North End School Will Be Transferred To County for New Elementary School

by Diane Oberg

The long debate over the transfer of the North End School property came to an end July 24, as the Greenbelt City Council gave final approval, under suspension of the rules, to a resolution reverting the deed to the county. The county will then transfer the property to the school board, which will construct a new, one-story elementary school on the site.

The transfer was conditioned upon the signing of a memorandum of understanding between the city, County Executive Parris Glendening and the superintendent of schools providing that, once the new school is completed, the school system will transfer Center School to the county as surplus. The county must then transfer the property to Greenbelt for use as a community center.

The agreement will also incorporate Glendening's commitment to assist the city in acquiring up to $400,000 for remodeling Center, as well as the school system's agreement to maintain Center School until the transfer, to refer the site and landscape plans for the new school to the city for comment and to provide landscape buffer between the school and adjacent residences "consistent with the requirements of the zoning ordinance and the Prince George's County landscape manual."

One Story, Not Two

At the July 16 regular meeting, council received a petition urging construction of a two-story school, instead of the one-story facility planned by the school system. Proponents argued that a two-story building would cover less ground and require the removal of fewer trees. Council then identified four issues which it wanted clarified prior to the transfer: the status of the stormwater pond, the feasibility of a two-story structure, the extent of encroachment of the site development on the adjacent residences, and the city's request for a commitment that the unused, wooded land at the back of the site would remain in its current state and not be developed in the future.

On July 24, Frank Tracy, Associate Superintendent for Supporting Services, read the school system's response. He said that a half-acre "dry pond" would be required on the site. Architect R. C. Garcia explained that this would be an area with a retaining wall that will detain stormwater for approximately 24 to 48 hours after a storm. The area will be wet only after a storm. He said that the pond would be located at the rear of the property near the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center and would not require clearing of the land. He conceded that there could be some damage to trees in the detention area if there were prolonged periods of heavy rain. Garcia said that the pond would be required with either a one- or two-story school, and that while county officials had not yet given the design their "final blessing," he did not expect any major changes.

The school system also rejected the request to consider a two-story school. "Even if a two-story facility were feasible," said Tracy, "any further delay . . . would add considerable carrying expenses." He said that a redesign would delay construction by at least nine months, and estimated that previous delays have already cost $250,000 to $500,000, which may require the school to "eliminate some enhancements" to stay within the available funding.

Encroachment

The school board took a hard line on the encroachment issue. Council was referring to GHI homes in the 11 court of Laurel Hill Road whose yards have been extended onto the school property. Those residents are concerned that they may lose the use of land that they have always considered theirs. First, Tracy pointed out that encroachment refers to property owners extending development beyond their property lines and assured the city that there would be no such encroachment. However, he said that the school board expects to receive title to the entire site and "that same will be free of any encroachment from third parties."

Tracy did not respond to council member Antoinette M. Bram's questions as to whether the "supposed property" of the Laurel Hill residents would be affected. Instead, Garcia explained how he had revised the site plan to move the activity areas away from the nearby yards.

Last week, the News Review contacted school board representative Suzanne Plogman and City Manager James K. Giese to clarify this issue. Plogman said that she did not know if the fences could legally remain. She said that she had urged the school board to look at other options, but that the school system has not yet investigated the issue. She said that if nothing could be worked out, the fences would probably have to be removed.

Giese was more optimistic. He said that the city has referred the issue to Robert Duncan, deputy county administrative officer, and that county officials are working on a resolution. Giese said that he believed that the county would be willing to permit the fences to remain for the near future.

Undeveloped Portions

The school system also refused to make any commitment about the undeveloped portions of the property. Tracy said that, "As a matter of law, the board of education . . . cannot give any type of permanent commitment respecting the use it makes, See NORTH END, page 5

1989's Florence Holly Still An "Outstanding Citizen"

by Virginia Beauchamp

Perhaps the quality we all recognize in a person we call "outstanding" is the ability to roll with the punches. That certainly characterizes last year's choice as Greenbelt's citizen of the year, Florence Holly. Although 1990 has dealt her a number of blows, she not only has coped with her personal problems but still reaches out to others in the community. Getting the award as Outstanding Citizen of 1989 was a complete surprise, she says. "I really don't know what I've done to stir people up."

