Who Will Sit on the Next City Council To Be Decided at Election on Tuesday

by Elaine Skolnik

Nine candidates, competing for five city council seats, will wind up their hectic election campaigns in just a few days. Then, on Tuesday, November 7, it will be the Greenbelt electorate's turn to get into the act.

About 60 percent of the city's 3,633 registered voters are expected to trek to the polls to elect the council members who will head the municipal government for the next two years. Incumbents Gil Weidenfeld, Joseph C. Isaacs, Thomas X. White, Edward V. J. Putens, and Antoinette "Toni" Bram are seeking return to council. The challengers are Roy Dahl, Konrad Herling, Ruth Kastner and Rodney Roberts.

Of special interest is the order in which candidates finish. Councils have traditionally chosen the top vote-getter as mayor, although the city charter is silent on this point.

Tuesday's election appears to be devoid of major issues to divide the candidates. However, late in the campaign voters' interest has been sparked by (1) a proposal by advocates of a co-operatively owned senior citizen apartment building to lease parkland at a nominal fee for the facility and (2) by the recent groundbreaking for the Greenbelt Metro Station, which drew concerns about increased traffic and the kind of development that will rise around the station.

Development, in particular the proposed high-rise Sunrise apartments, traffic and crime continue to trouble residents in Greenbelt East, while in Old Greenbelt discussion involves the use or non-use of the 72 acre tract deeded recently to the city

NEW VOTING PLACE

Sixth Precinct voters for the Nov. 7 council election will vote at the new Police Station at the intersection of Crescent and Ridge Roads, across from "Buddy" Attick Park. There will be no voting at North End School.

The construction phase of the police station is not finished. The building will be used for voting, it is not yet open to the general public.

by the county. The question is how to balance the needs of those who desire the tract to be left in its natural state and those who envision additional ballfields on some of the acreage.

Drawing interest also is the adjacent 102.6 acre property which the city wants to acquire to preserve the remaining green

Procedures Outlined

Voting on election day, Tuesday, November 7, will be held from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at four polling places — the Greenbelt Municipal Building (Precinct 3-Center), the new Police Station, 550 Crescent Rd., across from Attick Park (Precinct 6-North End), Springhill Lake Fountain Lodge (Precinct 8-Springhill Lake), and Greenbriar Community Center (Precinct 13-Greenbelt East).

Greenbelters will elect five council members, all at large, for a two-year term. In order to be elected, a candidate must receive 40% of the votes cast. If fewer than five candidates receive such a vote, a run-off election will be held one week later on Tuesday, November 14.

In a run-off election the ballot will consist of those unsuccessful candidates receiving the number of votes, up to twice as many names as there are positions to be filled. Candidates polling the greatest number of votes are declared winners in the run-off election regardless of the percentage of votes received.

The 40% requirement for election was introduced in 1967. Earlier a majority vote was required, frequently resulting in run-off elections. Since 1967 no run-offs have taken place. The last run-off election in 1965 pitted Richard

Council Candidates Face Questioners At Greenbelt East Community Hearing

by Pat Scully

Robert Zugby, president of the Greenbelt East Advisory Council (GEAC) and moderator for the evening, welcomed the candidates for City Council, eight in person and one linked by "satellite," to a Candidates Forum on Monday evening, October 23, at the Greenbriar Community Center. Incumbent Thomas X. White, who was in Phoenix, Arizona, on business, had arranged to have a telephone linked to a microphone so he could take part in the forum. About half of the candidates and one-third of the audience were sporting red ribbons, to show their support for the County's Drug-Free Community campaign.

The forum was sponsored by GEAC as part of its goals to "bring issues facing Greenbelt East to the general public consciousness, to strengthen the bonds between the various parts of the city and to foster the sense of belonging to the community for Greenbelt East residents," said Zugby. For their opening statements, the order of speakers was alphabetical; for the questions, Zugby used his "random number generator" (Index cards with the candidates' names) to determine the order. Anne Condra, an election judge, served as timekeeper.

Opening Statements

The candidates used their opening statements to give a Greenbelt Eastern orientation to themes they have been addressing throughout the campaign. Solutions or avenues of approach were proposed to the problems of overdevelopment, traffic congestion and crime.

Incumbent Antoinette (Toni) Bram spoke against widening highways to relieve traffic congestion, since it leads to further urbanization. She called for stringent new adequate public facilities legislation and a moratorium on development.

Challenger Roy Dahl was galvanized into running by the threat presented by the Sunrise development and inadequacies he sees in traffic studies, which he said fail to account for development along Greenbelt Road out to Bowie and the impact of Metro. He stated that his mathematical background would help in technical review of traffic studies.

Konrad Herling, another challenger, would like to see the new town principles of 1987 applied to Greenbelt of the 1990s. He espoused establishment of a city Department of Planning, building bicycle and pedestrian paths throughout the city and the "transfer of development rights," a strategy to move new development to more suitable locations.

Joseph Isaacs, an incumbent, spoke of the qualities he offers and how he has applied them to issues affecting Greenbelt East. He initiated the $1 million bond issue for Schrom Hills Park, he will not compromise with developers on green space and traffic mitigation and he supports open voter registration, to make it easier for all citizens to take a role in government.

Challenger Ruth Kastner has long been concerned about planning issues and traffic impacts, she stated, supporting the least dense options for development.

Edward Putens, an incumbent, said that not enough has been heard on what he sees as the big problem—crime and drugs. Expressing strong support for pro-

County Councilmember Castaldi Warns Community of Drug Problem

by Sharon O'Malley

Greenbelt residents should know there's a drug problem in their community, said Prince Georges County Councilmember Richard Castaldi. "It may not be as blatant here as in the District, but it's here."

Castaldi, in an interview with the Greenbelt News Review before a seminar on drugs and the family at the Greenbelt Library October 25, said Greenbelt's youngsters are most at risk. He commended Center School staff for the after-school care program that extends the school day to provide a safe environment for children who live in the drug-ridden community of Washington Heights.

"It's not a problem of the inner Beltway. It's not a problem of Washington, D.C. It's not a problem of socio-economic situations. There's a drug epidemic and the first step to recovery here is to admit there is a problem," Castaldi said. "It can happen here in Greenbelt."

The drug problem affects the whole community, Castaldi said, by stretching the resources of hospitals, police departments, school systems and counseling centers.

"We realize it will take more than more police officers and more jail space to solve this problem," said Castaldi, a former Greenbelt mayor. The entire community, from religious leaders to parents, to the Lion's Club, has to fight the drug problem together, he said.

"There is a drug problem everywhere in Prince Georges County. Anyone who says there's not is not dealing with reality," he said.

He blamed the popular use of drugs by today's teenagers on the

Veterans Day Observance

Veterans Day will be observed by the American Legion at the Greenbelt War Memorial on Centerway. The ceremony, held on the anniversary of the signing of the Armistice that ended the First World War, commemorates the servicemen and women who fought in that and subsequent conflicts. Greenbelters are invited to join the Legion on Saturday, November 11, promptly at 10 a.m.

The speaker will be retired Brigadier General William Neal Mang, whose theme will be "Glasnost: Shall our nation, as it did in the thirties, once again beat our swords into ploughshares." The program will include patriotic music and the presentation of colors.

In case of inclement weather, the observance will be held at the American Legion Post on Greenbelt Road. After the ceremony, participants and guests are invited to a buffet at the Legion.

The service is sponsored by American Post 79., Post 136 Auxiliary and S & L, the Disabled American Veterans and the city of Greenbelt. It is the 18th anniversary of the joint observance of this ceremony.

"free and effervescent flower-child '60's, when drugs were really given prominence in movies, in culture, in songs. It was very difficult then for people to say, 'This is illegal, this is harmful.'" Those "flower children" now are raising children who watch them using drugs and alcohol and who imitate that behavior, Castaldi said.

Through countywide efforts like Red Ribbon Week, "We want to turn that around and let people know it's important for people to take charge of their lives in their communities and in their families," Castaldi said.

Substance Abuse A Family Issue

by Sharon O'Malley

Drug addiction and alcoholism are family diseases that require the support of an addict's whole family to overcome.

That was the message from Linda Stone, a counselor with the Prince Georges County Health Department, who spoke at a seminar on Drugs and Your Family's Health October 25 at the Greenbelt library.

The seminar was one of several events sponsored by the Health Department's Directorate of Addictions and County Council member Richard Castaldi as part of Red Ribbon Week, October 22-29.

Stone described a family as a social system that should function to help its members become productive in society. "Alcoholism gets in the way of the family's fulfilling its functions."

Alcoholism and drug addiction eat away at the family by becoming the most important thing in its collective life. Confusion, chaos, rigid rules and lack of communication are typical, Stone said; adding that addictive families do not nurture their members, but rather thrive on blame, embarrassment and denial.

Stone pointed out that recovery programs for alcoholics and their families are long-term, and cannot begin until the family, like its alcoholic or drug addict member, recognizes that it needs treatment for each of its members.

As conduits to recovery, she recommended groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous and their offshoot groups designed for spouses, teens and even small children.

Supervised recovery, added Stone, helps to rebuild trust that has been broken down between family members, and teaches them how to adjust to lifestyle changes brought about by removal of drugs and alcohol.

Vaccines Offered for Flu, Pneumococcal Pneumonia

The Prince Georges County Health Department is offering vaccines for flu and pneumococcal pneumonia at various clinic sites in the County. In Greenbelt the vaccines will be given on Thursday, November 9, 10:30-11:45 a.m. at Green Ridge House, 22 Ridge Rod.

According to the Health Department, among those who should receive the flu vaccine are persons 65 years of age or older, persons living in a nursing home or a long term care facility, and adults and children with chronic lung and cardiovascular disorders. Those with a serious sensitivity to eggs should not take the vaccine, say Health Department officials, and those who have an illness with a fever should wait until they are well.

The flu vaccine can be taken every year, according to the Health Department. No doctor's order is needed. However, the pneumococcal vaccine should be given just once in a lifetime except for high risk persons who received the vaccine more than six years ago. It is for persons 65 and older with chronic medical conditions.

Pneumococcal pneumonia is a serious infection of the lungs caused by a bacterium, indicates the Health Department. It is one of the leading causes of death in the elderly and others with chronic health disorders. People must bring a doctor's written order with them to receive the pneumococcal pneumonia vaccine. People are asked to call their doctor before coming to a clinic.

The flu vaccine and the pneumonia vaccine should be given on the same day or a month apart. There is a small fee. No checks will be accepted.

For additional information, call 459-4440.

Paint Thinner Dumped In Creek Near Co-op

Last Friday evening 20 to 25 gallons of paint thinner were dumped into the creek that flows next to the Candy Cane City play area, beside the Co-op supermarket parking lot. The dumping was reported between 5 and 5:30 p.m. when people complained of the smell. The odor vented through the sewer lines and into nearby residences.

