Speed Humps Revisited or Maybe One-Way Streets or Traffic Islands

by James Giese

A 73-page special report outlining the pros and cons of speed humps for Northway and seven different structural alternatives to the humps has been given to the city council by staff. The report finds that speed humps and each alternative are unsatisfactory. Prepared by Director of Public Works Carl Hirsch and Director of Planning and Development Celia Wilson, the report is marked on each page as "Draft #1." Wilson advises that this is because staff still seeks comment from interested citizens and the council, and that staff is prepared to modify its report on the basis of this input.

In a summary memo to City Manager Daniel G. Hobbs at the beginning of the report, Wilson concludes: "There is no structural alternative for speed control available that would not result in some form of negative impact, be it loss of greenspace, diversion of traffic to other neighborhoods, or the creation of unsafe road lengths or designs. Staff is fully aware of the sensitivity of this issue in the Woodland Hills community. Having considered all options, we continue to believe that the best solution is to increase traffic enforcement on Northway and in all of Greenbelt. This is the only solution that benefits the city in its entirety, while directly addressing the concerns of the residents of Woodland Hills."

Speed Humps

The report takes note of guidelines of the Institute of Traffic Engineers for the use of speed humps which, among other criteria, require that the street serve a purely local access function, is not a transit route, that the 85th percentile speed exceeds 30 mph, and that there is evidence of a speed-related accident problem. Staff notes that Northway fails to meet these guidelines.

Omaha, Nebraska also has published guidelines for the installation of speed humps, even though both the police and fire departments recommend against their use. For Omaha, the street must be classified as local residential, the 85th percentile speed must exceed 35 mph in a 25 mph zone, stop signs must be at least 300 feet from any hump, and the street must have no characteristics such as steep grades or severe curves that would contribute to or cause a safety hazard. Another guideline is that the street have standard curbs, as no curbs or rolled curbs (as are found on Northway) result in cars' driving off the roadway to avoid the humps.

Radar Survey On Northway
The following table lists average speed of vehicles on Northway as determined by Greenbelt police radar at various times during the month of March.
Dates	Times	# of vehicles	Average Speed
03/22	8-9 a.m., 11 a.m.-noon	15 / 17	27 mph
03/23	9-10 a.m.	9	28 mph
03/24	10-11 a.m.	6	29 mph
03/27	6-7 p.m.	14	25 mph
03/28	5-6 p.m.	10	22 mph
03/29	5-6 p.m.	9	23 mph

Omaha requires the consent of 75 percent of the residents living on the segment of street to be humped to petition for the humps and, once installed, 75 percent must petition for the humps to be removed. Omaha found that the humps did reduce personal injury accidents but that collisions to parked vehicles and sideswipe collisions increased.

An Australian report recommended that for a speed of 25 mph, the speed humps should be spaced 150 feet apart.

Staff recommends that if humps are to be installed on Northway, the consensus of 75 percent of the residents on the street between Hillside and Crescent should be obtained, based on a poll conducted by the city. The staff does not propose any means to consider the opinions either of motorists using the street or residents of the North End who use the street as access to their homes or residents of other streets who may be adversely impacted by increased traffic if humps are installed on Northway.

If installed, staff proposes constructing nine humps spaced 150 feet apart and 200 feet from the Hillside and Crescent Road intersections at a cost of $5,805. The humps would be for a trial period of 18 months, during which time the residents of any other street would not be allowed to seek additional humps.

After the trial period, 75 percent of Northway residents could petition for the speed hump removal and, if results of the test period indicate that the humps are effective as a speed control measure and are acceptable to local residents, other areas could request to have speed humps.

Barricades

Two alternatives to humps are movable or permanent barricades. Whether permanent or movable, the barricade would be placed across Northway just north of its intersection with Woodland Way. If the barricade is movable police, ambulance and all emergency service vehicles would be given keys to a locking device so that in an emergency, the barricade could be unlocked and moved to open the road. Staff anticipates that emergency vehicles would tend to avoid the barricade rather than stopping to open it.

