Although supportive of Glendening's plan to run for Governor, Castaldi's relationship with the Executive has been strained by his opposition to the piggy-back tax increase included in Glendening's budget.

Disagreements Shouldn't Mar Relationships, Says Castaldi

by James Giese

This is the second in a series of articles based upon a two and a half hour interview with County Council Chair Richard J. Castaldi, who represents the Fourth Councilmanic District, the district within which Greenbelt is located as well as the City of Bowie and the unincorporated area of Glenn Dale.

In the past several months, Richard Castaldi has taken positions that were not supported by the majority of the County Council that selected him to be their leader and that placed him in opposition to County Executive Parris Glendening. He has also been attacked by county employee organization leaders, particularly the Fraternal Order of Police. Earlier, he antagonized Bowie city officials by attempting to block their use of a farm as a sludge disposal site for their sewerage treatment plant. During his interview, Castaldi talked about his relationships with these various political forces.

"I think it is healthy for politicians to disagree with each other," Castaldi observed. "However, it is important how it is done. They should still work together."

As to his leadership of the county council, he stated that, "My first allegiance is to the citizens and taxpayers, my second is to the role of leadership of the county council. I don't want to be in a confrontational role with council. We have to work together."

Castaldi's term as Chair of the Council ends in December. He would not speculate as to what might happen then. Although Castaldi has been elected to two consecutive one-year terms as chair, it has not been unusual for the position to be rotated annually among the council members in the past.

On Glendening

"I think that Parris Glendening would make an excellent governor," Castaldi responded, when asked about his relationship with the County Executive. "I have told him that I will support him if he decides to run. We continue to talk to each other. In the past, we have been as close together as one could be on issues. I've been criticized as being a rubber stamp for him."

Referring to Glendening's submittal of a budget that provided for an increase in the piggy-back income tax, his failure to lay off 250 employees in January and his opposition to a pay freeze in April, Castaldi commented, "I am surprised at what Parris has done since January. He changed. I stayed with the course he set."

On Education

Castaldi noted that funds have been budgeted to undertake an independent management study to look at the county government, including education. "I want an independent analysis of all aspects of government." He notes the work done by the Rivlin Commission in the District of Columbia and a study undertaken in Texas. More B-W Parkway Ramp Closings

On Saturday, June 27, the traffic pattern for the northbound lanes of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway will be changed. Traffic on the Parkway will be shifted left toward the median. Work will begin at approximately 5 a.m. in the morning and continue throughout most of the day. Expect major delays.

During the shift, the ramp from the Parkway to Greenbelt Road (Route 193) will be temporarily shutdown. The ramp will be reopened late Saturday once the work has been completed. Traffic wishing to exit onto Greenbelt Road should use the Capital Beltway (I-95/495) North to the Kenilworth Exit, and then to Greenbelt Road.

Traffic coming from the Outer Loop of the Beltway to the northbound Parkway will also experience delays on Saturday during the shift. After the shift, traffic will be running on a temporary ramp. All ramp traffic must stop before entering the Parkway. There will be no merge lane during this phase of construction.

Traffic will remain in this configuration for several months as the work progresses on the Parkway.

Variable message signs will be in place to inform the public of this work. For the safety of those using the road and that of the construction workers, motorists are urged to obey the posted speed limit of 35 mph. The U.S. Park Police will be enforcing the speed limits.

has been advocating such a study.

He is disturbed, however, that the Board of Education will not cooperate in the study, based upon its attorney's advice. The attorney has taken the position that an outside agency cannot conduct a management audit and that such a study would have to be undertaken under the direction of the board itself. Board members have criticized the county council for not making the funds set aside for the study available to the Board so that it can conduct the study. They also contend that the funds budgeted are only sufficient to study education and not the other aspects of county government.

Castaldi stated that the school board's own figures indicate that the quality of education in the school system is declining. "Throwing more money at it is not the answer," he contended. "We need a re-examination of the school system. This is an opportunity to do that."

The Castaldis have had a number of foreign exchange students stay with them for short periods of time, and expect to have one stay with them for a year. "If everybody took in a foreign exchange student and saw what other countries are doing, they would find it eye-opening," he observed. "The whole background on education and its worth is much higher in other countries.

Letters to the Editor
Keep It Closed

This is in reply to the Connie Houchen's letter on Keeping Research Road gates open. I thought the ME generation was dead. But it seems to be alive and well and living in Greenbelt in the form of Connie Houchens.

Open the gate on Research, she needs to go to Baltimore. Open the gate, she needs to go shopping in Laurel. I think what she needs is a road map. I have lived Greenbelt over 20 years and do not need the gate open to go either of these places. If she is late and misses the gate due to another shopping venture, she can get off Powder Mill Road and come home on the Parkway, as this seems to be the road she always wants to be on. This should pose no problem for her as she lives on Laurel Hill.