The Greenbelt Fire Department constructed a skimming boom to retain the paint thinner so it would not flow downstream into Greenbelt Lake. Free water flowed under the boom, but the paint thinner, which is lighter, was held in by it.

The Prince Georges County special hazards investigator and the state Environmental Protection Agency were involved in the cleanup. Absorbent material was thrown into the paint thinner, soaking it up and allowing the residue to be vacuumed.

PLEASE HELP!

Dear Citizens of Greenbelt,

The last time I wrote to you was in 1984. At that time I was writing of my fond memories of growing up in Greenbelt before relocating to my "home away from home" in Santa Cruz, California. Those times will always bring back fond memories for me. Unfortunately, this letter comes to you in the aftermath of a devastating earthquake which occurred at 5:04 p.m. on October 17. I am sure that the media has saturated the East Coast with news of that tragedy, but I doubt that you have heard from someone who lives there.

The entire downtown stretch of Santa Cruz more or less crumbled in the initial forty-second quake and a lot of additional damage was sustained in the aftershocks. There were at least six confirmed deaths and as many as 10,000 people left homeless.

In the aftermath of the devastation, the citizens of Santa Cruz have had to put aside differences and help one another. There is a prevailing sense to help our fellow human beings. We even merited a higher priority than the World Series.

Just like the destruction in the Marina district in San Francisco and the collapse of the bridge in Oakland, the people in Santa Cruz will need your assistance in feeding the hungry and treating the injured. I would like to make a heartfelt plea to the citizens of Greenbelt to help. Send any assistance that you can to the American Red Cross or some other agency, but please help.

Get the Facts

Much information has been cited in the News Review during the past month that has resulted in confusion as to how one should respond to the city questionnaire on election day. I would like to clear up some misconceptions about cooperative housing for senior citizens of Greenbelt.

We all agree that housing for senior citizens is a good idea. I would like to ask the News Review, What do you consider to be a fair deal? We are not asking the city to "provide land at virtually no cost." The city is not giving any land to the senior housing group. The land will be rented for a nominal fee. The city will own this land. Taxes on the building will be paid to both the city and county. The Co-op Senior Housing will not cost the citizens one cent.

I have talked to many seniors who are long-time residents of Greenbelt, who are not aware of and are very interested in housing as proposed by the senior housing Co-op committee. The questions being raised and the open discussion generated by the News Review are good and hopefully will clarify misconceptions by those seniors vitally interested in housing proposed by the Co-op.

As for open space, it's obvious that depending on the site of land selected, some trees may have to be cut down. Hamilton Place has no trees. It is now a garden plot. I have not heard of any complaints about the trees cut down for development on Hanover Road.

The suggestion I would put to the city council is: "Why not transplant the many varieties of young trees presently located on city land where trees are needed? This could be part of the Adopt-A-Tree program that I initiated in 1985 during the 50th anniversary celebration.

I also want to allay member concerns about the Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative (GCC), owners of the supermarket, pharmacy and service station. GCC has no financial involvement or investment in the senior Co-op housing. The housing committee has developed a proposal for a separate cooperative.

Members of the senior Co-op housing committee will be present at all polling places on November 7, election day, to answer any questions. We urge you to get all the facts. If you are interested in senior housing and want more information, please contact us at the GCC supermarket. I appeal to all citizens of Greenbelt, both seniors and those who one day will become seniors, to support the senior Co-op housing committee by marking yes on the city council questionnaire on November 7.

Wanted:Fiscal Responsibility

Fiscal accountability is a key responsibility of each city council member. Council determines the city's priorities and commits its limited financial resources (annual revenue and borrowing capacity).

A review of selected capital projects provides an insight into how council members exercise their fiscal responsibilities. A police facility—a definite necessity—originally estimated at $1,875,000 in July 1987, will cost residents $2,232,000. An indoor pool estimated at $2,800,000 (July 1987) will cost a minimum of $3,644,000 plus annual operating losses totalling $666,600 during its first four years. Coakley-Williams projected the full cost of the proposed community center at Center School at nearly $5,000,000 and that cost is likely to rise. Yet citizens were asked to authorize bond funds of only $3 million and the city's most recent capital project's budget earmarks only $3,915,000 for that facility. Clearly, this council has readily accepted optimistic, unrealistic cost projections for capital projects.

Your vote on November 7 will determine whether this upcoming council will have a strong fiscal focus. Select those candidates that will inject a sense of financial realism and who are willing to balance community needs and fiscal capabilities. Our failure to demand fiscal stability and realistic budgeting will result in higher taxes, an inability to issue additional bonds (once the city's bond capacity has been reached) and likely postponement of critical projects in the future.

Control of Development

Whenever there is a discussion of Greenbelt's traffic problem, someone will say, "Well, yes, it would be nice to have control of the over-development problem in Greenbelt, but it will never happen." This idea has been expressed by candidates for city council as well as a variety of people who are active in the community.

It need not be true. Greenbelters can have control of development by one simple act—stop saying "it will never happen" and start saying "it will happen." Clearly, if you believe that you cannot do anything about a problem, then you will not be able to. On the other hand, if you believe you can correct a given problem, then you will be able to.

Government is created by people to serve people. When it does not work properly, it has to be corrected. It is common sense that we should have input in deciding what Greenbelt is going to become—yet we do not.

The original planners of Greenbelt envisioned a community of woodlands, parks and recreation facilities. Greenbelters of today still support these goals. High-density rapid development is not our goal. Whose goal is it?

Currently, the county council has nearly total control of development in Greenbelt. Our preference for planned, low-density development is certainly not represented by this governing body. Whose preferences are being represented? It is doubtful that the citizens of Oxon Hill, Lanham or Bowie are intent on creating high-density development in Greenbelt. So, by what form of representative government is it happening? What body of citizens has decided that there should be overcrowding in Greenbelt? The answer is none. We are allowing it to happen to ourselves by believing that we have no control.

This year the state legislature took an unusual step in voting to prevent any county council member from participating in a zoning case in which the developer had contributed to the council member's campaign fund. I assume that our state representatives saw abuse of representative government in Prince Georges County significant enough to warrant this new law. In addition, it was reported that a majority of county council (including our own representatives) received approximately 50 percent of their campaign funds from developers. This situation is not acceptable and has a direct impact on Greenbelt.

The upcoming city council election gives us the opportunity to select candidates who will insist that the citizens of Greenbelt have greater input into land use issues.

Very Disturbing

Recent letters have expressed outrage over the removal of campaign signs. I have had a number of my own signs taken down and defaced, and I find this very disturbing. It is especially unfortunate that one (other) candidate appears to have been singled out and more severely affected by this kind of malicious activity.

I'm sure that the other candidates would join me in deploring this incident, which has unfortunately marred an otherwise constructive campaign.

Ruth E. Kastner

The Need Is There

Some time ago I joined the group that has been working to develop an elderly housing facility. I did so not because I have any current plans to live in such a facility, but because I thought there was a genuine need for this.

This housing would meet the needs of middle-income Greenbelt citizens—those who are not eligible for residence in Green Ridge House because of their income levels.

As I have learned about the needs of the elderly through my experience on the National Cooperative Bank Board, it has become obvious that it is the middle income group that is being squeezed out of the picture. The rich can take care of themselves and here in Greenbelt we have provided for those with lower incomes at Green Ridge House.

It is very difficult to build and operate such a facility, especially in this area, to serve these needs without some sort of assistance. One very easy way to provide this is allowing the use of land.

I am not personally wedded to any particular location, but I am certain the need is there and will continue to be there regardless of how this vote comes out.

Parcel 12 Preferred

The second part of Question 6 on the Greenbelt election questionnaire relates to two suggested locations for a senior co-op apartment building. Here are some factors relative to each site.

Parcel 12 (see location map on the questionnaire (elsewhere in this issue) is downhill from Roosevelt Center, making it easier to carry packages from the Center. It is accessible from the Center without crossing a major road. It is close to the Rescue Squad, Braden Field, swimming pool, library and lake. It is close to the Catholic, Baptist and Community Churches. It is on the bus line, and the water, sewer and gas lines. It would require some clearing of trees, and is separated from the rest of Attick Park by a to-be-enlarged sedimentation pond and a proposed dredged sediment-placement area.

Parcel 2 is uphill from Roosevelt Center. Access to the Center is across Ridge Road and under Crescent Road. It is farther from the siren noise than Parcel 12, but closer to BW Parkway noise. It is close to the Methodist Church and there is little traffic on Hamilton Place. The site is clear of trees, but its sewage would have to be pumped to get into the sewer system.

Both are feasible sites, but I believe Parcel 12 is much more preferable.

Worried Greenbelt Parents Weather California Quake

by Susan Sherr

For the past week and a half, the entire United States has been following the aftermath of the earthquake that hit northern California on October 17. The quake, which registered a 7.1 on the Richter scale, effected people across the country, including a couple in Greenbelt, Maryland.

Dorothy Sucher of Greenbelt was teaching a writing class at the Writing Center in Bethesda when after a break, her class informed her of the quake. Because her son, Anatole, 26, and daughter, Anne, 23 both live in the San Francisco area, she was concerned. "My class was very understanding. I was very alarmed so I left to go call my husband," she said.

Joseph Sucher, a physicist at the University of Maryland, had already heard from their son when his wife called. He did not know about the quake before his son's call.

Anne had been working in the marina district, an area in San Francisco which received a great deal of damage from the quake, when the tremors began.

"She told me that everything started shaking so she ran outside and stood on the sidewalk. The trolley lines run over the street so people didn't want to stand under them in the street," Dorothy said.

Anatole got in touch with his sister after his parents had trouble contacting her. "Everything in her house was fine. She said that the house she is living in survived the quake in 1906 and it survived this too," Dorothy said.

Anatole was working in Palo Alto, which was closer to the epicenter of the quake when it hit.

"He told me that computers where he worked fell off the

Japanese Delegation Visits Roosevelt

Eleanor Roosevelt High School hosted two teachers and three students from Suiran Senior High School in Yokohama, Japan, from Oct. 30 to Nov. 2 as part of a sister-school exchange program between the state of Maryland and the Kanagawa Prefecture in Japan.

A welcoming reception was held for the Japanese delegation at ERHS on Oct. 30. Among the dignitaries present at the reception were Mayor Gil Weidenfeld and school board member Suzanne Plogman.

ERHS has been selected as one of four Maryland high schools to participate in the international program. The visit by the Japanese will formally establish a sister-school relationship between Suiran Senior High and ERHS.

