Greenbelt Voters to Participate In Mini-Super Tuesday Primary

Little Voter Interest Seen

by Elaine Skolnik

Maryland Democrats and Republicans will be voting next Tuesday, March 3 for their presidential preference and delegates to their party's conventions and for U.S. Senators and Representatives to Congress. This year Marylanders will not participate in "Super Tuesday" as they did four years ago. Instead the election is being held one week earlier with the hope that greater candidate interest would be given to this state and therefore draw greater voter interest to the election. However, things did not work out as planned. Six other states will be having primaries on the same date, now being called "Mini-Super Tuesday."

Apparently, the action by Maryland to change the election date is not producing the hoped for result of greater voter interest. In Greenbelt, registration has declined by four percent even though the city's population has increased. In the county, the number of eligible voters is down slightly, while state figures show a small increase. (See chart).

In addressing the voter apathy issue, some criticism has been directed at political organizations for the "ineffectiveness" in conducting voter registration drives. Political analysts note that the change of the primary date from "balmy" May to "wintry" March also may be a factor in the reduced voter turnout.

The upcoming presidential primary this Tuesday appears to have generated little interest in Greenbelt and Prince Georges County. However, some local political pundits speculate that the message coming out of the New Hampshire primary — concern about jobs and the economy, health care and education, as well as the strong dissenting vote to President Bush given by New Hampshire Republicans and the convincing victory of former Senator Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts over his Democratic rivals—could stir voters to trek

Primary - March 3

Primary Day 1992 is Tuesday, March 3. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Greenbelt's four polling places - Center School (third precinct); St. Hugh's School (sixth precinct); Springhill Lake School (eighth precinct) and Eleanor Roosevelt High School (thirteenth precinct).

Only registered Democrats and Republicans may vote in the primary.

to the polls in larger numbers than predicted.

Convention Delegates

Besides expressing presidential preference, voters will be electing delegates to the political parties' conventions. In the Fifth Congressional District in which Greenbelt is located, six Democratic and three Republican delegate seats are up for grabs. Two Greenbelters, Mary S. Royster, 7730 Hanover Parkway, and Christopher Francis Maloney, 7700 Hanover Parkway, are pledged to former California Governor Jerry Brown. Another Greenbelt, Thomas X. White, 8 Woodland Way, is a delegate candidate pledged to former Massachusetts Senator Paul

Who's on the Ballot

by Elaine Skolnik

When Greenbelt's Registered Democrats and Republicans close the curtains of their polling booths next Tuesday, they will be facing the designated primary ballots for the Fifth Congressional Legislative District. Those who declined party affiliation or are registered in other than the Republican or Democratic parties are ineligible to vote on March 3.

The upper portion of the ballot is reserved for Democrats, the lower portion for Republicans. On the Democratic side the contenders for the presidential nomination are Edmund G. Brown Jr., Bill Clinton, Tom Harkin, Bob Kerrey, Lyndon H. LaRouche, and Paul E. Tsongas. There is also an "Uncommitted to any Presidential Candidate" lever.

In the contest for United States Senator Don Allensworth, Walter Boyd, Scott David Britt, B. Emerson Sweatt, Thomas M. Wheatley, and James Leonard White, are challenging incumbent Barbara A. Mikulski. Congressman Steny Hoyer is being challenged by Richard Johnson.

Sixty-two candidates (see list elsewhere in this issue) are competing for delegate and alternate seats to the Democratic National Convention in July.

On the Republican side, the presidential candidates are George Bush, and Patrick Buchanan.

Pitted against each other for the nomination in the U. S. Senate race are a field of 15 hopefuls - James Henry Berry; John Joyce Friend-Nalepka; Herman J. Hannan; Stuart Hopkins; Alan L. Keyes; Martha Scanlan Klima; William H. Krehnbrink; Scott L. Meredith; Ross Z. Pierpont; Edward Robert Shannon; S. Rob Sobhani; Romie Allen Songer; and Eugene R. Zarwell.

