Council Opposes Billiard Parlor, Proceeds with Pool Bathhouse

by Diane Oberg

Citing the number of establishments already licensed to sell alcoholic drinks in and around Beltway Plaza, and the additional burden likely to be placed upon the police department, the Greenbelt City Council unanimously opposed the transfer of a beer and wine license to a 24-hour billiards parlor proposed for Beltway Plaza. The town of Berwyn Heights is already on record against the transfer citing the nearness of Greenbelt Middle School, plus the concerns raised by Greenbelt's council.

In other actions, council scheduled a public hearing on the proposed program for the planned community center and approved spending approximately $19,000 to revise plans for renovating the old bathhouse at the outdoor pool.

The public hearing will be held as part of the January 27 regular council meeting and cover the proposed program and uses of the community center and the Community Center Task Force report. It will not cover issues of operating costs, for which the city does not yet have adequate information to estimate.

Champion Billiards

Champion Billiards Cafe, Inc. is seeking approval from the county Board of License Commissions to transfer a beer and wine license to a billiards parlor proposed for the upper level of Beltway Plaza. In response to council concerns, the company agreed to restrict liquor sales to 11 a.m. to 2 a.m., instead of 6 a.m.-2 a.m., the maximum hours under the law.

Champion Billiards' attorney Linda Carter pleaded with council to separate her client from Beltway Plaza and the disagreements council has had with its owner. She reminded council that, following a visit to the company's Shirlington facility, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld likened the establishment to a "nice bowling alley."

Given council's concerns about the Plaza, Carter argued that council would have more control, due to the liquor laws, with the billiards parlor than it would over an establishment without a liquor license.

Carter also brought three people familiar with the Champions in Shirlington who vouched for the wholesomeness of that establishment. One, Stephen Cradlin of Laurel, a county police officer, argued that the clients attracted by the proposed establishment would not be the type to cause problems. He felt that cost of an evening at the parlor, which he estimated at $50-$75, would deter large groups of youths.

Good Neighbor?

Greenbelt Police Chief James R. Craze was originally very concerned about the potential for trouble if the billiards parlor opened in Beltway Plaza. However, after checking with police departments near the two other Champions establishments that serve liquor, he said that "by all indications" the company is "a good neighbor." However, he still had concerns about the "current crowd at Beltway Plaza" and how it would come together with the proposed establishment. Unlike Cradlin, he saw no reason to believe that "undesirable types" would stay away from the billiards parlor.

Council member Rodney Roberts pressed Carter for a commitment that the company would fund a full time police officer, including cruiser and other equipment, rather than just hiring moonlighting officers. Carter said her client was willing to "put in writing" that he will take all necessary security measures, but was not willing to agree to Roberts' proposal.

Pool House

Going from pool hall to pool house, council approved spending approximately $19,000 to complete the design, bid and oversee construction of the remodeling of the old bath house. Given the city's budget problems, the contract also calls for modifications to reduce the renovation cost. The two major

Budget Troubles Force Cuts In Capital Project Plans

by James Giese

In a memo to city council, City Manager Daniel Hobbs outlined a variety of options for the expenditure of funds set aside for capital projects. With the completion of the swimming pool and Schrom Hills Park, only limited funds remain available for other capital projects. In addition, the termination by the state of open space funding has left the city holding the bag for some of the expenses incurred in relation to the acquisition of land for and development of the Schrom Hills Park.

Although the budget adopted last May projected that $1,165,451 would be available at the end of the fiscal year for future capital projects, the city staff now estimates that only $468,551 will be available. As a result, Hobbs has recommended a priority procedure for the undertaking of capital projects.

Remodeling of Pool Bathhouse

The first priority is to proceed with the reconstruction of the old swimming pool bathhouse as an exercise facility to serve as an adjunct to the new indoor pool. As a first step, Hobbs has recommended that the architects, Sullivan and Almy, be authorized to revise existing plans in order to reduce construction costs for this facility. On January 13, the city council authorized Hobbs to spend $19,000 for the revised architectural drawings.