But how she has carried on since then should tell the story: On January 31 of this year her husband, Martin, died following a long fight against heart disease. Her daughter, who lived in California, was able to return for one last Christmas with her parents, although she was fighting cancer. On May 1 she also died. During those last months, Holly talked with her daily by telephone.

As I spoke with Holly at her home this week, her living room was crowded with boxes and papers, personal effects of her daughter which had recently arrived and for which she must find a home. In addition, Holly frequently makes time to visit a second daughter, who is hospitalized near Baltimore.

These are heavy responsibilities, and they have interfered with a special task she hopes to get back to this fall, and which was recognized when she received her award—the tutoring of children in math and reading at Center School. She used to devote part of a day each week on a regular basis to this important work.

The quality of education in Greenbelt has always been a special concern, Holly says, which is why she has been attending the city council meetings dealing with the transfer of the North End School property to the county. This reporter, who covered the meeting on July 16, left, exhausted, at 12:50 that night, though the die-hards were still there, still talking. Holly says she stayed on till the final gavel.

High Rise Apartment Building On Sunrise Site Disallowed

by Elaine Skolnik

County Executive Parris Glendening advised Mayor Gil Weidenfeld in a letter dated July 23 that he has "instructed the County Attorney and responsible agencies to take whatever steps may be necessary that any development" of the Sunrise property in Greenbelt East "conforms to the requirements of R-18-C." This decision is compatible with the Sectional Map Amendment (SMA) to the Langley Park-College Park-Greenbelt Master Plan adopted by the District Council on May 1.

The SMA had downzoned the 10-acre Sunrise property from the R-10 high rise apartment zoning category (maximum 48 units an acre) to the R-18-C condominium apartment zone (maximum 20 units an acre). At issue was whether the developer had performed enough work on the Sunrise Apartments' construction prior to the SMA's adoption to proceed with the project.

Glendening said in his letter that "neither I nor the County Attorney share" the opinion of the developer (Sunrise Properties) that "it has acquired sufficient vested rights in the earlier issued building permit to allow it to develop the property in accordance with that which is permissible under the

R-10 zone."

A "Stop Work Order" had been placed on the Sunrise Apartment project in early May. County attorney Michael Whalen later told the News Review that the Department of Environmental Resources (DER) had been charged with determining whether two footings found on the site were poured prior to the SMA's adoption, whether there were a sufficient number of footings in relation to the size of the project and whether the work conformed to existing construction standards. Also considered was documentation dealing with preparatory site work, contractual obligations and design costs as well as verification "of sets of information provided by the city and developer."

According to Whalen, the two footings poured in December 1989 were "insufficient" support for construction of that size. Russell Shipley told the News Review that the developers would appeal the decision to the county Board of Appeals.

The "Stop Work Order" was issued by the county after City Manager James K. Giese reported that he observed a "not fully cured" 30-foot long footing (later described by the county as a footing that supports a retaining wall and structure) on May 3, two days after the SMA was adopted.

Upon investigation, county inspector Tom Woodhouse found, with the assistance of plans, a second footing 200 feet from the Sunrise property line, 200 feet south of Greenway Center and 200 feet west of Greenway Village apartments. Woodhouse said "it was hard to find" because the footing was covered by "plastic and straw and partially covered by a fallen tree." This footing, he noted, was about three feet square and 48 inches in depth with "steel anchors to which steel support members will be anchored."

At the time DER Deputy Director Joseph Healy noted that the developers had informed the county "verbally" that this footing was poured in December 1989, more than four months before the SMA was adopted. According to the county inspection department, a building permit was issued in December 1989 and revised on May 1, 1990.

Center School PTA Seeks to Fund Teachers

by Robert C. Zugby
 President Center School PTA
 The Greenbelt Center School PTA has launched a campaign to raise enough money to fund as many as three additional positions on the school's faculty during the 1990-91 school year. This unusual project is motivated by Center School's special needs, as explained in a fund-raising letter signed by PTA President Robert Zugby: "With 40% of our students qualifying for free or reduced lunch and two-thirds from single parent homes, Greenbelt Center has a much higher than average percentage of pupils from high risk situations. Our school clearly has a need for lower student-teacher ratios and extra guidance services (currently the average class size is 30, and we have one half-time counselor)."

The letter also points out that, as a comprehensive school, Greenbelt Center does not receive any of the extra funding that goes to magnet schools. At the same time, the TRIM limitations on tax revenues severely restrict county funding, "so any additional personnel for Greenbelt Center School will have to be paid by us."