The Japanese stayed with local families during their 10-day visit to the United States. ERHS teachers Kathy McPartland and Anne Cherry hosted the two Japanese teachers while the Japanese students stayed with ERHS students.

ERHS was the first school in Prince Georges County to offer classes in Japanese language studies which started four years ago. Currently, over 60 students are participating in the program. To highlight the visit, Japanese language instructor Yasuko Nainan created a special Japanese display of textbooks, artifacts and other cultural items in the school's Media Center.

Mrs. Wolfe and her late husband, James N. Wolfe, moved into the new town in July 1938, and lived at 4-D Ridge Road. The couple were charter members of Greenbelt Community Church.

At the start of World War II Mrs. Wolfe went to work with the District of Columbia government as supervisor of the Assessment Department. She served in that position for 20 years until her retirement.

Mrs. Wolfe's husband, who died in 1970, was a Greenbelt city council member from 1949 to 1957, and served as mayor during 1954 and 1955.

Elect KONRAD HERLING To The City Council Planning...to Unify Greenbelt

How Would Konrad Herling Make a Difference?

We have complained about the rate and pattern of development for a long time. It is my feeling that we need a more pragmatic strategy if we are to be more effective in managing our growth. We will need the tools, provided by a Department of Planning, the political energies of our community, the willingness to look for better solutions to our problems and a vision to bring our community closer together. That is the attitude and outlook I would bring to Council.

Specifically:

1. I would propose that we create a Department of Planning. This will allow us to plan now, pursuant to goals we desire, for alternative means of access to metro and for the development of the metro area, etc. If we wait for the County to provide us its plans, as we have in the past, we will only be able to do one thing —react. We need to be able to lobby from a position of strength.
2. I would advocate building a community-wide consensus on the planning issues we confront. I would be on the phone, asking Greenbelters to respond by their presence and testimony at County planning board and zoning hearings. There is nothing like the spirit of Greenbelters. And I believe our community would respond. Can anyone doubt, particularly if alerted by our City Council, that Greenbelters would not demonstrate its opposition to Sidney Brown's proposal to expand Beltway Plaza closer towards Breezewood Drive?
3. I would advocate that we take the lead in building a county-wide coalition of citizens and municipalities based on mutual concerns of the environment and growth management. If a coalition of citizens, without the support of any municipality, can defeat the proposal to build an incinerator and its powerful lobby, 9-0, imagine what can be done with our leadership. The objective: to make it politically attractive for all nine members of the County Council to support rational, environmentally sensitive planning/zoning.
4. I would propose that we move rapidly on revitalizing Roosevelt Center. It has been four years since the charrette of 1985. We must initiate a conference with representatives of the public sector and the National, State and County Historic Trusts if we are to ascertain all of the options we have. If we truly desire to create the proper atmosphere for imaginative, yet sensitive development, we need to take the lead. We cannot afford to wait any longer.
5. Search for alternative solutions. We have been afraid to look outside our city's borders and experiences for other solutions. For example, Montgomery County has saved a great deal of farmland by transferring development rights. If we truly wish to deal effectively with development proposals, such as Sunrise, it is an option we should fully explore. We must also consider using a wide range of planning/financial options: impact fees on developers, establishing a transportation maintenance program, amending the County's site map, downsizing, etc.

Voting is the most cherished of American rights, an act practiced in the privacy of the voting booth. However you vote, I can tell you I have made every effort to make a positive contribution to the campaign. I also pledge to you, if elected, to make every effort to heighten citizen awareness of the planning issues we confront and to encourage citizen input. I feel that it is my obligation to do so. And, if we are to make a greater impact in the City's and the County's planning process, it is imperative that we do so.

Because of his dedication and commitment to community service, he was selected in 1984 as Metropolitan Washington Volunteer Activist of the Year, as Prince Georgian of the Year, and as an Outstanding Young Man of America by the National Jaycees.

Isaacs has served on Greenbelt's Advisory Planning Board (APB), as well as the City's Park and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB). He has also been an active member of the Maryland Citizens Planners Association.

As President of the Boxwood Civic Association from 1982 through 1985, Isaacs was a strong advocate on many issues of concern to his neighborhood and the city-at-large. He founded Boxwood's crime watch in 1983 and successfully fought for the construction of needed bus stop shelters. On citywide matters, he served as co-chair of Citizens FOR the Bond Issue and as Chairman of the Save Our (Co-op) Services (S.O.S.) Committee.

Isaacs has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Greenbelt Arts Center and a vice president of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club. Ruth Kastner

3F Crescent Road

She represented CFG at the 1988 Master Plan Public Hearing for Greenbelt/College Park/Langley Park. She stepped down as secretary in July to run for city council.

In November 1987, Kastner founded, together with neighbor Paul Downs, the Committee to Save the Green Belt (CSGB), a citizens' group dedicated to preserving Parcels 1 and 2 and the 72-acre surplus school board property as woodlands. She currently serves as treasurer of CSGB. The city has since acquired Parcel 2 and the 72 acres and has begun condemnation proceedings on Parcel 1.

Kastner founded Prince Georgians for Responsible Growth (PGRG) in February 1989. PGRG is an alliance of citizens and civic groups united to advocate controlled development, good planning, and preservation of the natural environment.

Kastner was born in Schenectady, New York in 1955 and her family moved to Greenbelt in 1959, when she was four years old.

After graduating from Parkdale High School in 1973 she attended Frostburg State College for two years, transferring to the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore to complete a bachelor's degree in music education with violin major.

After marrying fellow Peabody student Charles Hagelgans in 1979, she attended the University of Maryland, receiving a bachelor of science degree with high honors in physics, in 1982.

Concerned about the increasing impact of crime in the area, Kastner served on the city's newly formed Crime Prevention Committee in 1982.

After her two daughters, Wendy (6) and Janet (3) were born, she became involved in local planning and zoning issues and environmental concerns.

She formerly worked for the News Review, beginning in her teenage years, writing occasional articles and doing proofreading.

Kastner has also written commentary on local and national issues for the Prince Georges Journal. Her hobbies are writing, playing the piano, and trying to keep up with the latest developments in modern physics.

Dahl enjoys swimming, painting, outdoor activities and involvement in community projects. He is a member of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club. He shares Greenbelt's commitment to green space, and a sense of strong community which developed during its extraordinary history.

Rodney Roberts

38 Ridge Road

Rodney Roberts, 31, a lifelong resident of Greenbelt, grew up at 2-G Research Road. He went to school in Greenbelt, attending North End Elementary School and Parkdale High School, and was active in city sports.

Roberts currently lives at 38-M Ridge Road and works for Boyd Enterprises, a minority-owned business based in Greenbelt. He is a mechanic, welder and shop foreman. Also a skilled carpenter, he has helped his friends remodel their houses and is proud of the fact that he lives in a historic community. Roberts is dedicated to the preservation of the original town plan.

An active environmentalist and outdoorsman, Roberts is also a woodland and wildlife photographer whose work has been displayed locally. As co-chair of the Committee to Save the Green Belt, he has organized weekly tours of the "green belt" for almost two years. In addition, he has designed and constructed two prize-winning booths in the city's Labor Day Festival. Proceeds from the sale of his collection of photographs of the Greenbelt woods were donated to the committee.

He is also interested in such issues as senior citizens' needs and recreation, as well as concerned with the problem of traffic congestion, crime, pollution, and taxes.

LEVER 2A

Dear Greenbelt Citizens,

As the forthcoming Greenbelt City Council election approaches, I feel both a sense of pride and humility for having had the opportunity to serve our community in the capacity of Council Member for the past six years. I would be honored to, again, represent you as one of the five members of City Council you select to provide leadership into the '90s.

For the past six years my record has been one that reflects the majority opinion of our fair city and effectively supports our needs in a number of critical areas. Please consider the following positions which I have taken for the greater good on major Greenbelt issues.

 TRAFFIC REDUCTION. My record consistently demonstrates a positive approach to reducing traffic congestion not only on major highways and county thoroughfares, but also on neighborhood roads.

 GREENSPACE. During three terms on City Council, I have voted to acquire over 175 acres of undeveloped land for preservation and recreational use by present and future generations.

 DEVELOPMENT. In dealing with developers, I have held the line to prevent the detrimental buildup of high density apartment complexes and unsightly commercial properties.

 PUBLIC SAFETY. In 1987, I introduced the City Ordinance which permitted construction of a new Police facility to insure that our peace officers will be second to none in the entire State of Maryland. In a recent interview with a committee of the Greenbelt Fraternal Order of Police Lodge # 32, I responded in a very positive way to questions concerning Police Officers needs. As the daughter, sister, and aunt of Police Officers, I appreciate the commitment that the Greenbelt Police Department has to the safety of our community. I plan to initiate action to obtain the City's fair share of recently allocated State funding for drug enforcement and for attacking drug problems in Greenbelt.

 NEIGHBORHOOD PRESERVATION. I have led the way on the Greenbelt City Council to preserve our neighborhood stability and to foster a high quality of life for all citizens. It is for these and other reasons that I ask you to vote ✓ for TONI BRAM as one of your five selections to the Greenbelt City Council.

Sincerely yours,

Toni

CANDIDATES DEBATE ISSUES

grams to combat crime and drugs, he referred to the DARE project and Red Ribbon Week for a Drug-Free Community.

Challenger Rodney Roberts stated his belief that extensive urbanization goes against the original Greenbelt concept, the right of every citizen to live and raise a family in a clean, safe place. He sees "buildings on top of buildings, people on top of people, cars on top of cars" and "is willing to endure the suffering" of a political campaign to fight this problem.

Incumbent Gil Weidenfeld spoke of ameliorating the impacts of development, particularly the Sunrise property. Council has asked the developer for a traffic study and mitigation plan. He hopes to see some traffic relief from road projects such as the widening of Greenbelt Road and the B-W Parkway ramp improvements.

White also mentioned development and traffic, the Sunrise development and parkland acquisition. He raised the possibilities of acquiring two school board sites in Greenbelt East should they be declared surplus and of building a pedestrian overpass from Greenbelt East into the national park. Of paramount concern to him, he said, is the delivery of city services such as police, recycling and solid waste collection.

Fiscal Responsibility

Bill Ayers, of Greenbriar, asked the first of six questions from the GEAC member communities. Citing a 36 percent increase in the city budget over the past four years, the bond issues in 1985 and 1989 totalling 10 million, he asked the candidates if they thought the city council had exercised fiscal responsibility.

Putens declared that the council has been responsible and exercised good management. The demand for services rising from increased residential development in Greenbelt East is a factor in the budget, partially balanced by the revenue from commercial development. We have maintained a fairly level tax base, he said.