If the barricades are permanent or keys for a movable barricade are not provided, refuse collection, recycling, street maintenance and private delivery vans and trucks would have to back up 1,250 feet or turn around in driveways, where the weight of the vehicle can cause damage. If these vehicles are provided keys, staff believes that the workmen will find the movable barricade to be a nuisance and leave it in the open position.

The cost for a movable barricade is $1,500 and for a permanent barricade $691.

Rumble Strips

Staff found that rumble strips function best when used to alert drivers of an upcoming dangerous intersection or a stop ahead on a road where the driver does not anticipate one. Some states are placing rumble strips on the shoulders of highways to alert drivers that they have wandered off the road. Rumble strips, however, are not particularly effective in reducing vehicle speed and a Michigan study found that some drivers will actually speed up to cross rumble strips. Staff also notes that the high level of audible noise of a vehicle crossing a rumble strip would be a constant annoyance to neighboring residents.

To install durable rumble strips in three locations on Northway would cost $14,868.

Cul-de-sacs

Two of the alternatives proposed constructing turn-arounds to make a portion of Northway a dead-end street. In the first proposal, the turn-around would be Woodland Way. This option would require that the only access to homes between Woodland Way and Hillside would come from Hillside with that portion of Northway becoming a dead-end street, Woodland Way and that portion of Northway from Crescent to Woodland Way would continue to be a through street. Residents on these streets would have access to both Crescent and Hillside, and through traffic could use this route to access the north end.

Remembering Charlie Schwan 1982 Outstanding Citizen

by Betty Allen

Pride and pain accompany this tenth year recollection of Charlie Schwan's selection as 1982 Outstanding Citizen. There is pride, of course, in his life of community service — and pain, that his life is over. Certainly a number of events in Greenbelt history of the 60's and 70's were strongly affected by Charlie Schwan.

Early in that period he served as chairman of a committee to establish the city's Advisory Planning Board. As a concerned GHI member he sought and won membership on the Board of Directors; he was Board president for several terms. In 1971 he was elected to the City Council, and until 1981 was a dedicated and articulate member of that body.

Especially significant to his nominators was Schwan's involvement in the Freedom of the Press Committee. When the News Review was sued by local developer Charles Bresler, Schwan, with Al Herling (another Outstanding Citizen), rallied the community behind the newspaper and ultimately saw its vindication by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Long-time Greenbelters remember Charlie Schwan as a private person, but one possessing a keen intelligence and dry wit. He is not easily forgotten.

There is no one kind of Greenbelt Outstanding Citizen; the list is varied, and the names represent every area of community life. Since the Outstanding Citizen Committee can only select — it cannot nominate — the members look to the community for names of those persons who should be considered for this honor. As Charlie Schwan said: "to be nominated is even more of an honor than to be selected." The committee says: Honor your neighbor!

Nominations are due by August 16. Submit the form in this issue of the News Review to Thomas M. Renahan, Chair, 6956 Hanover Parkway, Greenbelt, Md. 20770.

Concert at the Lake

The Greenbelt Concert Band of Prince Georges County will perform on Sunday, August 2 at "Buddy" Attick Park. All residents and guests are welcome.

Rabies Alert

A sick raccoon was reported in old Greenbelt on July 21. The raccoon was first spotted in the 8 court of Hillside Road and then captured in the 2 court of Northway.

It was later captured, tested, and found to have rabies. Apparently no one has been exposed to it. The Greenbelt Police Department urges citizens to report sick animals to them at 474-7200, and to protect their family and pets by having their pets vaccinated.

NORTHWAY FIELDS SPORT NEW LOOK

by Betsy Likowski

Visitors to Northway ballfields at the east end of Northway will notice a difference — the scattered leaf piles and the towering pile of wood chips are gone. A recent visit revealed several persons wandering around the area where the piles had been looking puzzled. They need not worry — the city will maintain a pile, but a much smaller one. Free mulch is also available at the Brown Station landfill near Bowie.