The fund-raising letter is being sent to residents and business leaders in the Greenbelt community. Businesses are being promised name recognition in the form of a permanent display of the business name in the school building in return for contributions of at least $1,000.

PTA officers emphasize that the program to hire additional self-employment, financial ser-teachers is part of a broader project to enhance school services and is being coordinated with the county Board of Education through the efforts of Greenbelt representative Suzanne Plogman.

The PTA effort is being chaired by member Lori Snyder. Persons interested in obtaining more information regarding the program are urged to contact her at 474-1202.

Richard Castaldi Named Legislator of the Year

Prince Georges County Councilman Richard J. Castaldi received the "County Legislator of the Year Award" from the Prince Georges Municipal Association. The award was presented at the recent conference of the Maryland Municipal League.

Castaldi, who is serving his second term on the county council, has been an active member in the Maryland Municipal League for 17 years. He is a former mayor and native of Greenbelt.

City Offers Reduced Fee On Refuse Collection

At the Greenbelt City Council meeting held June 28, the council gave final approval to an ordinance amending the city's refuse fee credit program. The program, which is for the benefit of elderly citizens living on limited fixed incomes, provides for a 50% reduction in refuse collection fees.

This program was first established by ordinance in 1975 and set a household upper income limit of $5,000 to qualify for the program. The amended ordinance updates this figure, providing for indexing of the income limit to reflect the effects of inflation. Under the new ordinance the income limits for the program will be 150% of the federally established poverty level. These are the same limits established for the State Surplus Food program. The present limits are $8,970 for one person, $12,000 for two people, $15,090 for three people or $18,150 for four people.

Questions about how to apply for this program may be directed to the city office, 474-8000.

Davis, Robert Goldberg-Strassler, Elizabeth Hewlett, The Honorable and Mrs. Joseph Isaacs, Marsha and Roy Krasnick, Becky Putens, Bea Rodgers, The Honorable and Mrs. Thomas X. Mikulski and Sarbanes Seek Funds for Patuxent

U.S. Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes have announced their request to the Appropriations Committee for funding to build a visitors center at Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Laurel.

"The visitors center would provide a unique opportunity to educate the public—especially the nation's youth—about the importance of wildlife research, conservation, and the work being done at Patuxent Wildlife Research Center," said Mikulski.

"As our nation's oldest and most prestigious institution dedicated to wildlife research, the Patuxent Center is a unique resource for the people of Maryland and the entire nation," Senator Sarbanes said in urging approval for $6 million funding. "It will be the only center of its kind in the world," he said.

The 40,000 square foot visitors center will be located on a 2,000 acre tract. The center will feature a natural amphitheater, outdoor teaching pavillion, wetland and plant gardens, and living exhibits. In addition, approximately 30 acres would be designated for visitor access and a nature trail.

Not a True Reflection

When I read the July 26 lead article entitled "Forest Preserve Asked for Woods. . .", I figured that the reporter and I must not have attended the same City Council meeting on Monday, July 16. If one wanted to get a true reflection of how extensive the support was for the forest and wildlife preserve at this meeting, it definitely would not be obtained from the News Review's account.

In one paragraph the News Review accurately reported that it was a "standing room only crowd," but in the following paragraph the supposed show of support for the forest and wildlife preserve was only about "25 hands." Now if I hadn't been there myself, I would have gotten the false impression that there was only a modicum of support for this issue.

But at the meeting that I had attended, nearly every one of the overflow crowd, of close to 100, raised their hands. The irony of it is that fewer than 25 people didn't raise their hands.

It may seem petty or trite to dispute numbers, but the News Review's interpretation of that council meeting totally distorts reality by grossly understating and downplaying the crowd's strong show of support for preserving the last of Greenbelt's remaining woodlands.

Greenbelt and Greenspace

Greenbelt is a special place and greenspace helps to make it that way. Most of us who live here do so because we enjoy the relatively relaxed, open space and small town atmosphere amid the hustle and bustle of the metro area. I want to keep it that way. However, time and conditions do not stand still. Greenbelters need to remain flexible and continue to plan ahead to provide the desired activities, resources and services for our dynamic growing community. Without that flexibility, we will cease to be a premiere city in which to live, raise children, and retire.

Our greenspace is a valuable resource, part of our heritage, and a hedge against the confinement of becoming an overdeveloped community. We need to preserve as much as possible in its natural state. However, we also need to allocate some of it to the varying needs of our entire population. The woods is not just for a select, vocal minority to sit back and view in perpetuity. Even a forest must be managed or it self-destructs.