The city staff hopes that construction and other related costs can be reduced from $600,000 to $400,000 by using wood beam construction instead of steel and by eliminating two bathrooms. Some of the strictly cosmetic features would also be eliminated.

Hobbs anticipates that the facility can be redesigned and constructed for an opening next November.

Other Projects

Hobbs further recommended that the city proceed with other capital projects with one following the other as much as possible in the following manner:

1. Have an evaluation done of the Youth Center for the adaptive reuse of space rather than building an addition for women's locker/shower. Cost of the evaluation, $7,000. It is believed that through adaptive reuse of existing space a women's shower and locker room can be established at a cost well below the estimated $146,000 required for an addition. Adaptive re-use should also provide the opportunity to upgrade and improve the interior appearance of the heavily used 30-year-old facility.

Local Citizens Form Lobby Groups to Support Education

by Elaine Skolnik

Parents, Leaders and Educators Demanding Good Education - PLEDGE for short - are lobbying local and state elected officials to end further cuts in the education budget and to find new sources of revenue. The movement to form a coalition of education, parent, employee, religious, business and citizen groups was spearheaded by Prince Georges County Board of Education Chairman Suzanne Plogman and Vice Chairman Marcy Canavan.

Among PLEDGE's suggestions for raising revenues to benefit education are an increase in sales taxes, a revision of the tax structure "to ensure that everyone pays his fair share," and a raise in the potential piggyback tax rate from 50% to 60%. This, PLEDGE notes, will enable the county to raise additional revenues as needed to forestall disaster next year."

PLEDGE is in the process of forming groups in every area of the county. Residents will be asked to write letters, make phone calls and visit elected officials "to demand better education funding to support specific funding bills." Elected officials will also be invited to community-wide meetings.

The grass roots coalition, for example, supports full funding by the State of the magnet grant and full Federal funding of federal education mandates and "past commitments." PLEDGE notes, for example, that while Public Law 94-142 for Special Education would ultimately pay 40% "of the excess cost of educating Special Education students," the Federal government never paid more than 12%; currently the amount is about 7% to 8%.

The next public briefing is Monday, January 27 from 4 to 5 p.m.

The Board of Education expects to hold at least two briefings a month (in addition to regularly scheduled Board meetings) on the budget crisis. The next public briefing is Monday, January 27 from 4 to 5 p.m. in the Board of Education meeting room in Upper Marlboro.

On Tuesday, February 21 at 5:30 p.m. a rally to pressure the County Executive and the County Council to increase funding for education will be held outside the County Administration Building in Upper Marlboro.

To join PLEDGE and for further information, call Plogman at 345-8397 or Canavan at 283-2933.

PLEDGE points out that because of both county and state revenue projection shortfalls, the county school system has cut almost $54 million from the budget in the past 13 months.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS AT HIGH POINT HIGH

The Board of Education of the Prince Georges County Public Schools has changed the location of its Thursday, January 30 Board meeting from the Sasser Administration Building in Upper Marlboro to the High Point High School auditorium located at 3601 Powder Mill Road in Beltsville.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

Revenues Less than Expected, But City Better Off than County

by James Giese

Both the City of Greenbelt and Prince Georges County have been faced with the loss of anticipated revenues and the withholding by the state of previously approved state aid. As a result of the greater range of services provided by the county, and, in particular, its responsibility to provide education, the county government receives a much greater amount of state assistance and has a greater variety of revenue sources than the city.

While it was necessary for the city to cut back its spending because revenues were less than originally anticipated, the city continues to show some growth in its revenue sources. On the other hand, the county has suffered declining revenues such as with the property transfer tax.

Also, the county experienced significant cutbacks in state aid after its budget was adopted. This has resulted in the county invoking hiring freezes, withholding pay increases and furloughing employees. The city, in comparison, while holding back on filling some vacant positions, provided for employee cost-of-living increases and for a few new positions in the current fiscal year budget.