According to Director of Public Works Carl Hirsch, the area of the leaf and wood chip piles had not been cleaned in years. Besides the unsightliness, other problems in the area include a couple of fires and the dumping of trash near the piles. We are "hoping that by keeping it cleaner it will encourage people to keep it clean," said Hirsch.

And in an effort to keep the mulch area cleaner, the Public Works Department has asked the police to patrol the area more, continued Hirsch. He asks that citizens who see trash being dumped call the Public Works Department at 474-8004.

Smaller leaf and wood chip piles also mean more room to park at the ballfields.

Hirsch says the city will still maintain the mulch pile by continuing to add to it, but it will be managed better. Many of the branches and other green waste of the city are taken to the county facility at Brown Station landfill, to be ground into mulch. Because the cost of a grinding machine runs up to $40,000, it is cheaper for the city to take their mulch there, he said.

Letters to the Editor

Both Events Are Important

I read Ruth Kastner's letter to the Editor criticizing the Miss Greenbelt Pageant and took it all in, saying, "Well, everyone has a right to their opinion." Then, in last week's News Review I listened to Mr. Hagelgans do the same, and could no longer fight the need to respond.

As an art teacher in an elementary school, I realize and agree on how important art is in a child's life... and an adult's for that matter. The experience to express themselves through color, through media, and then have everyone admire their work in the Labor Day Art Show is a wonderful ego booster for a child. It especially gives those who win self-confidence and pride in their accomplishment.

But, also, as a mother of a child who was in the Little Miss Greenbelt pageant, I saw and experienced with my daughter the self-confidence it gave her to get out on that stage. And then to hear friends and family cheer for her, gave her a chill and sent excitement through her, and she carried her chin high and did her best.

From her whole pageant experience she learned to work with others in a group as they were taught their dance routine. She learned to praise her fellow human beings as she voted for Miss Congeniality. She learned to speak up for herself and about herself as she was interviewed by the judges. And she learned to humble herself as she congratulated the winner. In all of these little lessons there can be found a future situation she may use these things she learned. But as a child, the most important part to her was that it was fun and she made new friends.

In both of these events of our special weekend here in Greenbelt, all of these children find their self-confidence, make memories, learn about new people and learn a little more about themselves.

We all have different interests. Application of cosmetics is not the priority of these children in the Miss Greenbelt or Little Miss Greenbelt Pageants. They are all looking for themselves. They are all learning to be a person. And they are all as important as the other. And as the adults of this community, we should be encouraging them.

Thanks

All of the coaches and players in the Greenbelt Little League would like to thank the City Council, Mayor Gil Weidenfeld and members of the Public Works Department for the Batting Cage.

And a special thanks to Cubs Manager and League President Jose Morales for seven years of volunteering his time and effort to make this league as good as it is. He will be leaving for another country to do his job. Thanks.

Unfair

Last week, the News Review appended an editor's note to my letter, disputing my statement that the Children's Art Show was being moved to make room for an expanded Miss Greenbelt Pageant. They quoted J Davis as their source of information. However, their editor's note was erroneous.

The News Review should have known that Davis is in charge of the Labor Day carnival and is not connected with the Art Show. It was therefore highly irresponsible for the News Review to quote her in print as an authority on this matter.

Contrary to what the editor's note states, I have it on good authority that the Labor Day Festival Committee informed the Art Show organizers (the Greenbelt Visual Arts Coalition) that since there was a desperate need for additional space for a makeup room, it had been decided that the children's art show would be combined with the adult show.

In choosing to rebut my letter on behalf of a city committee by printing misinformation the News Review has unfairly damaged my credibility, and I think I am owed a public apology.

In the future I hope the News Review will be more careful before impugning a citizen's integrity with hasty, ill-informed editor's notes, and refrain from injecting themselves into controversies on the side of city agencies and committees.

The walkway is concrete and leads from the driveway on the service side to the garden side of the house. A ramp allows the handicapped visitor to easily maneuver the single step into the house. Together with the 10-minute video presentation, the handicapped visitor will receive nearly the same tour as other visitors.