Greenbelt cannot get by today serving over 20,000 citizens with the same recreational areas and facilities that served 5,000 to 10,000 in a simpler time. If it were so, we wouldn't have built a new police station for our expanded police force. Youngsters all of us who are, or should be, physically active need a variety of available places in which to do our thing right here in Greenbelt on a daily basis. It beats playing in the street and hanging out in the "center" or elsewhere.

As an example, Greenbelt revitalized the outdoor swimming pool, which is a commonplace community asset today, but it was a rare commodity when originally built. Now we are pointing toward enriching our recreational base with an indoor pool, which is as progressive today as the outdoor pool was then.

Greenbelt also needs more athletic fields. We need to carefully survey our greenspace and allocate appropriate areas for this purpose.

Greenbelt needs a hiker/biker path through the woods to cut down on the wear and tear on the natural areas we wish to preserve. It will also take some of the pressure off Greenbelt Lake. Besides, all of us can't or don't want to slog through the woods, but many would enjoy a path. Greenbelters can be thankful for having partly overcome the shortsightedness of those who sold off our greenspace. Let's not be equally shortsighted and prevent the use of part of this land for reasonable recreational activities. Fields contribute to our quality of life and paths provide access to the beauty of nature for a broad segment of Greenbelt's citizens.

Tremendous Support

I attended the city council meeting on July 16 and sat in the back of the room, with a good view of the packed, standing-room-only crowd. When Mr. White asked how many were interested in parcels 1 and 2, the great majority of the people raised their hands. I estimated that approximately 80 people expressed interest, not the 25 as reported in the News Review.

There was tremendous support for preservation of the green belt among the people who spent their Monday evening at a city council meeting. I hope that those who did not attend will know this.

ERHS Nursery Program Accepting Applications

The Eleanor Roosevelt High School nursery school program announces openings for the 1990-91 school year. The program will begin the fourth week of October and continue through the beginning of May, 1991. Sessions are scheduled for Tuesdays and Thursdays 12:05 p.m. to 2:15 p.m.

The program is free for the year but there is a registration fee. Applications are currently being accepted for children born in 1986. Application forms may be obtained by visiting or calling Eleanor Roosevelt High School Office at 345-7500. Completed forms should be mailed to Laura Grace, Child Development Director, at the school address.

This fall marks the fifteenth year the Roosevelt Nursery School has been in operation. Students are responsible for planning and teaching lessons to the pre-schoolers.

Activity centers include computer and science, art, table toys, housekeeping, dramatic-play, blocks, reading and music. A teacher is assigned to teach a planned activity in each center. Children may select to do any or all activities. In addition to the activity centers, children have opportunity to participate in group activities including snack, outdoor play, story time, and circle time.

The Roosevelt Nursery School is an enrichment program for preschoolers. Emphasis is placed on developing social skills and experiencing a broad spectrum of activities. Because the program operates within a public high school, the nursery school schedule sometimes varies to accommodate holidays, test and activity schedules.

Beall received a B.S. in Horticulture in 1960 and an M.S. in Botany in 1964, both from the University of Maryland. The Bealls moved to Greenbelt where they raised three children. He served as president of the Aquatic Boosters Club for several years.

Beall worked 27 years for the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center. He was in the Pesticide Degradation Department. This year he received an award for his work and was voted the most trustworthy employee in his lab. Beall was active in the Toastmasters Club at BARC for a number of years and served as president.

During the past four years Lee became involved in the 12-step recovery program, helping first his own recovery and then many others as he remained actively involved in the functioning of that program. This past year he played a major role in establishing the Greenbelt Steer Club.

He is survived by his three children Millard L. III (Buddy), brother Ronald S. and two sisters Laura Beall Horstkamp and John R.; his mother Isabel E.; a sister Carol Jean Ging and Rita J. Dickinson; his devoted friend Kay Lacey; and his former wife Betty Beall-Read.

The funeral service was held Wednesday at the Greenbelt Community Church with inter-

Greenbriar News

A good time was had by all who attended the pool party picnic on July 14, despite the bad weather. The picnic dinner was served in the Community Building. Residents danced to the music by "Sluggo" in the Terrace Room. The game room was jammed with pool players and a line formed, as challengers took their turn at the ping pong table. As the weather improved, residents had a chance to swim at the pool and take part in the egg toss and the water balloon games outside. Some of the residents proclaimed it the best pool party ever, but the Social Committee is hoping for sunny skies next year!

