pointed out that that was impossible because the revised wording would have to be sent back to the other boards, thereby postponing any action for another month.

Moreover, Michael Vaccaro, Greenbriar representative, and Kathy Galder of Greenbrook Village said that their boards, they felt, would not support such a revision. They did accept the addition of the word "office" to support "commercial-office development."

In the end, representatives of Windsor Green and Greenbrook Estates decided to poll the board members again to see if a change in position by one of the boards would occur. Such a change would allow GEAC to take a position before the city council on the issue.

Zugby later told the News Review that the boards of both Windsor Green and Greenbrook Estates had changed their votes and that GEAC now has the necessary approval of three-fourths of the boards. He added that GEAC's position in support of commercial development will be presented to the city council at the next council meeting.

Windsor Green Dispute

Windsor Green homeowner Mark Brey repeatedly tried to address the meeting during its discussion of the motion. Zugby told him he would be given an opportunity to speak but warned him not to interrupt the deliberations of GEAC.

When Brey's turn came, he charged the Windsor Green board with delaying tactics and being "the product of isolated thinking and way out of touch." He said he had over 200 signatures to a petition supporting commercial development of the Sunrise tract and predicted the number would soon be 300.

Schilling responded "for the record" that his board had been attacked in an adversarial manner. He said that he felt things could have been handled in a "neighborly and friendly fashion." Zugby asked Brey to stick to the issues and not make personal attacks.

Schrom Hills Park

GEAC adopted a motion urging that development of Schrom Hills Park be completed by the end of 1991. Schilling, who raised the issue, pointed out that Schrom Hills Park is the only Greenbelt East project on the city's list of some 25 proposed capital improvements. GEAC members also voted to urge community support for the proposed $1 million bond issue to complete development of the park.

GEAC members made no recommendation on the $3 million bond issue for renovation of a school in the central city as a community center. Members expressed a need to see the cost estimates which were being put together for the city council by Coakley & Williams before recommending any position to the boards.

No position was taken on a petition to close the Spellman pedestrian overpass during nighttime hours. Since no sponsors of the petition were present, no substantive discussion of the matter took place.

The next meeting of GEAC will be held on June 1 at the Hunting Ridge community building.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT URGES REIMMUNIZATION

Because of a recent measles outbreak in Maryland, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) officials are advising the parents of junior and senior high school students to have their children reimmunized against the disease if the child was immunized before 15 months of age.

So far this year, at least 34 cases of measles have been reported in Baltimore, Montgomery, Prince Georges, Howard and Calvert Counties. An additional 20 cases are being investigated. This time last year, only eight cases of measles were reported in Maryland.

Cases of mumps have also been reported.

City Employees Testify At County Council Hearing

According to City Manager James Giese, city staff members recently testified at a public hearing on County Bill (CB)56-1989 — Disposition of County Property. The town of Cheverly also expressed concern.

Action was deferred on the bill pending an amendment to ensure municipal first right of refusal. The bill is scheduled to be acted on soon.

GHI Board Hears Audit, Finance Committee Report

by Barbara Likowski

At its last meeting before the annual meeting (May 11), the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) Board of Directors received reports from the Audit and Finance Committees, a presentation of the 1987-88 Audit of the Corporation, and heard an update on the masonry stress crack study. President Wayne Williams conducted the meeting with all members present. Outgoing board members Nancy Hutchins and Alan Freas were praised by their colleagues for their work on the board.

Leta Mach, chair of the Audit Committee, presented their report. The Audit Committee reviewed check writing procedures, use of the GHI credit card and the use of both to make small purchases. They found that some checks were not being written in accordance with the bylaws which require that no check be signed until after the date, payee, amount, and the reason for writing the check have been filled in. Also two signatures are needed for each check, that of the manager, Ron Colton and comptroller Don McGinn. According to the committee some checks were being signed at the office by one or both of the above and then given to individuals to take to PACE to procure items, at which time the amount was entered. The audit committee suggested that the Board review check writing practices and in the meantime no checks should be written unless they follow the procedures set up in the bylaws.

The committee found that the GHI credit card was obtained as a result of a board resolution, March 20, 1984 so that a previous manager could use it to handle travel expenses. Since then it has been used by the manager, assistant manager, comptroller, and also the staff on a specific occasion for many purposes beside travel. The Audit Committee suggests that since the bylaws are not specific as to credit card use that the board review the use and establish a policy for its use.

The Audit Committee also recommended that the board and manager review the area of small purchases so that they can be made in the most economical and efficient manner.

The board received the Audit Committee's report and placed it on file. The committee asked that it be discussed further sometime in the next two months. However, check signing procedures were already on the agenda and were discussed that night. The concern of the committee which had been expressed at the previous meeting was that some checks for vendors had been signed without the precise amount being filled in. The board suggested the following solutions so that management could continue to take advantage of discount purchasing — a board resolution authorizing one signature checks up to a specified amount and determining that one signature on a two-signature check does not create negotiability and that the second signer could fill in the amount of the purchase prior to signing the check, thereby complying with the bylaws. Management also suggested a petty cash checking account that would be funded with a maximum of $2,000. at a time and that no check could be written for more than $1,000. These checks would require only one signature (manager, assistant manager, comptroller, or, in their absence the president or treasurer). They would be monitored by the president and the comptroller.

Director Ray McCawley balked at the idea of one signature checks and thought the bylaws should be followed. Director Andrea Haslinger wanted to limit the account to $5,000. She pointed at one time, the account could eventually hold a great deal of money. After a brief discussion the board passed a motion establishing a petty cash checking account for small item procurement. Other accounts were to follow the bylaws.