The Friends of the Greenbelt Museum will be participating in the Labor Day Festival parade FOGM invites members of the community, preferably wearing 1930's or 1940's, costumes to march with them. If interested, contact Mary Linstrim, 474-7951.

FOGM will be holding a flea market in the fall. Donations of collectibles including jewelry, household items and toys may be dropped off at 2-G Gardenway. For pick-up of bulky items, call Linda Warner at 345-8361. No books or clothing will be accepted.

The Greenbelt Museum is open every Sunday, 1-5 p.m. During Labor Day week-end the Museum will also be open on Monday after the parade.

Carolyn Goff Appointed Center School Principal

Carolyn Goff has been appointed principal of Greenbelt Center Elementary School. Goff has been acting principal since the retirement of Dr. John Van Schoonhoven in April. She became principal July 1.

Goff came to Greenbelt Center in the fall of 1990 as an Elementary Instructional Assistant (EIA). She assisted Van Schoonhoven during regular school hours and was director of Center's After School program.

Tisha B'Av Observed At Mishkan Torah

Tisha B'Av (Ninth of Av), the saddest day and 25 hour fast day in the Jewish calendar, will be observed in a service on Saturday, August 8 at 9 p.m. at Mishkan Torah, Ridge Road and Westway. The service is sponsored by Mishkan Torah Congregation of Greenbelt, Nevey Shalom Congregation and Temple Solel of Bowie.

On this date in the Hebrew calendar, both the First and Second Temples were destroyed, bringing to an end the First and Second Jewish commonwealths. On the same day in 135 C.E., the Romans crushed a Jewish revolt in the city of Beitar, ending the last chance for Jewish sovereignty for 1,900 years.

Following the evening service, Megillat Eichah, the Book of Lamentations, will be chanted, followed by interpretive readings and traditional songs of lamentations. It is a custom to dress in dark clothes for this service. The community is invited.

SPEED HUMPS?

(Continued from page one) streets must, however, meet the subdivision criteria of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission (M-NCPPC). These require that dead-end streets be no longer than 1,000 feet and hold no more than 20 housing units. In this proposal, the length of the dead-end street would be 1,250 feet and 28 homes are sited on it. M-NCPPC also requires a 76-foot diameter turn-around, which in the case of Northway would encroach on private property by 16 feet. Although a 60-foot turn-around could be constructed, even this more limited dimension would affect the entrances to several lots. The second alternative for a cul-de-sac would provide a turn-around on Northway next to Crescent Road. This option would close access from Crescent and all Woodland Hills community traffic could be accessed only from Hillside. Because the distance from the intersection of Northway and Woodland Way is only 350 feet and there are only six lots along the proposed dead-end section, M-NCPPC requirements would be met. However, the requirement for a 76-foot turn-around would necessitate taking adjacent private property. If a 60-foot turn-around were constructed, adjacent property would still be impacted even though the turn-around would be built within the public right-of-way because the front lawns of these homes now extend to the narrower-width street curbs.

Staff notes that the objective is to curtail speed along Northway. While both proposals would eliminate through traffic, staff does not believe that traffic speed will be effectively reduced, as the areas where speeding occurs would remain unchanged. The cost for constructing a cul-de-sac at either location is $6,435.

Mid-street Islands

Under another alternative, two circular islands would be constructed in the middle of Northway between Woodland Way and Northway, taking advantage of the fact that the right-of-way width is 60 feet while the street is only 28 feet wide. The islands would be 12 feet in diameter, constructed with rolled curbs and would contain plantings to increase visibility. Because vehicles would have to drive around the island, it is believed that speed would be reduced. If a driver fails to see the island, the rolled curb would enable him to drive over the island without suffering serious injury or vehicle damage.

Negative impacts of this proposal are that parking would have to be prohibited at the islands and 40 feet to either side of them and that front yard areas of homes would be reduced for the street widening at the circles, even though all work would be done in the public right-of-way. The cost to construct the two circles is estimated to be $9356.