White disagreed, saying that the city is in danger of spending beyond its means. Citing the pressures to come on the budget—$15 million for capital improvement projects, interest on the bond issues, a police budget sure to go up, Center School renovation costs that he thinks may exceed the bond funds by $2 or $3 million—he sees a need to address the city's priorities better and make allocations with more prudence.

Stating that up to now the council has been responsible, Dahl saw the potential for trouble soon. Costly promises must be kept, promises made in both bond issues and in trying to meet basic responsibility. Roberts maintained that the city has done a poor job because of the funding process. In the bond issues, the citizens were asked for money before the projects were planned and the true costs known.

Greenbelt has a reputation for an outstanding quality of life, said Weidenfeld. As the city grows, demands for services increase and costs go up. He thinks the city has been doing a good job. "All the cities in Prince Georges County are trying to emulate Greenbelt," he averred. "We must be doing something right."

Herling sounded a warning, saying the stretch on the city's resources is becoming more apparent every year. To meet the need for more revenues, he suggested impact fees to offset costs of development and a public-private community development corporation to meet cost overruns on Center School.

"Fiscally responsible? Yes," said Isaacs. The increase in the budget is not too great considering the increased services, and the debt service on the bond issues—which were voted in by the citizens, he noted. He said the council is looking at other revenue streams, such as community block grants.

The city has been trying to respond to citizens' needs, allowed Kastner, but citizens need to know the true costs of projects. The city's estimates are consistently too low by 50 to 100 percent, she said, so that projects are always underfunded. She also pointed out that with the bond issues totalling $10 million, the city is at its limit for the highest credit rating.

You have to pay the price to live in an excellent city in the DC area, declared Bram. Even though we live in a metropolitan area that is wracked with crime, Greenbelt continues to hold crime back, thanks to our excellent police force. We have the best, she said, and that accounts for one-third of the existing budget. She also extolled city manager James Giese, calling him "the penny pincher of the Western World."

Perilous Sunrise

Tim Sechrist, of Greenbrook Estates, referring to the impending Sunrise Development, which GEAC opposed, asked what the candidates would do "to guarantee that the priorities of the people of Greenbelt take priority over the plans of developers?"

Candidates agreed that Sunrise presented a tough situation to which no easy solutions appeared. No one wants dense, high-rise apartments built on the site; however, the site has been zoned and subdivided (in the 1960's) and a site plan approved.

Isaacs, saying he won't make promises he can't keep, declined to offer any "guarantee." Council is on record opposing the apartment complex; the commercial plans offered were too huge and were also rejected. Kastner cited figures of 2000 trips per day that would be generated by the 478-unit complex approved, and 6,800 for the 400,000 square feet of office space in the commercial proposal. The peak hour traffic for commercial would be much higher than the peak hour traffic for residential use, she said.

Dahl argued that office traffic goes in the opposite direction of the Greenbelt East residential traffic, perhaps making commercial development feasible. White felt that the developer's move for site plan approval was driven by the master plan process and his fear of downzoning if no plan was approved. Bram agreed, viewing site plan approval as a lever for the developer in negotiating commercial density. Calling density of residential development "totally out of line," Putens urged that council consider the possibility of acquisition, not condemnation, for parkland, exploring the availability of federal funds.

Herling presented the concept of transfer of development rights, whereby the right to develop a parcel is separated from ownership of the parcel and the development is transferred to a more suitable location. He also urged that the council mobilize citizens to attend Park and Planning Board hearings.

The developer could build his high-rise apartments tomorrow if he wanted to, lamented Roberts, who said he would listen to citizens and follow the course they wanted. Weidenfeld noted that council has asked for a new traffic study and mitigation plan, which may open the door for further negotiations with the owner.

More Police

Rene Gross, of Greenbrook Village, asked if more police are needed.

All candidates generally supported maintaining a well-trained, adequate police force and fully staffing and implementing a Selective Enforcement Unit (SEU) to targeting specific types of crimes, such as drugs, auto theft and breaking-and-entering. Roberts, who spoke first, professed this view. Putens added that in addition to patrols, the police need staff support such as a computer specialist. Bram cautioned that, while she supports more police and reorganization if needed, the budget makes it tough. Impact fees are an option, requiring developers to pay salaries for additional police.

Weidenfeld said he would consider the judgment of Giese and Police Chief Craze on police needs. Maintaining high morale, through competitive salaries, equipment, take-home vehicles, and benefits, is also important, both to the police and the budget. Isaacs cited two factors affecting the need for more police: growth and the type of crime. Drug-related crimes breed violence and destruction. In addition to activating the SEU, he would like to see cities get federal funds for crime fighting and the state take actions like building prisons and mandating longer sentences.

White thought there was probably a need for more patrols and for bringing the SEU up to full complement. He cited Windsor Green's hiring of an extra patrolman as evidence of the need, calling it an "embarrassment to the city" that taxpayers had needed to do so. Kastner called for citizens and the city to do more to ease the burden, particularly participate in Neighborhood Watch. She deplored the fact that the city would not underwrite the Skills for Living program as requested by the Lions. Herling, too, called for getting the SEU back to full speed and evaluating the use of impact fees to pay for additional police, if needed.

Dahl said that the real need was not to increase the force but to maintain the quality of the force we have. Prince Georges County is planning to expand its force; we need to keep our trained, quality officers. In addition, he urged an increase in youth and anti-drug programs.

Traffic Congestion Suggestions

Greenwood Village representative Charlene McAdams asked candidates if they had any ideas to alleviate Greenbelt East's traffic congestion.

It is incumbent on Greenbelt not to wait for the county to act on the Metro traffic coming in 1993, declared Herling, but it must act now to develop alternatives to the car. "It's going to take a regional effort," he said, but he would like to see separate bus lanes to Metro on Greenbelt Road and a skywalk from Old Greenbelt to Metro. "I think it's the biggest challenge of the 1990s."

Putens maintained that county standards are outdated and that the city needs to do its own traffic analysis. Only 1.5 cars per unit is not realistic, he said. Bram recommended legislation to make the Adequate Public Facilities requirements more stringent. Now they are "pro development instead of pro-human being." Weidenfeld suggested looking into traffic management solutions, such as more lights,

For COUNCIL

A Continuing Commitment

To preserve the unique character of Greenbelt:

I will continue to use every opportunity to maintain the distinctive quality of our community

- Adopt Lake Park Master Plan
- Pursue parkland acquisition
- Improve the appearance of Roosevelt Center
- Develop Schrom Hills Park
- Completion of pathway, trails and bikeway system
- Strong support for Greenbelt Master Plan/New Greenbelt/Old Greenbelt Study

To promote efficient government:

I will continue to work toward implementation of a more effective city government

- Timely and clear decisions by Council
- Improved and accurate communication to citizens
- Balance, perspective and a sense of priorities in the budget process
- Managing capital improvement needs/priorities
- Strategic plan for city services and management

During the election campaign, I focused on three important issues:

- The continued pressure for development in and around Greenbelt. I am asking Greenbelt voters to examine my record of strong and consistent positions based on reduced densities, effective environmental controls, adequate transportation facilities, and improved legislative tools to protect communities from over development.
- How we manage the limited fiscal resources of Greenbelt. We need to do a much better job of estimating projected costs and set priorities based on realistic costs. Greater sensitivity regarding the growing burden on Greenbelt homeowners is necessary. More prudent allocation of scarce resources is called for.
- Improvements in Greenbelt management and decision-making. I have recommended an evaluation of City services and how they are delivered. In addition to development issues and capital projects, we need to pay more attention to the basic service needs of Greenbelt citizens.

I have been privileged to serve on the Greenbelt Council for the past sixteen years. If reelected, I will continue to represent your interests in an independent, thoughtful and informed manner.

longer or shorter phases or flexible work schedules to spread out the commuting hours, as well as keeping density down in development.

"No traffic study in the world is going to improve the traffic in this area," said Roberts. To improve Hanover Parkway, the only route to the Beltway and B-W Parkway, he advocated constructing a new Beltway ramp between Good Luck Road and Hanover Drive—Perhaps using the Sunrise site.

An immediate solution suggested by Isaacs was appealing to the owners of Greenway Center to open the rear store entrances. Long-term solutions he proposed were requiring that necessary roads must be completed before new construction can begin, adopting county legislation for impact fees levied on developers for roads and downzoning area-wide master plans.

"It's been my number one priority; the difference is, it's been reflected in my vote," said White. The council must not give away increased density as council did in their premature approval of the Maryland Trade Center III development. In addition to impact fees on developers, he advocated a moratorium on development, if necessary, and closer scrutiny of traffic studies and suggested road improvements.

"Step one is," declared Kastner, "don't have council give away leverage," as they did on the MTC III. She defended the accuracy of the Park and Planning guidelines, which were updated in April 1989, and disagreed with Dahl's reverse flow argument for commercial peak hour trips, saying that with custodial and security staff arriving, the argument doesn't hold. Dahl, in reference to the reality of Metro, said good bus routes and walk and bike paths need to be developed. He again challenged the accuracy of traffic studies, saying the new B-W Parkway ramp design, creating two T's instead of a full intersection, works better on paper but won't in reality.

Drug Abuse

James Foy, of Hunting Ridge, praised the DARE and Drug-Free School programs and asked the candidates what other programs they would institute.

Weidenfeld noted that not only did the Greenbelt police implement the DARE program first in Maryland, but that the county has come to them for training so it can be introduced in other schools. Greenbelt was also instrumental in introducing drug-free school zones in Maryland. Roberts, while acknowledging the role of education in fighting drug abuse, called for building more prisons and mandatory tough sentences for sellers of crack. Bram called for a multi-level approach including rehabilitation and education programs as well as prison. She noted the need for interjurisdictional coordination.

Not only must interjurisdictional coordination and public awareness be increased, said Isaacs, but federal, state and county tax money needs to be spent on counseling and rehabilitation services. White called for a more active role for Greenbelt police in regional drug investigations. Also, the council needs to lobby for a share of federal drug enforcement funding. "If we're really going to have a war, we need to fund that war," he said.

Dahl applied a more individual focus to this long-standing problem. "We need to be willing to fund programs to help individuals get free of drugs." Kastner called for more efforts to obtain funding for school programs and improved coordination to combat this "difficult and pervasive problem." Herling's suggestion was augmenting recreational programs, particularly for teens.

Putens began his response by making clear that council had backed the DARE program rather than the Lions' suggested Skills for Learning because the police felt DARE would work better in the schools. He also described the work of the Crime Prevention Committee, which is studying programs such as tours of sheriff's departments, seminars for parents and before and after school care. The problem is money, he said.

Parkland

Ed Schilling of Windsor Green asked what specific proposals the candidates will bring for parkland acquisition and development.

