No Police Press Policy Changes Council Declares at Busy Meeting

by Diane Oberg

Council members responded to press and citizen concerns about police reports at the October 11 regular meeting of the Greenbelt City Council. Other issues on the agenda were the Recycling Advisory Committee's suggested changes to the drop-off center, plans for another office building at the intersection of Hanover Parkway and Ora Glen Drive, and optional plans for the reconstruction of Parkway.

Police Reports

Councilmember Rodney Roberts addressed the "infamous press release saga" in the News Review, referring to the editorial and letters regarding release of press releases by city police. There has been no change in the policy for release of such information. All that council did, Roberts noted, was authorize the city manager and police chief to draft possible policy changes. No such changes have been proposed.

Roberts stressed that council has taken no action and, he thought plans none, to change the policy for release of police reports. It is a dead issue now, Roberts said.

Councilmembers Thomas White, Roberts and Edward Putens agreed that council had never even discussed any changes to the regular weekly reports of police activities, also known as the "Police Blotter." Mayor Antoinette Bram pointed out that council receives the same report as is provided to the press.

Recycling Center

The Recycling Advisory Committee's report recommending that the city stop collecting cans, bottles and plastics at the drop off center was accepted by council. The city must pay to rent and empty the drop off containers. Now that all city residents have recycling pickup at or near their homes the committee feels this change will increase participation in the curbside programs, reduce the flow of materials from outside Greenbelt and help control costs at the recycling center. This report will be considered at the October 24 regular council meeting.

New Office Building

Council heard plans for an 1,800 square foot one-story office building on a .208 acre property at the northeast corner of the Hanover Parkway - Ora Glen intersection. Because the proposed building conforms with the property's zoning, the only approval the owner needs is for a building permit, which will be granted so long as the proposed building conforms with the zoning ordinance.

Despite needing no regulatory approvals, the developer has discussed the plans with city staff and incorporated Advisory Planning Board suggestions into the site and architectural designs. At this meeting, architect Douglas Rixey presented drawings of the proposed building and responded to comments from council.

The site, which is long and narrow, leaves few building options, he said. As a result, the building will be placed at one end of the property, very close to the property lines. Twelve parking places will be provided, four more than required by code.

Rixey said the building will be of red brick with a green roof. Lighting plans are not yet determined. While only facade signs are anticipated, Rixey said, since the owners do not yet have a tenant for the building, those plans could change. He agreed to convey council's request for a sign plan review to the property owners.

Construction is not likely to start until a tenant is found. The owners are seeking the permit now, Rixey said, in order to be able to move quickly once agreement is reached with a tenant.

Parkway Reconstruction

Public Works Director Carl Hirsch presented council with the four options developed by a consultant for expanding parkway. See COUNCIL, page 16

Hearing Set on Proposed Office Complex at BARC

by Diane Oberg

The U.S. Department of Agriculture plans to construct a 350,000 square foot low-rise office complex on the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC). The department will hold a public hearing on its draft Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for three proposed sites, plus a "no action" option on Thursday, October 27.

At its October 11 regular meeting, the Greenbelt City Council went on record as supporting the "no action" option, citing traffic impact on local roads and a desire to keep BARC as an agricultural research center. Council also voted to oppose amending the 10-year water and sewage plan to provide service to the proposed headquarters complex.

According to the draft EIS, the department plans to consolidate operations currently housed in leased space in Maryland and the District of Columbia in the proposed complex. In addition, employees from the USDA South Building would relocate to Beltsville during office renovations.

The office buildings, expected to be two or three stories high, plus parking and buffer areas, will require roughly 30 acres. The sites under consideration are 94 - 120 acres. The EIS does not comment on how the remainder of the identified sites will be used.

The EIS rejects the no-build option as resulting in significantly higher expense to the department and the federal government.

Proposed Sites

Site A is 115 acres in the western portion of BARC. It is located north of the Beltway, southeast of the Rhode Island Avenue/Sunnyside Road intersection. The city's Advisory Planning Board recommended supporting this location as the "best site, considering its proximity to major roads and the character of the area."

Council Seeks Restriction On Office Park Additions

by Diane Oberg

On October 27, the Prince Georges County Planning Board is expected to consider the preliminary plan of subdivision for the remaining undeveloped land at Capital Office Park. The new buildings would be on the northeast side of Cherrywood Lane between the new federal courthouse and the bridge over the beltway.

At its September 26 regular meeting, the Greenbelt City Council recommended that the county make approval subject to a number of conditions that Nancy Slepicka, attorney for the office park, said were not acceptable to her client.

Three Buildings

The subdivision will create lots for additional office buildings totalling 556,000 square feet on 16 acres. This is consistent with earlier limits agreed to by the office park. It will also create a 23 acre outlot, largely composed of wetlands, that will remain undeveloped. Slepicka said that the county has asked the owners to enter into a conservation easement to ensure the preservation of this parcel.

Slepicka said that the company has no immediate plans to begin construction. They have begun the subdivision process in order to be better able to compete for clients by reducing the time between signing a tenant and the start of construction.

City Conditions

Slepicka had concerns about most of the conditions proposed by Director of Planning and Development Celia Wilson and the Advisory Planning Board. The Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission technical staff has identified transportation improvements for which the developer will be responsible. The company wants to fulfill this responsibility by paying a fee-in-lieu to the county.

Council accepted Wilson's recommendation that improvements affecting the city's rights-of-way should either be performed by the developer or payment made to the city and that the developer be held responsible for design and administrative costs incurred by the city in a fee-in-lieu arrangement. Slepicka objected to these, saying that they would impose additional burdens on the developer.