Twenty Republicans (see list) are competing for delegate seats at the Republican National Convention. Male and female delegates are listed together under one category on the ballot. Some have the presidential candidate to whom they are committed listed above their names. Others are listed without any designation. Republicans do not have the option of voting for "uncommitted" delegates.

The Republican Congressional contest will see John Michael Fleig; Theodore Henderson; Lawrence J. Hogan, Jr.; John Douglas Parren; Gerald Schuster; and Michael Swetman vying for the nomination.

Strict Enforcement

The city warns drivers on Northway not to exceed the posted speed limit of 25 mph. Greenbelt police officers will strictly enforce the speed limit.

Petitions and Pleas Pay Off, Cuts in Library Hours Less

by Eileen Peterson

At the February 13 meeting of the Prince Georges County Library System's Board of Trustees, the members voted to treat Greenbelt Library "equitably" in considering hours reductions made necessary by budget cuts. Specifically, they restored six of the 18 hours the library administration had proposed to cut from Greenbelt's weekly hours.

At the January 9 meeting of the Board, the administration had proposed cutting Greenbelt drastically from 60 to 42 hours, including all day Monday.

Over a three-week-plus period, Friends of the Greenbelt Library (FOGL) circulated petitions asking citizens to support the principle of "sharing the burden" of budget cuts throughout the coun-

On Thursday, February 13, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld (representing the City) and his wife Muriel, members of FOGL's Steering Committee and other supporters (over 20) braved icy roads between here and the Bowie library to speak and show their support.

Greenbelters Speak

Mayor Weidenfeld spoke first, stressing the City government's concern. Four members of FOGL followed: Pearl Siegel outlined the petition drive and urged equity for Greenbelt; Barbara Simon spoke about what the Friends had done for Greenbelt Library through service, fundraising and publicity; Eileen Peterson reminded the Board that the people there were symbolic of the strong feelings about the importance of community libraries in the lives of all citizens. Judy Goldstein read an eloquent letter from Albert Herling, 1983 Greenbelt Citizen of the Year and a pioneer library supporter, who led the drive in the 1960s to have the present library building placed in the center of Greenbelt.

Tom Simon, head of adult services at the Greenbelt branch, spoke about the library's involvement in the community. The Board's response to this community support was a unanimous vote to cut Greenbelt's hours more in line with cuts at other branches.

When will Greenbelt library be open? Beginning Monday, March 9, the hours will be as follows: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from noon to 9 p.m.; Thursday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Friday from noon until 6 p.m.; Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. — a total of 48 hours.

Starting March 9
Mon.:	noon to 9 p.m.
Tues.:	noon to 9 p.m.
Wed.:	noon to 9 p.m.
Thurs.:	10 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Fri.:	noon to 6 p.m.
Sat.:	10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

ty rather than taking larger bites from Greenbelt's (and nearby New Carrollton's) hours. Volunteers stood outside the library in freezing weather or (more comfortably) inside the Coop Supermarket. At least 2,294 people signed the petitions.

Letters

Over two dozen homeowner's associations and civic organizations wrote letters as part of the campaign. There was an especially strong response from area school officials and parents, through letters and personal contact.

An appeal to the Greenbelt City Council brought a strong letter of support signed by each member of the Council. A swift reaction by former Greenbelt mayor and current Prince Georges County Council Chairman Richard Castaldi came in the form of a long letter to the library system's director, William Gordon. He also met personally with Gordon to outline his concerns about the fairness issue.

Arts Center Creates World

by Sandy Smith

"The Creation of the World and Other Business," the winter drama production of the Greenbelt Arts Center, opens this weekend and continues through March 15 at Capitol College.

It will be performed February 28 and 29, March 6, 7, and 14 at 8 p.m. There will be a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. March 8 and a closing performance at 7 p.m. on March 15. This clever play features Adam, Eve, Lucifer, angels and others dealing with the basic facts of life, with witty dialogue and observations. The play is intended for adult audiences due to its mature themes.

This production is directed by Mary Lou Fisher, responsible for many of the Arts Center's major productions. Gene Duarte is producer, David Wilson technical director, Ginny Zanner lighting designer and Trix Whitehall stage manager.