"The problem with acquisition is money," said Putens. He urged more exploration of federal funds and that council try to increase developers' dedication of land up to 10 to 15 percent. White suggested dedicating a portion of taxes proceeding from new development to an open space acquisition fund. He also urged extending the mandatory dedication requirement to commercial as well as residential development and raising the percentage from the current 5 percent to 10 percent. Isaacs, noting that there isn't much left to be acquired, spoke to the development of Schrom Hills and Attick Parks. The city must "strike a balance between preserving the natural space and active recreational needs," he said.

"The number one priority for parkland for me is parcel 1," said Robert. "Number two is to preserve the remainder of the woodland we have in its natural state." Over 1,100 people signed a petition to establish parcel 1 as a wildlife and forest preserve, he said. Everybody in the city has a project they would like to build, but don't build on the woods.

The city has the authority to levy impact fees, said Weidenfeld, which could be used to mitigate impacts and develop parks. Referring to the two school board properties in Greenbelt East, he said, "We've put the county executive on notice that if either one of those parcels are declared surplus, we want to have first dibs."

"I love the Committee to Save the Green Belt," said Bram, because they helped to give us the PR we needed to give us the focus for acquisition of green space." She noted that she had advocated acquiring parkland since her first campaign in 1983. Herling emphasized what a coalition of citizens can achieve, such as the recent defeat of an incinerator in the county. He also hoped that federal funds can be obtained if the condemnation price for parcel 1 is greater than the available funds. The bond money is there to develop Schrom Hills Park, said Dahl, "let's get to work and do it." He applauded the acquisition of parcel 1 and lamented that the cost of Sunrise is prohibitive.

The Committee to Save the Green Belt has been a lot more than just PR, declared Kastner. Council needed urging to get it moving when it hadn't moved for three years after the 1985 bond issue. "Green space gave our town its name," she said, "and we have to place a very high priority on holding on to as much of it as possible."

Transfer of Development Rights

When the floor was open for questions, Sheldon Goldberg asked the candidates what they thought of Herling's proposal regarding transfer of development rights. Most of the candidates professed themselves unfamiliar with the concept, unsure of the details, but willing to explore any option.

Isaacs, Weidenfeld and Bram raised a number of questions. If it involves a transfer of land of similar value, where is that land to come from? Surely not from land acquired with bond moneys or open space grants. Who pays for the equivalent value of the land? Who decides the value of the land and which parcel should be preserved and which developed? Dahl's quip got the biggest audience response of the night. "Konrad, if you can pull this one off, you've got my vote."

Herling explained that he had discussed the concept, its application and constitutionality with a professor of urban and regional planning at George Washington University. As it would be applied, Herling said, the county would assign value to an available parcel, such as Sunrise, and could sell another site, more suitable for development, to the developer. It may not be restricted to the city but could go outside of Greenbelt. The process gives the public sector a greater say in how land will be used and allows it to exact more public amenities. He promised to contact the Montgomery County administrator for transfer rights for further details.

(A telephone call from the News Review to the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission elicited the following information. Montgomery County has legislation that allows for such transfers, Prince Georges County does not. County legislation would be required and a transfer of development rights (TDR) category established in Master Plans. Only property meeting specific criteria for preservation is eligible for TDR).

More Drugs

A question from Dorothy Pyles, a member of the Crime Prevention Committee, concerned establishment of a police Drug Enforcement Unit to augment the SEU, DARE and drug-free school zones. In their responses, the candidates reiterated their previously stated positions on crime and drugs. They emphasized the seriousness of the problem and the need to mobilize city, county, and federal resources to

We feel that these candidates, if elected, would take decisive action on the issues that effect the quality of life in Greenbelt:

1. Curb Run-away Development
2. Support only responsible development through long-term planning.
3. Control mounting traffic congestion.
4. Better financial management and accountability.
5. Innovative strategies for greenspace acquisition.

We are especially impressed with their credentials as leaders not followers. Their independent thinking will provide balanced leadership for all Greenbelters.

LEADERSHIP FOR THE 90's

Fire-Fighting Casinos

The Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department (GVFD) uses casino nights as fundraising events. By way of comparison, the Bladensburg company bought a $279,000 piece of equipment with funds raised through casino night, said Don Shell. He asked the candidates their feelings on the issue.

All of the candidates acknowledged the fundraising needs of the GVFD. While none was an enthusiastic supporter of casino nights, most felt they were well conducted by the GVFD and they could support them as long as they did not interfere with fire fighting or cause disturbances in the residential area. Many expressed the hope that alternative means of fundraising could be found, perhaps impact fees on developers, a raise in city tax rates or joint fundraising events with other organizations.

As background, Isaacs noted that the issue had been raised with a negative slant in previous discussions. The GVFD had requested permission to conduct casino nights with much greater frequency but had withdrawn that request in light of adverse public reaction. Some people thought that no casino nights were permitted but Isaacs said the GVFD was within its rights in holding the casino nights in the frequency it does.

Closing Statements

Herling spoke of the great opportunities he had enjoyed since coming to Greenbelt when he was ten months old. He has deep regard for Greenbelt values, he said, and "we have to have a great resolve in seeing these Greenbelt values do not completely erode away."

Isaacs expressed his pride in calling Greenbelt home and his commitment to public service. "I have worked not to make decisions for you, but with you," he said.

White referred to three pressing concerns: continuing pressure on developers to reduce density, developing new fiscal and tax priorities and improving the government decision-making process and delivery of service. He said, "These are not Greenbelt East issues or Old Greenbelt issues . . . but issues we need to address community wide."

Putens called the people of Greenbelt one of its greatest resources. He hopes to go on trying to make this a better place to live and "I want to make sure this list of projects gets through, get done quickly."

In addressing concerns raised earlier in the evening dealing with "premature approval" of the Maryland Trade Center Building III, Weidenfeld said, "let the record speak for itself." He read from a letter to County Executive Parris Glendening (October 1985) specifying minimum commitments the council would expect from the county before council would take further action on MTC III. These included the county doing everything possible to meet schedules for road improvements, giving no special benefits or fast track promotions for development in Greenbelt East until all proposed road construction was completed (and city council's approval was given) providing 72 acres of surplus school property near Northway and an additional $100,00 in open space fund for park development in Greenbelt East, transferring 10 acres of school property near Greenbriar if it were declared surplus, making a new traffic study along Greenbelt Road "including all proposed development within and beyond the city limits" and notifying the city and giving it a voice in all development along Greenbelt Road and in the area.

Bram stated that she is running on her record and her qualifications. She represents the entire city of Greenbelt, considers effects of decisions now and in the future and "your concerns are my concerns."

Roberts expressed three goals: to see every citizen have a voice in city government, to see the police have the tools they need and, win or lose, to press for establishing a forest and wild-life preserve.

Kastner declared her belief that the city needs energetic new leadership. She has organized with other citizens to make effective movements for change, she said. "I know how to go out and get information and how to work with people to get things done."

Our Neighbors

by Dorrie Bates, 345-5961

Our sympathy goes to the family of Elsie M. Wolfe, Greenbelt pioneer and resident for many years, who died on October 31.

Congratulations to Beverly Franks on completing 10 years

Dahl described Greenbelt as having started as a dream. We need now to follow through, he continued, and "work together as a whole community to expand the dream and get everyone involved in a close community . . . and the utopia that Greenbelt should be."

of faithful service as Glen Oaks resident manager. A gathering was held on October 26 at Greenbriar Community Room to celebrate this occasion.

Sunday, October 29, marked the beginning of a new generation for the Madden family, one of the Greenbelt pioneer families. Megan Elise Doman arrived almost a month early in Dallas, Texas weighing in at 7 pounds, four ounces. Megan's father, Mark is the first born child of Mary Madden Doman and the late Michael Doman. Proud Greenbelt family include great grandmother Catherine Madden and numerous aunts, uncles, and second cousins. Megan's grandfather is the late Anthony Madden. The news of her birth came while Katy Dunleavy, daughter of Kathleen Madden Dunleavy was visiting from New Jersey.

The winners of the Friday evening Duplicate Bridge Game at the Youth Center October 27 were: 1st. Doris and Bob Johnson and 2nd, Clare Jacobs and Lucille Lushine. The Club invites all bridge players to join them on Friday evenings.

A LETTER TO ALL GREENBELT VOTERS
ED PUTENS

I have made a serious personal decision which I feel obliged to share. The Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) decided this year to endorse candidates for the City Council. I have been supportive of the FOP and share most of their goals. As a matter of conscience, however, I decided against seeking their endorsement.

I am opposed to this new development in City elections because:

1. I believe City employees should not be involved in City politics.
2. I believe it is unfair that some City employees can participate in elections, because they are part of an officially independent organization, while others cannot participate. Many employees have complained to me about this inequity.

Other candidates made a different decision, which I respect. My positive feelings toward the FOP, its aspirations, and my friends in the Police Department are not affected by my decision.

For different reasons, I also declined an offered endorsement from leaders of another Greenbelt organization for which I have much respect. In reflection, I believe organizational endorsements are a bad precedent with troubling implications, even though I appreciate the public spirit which motivates them.

COLLEGE REPS AT ERHS

On Tuesday, November 7, Eleanor Roosevelt High School will host a College Fair beginning at 7:30 p.m. Opportunities will be provided for parents and students to talk directly with college admissions representatives from a large variety of selective colleges, state universities and both liberal arts and technology schools. The public is invited to attend. A sample of colleges and universities in attendance is: Amherst College, Georgia Institute of Technology, Spellman College, Duke University, St. Mary's College, University of Maryland, Mount Holyoke College, California Institute of Technology, University of Virginia, Towson State, University of Notre Dame, and the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Contemporary Music Will Be Performed November 8

On Wednesday, November 8 at 8 p.m. the Twentieth Century Ensemble of the University of Maryland presents an evening of contemporary music featuring works by University of Maryland student composers.

The second half of the program includes works by Meyer Kupferman, professor of composition at Sarah Lawrence University. This concert will take place in the Tawes Recital Hall on the College Park Campus. It is free and open to the public. For additional information call 454-6669.

Golden Age Club

by Mary Gardner

The club's Halloween party on October 25 was a great success. Prizes were awarded to: most unusual: Mary Schubert - "accident victim"; most beautiful: Rosemary Lombardi - as "Maé West"; and tie for most original: Florence Holly as "Sleepy-Time Gal" - Martin Holly as "Thomas (Resurrected) Jefferson"; most comical: Mary Gardner as "Minnie Mouse"; and most scary: Flo Boswell as a "witch".

Florence Holly conducted a scrambled word game, which was enjoyed by all.

Thanks to the Hospitality Committee, Irene Owens and Vita Pergola for their work in providing the delicious doughnuts and cider for the refreshments.

We were saddened by the death of our member, Michael Spione, and extend our sympathy to his family and friends.