One-Way Traffic

Although not a structural alternative to the design of Northway, the report discusses a traffic control proposal made by radar enforcement supervisor, Sgt. William D. Allwang, and transmitted with approval by Lt. Daniel P. O'Neil. The proposal is to designate all or a portion of Northway as a one-way street, preferably uphill from Crescent to Hillside because vehicles move at lesser speeds going uphill. In addition, O'Neil recommended adding sidewalks on Northway.

Wilson advised Hobbs, however, that the Institute of Transportation Engineers describes 18 benefits of one-way traffic regulation, but none relating to speed reduction. Instead, the elimination of opposing traffic can lead to increased speed. Wilson contends that a 50 percent diversion of traffic to other streets would occur and that inconvenience would be created for Northway users.

Copies of the Northway alternatives report are available at the city manager's office. At this time, the matter has not been scheduled for consideration by the city council.

Summertime

I remember this: lying on the beach, blanket to blanket the smell of coconut oil filling the air, carried on the seabreeze along with everyone's music. . .

I remember this because someone outside our house has their radio on so loud that I have to stop what I'm doing and pay attention. Some guy is playing his guitar and singing like his life depends on it. His voice makes me wish for unhealthy tanning rays and waves crashing on the shore. I cross the room, look out my window and see a yellow Public Works truck—the source of Bruce Springsteen's call to be wild.

There's a carefree undercurrent to summer; it's a time for letting go. This feeling probably comes from being set free from school, June through September, year after year. Thank goodness a rock song, an old T-shirt, or the taste of a popsicle can trigger a summer memory. But looking back at those easy-going days makes being a grown-up an even greater challenge.

Capturing the essence of a real summer vacation is hard to do for adults, especially in the week or two allotted by most jobs. But we learn. Half the fun of a vacation now is the dreaming part: romanticizing staying out late and sleeping in; imagining the cool mountain shade or the warm beach sun; envisioning the house and yard work getting done; visualizing the historic sites to be visited, the family and friends to be seen. Ah, it's going to be great, even though it's going to be short.

Which makes playing the radio really loud a necessary psychological release. Some Fridays after work we need to open the car windows, roll back the sunroof and let the music blast us away. If you can't go on vacation for weeks to come—or if the vacation is already over—an elbow out the window, good-looking sunglasses and the right song just might do the trick.

Deafbelt Club Members Meet for Fun, Friendship

by Robert Levine

The Deafbelt Club, an organization for the hearing impaired, was founded in January by Recreation Department employee Karen Haseley. The club provides recreational activities for deaf persons in Greenbelt and surrounding communities. Another goal is to gain more exposure for the deaf community in the community at large. There is a membership fee.

Business meetings are held once every three months and activities are held monthly. The Deafbelt Club's previous activities have included a potluck dinner, a tour of the Greenbelt Police Station and attendance at the Greenbelt Day dedication of Schrom Hills Park.

Haseley acts as supervisor and coordinates the club's activities. The officers, who were elected in May, are: Denise Barber, president; Bruce Denhart, vice president; Eleanor McCowan, secretary; and George Schroeder, treasurer.

Dual Purpose

Secretary McCowan said that the Deafbelt Club mainly offers "fun." She believes that the club's activities fulfill both of the club's purposes at once, enabling deaf people to have fun while getting more exposure for the deaf community. "Greenbelt gets to know us better as we do things for Greenbelt," said McCowan.

Although the club is not politically oriented, McCowan and several other Deafbelt Club members expressed enthusiastic support for the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA). The ADA requires employers to have teletypewriters, on which messages for their deaf employees are sent out on a keyboard and received on a printer. Hotels are required to have features such as a special alarm that would assist and protect the hearing impaired for example, in emergencies.

Only a handful of members showed up for the July 14 business meeting. "A lot of people showed up for the Schrom Hills Park dedication," said McCowan, "but many people want to have fun without having meetings. We need to have meetings, however, to plan our activities."