The cast has been in rehearsals for two months and includes actors not only from Greenbelt but throughout the metro area. Carlton Ray, a veteran of many Arts Center plays, performs in the role of God. Bonita Thompson is cast as Eve, Jim Wachhaus as Adam, Darian Presgraves as Abel and Woody Irvin as Cain. God's adversary, Lucifer, is played by Norma Ozur, and the heavenly angels are played by Charles Brown, Kim Kash and Ilene Levine.

Make a Difference Get Out and Vote Tuesday

If Greenbelt were in New Hampshire, we suspect that we would be happy to see the end of a steady stream of Presidential candidates and media personalities into our town. They would be shaking hands with workers entering Goddard's gates, greeting shoppers outside of Safeway or drinking coffee with the "Center Bums" at Roosevelt Center. Everyone and their uncles would be asked to give their opinion on the candidates and the outcome of the election.

But such is not the case. Instead, the candidates, with limited funds, time and resources, are concentrating their post-New Hampshire efforts elsewhere. At best they seem to be giving this state a quick visit only to Baltimore and, for the Democrats, a debate this Saturday at the University of Maryland. One candidate has announced that Maryland is too rich and too much associated with the nation's capitol, from whence all this country's problems arise, to warrant his campaigning in it.

Still, Greenbelters have the opportunity to join with other Marylanders in influencing the course of this year's Presidential election and the nomination of party candidates. It is not unlikely that this state could give a significant push for one of the candidates or shoot down another candidate as he tries to reach the White House. In addition, Greenbelters of both parties have the opportunity to select from among more than one of their party's candidates for the U.S. Senate and Congress from the 5th District.

The candidates may be ignoring Greenbelt, but that does not mean that we should ignore them. Your vote can make a difference! But only if you vote this Tuesday. There is no more important civic duty.

How We Do It

(In "the more things change, the more they stay the same category," we reprint our editorial of Feb. 6, 1942 — with a few updates, such as the present name of the paper.)

Last week we received a letter from a new resident . . . asking us when the boy was going to collect for the paper. Neighbor, the boy doesn't collect for the Cooperator/News Review. It's free to you, one of the few free things in a world of soaring prices and increased taxes.

But you pay for your town paper indirectly through every advertisement published. In a year we average just about enough advertising revenue to cover the printing bill and other costs of publication. The staff is made up of your neighbors who contribute their time, from two to ten or more hours a week.

Begun as a mimeographed job, the Cooperator/News Review has maintained weekly publication through crisis after crisis, under 39 different editors. In 1939, the paper was printed with a photo-offset process, and a year later changed its format to an eight-page tabloid size. Last September (1942) the Cooperator changed to its present printed style—and here we are (and still are 50 years later).

At one time the Cooperator considered all readers in town as owners of the news organ, and allowed any resident to vote for the editor in the semi-annual elections. Last fall, (1941) in order to establish a firmer financial basis for operation and to insure continuity of publication the staff incorporated the paper as a producer cooperative, the Greenbelt Cooperative Publishing Association.

Any resident is welcomed on the staff with or without previous journalism experience. This is an amateur paper, which accounts for the way it looks and reads some weeks. We don't make much money but we have a lot of fun. Come down to the office any Monday or Tuesday evening after 8 o'clock. You will find us in our basement office at 15 Parkway, and we will put you to work at once.

Subscriptions and Deadline Information

MAIL SUBSCRIPTIONS: $30 per year. Advertising and news articles may be mailed (Box 68, Greenbelt); deposited in our box at the Greenbelt Co-op grocery store before 7 p.m. Tuesday or delivered to the editorial office in the basement of 15 Parkway (474-4131). The office is open Monday from 2-4 and 8-10 pm for display advertising; deadline is 10 pm. News articles and classified ads are accepted Monday from 2-4 and 8-10 pm and Tuesday from 8-10 pm.

Letters to the Editor

Report Violators

According to a route map provided by Otis Johnson Jr. of the FAA, helicopters should be flying on established routes over the Baltimore-Washington Parkway (air route 17), the Beltway (route 3), and Route 95 (route 12). Violators may be reported to the FAA from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. within minutes of an over-flight at (410) 787-0040 or (202) 267-3481.