Work to Begin on Lake

Work will begin any time now on Greenbelt Lake. Some of the lake paths will be closed - check notices posted at park entrances, Cable channel B-10, and the News Review. The work will consist of dredging the lake and building settling ponds near the peninsula. The lake water level will be six feet lower than usual.

DISASTER RELIEF APPEAL

In response to the devastation of the California earthquake and Hurricane Hugo, the Washington Metropolitan area is seeking one million dollars in donations to help support National Red Cross relief efforts in California the Carolinas and the Caribbean.

'Relief costs for Hurricane Hugo alone will reach $42 million,' said J.D. Williams, P.G. County

Chapter Chairman "It is not known at this time how much money will be needed for Red Cross relief efforts in California."

Monetary contributions can be made by calling 1-800-453-9000, or by sending a check, earmarked for "American Red Cross Disaster Relief" to the American Red Cross, Post Office Box 37243, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Rotary to Hear Retired General

The Rotary Club of Greenbelt is pleased to announce that General Paul X. Kelley, U.S.M.C., retired, former commandant of the Marine Corps will be the special guest speaker at the weekly breakfast meeting of the club at the Greenbelt Marriott on Nov. 9. Gen. Kelley is a 1950 graduate of Villanova University and was a NROTC classmate at Villanova of Greenbelt Rotary Club charter president, Edward F. McGehrin of University Park.

Any member of the business and professional community as well as former marines who may be interested in attending this special breakfast meeting should call Martin McGehrin, Johnston, Lemon & Co. - Greenbelt, for further information and reservations, (842-5321).

Citizens for Greenbelt - Logo Contest

HERE'S A SECOND CHANCE TO WIN!!

(DEADLINE NOVEMBER 16, 1989)

FIRST PRIZE $100

SECOND PRIZE $50

The first time around, the judges rejected all entries because the contestants submitted 'pictures' rather than 'logos'. Here are some hints from the judges:

Like a simple computer icon, a logo must show the character of the organization. Citizens for Greenbelt, Inc. is a citywide, nonpartisan, non-profit civic organization. CFG is dedicated to the research of issues affecting Greenbelt and its citizens, informing its members and the general public, and presenting its position on these issues to the City and County Councils, as well as to other governmental bodies.

You must design a clear symbol for CFG. It's very important that the logo look good, even when it's very small, such as at the top of a piece of stationery. This means it must be simple. Avoid fine lines and detail. The submission does not have to be a finished piece of artwork. A clear idea is what we need to see.

INTERESTED? GOT SOME GOOD IDEAS?

The contest is open to all Greenbelt residents (but not to anyone else) from high school age up, except members of the CFG Board and committees.

Of course you'll need to see the complete rules. Call 474-8347, leave your name and address and we'll mail all the details pronto!!

Police Blotter

A 1988 Buick Riviera, stolen on October 11 from the Beltway Plaza parking lot, was recovered on October 23 by Maryland State Police at Harold's Auto Parts on Fort Meade Road in Laurel. The vehicle had been dismantled beyond normal repair. The State police, utilizing a search warrant, recovered 22 stolen vehicles there, 16 stolen from within the state.

Three offices in the building at 6401 Golden Triangle were entered during the night of October 25 by unknown means. A Franklin computer dictionary, cartons of cigarettes and cash were stolen.

A resident of the 7500 block of Mandan Road reported a theft by deception on October 20 about 12:30 p.m. A woman with three young children, ages 2 to 6, knocked on the victim's door and asked for a bucket of water as her apartment's water was turned off. While the victim was distracted, one of the visitors apparently took cash from a bedroom. Police are looking for the woman, described as white, age 25 to 30, 5 ft. 5 in., 110 lbs., black hair and wearing a long faded blue jean skirt and white blouse.

A 34 year old man of no fixed address was arrested on October 20 for attempting to assault a citizen in Roosevelt Center. Officer Michael Lanier, who had witnessed the attempt, approached the man, who was carrying an open alcoholic beverage, and requested that he leave the area. When the man refused, he was arrested and held on $15,000 bond pending trial.

On October 27 Pfc. Alan Caho arrested a man, age 32, after he struck his girl friend in the face during an argument. The man resides on the 5800 block of Cherrywood Terrace. He was released pending trial.

Cpl. James Parker responded to a report of a fight in the 9200 block of Edmonston Road on October 25. He arrested a disorderly woman, age 18. She was released on a citation pending trial.

Another disorderly report, this time from Popeyes at Beltway Plaza on October 25, resulted in the arrest by Cpl. Troy Harding of a resident man, age 25, of the 9000 block of Breezewood Dr. The man was charged with disorderly conduct and was released on a citation pending trial.

A 14-year-old nonresident was arrested by Cpl. Jeff Riskin on October 20 at the scene of an accident at Greenbelt Road and Walker Drive. The girl had taken the car without the owner's permission. She was charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, driving without a license and released to her mother pending action by juvenile services.

Two juveniles were arrested on October 25 at 4:15 a.m. by Sgt. John Lann at the intersection of Bird Lane and Mandan Court. The youths had been entering unlocked vehicles and removing property. They were charged with rogue and vagabond (possessing burglar's tools), two counts of theft and two of attempted theft. They were released to their guardians pending action by juvenile services.

Two juveniles were seen breaking the driver's side door window of a car in the 7500 block of Greenway Center Drive on October 22 about 3:45 p.m. The suspects are described as black males, ages 13 to 15, 5 ft. 6 in., medium build, one wearing a grey jacket and the other a green jacket or shirt.

A 1989 Chevy Cavalier Z24, stolen from the 8000 block of Mandan Road on October 22, was recovered two days later in Northeast Washington.

A 1982 Plymouth, stolen on October 13 from the Beltway Plaza parking lot, was recovered October 23 in Bladensburg. One arrest was made in connection with the recovery.

The Greenbelt Library will hold a Drop-In Storytime for ages 3-5 at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, November 9. Stories, filmstrips and musical activities will be offered.

Budget and Garage Rental Issues Occupy GHI Board

by Pat Scully

The Board of Directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., at its October 19 meeting, approved allocation of reserve funds, settled a vexing question on garage leasing, debated suitable vinyl siding colors and heard the manager's third presentation of the 1990 budget.

Reserves

Expenditures exceeded the available 1988 budget for a number of line items, requiring the allocation of funds from reserves to cover costs. Depreciation amountd to almost $18,000 more than budgeted for; this cost was charged against the contingency reserve.

Unplanned replacement of building components, including heaters and water heaters, accounted for over $20,000 in 1988. More sidewalk replacement than expected was also carried out, because of emergency conditions outside the original target area. Along with concrete work such as replacement of slabs and porch stoops, this work amounted to $20,000 in over-expenditures. There was almost $34,000 in additional maintenance costs, due to underestimated materials costs and accomplishment of more work than planned.

The board approved transferring funds from the replacement and contingency reserves, divided between the larger homes, masonry, and frame funds to cover these costs. They also approved the division of tax credit of over $15,000 to the contingency reserves of the three home categories.

Garage Lease

The board again addressed the issue of priorities for leasing a garage, first raised in its September 21 meeting. A member within 2 court Northway wished to lease a garage within that court. According to the official policy on garage leasing the in-court member should be given the lease. However, this would mean displacing a member, not residing in that court, who had rented the garage for 35 years. Both the court-resident and currently garage-leasing members have medical problems that make having a garage convenient to their home important.

Staff contacted all but one of the other lessors within the court, as well as in two adjacent courts in an effort to find another garage as convenient for either the new court member or the out-of-court tenant about to be displaced. All of the garages are leased to members or tenants within the courts (or in adjacent courts with as much priority to the garage as the about-to-be-displaced member). None of those contacted wished to relinquish their garage lease.

The board reluctantly agreed to enforce the garage leasing priorities and give the garage to the member resident within the court.

Vinyl Siding

The intricacies of the vinyl siding policy were once again discussed, with no resolution achieved. Because only three of the seven colors of 8-inch horizontal vinyl siding installed during rehabilitation are currently manufactured by the supplier, the board must adopt a policy mandating what colors, size and texture of siding may be used for repairs on units or for new additions.

Discussion on this item was deferred to a later meeting so that the board could devote time to the budget discussion that was also on the agenda.

Budget

The budget discussion focused on the increased costs for payroll and payroll-related overhead for administrative and maintenance staff. The payroll line item allows for cost of living increases and potential step increases for all staff. This line item is budgeted at 4.8% per employee.

Payroll-related overhead for administrative staff will make a jump from almost $90,000 in the 1989 budget to over $130,000 in the 1990 budget. Colton provided the board with a breakdown of this line item, which includes social security, hospitalization (which has increased by 18%), unemployment taxes, life and short- and long-term disability insurance, and a new item accounting for almost half of the increase: a 401-K plan. This plan would be available for administrative staff who are not covered by the pension plan and will provide them with a pre-tax savings plan that would be matched at the board's discretion, by GHI.

The payroll related overhead for maintenance staff will also increase, due primarily to increases in hospitalization, transportation and equipment costs and workers' compensation rates which have been driven up by old claims. The budget discussion also addressed, without resolution, whether to raise rents on the garages.

The board adjourned to executive session at 12:25 a.m., October 20. The regularly scheduled meetings for November and December will be held on the first and third Thursdays of each month, to avoid conflict with Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

Bus & Train Geometry.

Greenbelt to Foggy Bottom-GWU.

Does getting to Foggy Bottom-GWU from Greenbelt throw you a curve? Well, consider this angle. Metrobus to Metrorail.

We can get you where you want to go with no geometry problems. All you have to do is catch the R-11 or R-15 Metrobus. That will get you into the New Carrollton Metro station in no time flat. From there, it's just a few minutes on the Orange Line and you are at Foggy Bottom-GWU.

It's that simple. And when you take Metrobus to Metrorail, you can leave the parking cost and worry behind. You'll also save wear and tear on your car.

So next time you're wondering how to get around, no matter where you're headed, remember this simple axiom. Sometimes the shortest and most convenient distance between two points is Metrobus.

One of these buses will get you there in no time flat:

R-11 Beltway Plaza/New Carrollton Metro (60¢)
R-15 Greenbelt/New Carrollton Metro (60¢)

For other buses to the New Carrollton Metro station or anywhere else, call 637-7000 (TDD 638-3780).

Re-Elect JOE ISAACS -- Lever 7A

He Makes A Difference!

Dear Fellow Greenbelters:

Greetings! In this final week before our City elections, I am using this opportunity to ask once again for your support on November 7. Whether or not you plan to vote for me, however, I hope you will take the time to fulfill this important civic responsibility.