Relaxed

The meeting was relaxed and orderly. Haseley is still learning sign language, and the work of interpreter Jody Johnston came in handy.

The group plans to go bowling on August 10 at the College Park Fair Lanes bowling alley. They also made plans to have a table at the Labor Day Festival to distribute information on deaf culture and the deaf community. In addition, the group decided to have a picnic at "Buddy" Attick Lake Park on September 20 and to visit the Sugarloaf Crafts Festival on October 10. Another business meeting was set for October 13. McCowan said she would draw up flyers containing the club's agenda of activities.

Fun is the name of the game at the Deafbelt Club. It is committed to gaining acceptance and exposure for the hearing impaired through recreational activities and positive interaction with the community.

Research Seminar For Paralegals

Interested paralegals and legal assistants in the Greenbelt area are invited to a research seminar. The Paralegal Alumni Association and NCAPPA will sponsor a "Public Records Research Seminar" on August 8 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The seminar will be held at the Center of Adult Education Building, University of Maryland, College Park. Dennis Seymour, who has a wealth of investigative training, will be the speaker.

Please call Linda Perkins at (301) 350-0257 after 6:30 p.m. before August 5 to reserve a place. There is a fee. This is not limited to the paralegal alumni. All are welcome.

Anyone who is not a member of the Paralegal Alumni Association and would like to join please contact Agnes Bowersox at (301) 464-9374 for information.

Officers are: Linda Perkins, president; Agnes Bowersox vice-president; James Seeger, secretary; Debbie Lundahl, treasurer; Sherry Smith, director and Shirleann Egenreider, director.

Police Blotter

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

As a woman was walking into her apartment building in the 6200 block of Springhill Court around 10:45 p.m. on July 17, three male teen-agers followed her in, produced a black handgun and demanded her purse just as she was about to enter her residence. After getting the purse, the teen-agers ran away. They are described as black, 14 to 16 years old, all wearing white or light-colored shirts, blue shorts, and black shoes.

Big Fight

Around 4 a.m. on July 19 officers responded to a report of a large fight involving a handgun in the parking lot of the Marriott hotel. During the investigation, one of the fight participants resisted being searched, punched an officer in the face and then resisted being arrested. He was arrested and found to possess cocaine. A 24-year-old nonresident, the man was charged with battery, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and possession of cocaine; he appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was held on $5,000 bond pending trial.

Meanwhile, another of the combatants was seen pulling a Taurus 9 mm semi-automatic handgun out from his waistband and throwing it on the ground. He was then arrested. He was charged with assault (he had pointed the gun at someone during the fight), theft over $300 (the gun had been stolen in Virginia, according to the police computer), and carrying a handgun. A 26-year-old nonresident, he appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was held on $12,500 bond pending trial.

Gun and Drugs

A 28-year-old nonresident man was arrested and charged with transporting a handgun on July 21. While patrolling the 6100 block of Breezewood Drive, an officer was suspicious of a man sitting in a parked vehicle and upon going over to talk to the man, saw a bullet round. A search of the vehicle then turned up a .44 caliber handgun. The man appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was released pending trial.

A 17-year-old non-resident youth was arrested and charged with possession of cocaine with intent to distribute and possession of cocaine after he was seen making a transaction with someone else in the area of Cherrywood Lane and Breezewood Dr. on July 21. The teenager was released to his mother pending trial.

Greenbelt Grab Bag

by Punchin' Judy

"I've been to see my spin doctor," said Uncle Sylvester when I visited him last week.

"Your spin doctor!" I exclaimed in amazement. "I didn't even know you were interested in politics."

"Of course I'm interested. Everybody should be but what does that have to do with seeing my physician about my dizzy spells?"

"Spin doctor—dizzy spells—I get it. You're just not into PC language," I said.

"PC? Personal computer?" he asked, looking puzzled. "I need to learn computer language just to see my doctor?"

"No, no, of course not. PC stands for 'politically correct'. I'll lend you a CD which tells all about it."