It is helpful to identify the aircraft by type, color and registration number. Time, direction of flight, altitude relative to landmarks, any maneuvers and whether you felt endangered are important. Witnesses (with telephone number and address) and photos (note type of lens) are helpful.

Helicopters may fly below 800 feet, but without hazard to persons or property, and must comply with routes prescribed by the FAA (over highways).

Be Glad

Thank God there are still people like Patricia Davis — Re "Proud and Pleased" letter of February 20.

My father served in World War II with dignity and honor in long forgotten places, except on Memorial Day. It is sad that there are people out there who take freedom so lightly.

The next time one of those helicopters flies over, listen real good and be glad it's one of ours.

Filled with Joy

In regard to Bob Snyder's comment on military planes and helicopters flying over our city, I resent his remark of "we know it works." Good, but do we know they will work if put aside and kept for a later date, if needed?

Every time I see one of these military planes flying overhead I am filled with joy knowing that there is someone out there looking out for us. I wonder if all the complainers would like to put our military on the back of the stove and let it join all the other unsolved home problems?

Frankly I am appalled that anyone would waste their time talking about the noise when we are in the direct flight pattern for Washington National Airport. I can't remember any comments about this. Our son has given 25 years of his life in the military to help maintain peace and protection for us and I thank God for him and all members of the Armed Forces. It's time to look for something else to complain about.

COMMUNITY EVENTS

Open House March 7 At Nursery School

The Greenbelt Nursery School & Kindergarten will hold an open house on Saturday, March 7 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. All families with children aged two to six are invited to attend. The school is located at 1 Hillside Road, behind the Community Church.

The school offers both morning and afternoon nursery school classes. The two-year-old class meets two mornings a week. The other nursery school classes, for three-, four- and five-year-olds meet three, four or five times a week. The school also has an afternoon kindergarten class. All classes are limited to 15 children. Co-opting parents and paid aides keep the staff-to-student ratio low.

The school is accredited and licensed by the Maryland State Department of Education and the Department of Human Resources. The curriculum for all classes follows the guidelines set for developmentally appropriate practices by the National Association for the Education of Young Children.

The Greenbelt Nursery School was established in 1942 as a non-profit, co-operative nursery school. It is owned and run by the families attending the nursery school programs. Parent participation is truly the heart of the school. The volunteer work of the parents enables the school to provide a well-rounded program for a relatively low tuition. Options are available, however, for those who can devote few or no hours to be in the classroom.

At the Library

Registration for Tickly Toddler storytime for 2-year-olds and their parents will be held Monday, March 2. The programs will be held on Thursdays, from March 19 through April 30 at 10:15 a.m.

"Ma Rainey's Black Bottom" Is Tops

by Linda Savaryn

Ma Rainey's Black Bottom, a play by African-American playwright August Wilson, the University of Maryland's third production for the '91-92 season, is worth seeing not only for its entertainment value but also for its realistic portrayal of the dire effects of racism on a culture.

The play takes place in a recording studio in Chicago in 1927. Blues singer Ma Rainey and her accompaniment of black musicians are set to record several blues songs. What occurs before and after the recordings is an emotional tug-of-war between the black artists who have the talent and the white management who have the power.

Chaundra Cameron, who portrays the temperamental Ma Rainey, catches the essence of her character to a tee. Speaking in a loud, commanding voice, she is interesting to watch as she desperately tries to get whatever respect she can from her managers, even refusing to record unless she has her usual coca-cola. She knows she has the talent that her managers need to exploit.

But the real treat from her performance comes when she sings. Her rich and full voice fills the theater. One only wishes she had more songs to sing.

Also good are the four black musicians, played by Donald Pailen as Cutler; Garnel Dyson as Toledo, Damien L. Asante as Slow Drag; and J. Andrew Pinder as Levee. Their repartee and bantering among themselves are both amusing and intriguing as they try to make sense of a social system that makes no sense.

They deliver their lines so naturally that one senses that one is listening in on a private conversation and at the same time learning something about the African-American experience.