Door-knocking around town these last two months has been a particularly gratifying experience because so many of you have told me that I'm doing a solid job on Council and should keep up the good work. I hope that this view is generally felt by Greenbelters, but in any case I want to tell you how deeply I've appreciated the opportunity to serve you these past four years and that I would like to continue to do so.

I want to thank the many Greenbelters who were kind enough to offer me their names, unsolicited, for an endorsement ad. I hope you're not disappointed, but as you can see I've chosen not to go that route this time around. Instead, I'd prefer to devote my last campaign advertisement to earning your endorsement in the voting booth or, if you already support me, confirming the wisdom of your decision. Below is a brief overview of some of my accomplishments and positions on major city issues.

LAND USE DEVELOPMENT

- Tough negotiator of covenants on new development to ensure quality construction, reduced density, preservation of green space, and minimal environmental and traffic impacts.
- Advocate of "downzoning" (reduced density uses) wherever possible in the Areawide Master Plan update now in process.
- Strong supporter of proposed County legislation that would place a moratorium on any rezoning decisions requested by developers during this process.

TRAFFIC

- Consistent opponent of high density development, particularly when it depends on the promise that traffic impacts will be mitigated after construction and occupancy have occurred.
- Ardent supporter of impact fees on developers to finance needed road improvements before proceeding on approved projects.
- Advocate of County Code changes to expand the requirements for new development traffic studies beyond the city limits and take into account the impacts from other nearby developments (e.g., in Lanham, Seabrook, and Bowie).

PARKLAND AND OPEN SPACE

- Led efforts to expedite development of Greenbelt East (Schromm Hills) Park by proposing the $1 million bond referendum that was overwhelmingly approved by Greenbelt voters in June. Won Council support for referendum after demonstrating that the City's excellent credit rating would not be affected.
- Have been at the forefront of efforts to implement an Attick Park Master Plan.
- Actively favored purchase, and ultimately condemnation, of the 102-acre Parcel One and am working vigorously to identify funding sources to help relieve the cost burden on Greenbelters.

- Worked toward City acquisition of approximately 143 acres of green space during my tenure on Council, of which 131 acres came at no additional expense to Greenbelters.
- Advocate passage of proposed County legislation that would place stricter tree preservation and woodland conservation regulations on new development.

PUBLIC SAFETY AND DRUG ABUSE

- Strong advocate for full activation of Police Department's Selective Enforcement Unit to target specialized efforts in major problem areas like drug-related crime and car theft.
- Introduced the only broad-based, city-wide program ever brought before City Council to address the multi-faceted problem of illegal drug use and trafficking.
- Recommended that Council pledge (not necessarily expend) financial support for a school-based, drug prevention/education program endorsed by the Greenbelt Lions and approved by the County Board of Education. A majority of Council rejected such support.
- Playing pivotal role in regional efforts to combat illegal drugs as Chairman of the Council of Government's Human Services Policy Committee and will actively pursue federal, state, and county drug strategy dollars for our city.

ROOSEVELT CENTER REVITALIZATION

- Initiated Council efforts to proceed in development of a Center Master Plan, after the failure of the charette process to provide clear direction. The public property improvements in the Plan are now being negotiated with contractors for implementation.
- Introduced a resolution that would provide city assistance in the pursuit of state low interest loans for improvements to the privately owned property in the Center.
- Stand ready to join with the Center's private owners and merchants in pursuit of revitalization funding via such sources as the State's "Historic Trust", "Economic Development" and "Main-street" programs.

If space permitted I would use it to describe my strong support for identifying viable child care and affordable housing alternatives, as well as seniors' services and arts programming. We also must move ahead aggressively in planning and constructing two major 1985 and 1989 bond referenda building projects -- the indoor pool and the multi-purpose, intergenerational community center. These must be addressed in a timely manner with well defined financing that will avert placing undue burden on the city's taxpayers.

We must also prepare ourselves for the coming of Metrorail to Greenbelt. As the terminus stop on the last line (Green) to be constructed in the Metrorail system, we have a wealth of experiences at other stations from which to learn. We should be actively surveying such information to help assess the potentiality for additional undesirable development and crime, unwanted roadway congestion, environmental damage, and other impacts.

Needless to say, there is much to do at a time when it appears that less assistance can be depended upon from other levels of government. Nevertheless, I remain optimistic about our future and believe we can at the local level be more creative in achieving our goals in a fiscally responsible manner.

I've demonstrated that I bring to City Council the leadership qualities and enthusiasm needed to meet the challenge and look to your support on November 7 so that I may serve Greenbelt into the 1990's.

Best regards,

Joe

Celebrities Set Community Example With Red Ribbon Volleyball Game

by Gerald Gottesman

The anti-drug message to the children was as strong and direct as Victor Kirk's powerful spikes.

Kirk, of the Greenbelt Department of Public Works, was one of many players in the Greenbelt Crime Prevention Committee's celebrity volleyball game, held October 21 in the Greenbelt Youth Center gymnasium. The match served as the local kickoff to the national "Red Ribbon Week," a grass-roots drug use prevention campaign.

The volleyball game ended as a victory for the Fraternal Order of Police team over the Public Officials. The F.O.P. won the first and third games 15-10, while the officials' team beat them 15-11 in the second game.

The team of public officials included Prince Georges County Executive Parris Glendening, Greenbelt Mayor Gil Weidenfeld, and Assistant City Manager Mike McLaughlin. Also on the team were Mayor pro tem Joseph Isaacs, and city councilmembers Toni Bram and Ed Putens. The police team featured Sergeant John Lann, freshly healed from an injury from another volleyball game.

Many of the spectators were surprised at the skill of the amateurs. "The level of the game is much higher than I expected," said Tom Renahan, the new chairman of the Park and Recreation Advisory Board. "Some of the plays are very good." The game, which was originally scheduled to be softball, was changed to volleyball October 20 when unexpected rains left Braden field too muddy.

The event, attended by about 125 spectators, was coordinated by Crime Prevention Committee member R. Hal Silvers. The committee, according to Silvers, "picked up the cudgel from the counties and municipalities" in sponsoring this event for Red Ribbon Week. "We're not just here to play a game. We are here to set a community example for the kids. We invited all kids to come, to participate, and to get red ribbons for them and their friends," said Silvers.

The distribution of ribbons was the project of the committee's secretary, Sally Robbins, who Silvers describes as Greenbelt's "major civic activist." The other members of the committee are Sandy Bowers, committee vice chairman Lester Whitmer and Dea Zugby.

"National Red Ribbon Week is a memorial tribute to a Drug Enforcement Agency agent who was tortured to death in Mexico three years ago," explained Zugby. "The week was started two years ago to honor him."

"We wear yellow ribbons as a tribute to held hostages," said Silvers, "so the National Parent Association decided on red ribbons to symbolize that agent's 'red badge of courage.' We want children to wear that badge too. And we wanted police represented at this event, as well as public officials, to let the children understand that the police are their friends."

The Children's Event

Th gym was in fact full of Greenbelt's children. The city's Boys and Girls Club cheerleading squad divided into halves and chanted "F!O!P!"s and "City Council Yeah!"s throughout the games. The walls were covered with homemade anti-drug posters, the results of a poster contest last week at Greenbelt Center School. In the break between the second and last games, PTA executive Brooks Zelaney presented the winning students with their awards, which included free movie tickets, pizza lunches, clothing, and tickets to see the Washington Bullets.

The winners of the poster contest were Madeline Bell and Brian Dickey from the first grade, Lauren Byers from the second grade, and April Roberts, Ashlee Wilkins and Jamie Arey from the third grade.

The winners from the fourth grade were Towanda Chase, Shahrzad Mirshahi, Jenna Williams and Eric Silverman. Sixth grade winners were Yatiya Gross, Jean Kepler, Suzanne Moien, Crystal Kerfoot and Bun Jong Koh.

One of the judges, Dial Silvers, directed attention to all of the posters hanging on the walls. "It's a wonderful array of art. There are collages, poetry, stories, sayings, and many mediums used." Dial Silvers, who serves on the Greenbelt Arts Advisory Committee, said the posters were judged on "originality, the technique used, the design and the message. Of course, the fact that the children express themselves is what truly matters."

Lann said that the prime motivation for the police's participation was the emphasis on the children. "It's nice to do things for kids, against drugs, rather than just locking up the people that are dealing them." (The F.O.P.) loves a cause like this. We like to get our pictures taken with the kids that aren't involved with drugs. We enjoyed this game a heck of a lot."

Dealing With Drugs

Hal Silvers stressed that there is no drug problem in Greenbelt prompting the community awareness. "But the recent police bust, just outside of Greenbelt, where close to half a million dollars worth of drugs were found and confiscated, opened a few eyes."

"This bust was, uncomfortably, too close to our schools. We aren't creating an auxiliary police force with our committee. Rather, we are making an intellectual and collective decision to advise our mayor and city council on the task of crime prevention," Silvers said. "Our job, as we see it, is to focus attention on the dilemma."

Glendening said that focusing on the problem of drugs in the community is exactly what the Red Ribbon Week is for. "We've spent, over the last two years, an additional $31 million in our budget for the enforcement of anti-drug laws. But we really won't be successful until we get the community involved. The approach we should now take is not law enforcement but . . . the involvement of individuals, families, communities and churches. Events like this build that necessary community spirit. And everyone's having fun."

FEDERAL RETIREES MEET

The Greenbelt-College Park-Beltsville chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees will hold its November meeting on Wednesday, November 8 at 12:15 p.m. at the Greenbelt Library. Prince Georges County Councilman James R. Herl is scheduled to speak on activity in the county. All present and retired federal employees are invited to attend.

"Greenbelt has really done about the most outstanding job of any city or town (for the week)," said Kevin Weiner, an assistant to Glendening. "Greenbelt's one of the few cities that's done a lot on its own, without the county's prodding. This week, by raising kids' awareness, is preventative — its part of an ongoing effort to educate the community and make people aware that their government's concerned about them."

Good shot, Castaldi! It's all in fun in the celebrity game to start off the red ribbon drug awareness campaign.

WHAT MAKES GIL WEIDENFELD A LEADER ON GREENBELT ISSUES?

BACKGROUND. Gil is the only engineer and the only attorney on the City Council. He is an executive-level manager with the Federal Government.

EXPERIENCE. Gil is past president of the Prince George's County Municipal Association. He served three terms as Vice President of the Maryland Municipal League and served two terms as Chairman of the Council of Governments for the entire Washington Metropolitan area. He has worked for 18 years with elected officials at the local, county, state and federal levels. As Greenbelt's Mayor for six terms, Gil is known throughout the metropolitan area. He has clout!

RE-ELECT ANTOINETTE M. BRAM ♦ LEVER 2A

belt. The city's condemnation suit will be heard in February. The city also seeks federal, state and county assistance in purchasing the land. In the meantime, recent attempts by the property owners to advance the timetable for bringing sewer and water service to the property have been turned down by the county. Presently there is no planned service for the tract on which the developer wants to build single family homes.