The gates on Research used to be open. It was the escape route for every petty criminal that ever visited Greenbelt at night. The farms were used as one big party area, with bottles and garbage strewn everywhere. Drag racing was commonplace all night long. Now Ms. Houchens would not know about that; she was asleep in her bed after all that shopping.

As to Greenbelt being parochial and not in the mainstream, she has missed the whole point of Greenbelt. It is a small sea of calm in this hectic world of every day living. Now if this is not what Ms. Houchens wants, she should move to Baltimore or Laurel, where she can shop to her heart's content and not have to worry about gates or animals.

G. Hussey

Thanks for Help

On June 15, while walking in Springhill Lake, my husband suffered a medical incident. Several people stopped to render assistance. He did not get their names. To those good Samaritans, we want to say thank you very much for your help. My husband is recovering nicely. If it weren't for you, things might not turned out so well. You have our heartfelt gratitude.

State Cites Crescent Apartments For Improper Asbestos Removal

by Elaine Skolnik

The owners of a Greenbelt Apartment complex and their management firm have been issued a Corrective Order by the Maryland Department of the Environment (DOE) after it determined that the health of workers and tenants had been "significantly endangered" by boiler and hot water piping modernization work. During this work asbestos insulation had been removed. The action came after the DOE investigated an anonymous tip about the work being done at night in the basement of three apartment buildings. DOE has indicated that further sanctions are being considered.

The asbestos removal work is continuing in the basements of the Crescent Square Apartments located on Crescent Road and Parkway. Cohn & Stein Realtors, managers of the 66 apartment units have retained Walter E. Campbell Company of Beltsville as the cleaning contractor. Biospherics, Inc., of Beltsville, an independent environmental consulting firm, is overseeing the operation.

Cohn & Stein contracted with the companies after the Maryland State Department of the Environment (DOE) issued "Corrective Order No. 92-05-06 Regarding Unlicensed Asbestos Removal at Crescent Square Apartments, 42 and 44 Crescent Road, 46, 48, 50, 52 and 54 Crescent Road and 1, 3, 5 and 7 Parkway. . . ."

Prior to the entry of Campbell and Biospherics (both licensed by DOE) work was being done on boilers and pipes in basements at night. At the time tenants were unaware of the nature of the work and had access to the basement areas, which contain trash receptacles, laundry equipment and storage bins. According to John Goheen of DOE's Public Education and Media Office, "an anonymous phone call" alerted the department to "possible unregulated asbestos disturbance" in the basements.

Upon investigation, it was found that basements contained "asbestos waste storage" which Goheen described as "friable. . . . asbestos which crumbles in the hand. . . . fibers are light enough to be inhaled and becomes a potential danger to residents." The Corrective Order alleges that "beginning on or about April 1, 1992 and continuing to date, workers removed or disturbed friable asbestos material on pipes in the basements of three apartment buildings comprising the 66-unit Crescent Square Apartments. . . ."

Specifics of Order

The Order alleges that (1) "illegally stored asbestos waste" was found in the basements "beginning on or about April 1, 1992 and continuing until at least through May 11, 1992," and (2) "Because these violations involved asbestos, a known human carcinogen for which no safe levels of exposure have been identified, the Department has determined that the health and welfare of workers, employees, persons in residence, guests and the public have been significantly and immediately endangered."

DOE ordered that work cease involving "friable asbestos material" and that "security barriers" be erected to "prohibit access to asbestos contaminated basement spaces" to all persons except authorized State officials and agents or employees of currently licensed Maryland asbestos contractors.

Following DOE's order, Cohn & Stein sealed off affected basement areas. They posted notices in the buildings explaining to tenants that during the process of "modernizing your boilers and hot water piping . . . insulation was removed from pipes which was later discovered to have asbestos fibers. . . . Portions of the storage areas have higher than acceptable levels of airborne asbestos. These areas have been sealed off." The notice also informed tenants that they would be reimbursed "for the replacement value of the property" in storage bins that could not be cleaned.

Cohn & Stein also invited tenants to a meeting at the Municipal Building on May 29. William Stein told the News Review that they could not comment at this time. According to the Corrective Order, the apartments are owned by Steven M. and Jeffery Cohn of Wheaton.

Tenant Corina Morina-Ender said, "We are outraged that during the weeks prior to the sealing off of basements we had access to contaminated areas." Attorney William F. Mulrone told the News Review that about 20 tenants have consulted him about the matter.

In the meantime, the Air Management Division is considering sanctions, Goheen said, adding, "They began the abatement project without a permit and there were no licensed workers."

To be determined is whether the ruling will be made administratively or in court. Penalties of up to $25,000 for each day a violation continued could be set.

Swim Team News

by Gail Drake

The Greenbelt Swim Team swam to a 24 point victory over Lancaster Swith Team on Saturday, June 20. The official meet score was 277 to 253. There were many outstanding swimmers with two out of every three times showing significant improvement since the last meet. The "Most Improved Swimmer" for this season's first official division meet is Christine Maher. Her dramatic improvements prove the progress possible for those willing to work for it.