City Revenues Down 6.3%, County 9.3%

Short of Estimates

For the last fiscal year, city revenues fell below estimates by 6.3%, but the city managed to curtail expenditures even a little bit more and completed the year better off than budgeted. Even so, the city's surplus was reduced by $194,500. The remaining surplus still represents more than 5% of last year's revenues.

County revenues for the last fiscal year also fell short of the adopted budget estimates — by $65.5 million or 9.3%. Its expenditures of $736.9 million (including transfers to other agencies, See COUNTY vs. CITY, page 8

Sigh of Relief

To the Editor:

Friends of the Greenbelt Library should wake up and smell the recession. Funding for the poor, homeless and disabled is being cut back — why not Greenbelt Library?

It is an obscenity in these sad times to run a library full tilt seven days a week with reckless disregard for costs, residents of Old Greenbelt who believe Sunday is still the Lord's Day or the demands of severe budget cutbacks.

As a local resident living directly across the road from the library for the past 15 years, I am sick and tired of endless hours, illegal U-turns by patrons (there are two no U-turn signs) and dangerous traffic conditions.

I breathe a sigh of relief at the newly proposed cutback in hours open.

Examines Values

To the Editor:

At its meeting on January 18 at the Greenbelt Library, the Gray Panthers of Prince Georges County voted unanimously to protest the cutbacks at the library in Greenbelt. We believe these proposals are unfair and are based on faulty information concerning the number of people using the library.

Gray Panthers feel strongly about the educational needs of American children and have noticed the extent to which groups of students and their teachers leave school premises to use and learn about our library. We believe that this is unique in the county. Taking away morning hours also eliminated programs that entertain and educate preschoolers, who learn from an early age the importance of libraries in their lives.

We believe it is time to examine our values and our priorities, to find ways to contribute to a quality of life that emphasizes the peaceful pursuit of knowledge, rather than violence that deemphasizes the search for knowledge. Continuing to keep our library open for sixty hours is not only fair to all county residents, it is a way to maintain our American culture and remain civilized.

LIBRARY PETITION

DRIVE CONTINUES

Volunteers will continue to gather signatures on a Friends of the Greenbelt Library (FOGL) petition this Saturday, January 25, outside both entrances to the local branch as well as inside the Coop supermarket in Roosevelt Center.

The petition asks the county library system board to modify a proposal brought to them by library budget analysts which suggests that the Greenbelt branch's hours be cut from 60 to 43 hours to save money. New Carrollton's branch would also suffer a 29 percent drop in hours. Five branches would be left open seven days a week, and most remaining branches would take a minimal drop in hours open.

"A sharing of the burden is all we ask," comments a FOGL spokesperson. The evaluation of the local branch was based on circulation; FOGL maintains that this does not take into account the non-circulation services such as computer rooms, the art gallery and used book store; the availability of non-circulating materials for business and academic research; and the city-center location (next to a school) which prompts many people to visit the library regularly while not necessarily checking materials out.

Anyone needing more information may call Eileen Peterson (345-2454).

City Youth Charged In ERHS Shooting

Based upon information provided by the Greenbelt Police Department

At 9 p.m. on January 14 there was a fight in the parking lot of Eleanor Roosevelt Senior High School between two Senior High juveniles after a basketball game; a verbal barrage had escalated to fisticuffs. When the fight was over, some of the involved youths ran to a parked vehicle and got inside.

One of that group then produced a handgun and fired it out the window towards the other group. A youth's jacket was hit, but he was not injured. Then the group in the vehicle drove away.

Investigation of this incident led to the arrest on January 16 of 17-year-old Scott Papo Christian of 9006 Breezewood Terr., #103. Charged as an adult, the youth appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was held on $25,000 bond pending trial.