In some respect the current campaign is comparable to those of 1981, 1983 and 1985. There are no referenda and no announced slates. Issues dominating the political scene are similar to those in the previous elections — development and zoning, parkland, traffic and road improvements, transportation and crime prevention and control. In making their selection in the voting booth, citizens are expected to look at individual candidates' degree and length of involvement, leadership and experience in the city, their performance at the various candidate forums, the views contained in their literature and advertisements and their personalities.

City Questionnaire

The questionnaire, which will be at all polling places, deals with city programs and services. (See Questionnaire elsewhere in paper). Voters' opinions will be surveyed on such issues as the proposed cooperative senior citizen apartments. The city is also asking citizens for feedback on their contact with city staff.

The Greenbelt Connection will be transporting voters to and from the polls next Tuesday between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. (See ad elsewhere in paper).

Election results will be cable-cast on Channel B-10 after 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Potpourri

- 57% of the 3,106 registered voters cast ballots in the 1987 city council election.

- North End's precinct 6 has 1,240 eligible voters; Center's precinct 3 has 1,159 and the tally for Greenbelt East's precinct 13 is 1,077. In Springhill Lake's precinct 8 there are 157 registered voters.

- This is the first year the city council election will be held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

- Bram, Herling, Isaacs, Kastner, Roberts, Weidenfeld and White reside in the center core of the city. Dahl and Putens reside in Greenbelt East.

- White, Weidenfeld, Putens, Bram and Isaacs have been together on council since 1985.

- Weidenfeld has served 18 years, the longest of all the incumbents, with 10 years, 9 months as mayor. White has been on council for 16 years, two as Mayor pro tem.

- Running for a fourth term, Bram is the fifth woman to serve on the city council. Two women are again on the ballot.

- Kastner, Herling and Roberts are residents of Greenbelt since childhood.

- In his first try for a council seat in 1979, Herling placed sixth with 48% of the vote.

- Greenbelt's population in 1989 is about 19,729. In 1970 there were 18,199 residents; in 1990 the estimated population is 20,099.

VOTING

Pilski against Clifford Simonson. Pilski won by one vote.

If all five council members are elected on November 7 there will be an organizational meeting of the new council on Monday, November 13. (This meeting is set by charter.) If there is a run-off election, the organizational meeting will be held on Monday, November 20.

Upon being sworn in, the newly elected council will choose the mayor.

Voters will also be asked to complete a city-prepared information questionnaire.

Applications for absentee ballots may be obtained in the city clerk's office in the Municipal Building until noon Monday, November 6. The ballots must be returned to the city clerk no later than 6 p.m. on election day, Tuesday, November 7. Any qualified voter who is unable to vote in the election because of religious beliefs, physical condition or absence from the city on election day may vote by absentee ballot. Ballots may be obtained at the clerks' office and completed at the same time.

Serving on the Greenbelt Board of Elections are Jule Churchill, chairperson, June Ott, Christopher Kunz, Nathan Shinderman and Robert Spear.

Senior Co-op Housing Proposal Fact Sheet

The Housing Committee of the Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative (Co-op), is proposing a Senior Housing limited equity cooperative apartment building, consisting of approximately 100 one and two bedroom apartments. The building would be about the same size as Green Ridge House. The Committee proposes that the city lease approximately 3 acres of city owned land, upon which the new apartment building would be located, to a new senior housing cooperative at a nominal cost of $1.00 per year. The Greenbelt City Council has placed a question based on this proposal on the election questionnaire so that voters can express their views on the matter. The results of the questionnaire will be advisory only, and will not bind the City Council to act in any way.

The Committee has identified two sites for this proposal. One is Parcel 12, located between St. Hugh's School and the former PEPCO substation on Crescent Road in a wooded section of Buddy Attick Park. The other site is 3 acres of the recently acquired Parcel 2, across from the offices of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., between Hamilton Place and Gardenway. This land is mostly cleared, and is used by some residents for gardens.

Construction and mortgage financing for this apartment building would be sought from the National Consumer Cooperative Bank, located in Washington, D.C. This bank financed the purchase of the Co-op Food store when it was purchased by Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative several years ago. A flexible interest and principal mortgage loan will be sought with the interest rate set at the average cost of money to the bank plus two percent.

The proposed housing Co-op would be open to those at least 62 years of age, with priority given to Greenbelt residents. Unlike Green Ridge House, any senior citizen, regardless of income, would be eligible to purchase a limited equity cooperative apartment. The Co-op would pay real estate and personal property taxes to the City and County, but only on the building, not on the land.

Individuals or couples seeking an apartment would be required to pay at least ten percent of the cost of their apartment as a down payment and would pay interest on the remaining cost on a monthly basis. There also would be a monthly charge to each apartment to pay for operating costs for the building.

In a limited equity cooperative arrangement, residents would have a full interest in their apartment. If they chose to leave, they would have to sell their apartment back to the Co-op at their original price plus inflation, as determined by the Consumer Price Index or some other gauge of inflation. The apartment would then be re-sold to the next applicant at this price.

While it is not unusual for governments to make public land available at no or nominal cost for the construction of low housing, for low income senior citizens and others, this proposal differs in that availability of this housing will not be limited to low income persons.

There are legal questions arising from the use of either of the proposed sites for senior co-op housing which will have to be resolved if the proposal is approved. Because these properties are designated parklands acquired with City bond funds and grants, there may be legal problems with converting these lands to another use such as the one proposed. To overcome these legal obstacles, it may be necessary to replace the land allotted to senior housing by the City acquiring or taking other land of equal size and value and placing that land into use for parks and open space.

6. Senior Cooperative Housing

A proposal from the Housing Committee of Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative (Co-op) has been presented to the city for the construction of a 100 unit cooperatively owned senior housing apartment building to be located upon approximately three acres of city owned property leased from the city for a nominal sum such as $1 per year. City property taxes would be paid on the building. Any Greenbelt senior citizen would be eligible to purchase a limited equity cooperative apartment.

Should the city enter a long-term lease for the use of city property for a nominal fee for use as a cooperatively owned senior apartment building?

YES NO

Two sites have been proposed as the location for the apartment building, Parcel 12 and Parcel 2. Parcel 12 is located on the south-side of Crescent Road between its intersection with Greenhill Road and St. Hugh's Church (where the Jaycee clubhouse is located) and is a part of Buddy Attick Park, Parcel 2 is opposite the GHI offices on Hamilton Place on land recently purchased by the city as parkland. Since these properties are designated parklands acquired with city bond funds and grants, there may be legal problems in converting these lands to another use such as is proposed.

Would you favor using either of these sites for the above proposal? (Please check one)

WORKING TOGETHER

ED PUTENS

Beyond all the ideas conveyed in political ads and the blizzard of brochures, one requirement is largely unspoken but increasingly important. The City Council, and the community as a whole, must work together better. This is not because we are doing badly, but because both urgent problems and promising opportunities require a renewed effort.

The citizens of Greenbelt are increasingly people of different backgrounds and lifestyles, living in distinctive and different neighborhoods, and having different political views and agendas. The City Council is the focal point of this diverse community, and its members will continue to reflect some of that diversity. The Council must work together if we are to have an effective City government. It must also encourage different elements of the community to work together and understand the overall interests of the City.

To do this we need to overcome some residual hard feelings. In particular, I urge that we forgive and forget the recent acrimony over the location of the Community Center. I find that most people are ready to move on. The reconciliation we talk about in church and synagogue applies to our politics also. Can we perhaps be inspired by the example of Mishkan Torah synagogue, which loaned classroom space to St. Hugh's School after the St. Hugh's fire.

I am concerned also about relations between different sections of the City. I wish more of the Greenbelt Center residents could relate to the different perspectives and concerns of people in Greenbelt East, many of them new residents. I wish equally that more people in Greenbelt East would relate to the history and shared values which developed in the original town and have made Greenbelt such a successful community.

I am discouraged at times by people who will not play fair. Those who trespassed on private property and stole the campaign signs of Councilwoman Toni Bram deserve everyone's contempt.

I am not part of any factional movement. In this election and after this election, I seek the support of citizens in all neighborhoods and groups. I want to be a "bridge" who can help bring everyone together in a common effort.

I respect the notion that leadership comes first from the people, and listening to your ideas is more important than telling you mine. The proposals made in my brochure and in the News Review in recent weeks—on green space, development and traffic, senior citizens, and child day care—reflect concerns which many of you have expressed to me. For myself, I would like to be associated with the statement in a recent Washington Post that "leadership need not be elite, that power need not be pompous, that familiarity need not breed contempt."

No Council Member can pass anything alone. I am happy to share the burdens and the credit, as part of a collective leadership. Independent views can be a virtue, but they can be taken to a fault.

Working together will be especially important in the next two years, because we must address some serious problems and make some hard choices. In the past few years, we have financed significantly increased budgets through a rising tax base. This rate of growth will not continue, so difficult priorities must be set.

I find most of you in general agreement about what the City should do. The most serious problem in our City government today, and the most common complaint against it, is that our good ideas take too long to implement. Roosevelt Center, the Community Center, the indoor pool, and the Scrom Hills Park are among many examples.

As a personal response to this, I have used my campaign brochure to outline an aggressive 18-item civic agenda, including time limits. Perhaps this puts some political risk on myself, but I feel that a streamlined governmental process is an urgent priority, and that continued delays in major projects will undermine your confidence.

As a Council Member, I pledge to help preserve the integrity and unity of the City, to work cooperatively with the other members whom you select, and to contribute to the spirit of community which has made Greenbelt great.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello Again:

A common complaint that we come across quite often is that when a vehicle comes to a quick, hard stop, the brake pedal and steering wheel seem to shake and pulsate at the same time. This is a common problem when a brake rotor or a brake drum becomes warped or out of round. This means when the brake pads are applied by pushing on the brake pedal, the brake pads come in contact with the brake rotor. The brake pads are in a fixed position and the brake rotor turns in a circular motion at the same speed as the vehicle. This is where the pulsation comes from. The brake rotor is not 100% flat on all sides when passing through the brake pads under pressure. It actually pushes the brake pads around a little bit thus creating pulsation and vibration. The cure for this problem is brake rotor resurfacing. This is a process of removing the rotor from the vehicle and placing it on a lathe and making it completely flat on both sides. This process is a normal repair procedure in brake service providing there is enough metal left to cut out for resurfacing. If this is not the case the brake rotor is no longer safe for the vehicle. It becomes too thin and will not withstand the heat buildup and stress of the pad pressure. It then has to be replaced with a new unit.

The same procedure holds for brake drum systems.