New records were set by Aruna Inversin, who set a new meet and pool record in the 13/14 boys 100m IM with a time of 1:13.37, and by the 8 & under relay team of Casey Connor, Dru Baldauf, Katrina Schwartz, and Ben Kepler, who broke the old team and pool records for the 100m relay with a time of 1:20.57.

Triple winners were Jennifer Drake, Aruna Inversin, Josh Kepler, and Brianne Leas. Other high point winners were Casey Connor (13), Ben Kepler (13), Christine Maher (11), Peter Myers (11), Amanda Baldauf (10), Brendan Gardes (10), Merriam Lofgren (8), Jeanne Kepler (8), and Reed Wirick (8).

The next meet is with Accokeek Swim Team on Saturday, June 27, at the Greenbelt Pool. Warm ups for Greenbelt will begin at 8 a.m. and the meet will begin at 9 a.m. The meet is open to the public. Officials and timers are always needed.

The first "B" meet of the season will be held Tuesday, June 30 at Montpelier. Ask the coach for warm-up times.

The Swim Team would like to thank the pool staff for their

Castaldi Interview

It's interesting to see the differences.

"Our problems are not just with the educators and the administrators. It includes parents and our society values. We need to do serious reexamining about a lot of things."

On Police and Labor

"I thought the COLA freeze was the only prudent thing to do," Castaldi commented, on an issue that resulted in his receiving criticism from the Fraternal Order of Police and other county labor organizations. He believed that pay increases should not be put into effect until budget issues were resolved. "Now that council has put money in the budget, I have no problem with providing pay increases. I think most police officers unstood the situation."

Before the council enacted the temporary pay freeze, Castaldi and other council members met with police officers and all union representatives. "No one can truthfully say we were out to get them or did it sneak," he noted.

Castaldi believes that law enforcement is one of the county's top priorities and that there is a need for more community-oriented police.

On Bowie

Castaldi upset Bowie officials by opposing the city's obtaining a county permit to transport sewage sludge to a farm outside Bowie but within Castaldi's district. Although a county permit was denied, Bowie proceeded to transport its sludge anyway, taking the position, which was upheld in court, that the city was not required to obtain a county permit. "I opposed dumping sludge because I thought it was the wrong thing to do. Economically, it was not good." He believes that Bowie should have taken advantage of a Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission contract for sludge disposal and disposed of its sludge at the same price and at a cost that would be less than what Bowie is now paying.

Castaldi also believes that Bowie failed to follow the rules and failed to give the public notices required. "I had to protect the interests of those residents impacted by Bowie's sludge disposal," he observed.

"Some people find it difficult to deal with Castaldi," he continued, "because I am independent and do things as I see is best. I don't do something just because I am asked to by a mayor or the County Executive. I do what I think is best."

His relationship with Bowie has improved, Castaldi believes, since the time of the sludge issue and the last election when the Bowie Vice Mayor, Fred Robinson, ran against him. "There are hard feelings when people are election opponents. I understand that. However, some people in Bowie take things too personally." Castaldi further notes that he now has very good relationships with three of the Bowie council members, newly elected Vice Mayor Gary Allen, council member Molly Gieseman and former Greenbelt William Aleshire, who was elected to the Bowie Council in April.

"Bowie politicians have been afraid to walk into a room of people with me because they feel it may contaminate them in their community," he observed. "That's starting to change. There are some cracks in the solid front. The three council members are not in lock step with the mayor and others." Castaldi also noted that in spite of the "Bowie candidate," he received 40% of the Bowie vote.

"The Bowie council and I talk to each other," he continued. Castaldi noted that he has assisted Bowie on its efforts to get a minor league baseball stadium built in the city.

Press coverage in Bowie continues not to be to Castaldi's liking, however. "Greenbelt does not play hard politics as compared to Bowie. In Greenbelt there is a line you wouldn't cross. The press has a higher standard. You never see an editorial off the editorial page in Greenbelt. That's not true in Bowie. The same is true of some of the TV programs put on the Bowie public access channel."

And On Greenbelt

How does Castaldi get along in Greenbelt? "Pretty good," he responds. Is it possible to satisfy both Greenbelt and Bowie at the same time? "Sure. If I feel it is good for the city of Greenbelt, I will support it. The same is true for Bowie.

"I don't really feel that there are great differences between Bowie and Greenbelt. Greenbelt and Bowie are two of the best municipalities in the state—possibly the country," Castaldi observed. "Each one thinks it is the best. Look at their slogans. 'Bowie is best.' 'Greenbelt is great!' Nor are they that different from Glenn Dale," the unincorporated area between the two cities that is also within his district.

"Each area is interested in maintaining the quality of its neighborhoods. They each have land use, developmental and environmental concerns.

"Greenbelt, Bowie and Prince Georges County have a lot to be proud of. I'm proud to be representing this area. I hope we can get through this economic situation and work for those quality of life things we worked on in the 1980s."