Dorothy Merryman Stephanie Cornett

Pioneer Dorothy Louise (Dot) Merryman, 75, of 21 Ridge Rd., died Monday, January 13 at Doctors Community Hospital, Lanham.

Born in Washington, D.C. she and her husband were one of the first families to live in Greenbelt. She worked in the banking business and was a teller in the Suburban Trust (now Nations Bank) bank in Greenbelt Center.

She was an officer of the Woman's Club of Greenbelt for many years and also served as an election judge in the 3rd precinct at Center School. In the early days of Greenbelt, Mrs. Merryman and her husband were regular attendees at the community dances held in Center School.

Mrs. Merryman is survived by her husband, Harry G. Merryman, Sr.; daughters Betty Jean Merryman and Dixie Merryman Baker; son, Harry G. Merryman, Jr.; sister Veturia Parrott; eight grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

A memorial service was held Monday, January 20 at the Borgwardt Funeral Home, Beltsville. The Reverend Richard Karpal of Emmanuel United Methodist Church officiated.

The family suggests that memorial contributions be made to the charity of one's choice.

Marian Slaugh

Marian Slaugh, 84, a resident of Greenbelt since 1939 died on January 16.

For many years Mrs. Slaugh worked at the Old Greenbelt Library in Center School when it was part of the city. She continued working for the library from 1956-1970 after it became associated with the Prince Georges County library.

She was a member of the D.A.R.

Mrs. Slaugh is survived by sons Charles Slaugh of Adelphi and Frederick Slaugh, Washington, D.C., six grandchildren and two great-granddaughters. Some of her grandchildren now reside in 9 Court Ridge where she had lived.

Funeral services were held on Monday, January 20 at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation in Washington, D.C. Interment was in Lancaster, PA.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers memorial contributions be made to the Church of the Reformation, 212 E. Capitol St., Washington, D.C. 20003.

Stephanie Falcon Cornett, 69, died Thursday, January 9, of complications stemming from hospitalization for pneumonia. A resident of Greenbelt for the past 42 years, she was the widow of Sanford H. Cornett.

Born and raised in West Virginia, she moved to Washington during World War II to work for the Labor Department. She married Sanford Cornett in 1948, and they moved to Greenbelt in 1950, residing at 46-B Ridge until moving to the Lakewood subdivision in 1960.

Mrs. Cornett actively supported many political candidates, and spoke out for preserving the character of Greenbelt and the greenspace around it. In the 1960's she was a leader in the organization that raised funds for the legal defense of the Greenbelt News Review when it was being sued for libel by a local developer. Both Mrs. Cornett and her husband were active in the Greenbelt Lions Club, and she served as president of the Greenbelt Lion Belles. She bowled in several local leagues, and was an avid bingo player.

Mrs. Cornett's survivors include three sons: Joseph, of Annapolis; William, of Greenbelt; and Tod, of Beltsville; and a daughter, Adrienne Proctor, of Midland, Michigan. Five brothers and sisters also survive her.

Anyone wishing to donate a gift in her memory is urged to consider the Greenbelt Lions Club, for their charity work against blindness.

Jaycee Week

January 19 to 26 is National Jaycee Week. Hundreds of thousands of Jaycees across the nation will celebrate individual and collective accomplishments through special projects and programs for their communities.

Jaycees work together to combat the problems of the homeless, and drug and alcohol abuse. Volunteers raise money for research of children's diseases like cystic fibrosis; plan community wide annual events, such as the National Cherry Blossom Parade; and devote their time to support educational programs for the young and assist the elderly. Maryland Jaycees have in their 52 year history built parks and Senior Citizen Day Care centers; have provided Christmas gifts for thousands of children; and have raised millions of dollars all of which have been put back into their communities.

To join the Jaycee chapter in this area, contact the Maryland Jaycee Service Center at 301-876-1244.

Hospital Needs Folks Who Go in the Snow

Doctors Community Hospital in Lanham urgently needs volunteers with four-wheel-drive vehicles to help during snow emergencies to transport necessary medical personnel to and from the hospital.