North End Transfer

or intends to make, of lands under its exclusive control. Further, the board will not, as a matter of law, take title to any property that restricts, or in any manner inhibits, its right to make full utilization of its land."

Tracy pointed out, however, that the board had committed to providing the landscape buffers referred to by the council resolution.

In approving the transfer resolution, council added a request for the county and school board to do whatever possible to assure that the undeveloped property be retained in its natural state, except for the area required for the stormwater pond.

Mayor pro tem Thomas X. White's motion to make maintenance of the area in its natural state a condition of the transfer, rather than a request, died for lack of a second. Knowing that the school board had already rejected any restrictions on the deed and feeling that the county will accommodate the request if possible, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld argued against making the request a condition for transfer. He urged council to pass the resolution and work with the county to resolve any remaining issues.

White argued that the school board had not been sensitive to any of the city's requests and that once the city transferred the property it would have no leverage. He voted against the transfer resolution, which passed on a 4-1 vote, but said that he would have supported it had the preservation of the three acres of undeveloped land been made a condition of the transfer.

At the beginning of the meeting, Plogman recapped the process of designing the new school, from the original plans to renovate Center School, the concerns of teachers and administrators that the renovated building would not be an "outstanding educational facility," through the school board survey and the city bond referendum. She conceded that at the time of the survey and referendum, the school board did say it would build a two-story school. She said that the one-story facility was developed at a two-day planning session at the end of July 1989 attended by teachers, administrators and Greenbelt residents.

Children and Trees

Prior to the council vote, citizens on both sides of the issue made their views clear to council. Unlike the July 16 meeting, which was dominated by opponents of the one-story structure, both sides were nearly equally represented. School supporters came equipped with signs urging an end to the delay.

Several citizens urged council to put the children first and transfer the property so construction can begin. This was not appreciated by some opponents of the one-story plan, who took offense at what they perceived as a charge that they didn't care about the children. Charles Hagelgans declared himself "really hurt" at the insinuation that people without elementary age children don't have a right to speak on the issue.

Sherna Comerford argued that teaching children environmental values is "far more important . . . than whether they have a slightly more convenient school layout." She said that rather than choosing between trees and children, she was "trying to choose these trees for the children."

Cynthia Dial disagreed. She said that "I care about the trees . . . but I love the children." Dial charged that the recent controversy over a one-story versus a two-story facility was a "stall" by people who had opposed the new school from the start. She urged council to follow the electorate and transfer the school. Joe Kubican reminded council that during the June 1989 referendum, the question of whether Center or North End School should be used for a community center (with the other used for the elementary school) was non-binding.

Process Criticized

Julie Greer argued that reopening the issue was unfair, as not everyone can attend the council meetings. She argued that the voters' decision should stand. Nancy DePlatchett agreed, although she said that she had voted against the placing of the school at the North End site. She said that the vote did not "have little stipulations" and that it is up to the school system to decide what kind of building to construct.

Craig Touley differed, saying that council should represent all citizens, not just the "slim majority" that voted for a community center at Center School. Harry Baldauf noted that of the four city precincts, the two with students who will attend the new school voted against it. He also noted that citizens had to vote before the dimensions of the school and its impact on the neighbors was known. He argued that the reason residents are raising objections now is because the facts were not presented fairly at the time of the vote.

Bob Zugby said that it was not a case of misinformation, but rather of incomplete information. He argued that the lack of complete information did not mean that the city did not have to make a decision. Doug Love objected to the transfer, saying that council had asked questions of the school board and received "solid no's" for answers. He said the city had been given a snow job by Tracy, with the school board saying "no guarantees, no promises."

Plogman complained that citizens had never approached her or the school board with their concerns. Further, she said that when the issue was brought before council, it did not invite her to attend until the last council meeting. She defended her record as a school board member who responds to her constituents, but argued that she is "not a mystic," citizens with concerns should call or write her.

One person no one criticized was architect Garcia. Liane Holder praised him for working hard to reduce the effect of the new school on the neighbors.

Holder argued that although the school board did hold open, announced public meetings, they were held at inconvenient times. She said that this scheduling contributed to the sense that the planning process was not completely open and aboveboard.