Hence, the value of this play comes at the end, which is both shocking and haunting. For if there are questions of why black men are dying today at a too-young age, this play may answer them.

Further performances of "Ma Rainey's Black Bottom" will be given on Feb. 27-29 at 8 p.m. in the Tawes Theatre, University of Maryland.

The first Friday of March, March 6 is World Day of Prayer, an annual worship event sponsored in the U.S. by Church Women United, and observed simultaneously in 170 countries and regions of the world. The theme of prayer this year, is Living Wisely with Creation. Along with prayer and song of praise for God's creation of the planet, the service confesses the overuse and misuse of technology by the human family.

Many local celebrations are planned. The main celebration will be held at 10 a.m. at the Berwyn Presbyterian Church, 6301 Greenbelt Road, College Park. The Rev. Mary Cline Detrick, ordained minister of the Church of the Brethren, and current national director of Ecumenical Celebrations of Church Women United will be the guest speaker.

Margaret Benjamin will be in charge of the service this coming Wednesday, March 4. Her topic will be "Women Who Brought Others to Jesus." Everyone is invited to join in any or all of these evenings.

Recycling Committee Begins Informational Series of Articles

Last year the city council assembled a Citizen's Recycling Advisory Committee whose task it is to keep council up to date on recycling issues and to help educate citizens about the recycling program.

This article is the first of a new series by the committee, offering practical advice to help recycle better and more easily to be published in the News Review from time to time.

In these pieces there will be explanations of those seemingly picky rules about what is and is not "recyclable", reports on the money and resources saved by Greenbelt's program so far, and suggestions for easy and creative ways to reduce waste (and save money) at home. Readers' questions are welcomed; send them to Recycling Advisory Committee, Attention Carl Hirsch, City Offices, 25 Crescent Road.

Tsongas.

Other area candidates to the Democratic convention are Mary Conroy, Bowie, for Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton and Joan Breslin Pitkin, Bowie, for Nebraska Senator Bob Kerrey. Theodore Henderson of Chelsea Woods is a candidate for delegate to the Republican convention.

As the Democratic and Republican parties head into the contests nationwide, the name of the game is delegates and how they will be split among the presidential candidates. Winners will attend the national conventions this summer where they will nominate their party's standard bearer in the November presidential general election. The Democratic Convention will be held in New York City on July 13 to 16; the Republican Convention in Houston from August 17 to 20.

Congressional Races

Maryland Republicans and Democrats will be voting in the primary for their party's candidate for the U.S. Senate and for the member of Congress from their legislative district. U. S. Senator Barbara Mikulski, seeking her second full term, is opposed by six other Democrats. On the Republican side, 14 candidates are seeking the nomination.

In the Fifth Congressional District, Congressman Steny Hoyer is seeking a fifth term. Opposing him in the Democratic primary is one Democrat, Ricardo Johnson. Six candidates are on the Republican party ballot.

Redistricting

When Governor William Donald Shafer and the General Assembly finally settled on the new boundaries for Congressional districts, the fifth district in which Greenbelt is located and which Steny Hoyer serves as Congressman was considerably altered. It now includes all of Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's Counties and parts of Anne Arundel Counties, as well as parts of Prince Georges County. Much of Prince Georges County that was formerly in the district has now become part of the Fourth District. This was done in order to comply with the Federal Voting Rights Act, which calls for creation of minority districts nationwide. As a result, Hoyer will be seeking reelection in a district in which the majority of its area

Candidate's Wife Visits Greenbelt

by Linda Savaryn

Presidential candidate Paul Tsongas' strongest supporter was here in town. Neatly attired in a striking purple suit, the blonde, blue-eyed Mrs. Tsongas arrived in Greenbelt Wednesday morning, Feb. 26.

Greeted by City Manager Daniel Hobbs, Niki Tsongas visited and chatted with several city employees at the municipal building.

Later she visited Eleanor Roosevelt High School. There, Dr. Boardman, principal of the school, took Mrs. Tsongas on a tour of the science fair that was in progress.