Anyone who might be interested in helping in this way, please call the Volunteer Office at the hospital on 552-8001 to request an application.

City Seeks Advice On Handicap Access

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) was passed in July 1990 "to promote civil rights for disabled Americans." Citizens must have equal access to public services, commercial facilities, activities and programs.

In order to comply with ADA, the City is compiling a list to ensure that all residents of Greenbelt have access to all of its services. Reasonable accommodations and alterations will be made as soon as possible. Examples of these include: curbs needing "curb-cuts", inaccessible door entries, inaccessible rest rooms, being excluded from participating in a program or service due to a disability, etc.

Anyone having suggestions for making any City facility, service or program more accessible for disabled individuals, should call Barbara Havekost, at 301-345-7203 by January 31.

Every reasonable effort will be made to ensure that all citizens have full access to City facilities, services and programs.

Spotlight On the Arts

There's a new date for "An Evening with Friends," the third annual variety show sponsored by the Greenbelt Arts Center. The show is now scheduled for Feb. 22, 7:30 p.m. at the Springhill Lake Fountain Lodge. That's one week later than originally planned. Season ticket holders please note date change.

"Friends" producer Konrad Herling promises another fun-filled evening, featuring a variety of talented Greenbelt performers. The list includes some popular performers who will reprise last year's entertainment and new performances and acts. As usual there will be a variety of instrumental and vocal music, of all styles, and other types of entertainment.

From its earliest history, Greenbelters entertained their neighbors and friends, drawing from the many talented artists in their midst. Herling is completing the program but calls on others who would like to participate to contact him at 345-9369.

Next Dramatic Production

Arthur Miller's "The Creation of the World and Other Business" is the winter drama production of the Greenbelt Arts Center. It will be performed February 28 and 29; March 6, 7, 13 and 14 at 8 p.m. There will be a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. March 8. This clever play features Adam, Eve, Lucifer, angels and others who deal with the basic facts of life, with witty dialogue and observations.

This production is directed by Mary Lou Fisher, responsible for many of the Arts Center's major productions. Gene Duarte is producer, David Wilson technical director, Ginny Zanner lighting designer and Trix Whitehall stage manager.

The play will be performed in the Gudelsky Auditorium at near-by Capitol College. Just off the Baltimore-Washington Parkway only minutes from Greenbelt. Capitol College provides a comfortable, convenient location for the audience attending the Arts Center's plays. Watch the News Review for information on the upcoming musical and dramatic productions.

One-Act Play Tournament

"Dust of the Road," a one-act Christmas play presented by the Greenbelt Arts Center in Greenbelt earlier this year, will be the Arts Center's entry in the Maryland One-Act Tournament Association's competition on the weekend of January 31-February 2.

The competition will be held at the Montgomery College Center for Performing Arts on the Montgomery College Campus in Rockville. There will be 17 plays presented by 15 groups, during the weekend play festival. Two winners will be selected to go on to the regional championships; winners there compete at the national level.

Greenbelt's entry is performed at 7:45 p.m. on Saturday, February 1.

Call the Arts Center information line, 441-8770, for more information on the one-act play competition and the upcoming Greenbelt productions or to be added to the Arts Center's mailing list to receive advance notice of arts activities.

County vs. City, fr. pg. 1

such as the Board of Education) exceeded revenues by 14.7% and resulted in a deficit that wiped out a small amount of county surplus and necessitated the county borrowing $79 million on a short term basis with the funds being paid back over the next three years.

County's Revenue Loss Four Times As Much

For the current fiscal year, the almost $200,000 of state aid canceled represents a loss of 1% of the city's budgeted funds. Other city revenues appear to be meeting original estimates. The current estimates for the county's revenue shortfall, part of which is the result of declining revenues, is over $30 million or 4.4% of the total budget. The county is concerned that additional state cutbacks will increase this shortfall.