The Lion's Roar

by Emory A. Harman

The Greenbelt Lion's Club gathered on June 8 at the Springhill Lake Fountain Lodge to install their new president, Jose Morales, and the new officers for the 1990-91 year. Ninety Lions, Lionesses and guests attended.

The evening featured Caribbean costumes and food in honor of the incoming King Lion, Jose Morales, a native of Puerto Rico.

Lion past President Roland Hoke served as the Master of ceremonies while past District Governor Herb Reichelt of the Mt. Rainier Lion's conducted the initiation ceremony.

Ron Wells received the Stan Hoke Spirit of Lionism Award, presented annually to a new Lion for outstanding dedication, effort and motivation.

Ernie Varda received the Lion of the Year Award, which is given to a Lion who has in the spirit of Lionism contributed the most to the club in the present year.

A complete surprise to everyone on hand and to the recipient was the presentation of a "Life Membership" award to long-time Lion's club member, Lion Emory A. Harman. Lion Emory was honored for his 35 years of dedicated service to Lionism.

The Outgoing President, Lion Barry Blechman, was recognized for leading the club to a top-ten ranking in District 22-C.

Another award, Multiple District 22 1990 Roaring Lion of the year, was presented to Lion Wayne Spong. Lion Wayne was picked as tops for his tremendous speaking and oratory ability.

It was also a year of great sorrow. Four dedicated members passed away: Lion Ken Buker, Lion Henry Fisher, Lion Tom Freeman and Lion Joe Marquis. They will be remembered for their dedicated work in Lionism — "Helping the Less Fortunate" in our community.

Incoming Lion Jose Morales, recently "Prince Georgian of the Year" and a former "Greenbelt Outstanding Citizen" has dedicated his year to expanding membership, continuing to help the less fortunate in our community and striving to keep the Greenbelt Lions in the forefront of the District 22-C Lions Clubs.

Swim Team News

by Gail Drake

After swimming a total of fifty best times at the Prince Mont Swim League B Division Championships, the Greenbelt Swim Team scored enough points for a strong fourth place finish. Greenbelt was first in season time improvement. Greenbelt's outstanding performance at the championship meet places Greenbelt in fourth place in B Division for the 1990 summer season. Greenbelt finishes behind Green Acres, Ponter Ridge, and Marlton, and is followed by fifth place Adelphi and sixth place Cheverly.

This has been a challenging but exciting season for the swim team. The loss of last year's high scoring senior swimmers Cooper Pappas, Steffan Sonneveldt, Carolyn Drake, and Kathy Barwick, whose swimming speed helped to push Greenbelt into the competitive B Division, left a lot of responsibility on the veteran swimmers to perform at a high level. The veterans rose to the task by swimming a record number of best times. They were aided by an outstandingly large and talented group of rookies. Together, they amassed points, records, friends, muscles, and stamina, and created a season that will be remembered by many with fondness and pride. Some of the highlights of the season include Aruna Inversin's Prince Mont League record in 11/12 boys breaststroke, the large number of first place ribbons won at Adelphi's novice meet, the pizza and practical jokes at the annual splash party, the Divisional Eve hot tub pizza party, and the Under "40" Club campout.

The Awards Banquet will be held Sunday, September 23 at 1 p.m. The banquet is being sponsored by the American Legion. All team members are encouraged to come and bring their families.

Greenbelt will be sending 17 swimmers to the All-Star Meet at Cheverly this weekend. The meet begins at 9 a.m. Greenbelt residents are welcome to come help cheer our swimmers to a whole new set of best times.

YOUR CONTINUED SUPPORT IS ESSENTIAL

Dr. Frank Pisciotta, Gastroenterologist

Listening To Your Body's Language

If you think the way computers work is complicated, think for a minute about your own body. Everything we do—from taking a step to reading a page to processing food—requires enormous coordination of systems within. When something is going wrong, the body often sends out signals to warn us.

These signals are commonly known as symptoms, and are the body's way of telling us that something needs attention.

Dr. Frank Pisciotta, an area gastroenterologist, states, "Two common signs of a digestive system in trouble are diarrhea and constipation. Others include painful swallowing, heartburn, nausea, cramping, unexplained weight loss, discoloration of tissue or the presence of blood in the stool."

Dr. Pisciotta says that for some 20 million Americans, minor digestive upsets are a daily problem. According to the National Institutes of Health figures, another 20 million are chronically ill with serious gastrointestinal disorders.