Finance Report

Nat Shinderman gave the report of the Finance Committee in which the committee asked that more adequate consideration be given to their recommendations. While not expecting all recommendations to be adopted, the committee would like written feedback from the board. They felt that often the board received their report and that is the last they hear of it. It is bad for their morale for this to happen after they have worked carefully to consider specific recommendations.

The Finance Committee also recommended that the new board and audit committee have a week-end retreat at a local facility, not at GHI, for orientation.

When the board started to accept the report and file it, Shinderman objected and asked that it also be placed on the board's agenda sometime in the next two months. That was done.

Stress Crack Study

Manager Ron Colton gave an update on the masonry stress crack study. Laser readings have continued at 3 A-D Ridge, 16 E-K Ridge, 18 S-V Ridge and 6 F-J Hillside. Stress crack monitors were mounted across cracks at 3 Ridge, 16 Ridge, 17 Ridge, 6 Hillside, 8 A-D Hillside and 35 A-G Ridge. All of these have been regularly monitored by staff.

Crack monitors at 3D Ridge indicate significant movement, and a close relationship between movements and rainfall was observed. Surface drainage improvement does not seem to have eliminated the movement; however staff feels that there is a need for good drainage there and that it should help.

The readings at 6 Hillside do not indicate any measureable movement; leading staff to believe that the building is substantially stabilized. Water was still found in holes in the boiler room floor. The water table is well below this, so the water is local. A new sump pump system will be installed in the boiler room. Since the new drainage system put in there was expensive and disturbed members' yards, other methods will be tried.

Staff is also looking into two additional consultants, LEA Associates who will determine whether it may be feasible to retrofit expansion joints into the masonry walls and the Woodbine division of GKN Hayward Baker in Fort Worth, Texas who specialize in lime-fly ash pressure injection of ground modification. Woodbine will prepare an estimate for using the pressure injection process on 16 E-K Ridge. Thus four different solutions to stop the cracking will be tried.

Beauchamp's Work Called Important for Historians

A Private War: Letters and Diaries of Madge Preston, 1862-1867. Edited by Virginia Wolcott Beauchamp. New Brunswick; Rutgers University Press, 1987, 374 pp. (Review reprinted by permission of Belles Lettres, A Review of Books by Women.)

by Dana-Nelson Salvino

The rallying cry of the modern feminist movement is "The personal is the political." Nowhere do we more eloquently see the painful truth of that credo than in Madge Preston's letters and diaries. Even in her most private records, Madge's sense of propriety keeps her from directly expressing the torment of her life during this period, her physical and psychological abuse by her husband.

Virginia Wolcott Beauchamp has done a fine service in bringing us this volume. Her focus is insistently on public as well as personal history; in her discussion of William Preston, for instance, Beauchamp blends professional and private events to offer a sensitive examination of his changing, perhaps newly abusive, relationship with Madge. To similar effect, she highlights the aching disparity and ironic mergings in Madge's public and private life by juxtaposing her letters (mostly to her daughter, May) with concurrent diary entries.

One of the captivating aspects of this collection is Beauchamp's decision to focus on Madge's "private war," in contrast to the public Civil War raging at the time—both outgrowths of patriarchal society. In the alternating diary entries and letters, we glimpse Madge's personal struggle to maintain social rectitude in the face of her disintegrating relationship with her disturbed husband. Beauchamp is very generous (perhaps overly) to William Preston, and her insight that Mr. Preston's violence may be the flip side to Mrs. Preston's writing is provocative: Beauchamp speculates that both resorting to violence and keeping a diary offer the actor some "illusion of control." Her suggestive comments are worth extending and pursuing: "Preston's violence, Madge's diary. Were they two sides to the same discomfort in a changing world? Perhaps in the nineteenth century these were the male and the female paradigms."

Madge Preston's story during these years is not solely one of abuse and a tormented conjugal relationship. It is as well a moving testament to the bond between mother and daughter. During the years of this volume, May leaves home for the first time to attend her mother's alma mater, St. Joseph's Academy. Their letters chronicle May's growth, Madge's loneliness and pride, and their maturing relationship. The diary entries and letters also credit the network of women friends who offer emotional support to Madge, even without knowing her innermost difficulties.

A Private War will be important to historians and herstorians alike. Beauchamp's introduction is sensitive and informative, and given the exigencies of managing and forming such materials into a volume, it is perhaps unfair to wish for more. Yet, and perhaps purposely, there is much left to be considered in Madge Preston's writings. While Beauchamp shows William's physical abuse of Madge, she does not fully address his pervading psychological abuse. (For instance, he literally courts Madge's sister's daughters, keeps them in the Preston residence, favors them openly over her, and invites them to take sides against her.) Further, while Beauchamp discusses the dynamics of Madge's relationship with May and the Catholic nuns that run May's school, she does not focus much on Madge's other very interesting relationships with her nieces or the local women, nor does she examine in any significant detail Madge's association with black women in and outside of her household.

A Private War invites deeper analysis in these areas and more. It is our good fortune today to be able to study such private writings for their poignancy as well as their public relevance.

Hello Again,

Now is the season when we jump into our vehicles and flip on the air conditioning system and hope it comes on. From time to time, we see a common problem which could cause a mess on the passenger side floor board — evaporator drain-back. This happens when the evaporator is cooling just fine and it starts to condense, but discharges its water back into the vehicle and not outside, thus flooding the passenger compartment with water. Here is a simple little fix:

First, make sure you clean out leaves and other matter that could get sucked into the air passages.

Second, located at the very bottom is the drain box with a little hose. Just scrape it off and make sure it's not blocked.

Remember when you do this, put a few old towels down to sop up the water because if it's blocked, as soon as you clear it, watch out, "Niagara Falls," possibly a gallon!

Till next time