In spite of these financial difficulties and the need for the county to borrow funds to finance its deficit, county officials are pleased that the bond ratings have not been reduced and continue to be excellent.

FY 1991 Excess Expenditures
Last year Greenbelt spent $172,131 more than it took in as revenues. However, the city had budgeted a deficit of $179,300. Prince Georges County experienced a more serious imbalance with spending exceeding income by 14.7%.

FY 1992 Revenue Shortfall
At this time the city expects to lose less than 1% of its revenues due to cutbacks in state aid. The county expects to be short 4.4% of its budget as a result of declining revenues and state aid cutbacks.

Capital Projects Plans Cut by Budget Troubles

this time Hobbs is not recommending beginning this project even though there are openings in the surface over an inch wide. A test boring has been taken and staff is assessing the information provided by the boring. The estimated cost for reconstructing these courts is between $90,000 and $100,000, but the amount budgeted was only $65,000.

3. Delay replacement of the gym floor at the Springhill Lake Recreation Center. While the floor lacks resiliency and is hard on knee joints and shins, the floor is structurally sound. The cost for this work is estimated to be $30,000.

4. Delay resurfacing the roof at the Youth Center. Hobbs considers patching of bad areas an acceptable measure instead of the $16,800 project.

Improvement to Public Works Facility

5. Revise the undertaking of public works projects. This includes four projects: construction of a salt storage shed, $50,000; construction of a storage building, $70,000; master planning for an addition to the public works building, $50,000; and resurfacing of the roof of the existing garage, $35,000. Hobbs recommends moving ahead with the first two projects, which are badly needed. He proposes that the $50,000 budgeted for planning an addition be used instead for upgrading the existing facility.

"Improvements will include the appearance of the area and the structures; the arrangements of the equipment to enhance the efficiency of the operation and use of equipment; and improvement in worker morale," Hobbs' memo reads. Using these planning funds at this time to provide improvements to the facility now will improve the work environment, Hobbs contends. He proposes to undertake master planning with funds budgeted for the next fiscal year. As to the roof work, Hobbs advocates patching "for a temporary fix."

Effect of Recommendations
Hobbs estimates that these recommendations will result in a capital funds balance at the end of the year of $692,351 instead of the $468,551 currently estimated. Also, a projected deficit of $202,500 in the Capital Improvements Fund II, the fund that accounted for the proceeds of the $6 million bond issue approved in 1985 and other supplemental monies, will be reduced to a deficit of $60,500. This deficit can be eliminated by using city funds allocated to the Schrom Hills Park development project, where it is expected that there will be a surplus of funds of $69,780. Those funds not expended will be set aside for the renovation of Greenbelt Center School as a community center ($426,764) and for future year capital projects.

Council Proceeds with Bathhouse

changes are using wooden trusses instead of steel and eliminating the bathrooms from the plan. Because wooden trusses cannot span as wide an area as steel, the interior columns will be retained. Users of the exercise facility to be placed in the bathhouse will be able to use the rest rooms in the adjacent main pool structure.

Roberts sought to save money by having the city hire "a couple of carpenters to do the work." However, he found no support among his colleagues who pointed out the need to have an experienced architect guarantee structural integrity, share legal responsibility for meeting county code and maintain architectural and historical integrity.

FOP Petition

Chris Field, president of the Greenbelt Lodge of the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) petitioned council to extend additional administrative leave to an officer who had been injured on duty. Former FOP president Patrick McAndrew pointed out that this is the first such FOP petition under the city's new disability policy which reduces an injured officer's pay after 60 days.

The FOP sent the petition to City Manager Daniel Hobbs in December. According to Field, Hobbs did not forward the petition to council, saying that that body does not have the authority to grant the requested leave. Hobbs did not recall the details of this case. Council referred the issue to staff for comment.

Municipal Waste?