He states, "Almost everyone suffers from occasional bouts of heartburn. Changing eating habits may help dramatically, however, if within a week's time self-care measures don't help, it's time to seek medical advice. The acids caused by heartburn can actually erode the esophagus and cause painful ulcers. Your doctor can likely prescribe something to prevent it."

Common sense, he says, is the key. Many people wait too long for the symptoms to disappear on their own. By the time they seek medical advice, the problem has advanced to a more complicated stage.

Most digestive diseases are highly treatable in their early stages, includes malignancies. Early tumors can usually be effectively removed with little or no discomfort by a simple in-office procedure called endoscopy. Dr. Pisciotta has offices that include endoscopy facilities, as well as on-site lab, and X-ray, so there is no undue disruption of the patient's daily routine. Should there be a need, he has hospital privileges at many of the areas finest facilities.

He says, "We often see patients who have suffered for weeks or months before they come in, thinking that the problem would go away. Our staff understands the importance of early treatment, so when someone calls, we accommodate them right away. A thorough evaluation and program of treatment, if needed, begins immediately."

Dr. Pisciotta, who is a graduate of the Universities of Maryland and Texas Medical School, trained at institutes including Hahnemann Medical Center and Hospital in Philadelphia; M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston; St Mary's Hospital at the University of Rochester in New York and Washington Hospital Center in Washington, D.C. He prescribes preventive measures as ways in which to avoid having trouble.

"Eat slowly," he advises, "and as your mother always told you, chew your food well. Have plenty of high-fiber food in your diet, drink alcohol only in moderation, don't smoke cigarettes, and be aware of any changes in your body's normal patterns. If you have doubts concerning the seriousness of a condition, see a doctor. Ignoring symptoms for long periods of time can wind up being very costly in terms of your health. When your body talks, listen."

dent from the Greenbelt area, has been established in honor of Eleanor Roosevelt High School math teacher Linda Agreen. Agreen is one of 33 secondary school educators from the United States and abroad in whose honor Cornell established scholarships this year. The educators were singled out for the inspiration that they provided to some of the Ivy League school's most outstanding 1990 graduates. Her name was suggested by a former Roosevelt student now at Cornell.

Julie Lynn Brusslan of Hanover Parkway earned a spot on the distinguished-student list for the spring semester at Purdue University. Julie majors in Interdisciplinary Engineering.

Also, Kirsten Beatrice Bibbins, a graduate of Eleanor Roosevelt High School, was among 69 students nationwide to receive fellowships from the Howard Hughes Medical Institute for study toward doctoral degrees in the biological sciences. Bibbins, a graduate of Princeton University, will pursue graduate studies at University of California, San Francisco, in the Department of Biochemistry and Biophysics.

We have word that 521 Eleanor Roosevelt graduates were awarded $2,538,247 in scholarships to attend colleges and universities throughout the nation.

Three of the five 1990 Meyerhoff Finalists statewide were selected from the Prince Georges County public schools. One of these was Artie Walker of Eleanor Roosevelt High School who qualifies for scholarships up to $4,000 each year or up to maximum of $16,000 over four years.

Congratulations to Mary-Frances Heaney of Olivewood Court who qualified for the dean's list at James Madison University.

Heather Brother (age 10) won second place in the Poster Contest for Washington State Human Rights Commission "Equality for All? It's a right not a privilege." She won a prize and ribbon, and her school, Audubon Elementary, will receive $200 which will be used toward whatever Heather chooses. She is the daughter of former Greenbelt Lorrie Linkenhoker and granddaughter of Sandra Linkenhoker of Research Rd. Congratulations Heather!

Police Blotter

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

In September 1988, a family friend of an 80-year-old resident female came to the police station to report that the woman had been a victim of deception and theft by a Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr. fundraiser. Det. Pfc. Carolyn McLean of the Criminal Investigations Unit investigated the claim and found that between June 1988 and September 1988 a youngish man had befriended the woman, removed her life savings from her bank accounts, and got some money from her life insurance policy. After a 15-month investigation, Det. Pfc. McLean obtained an arrest warrant for the man for several counts of felony theft. On July 13 the man turned himself in. A 35-year-old nonresident, he is now incarcerated in lieu of $15,000 bond.

On July 16 a breaking and entering was reported on Tamarisk Ct. A purse, which had been by the front door, was stolen. The front door may have been left unlocked.