"Certificate of Deposit?" he wanted to know. "You don't have to pay for my medical care. I belong to an HBO."

"I think you mean HMO," I answered. "But the CD I referred to stands for 'compact disc'."

"Now I really feel dizzy," moaned Uncle Sylvester. "This is like the old days when I worked for the WPA."

"You worked for the Washington Project for the Arts?" I asked. "I'm impressed."

"You should be," he agreed. "But I'm talking about the Works Project Administration. We helped build Greenbelt."

"And an admirable project that was!" I enthused. "But it's time for me to go. I have a lot of errands to do—at the YMCA, GHI, DMV, WSSC, and I must attend to my IRA."

"The Irish Republican Army?" he asked. "I always knew you were connected with Ireland."

"I was talking about my Independent Retirement Plan," I explained. I looked at my LD watch. "Gotta run," I said.

Uncle Sylvester looked harassed. "Before you go, call the ARC and tell them to send a Red Cross ambulance PDQ. I need to be taken for some R&R before I am DOA."

Othello Performed At Montpelier

Five free performances of "Othello" will be presented at three local parks in Prince Georges County. The University of Maryland Baltimore County's award winning Shakespeare on Wheels rolls into Prince Georges County in August. Audiences are encouraged to bring a picnic, lawn chairs or blankets and enjoy these twilight performances of Othello.

Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, August 6 and 7, Montpelier Mansion Grounds, Maryland Route 197 at Murkirk, Laurel. For information call (301) 864-2929.

A'S ARE CITY CHAMPS

In two hotly contested games, the A's defeated the Cubs 8-7 and 10-9 to win the City Little League Championship.

Game two of the best-of-three series was delayed one day due to the weather. The rain didn't drench the bats or the spirit of either team, who played their hearts out in a 7-inning battle.

Both the Cubs and Athletics had come from second place to defeat the first place teams for the National and American League Championships, respectively.

Festival Notes

Festival Committee Meets August 6

The Labor Day Festival Committee will meet on August 6 in the Library. Festival committee members are urged to attend as plans are finalized for festival events.

Little and Jr. Miss

Rehearsals have just started, there is still time for girls 7 to 9 to enter the Little Miss Pageant and for those 10 to 13 to participate in the Junior Miss Pageant. Many group activities have been planned. There is no individual talent program, but the girls will participate in several group numbers. They sing and dance to a Broadway theme on Saturday night of the Labor Day weekend and on Sunday appear in party wear. They will ride in the Labor Day Festival.

Other pageant activities include sessions to develop poise and posture, interviewing skills and public speaking. The girls are asked about their hobbies, school activities and interests. There will be a photo session with photos of the participants displayed in Roosevelt Center. For more information call Cheri Gainer at 317-9943.

Child, Teen Events

Other activities for children and teens in the Labor Day Festival include the children's division in the annual arts show, which children traditionally have entered with a variety of art forms. The Photographic Exhibition has a Young Photographer's category for those under 16, but young photographers are also eligible to enter any of the specific categories as well.

The Talent Show is open to performers of all ages, children, youth and adults.

The Children's Pet Show is open only for the pets of children. The Pet Show is being run this year by the girls of Girl Scout Cadette Troop #3030.

Children and teens can enter a variety of sports and athletic games, from group to individual activities. Special contests have specific events aimed at children of all ages, from the diaper derby to tests of agility and balance such as the spoon race, to tests of nerve in the balloon toss.

Many teens are involved in the carnival area. The seniors of Eleanor Roosevelt High School have a first-time booth in the carnival to raise funds for various projects. The carnival is popular with children providing games, rides food and treats for body and soul alike.

Much of the stage entertainment is aimed at children, including Discovering Science, a hands-on children's program; Double Dutch jump rope routine; roving jugglers and various types of musical acts.

Labor Day Parade

As usual the annual search for convertibles has begun. These cars are needed for celebrities and dignitaries. If you have a convertible available, please call parade co-chair Cheri Gainer at 317-9943.