At the request of the Public Works Department, Hobbs was seeking approval at this meeting of a supplemental appropriation for a $13,146 motor analyzer scope. The department currently has a similar piece of equipment, but the old unit cannot work with new computer chips now in use in various automotive systems. Roberts called the proposed purchase a "perfect example of municipal waste." He argued that all the department needed was a $1,000 hand-held monitor. Council deferred final approval of the ordinance until the next meeting while Roberts' suggestion is investigated.

Remax Sign

After extended and heated debate, council finally unanimously directed the city solicitor to take action to force the removal of the sign for the Remax Realty office installed in the Maryland Trade Center park without city approval. Covenants on the property give the city the right to approve all exterior signage in the office park. The issue first appeared on council's agenda in April, 1991. The council members expressed some regret at the effect their actions would have on the business owner, but voted to have the sign removed to make clear that the city will enforce its covenants.

Other Actions

By yet another unanimous vote, council approved the establishment of a Hall of Fame and a Memorial Grove to commemorate and honor Greenbelt citizens for extensive volunteer service.

Under the consent agenda, in the face of continuing budget problems, council ended the city's experiment with a two-year budget process, returning to the previous practice of annual budget reviews.

Council reappointed the following citizens to city boards and committees: Roberta McCarthy — Advisory Planning Board; Judith Ott and Jule Churchill — Board of Elections; Sharon Alfaro, John Mongelli and Mary Helen Spear — Community Relations Advisory Board; Hugh Jascourt and James O'Reilly — Employee Relations Board; Nancy DePlatchett, Quenton White and Virginia Zanner — Arts Advisory Committee; David Jastrab and Shawn Orange — Crime Prevention Committee; Brian Almqvist and Alan Turnbull — Recycling Advisory Board and Booker Hughes and Betty Timer — Senior Citizens Advisory Committee.

The View from Ridge Road

Christina O'Boyle

"Sunday Symphony"

by Christina O'Boyle

I am relatively new to the world of sports. This is an embarrassing confession to make on the eve of the Superbowl—but there it is. Hollering "Flag! Flag!" at referees during TV football games comes in sharp contrast to my more stuffy upbringing. Neither sports nor politics nor hunting nor fishing but music was the main event of my parents' life. Instead of sitting in front of Sunday football games like most folks, they trotted us off to an organ concert or a piano recital. Married life and children has changed all of that. Judging from what goes on in this house, it looks like mergers between opposite upbringings—like sports and music—make for unique Sunday afternoons.

What we've got is bedlam. In the living room the beloved Redskins game is on full blast so that my husband can hear it above the din of two children. The children are tearing up the room with toys, tickles, squabbles and chasing games. Our big retriever gets jumped on and barks like crazy. Meanwhile, John is shouting at the Skins, coaches and referees. In the kitchen, making dinner while listening to Mozart, I feign normalcy.

The cacophony is deafening. In an attempt to cope with the madness, I try to hear our noise as music: I pretend the game announcers, the stadium crowd and the commercials are the brass section; the children supply percussion with great emphasis on drums and cymbals; the dog solos like a doomed mezzo-soprano; and John conducts the living room orchestra with discipline. Chopping onions and humming Mozart off-key, I tell myself that this must be the allegro movement of our Sunday symphony.

Thank God the Superbowl is coming.

GHI Board Vetoes Sublease, "Not a Rental Community"

by Leslie Robinson

The practice of allowing members to sublease their Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) townhomes has apparently come to a halt as a result of board actions at the regular Thursday evening meeting on January 9. In other board action, the renegotiation of over $8 million in loans from the National Cooperative Bank (NCB) proceeded one step farther.

Subleasing

The owner of a two-bedroom, frame, middle unit requested permission to sublease the unit for one year. The owner has moved out of town. He recently reduced the asking price of $59,990 down to $54,900, according to General Manager Ronald Colton. The board carefully considered the facts but took no action. Board president Wayne Williams wished the member luck in selling the unit at the lower price. Williams said that maybe other members seeking permission to sublease will get the message now that the board has turned down three subleasing requests in a row. Betty Deitch, secretary of the board, said that "We have a policy. We are not a rental community. We do not rent."