On July 19 Pfc. Marie Arthur obtained an arrest warrant for a 28-year-old nonresident male for malicious destruction of private property: During a traffic dispute with a resident, the man had gotten out of his vehicle, kicked the grill of the resident's vehicle, jumped on the hood of the resident's vehicle and kicked in the windshield. Then he drove off. The resident noted the man's tag number, and that was used to identify the wanted man.

On July 20 Officer Richard Sullivan arrested a 13-year-old resident male for malicious destruction of private property: The boy threw rocks at a passing vehicle around 55 Ct. Ridge Rd. and damaged the vehicle. The juvenile was released on a citation pending action by Juvenile Services.

On July 20, Det. Pfc. Mark Lagerwerff obtained an arrest warrant for a 16-year-old nonresident male for robbery with a deadly weapon, battery, and attempted night time breaking and entering: On July 4, in the 6100 block of Breezewood Ct., the youth had battered a man, taken the man's keys, and used the keys to try to get into the man's residence.

After stopping a vehicle in the 7700 block of Hanover Pkwy. on July 21 for an equipment violation, Pfc. Thomas Moreland noticed controlled dangerous substance (CDS) paraphernalia inside the vehicle. Looking more closely, he also found phenycycliden. He arrested the 21-year-old nonresident male driving the vehicle, charged him with possession of a CDS, possession of CDS with intent to distribute, and possession of paraphernalia. After appearing before a District Court Commissioner, the youth was incarcerated in lieu of $25,000 bond.

On July 22 a breaking and entering of a second floor apartment in the 9100 block of Edmonston Rd. was reported. Someone had tried to enter the apartment through the sliding glass door on the balcony.

On July 23 the North End School was found to have been broken into; entry was gained through a roof hatch. Nothing had been taken.

On July 24 jewelry was reported stolen from Gifts Galore (6100 block of Greenbelt Rd.).

A burglary was foiled on July 25 when a resident in the 9300 block of Edmonston Rd. heard noises outside the ground floor windows of his apartment, looked out, saw someone trying to open one of the windows with his hands, and was seen by the would-be burglar. The would-be burglar then ran away, toward the 9200 block of Edmonston Rd. He is described as black, male, 5'11", 160 lbs., and wearing dark clothing.

Vehicles

On July 19, MD tag WZB-482 was stolen from a customer's vehicle while it was at the Capitol Cadillac dealership for service.

On July 19 a 1983 Toyota Celica GTS was stolen from the 5800 block of Cherrywood Terr. It was recovered by the Hyattsville City Police on July 22. No arrests were made.

On July 19, VA temporary tag X293802 was stolen from a vehicle in the 7700 block of Hanover Pkwy.

On July 20, a gray 1985 Honda Accord, MD dealer registration 1A03164, was stolen from Research Rd.

On July 20 Dt. Pfc. Mark Lagerwerff obtained a criminal summons for a 23-year-old resident male for malicious destruction of private property: The man had vandalized a car in the 6100 block of Breezewood Dr. on June 24.

On July 21 a beige 1978 Cadillac Coupe de Ville with a black vinyl top, MD tags WXS-687, was stolen from the 48 court of Ridge Rd.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello Again !!

Diagnosis of engine overheating and air condition-related problems is sometimes not so easy to determine. Let's say that all the base line components are operational and are in proper working order, but your complaint of the engine running hot at road-speed condition is still present. With today's new streamlined body styles and aero-dynamic body components such as fenders and front header panels, sometimes there is not adequate air flow through the front engine area where it's needed most — at the radiator and a/c condenser. Remember, the fan is designed to bring air in at low speeds and at engine idle.

With this in mind we direct our attention to the front bumper area. Underneath this area is an air ramp that directs the air, as you travel at road speeds, to the radiator and a/c condenser area to provide more than enough cooling air. The problem with these directional devices is that they are low to the ground and are often knocked off throughout the year. The loss usually goes unnoticed. They can be knocked off when attempting front end parking at a parking curb or when you try to "plow" snow in the winter. These air directional components do work as designed and really make the difference when moving at road speeds with the a/c on.

If you think this is a problem with your vehicle, just look under the front bumper to see if it looks as though something was mounted there but has been torn off. It just could be your problem.

TILL NEXT TIME ! ! ! !
THINK PREVENTIVE MAINTENANCE ! ! ! !
JOE!!