After the tour Mrs. Tsongas visited and spoke directly to one of the classes. When asked what she plans to do if she becomes First Lady, Mrs. Tsongas replied: "I would focus on issues related to children, also the regional arts where there's lots of talent that doesn't get much attention. I'm a great admirer of Lady Bird Johnson and her beautification efforts (Beautify America). And I love libraries; they are valuable. I'm a library trustee."

Mrs. Tsongas said she would be doing what she is doing now, just on a larger scale.

She also emphasized that education is the key to our competitiveness.

"What brought Paul into the race was that he has been in the private sector for seven years and sees why we don't compete," she said.

At the end of the visit Mrs. Tsongas walked through the halls, where students welcomed her warmly. Many crowded around asking for her autograph, and many others were eager just to get a glimpse of the possible future First Lady.

50 Years Ago-Eleanor Roosevelt Attends War Rally in Greenbelt

by James Giese

February, 1942—On Saturday the 21st, the "largest paying crowd in Greenbelt history," possibly as many as 1600 people based upon ticket sales, filled Center School for a Defense Rally. The most notable attraction of the evening was a talk by Eleanor Roosevelt. Her message was on the home front as a defense measure. Unfortunately, the Greenbelt Cooperator, this paper's predecessor, reported very little about this visit, one of several by the first lady to Greenbelt.

The rally raised over one thousand dollars to be used for local defense needs, primarily the purchase of first aid equipment. The sale of tickets — $1 per couple, 10 cents for each child — raised $750. A Miss Defense Rally contest conducted during the month added another $200 by residents' voting for their favorite candidate with donations. Helen Kaighn, sponsored by the American Legion, was declared the winner.

In order to help with the fund raising, the Cooperator sold its February 20 "Rally edition" for 5 cents a copy. This is a rare time that the Greenbelt paper was not delivered to residents free of charge. The rally benefited to the tune of $30, indicating a sale of 600 copies.

Other rally events included a speech on U.S.-Japanese relations by Professor W. A. Scharfberg, who had spent 22 years in the Orient and seen "Jap atrocities." The Greenbelt Community Band played a concert wearing their new uniforms for the first time in Greenbelt's colors of green and white. The residents danced to Joe Baldwin's Orchestra, the cost for which set back the committee by $36. Mrs. Leon Benefiel was chairman of the rally, wearing a red evening blouse and a black skirt.

Waste Drive, Sugar Shortage
In other defense measures, the town held its first "War on Waste" drive since Pearl Harbor to collect newspapers, cardboard, string and scrap metal. In order to alleviate a shortage due to hoarding and a 50 percent reduction in supplies, the Co-op food store began rationing the sale of sugar and offered to buy sugar back from its residents. This effort apparently was successful and received publicity in the Washington papers. The Town Council gave $1,500 to the Defense Council.

On February 13, in one of its numerous editorials, the Cooperator rallied its readers "to work and work and work . . . to dig in and fight . . . to get mad, neighbor . . . if we ever want to see again all those things we liked so well about our daily life here in America, here in Greenbelt." "It's not somebody else's war—it's ours, your fight and mine."

Measles Epidemic

By the end of the month, the paper declared a measles epidemic with 85 cases being reported. By March, the problem was diminishing. Two cases of appendicitis caused concern, as there was delay in obtaining treatment due to the closing of the hospital. Efforts to get the Federal Government to reconsider its decision on the closing were fruitless and consideration was given to the disposal of equipment.

"At Your Theater"

The Greenbelt Theater kept busy, with the attractions shown on its marquee being changed several times a week. Some of the February movies were: James Cagney and Pat O'Brien in "The Fighting 69th," Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. in "The Corsican Brothers," Merle Oberon and

THE WHITE HOUSE
 WASHINGTON

February 24, 1942.

Dear Mr. Garrett:

It was very kind of you and the members of the Greenbelt Community Band to give me the lovely flowers. They were beautiful and I enjoyed having them so much. I am deeply appreciative of this courteous gesture.

Very sincerely yours,

A thank-you note from First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt after her appearance in Greenbelt. On behalf of the band, member Mary Jean McCarl had presented the bouquet mentioned here. Courtesy Kathleen McFarland.