During the discussion on this sublease request, the board voted to schedule an executive session workshop on resale and subleasing procedures.

Loans and Easements

Lower interest rates continue to encourage the board to re-finance two of the three loans that it owes. The largest loan is $8,580,817 owed to the NCB, according to the 1992 budget document of GHI. It is a five-year adjustable rate mortgage with an interest rate of 9.16 percent. The next adjustment is on July 1, 1996. This loan covers 1,571 homes, forest, and other property. The second loan is at a fixed rate of 11.31 percent owed also to NCB. The payoff balance now is about $270,000 and it covers GHI's 25 larger homes. The third loan of $3,466,429 is owed to the federal government and is subject to an interest rate of only three (3) percent. Because of the low interest rate, this loan is not being considered for refinancing.

In previous meetings the board instructed the general manager to look into renegotiating the two loans held by NCB. At this meeting the board introduced a motion (first reading) to pay NCB $12,000 for an appraisal of the entire GHI community. The cost of the appraisal will be debited against the Rehab Stabilization Fund. The next step after the second reading and approval is to order an environmental review, and an engineering study. Proposals from qualified firms for the review and study are due in time for the January 23 board meeting.

Colton warned there was no way now to tell the effect on the renegotiation of the proposed subordination of ownership via an environmental easement of the 82.5 acres of forest owned by GHI and included as collateral in the mortgages. On the one hand Colton said, GHI has no development rights on the forest because of restrictions in the County Master Plan which would prevent development. In the eyes of the lender, according to Colton, this may enhance approval of the new loan.

On the other hand, Colton said, that lenders are notorious for negotiating the highest yield they can get. Colton said it was not uncommon for lenders to up interest rates by one-quarter of a percent if the lender detects a weakness in the borrower's position. Figuring on a total loan of $8,850,817 ($8,580,817 plus $270,000), the annual cost of a one-quarter percent increase at simple interest is approximately $22,000 per year.

Manager's Contract

The Audit Committee, led by Chair Virginia Moryadis, recommended in a statement of Dec. 19 that the general manager should have a contract of employment with GHI. The committee report stated that a contract "would ensure reasonable stability of management and strengthen corporate loyalty." The statement went on to say that without a contract the manager could resign with only the standard two week notice. The committee felt that two weeks would be inadequate to select and train a successor. Stephen Wright, the former assistant general manager, one of the GHI employees that might be considered for the post of manager, resigned in 1991.

At this meeting the board voted to request Ronald Colton, the present manager, to select a standard contract form in use by other corporations for coops, and to submit the form to the board for its review.

Other

The board accepted the third-quarter operating statement for 1991 of the GHI subsidiary, Greenbelt Development Corp. owner and operator of two apartment buildings in Greenbelt.

In other action the board voted to request the Architecture and Environment (A&E) Committee, led by James Maher, to report on the "feasibility, pro and con, of setting up rules for an addition to a one-bedroom unit." The idea behind the motion, according to Maher, is to provide guidance to the GHI staff, which could give approval for such additions rather than seeking board approval each time.

The board voted to establish a five-member ad hoc committee to judge entries of students at Eleanor Roosevelt High School in the Judy A. Murphy Scholarship Essay Contest sponsored by NCB. At the December 19 meeting the board approved the expenditure of $1,350 for the award.

Ray McCauley, vice president of the board, provided a written progress report on the selection of committee members for non-elected positions. The report recommends that applicants be sent a letter informing them of the next committee meeting and other information. If the person still wants to serve the president of the board will phone the chair of the committee. At this point a decision will be made about the appointment.

Other items discussed but postponed for action at later meetings were—a report by the By-Laws Committee, the location of the annual membership meeting in May, fee-for-service, proposed maintenance questionnaire, and the members' contribution to the GHI Newsletter.