War of the Worlds World Premiere

by Sam White

What if radio station WGRN, Greenbelt, Maryland decided to do a radio version of H.G. Wells science fiction classic War of the Worlds in 1939? WGRN, fictional forerunner of Greenbelt Cable B-10, serves as the setting for an original full-length adaptation of H.G. Wells' classic being presented by the Greenbelt Arts Center on October 28, 29, and 30. The Orson Wells version of the book which caused so much commotion was originally broadcast on Halloween night, 1938 in New York City.

The play offers a look, albeit comical, at Greenbelt in 1939. The Arts Center will be turned into a radio station WGRN, and the audience will be viewing a "live" radio show being broadcast with all the sound effects played on stage. Everyone in the "studio" will be part of the play, including the Stage Manager, the House Manager and the usherettes. Some of the actors even play members of the audience. The newscasts are about the newsworthy events of Greenbelt that year, and even the commercials have a uniquely Greenbelt touch. It will be a step back in time for all who attend.

In the adaptation, the action of the novel has been moved from turn-of-the-century London to Greenbelt in 1939. The Martians land just north of town. The McCarl, Attick and Holland family names all play a part in the production.

The large cast of 27 include many longtime Greenbelt residents who may have been around in 1939 (as children, of course, although no one is saying). In the cast are Marian Rubach, Judy Holland, Walter Morse, Trix Whitehall and Doug Love. They have helped bring technical accuracy to the script.

Others in the cast include GAC regulars Hopi Auerbach, Bob Thompson Lou Yaktis, Alex Barnes, Jo Blais, Laura Seng, Harriett Phelps, Kim Christiansen, Marie Bowles, Gene Duarte, Mary Seng and Jack Goldklang. Period costumes are under the direction of Liza Linder. The production is being directed by Steve Blais.

The Arts Center recommends early reservations. The last several plays have had sold out performances and the GAC had to turn people away. This production will only be performed for one weekend, so make reservations for a nostalgic fond look at Greenbelt in 1939 and the staff of WGRN, radio Greenbelt.

Keep the Drop-off Service

We urge the Greenbelt City Council to direct the Public Works Department to continue to collect bottles, cans and plastic at the city's drop-off recycling center. The Recycling Advisory Committee has recommended stopping public drop-offs of these materials now that all city residents are served by some form of curbside recycling program.

The main reasons for discontinuing this service are that the city may be paying to dispose of materials dropped off by non-residents and more room will be available for collecting materials not picked up at curbside. While we recognize the validity of these points, other arguments support retaining the service.

Many Greenbelters live in small homes without garages. Frequently there is no good place to keep recyclables. Residents not wanting to store these materials in their homes should have the option of dropping them off at the center. Forcing these residents to trash their cans and bottles would increase refuse collection costs.

The city may also find that closing the drop-off center to these materials may increase the amount of dumping at the center from people refusing to take their cans and bottles back home. The recycling center is a service to citizens that should be continued.

Lions Clubs Sponsor Barbershop Show

The Greenbelt Lions Club, along with the Lions Clubs of College Park, Hyattsville, University Park and other cooperating clubs is sponsoring a Lions Barbershop Harmony Show on Saturday, October 22. The show will feature the Hometown USA Chorus from Montgomery Co. and special quartets with comedy, entertainment, music, harmony, and family fun. It will be held at High Point High School, 3601 Powder Mill Road, Beltsville.

Tickets are available at the door or from any Greenbelt Lion. Special group rates are available by arrangement with Lion Barbara Jacobs at (301) 577-4888. Proceeds from this event will be used to support Lions Club Community projects.

IRS Has Change Of Address Form

The Internal Revenue Service asks citizens to use form 8822 to report changes of address. The IRS says that it is in the taxpayer's best interest to send the IRS a forwarding address. This will ensure proper delivery of refund checks, tax forms and notices of additional tax due. If the IRS mails such a notice the penalties and interest will continue to grow, even if the taxpayer does not receive the notice.

To obtain Form 8822 call 1-800-829-3676.

Donate Cars to UCP

People are asked to donate cars or other vehicles to United Cerebral Palsy (UCP). UCP handles all details including paper processing, picking up the vehicle and selling it at auction. There is no charge to the donor.

UCP provides a statement for tax purposes of estimated retail value. They pick up vehicles throughout Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties. Any vehicle is accepted, running or not, cars, trucks, trailers, boats and RVs. All proceeds go to UCP.

Disappointed

I am writing in reference to the small report of the Co-op Service Station closing in the October 6 edition. It is nice to see the gas station finally made the front page of our city's newspaper, if only it was for a better reason.

I am writing you this letter because I would like to say how disappointed I am to hear this news. I was a long time employee of the service station and I can say that it has been pretty clear to me and to a few others that the station was losing money over the last few years, but what is not clear to me is why nothing was done. I remember when the service station was making money and the volume of customers was at an all time high for service and for gas purchases. The customer service was outstanding and just about every citizen of Greenbelt came to the station to have service to their car, get gas, or just to say "Hi".

Then when business got tougher the Board of Directors and all under it just stood there and watched the competition change with the times. Someone please explain to me why the Co-op Grocery Store has a weekly two page ad in this paper but the gas station may get a two inch space about once a month at best. Please tell me the reason behind not updating the mechanics' equipment over the years so they could keep working on the new cars. When the station took on the name "Citgo" why wasn't there a complete face lift done to the station like the one that occurred a few years ago to the Mobil down the street?

You see these suggestions were brought to the attention of the board time and time again, but since the station is closing we can see how much those ideas were listened to. I think that I can speak for a large part of the "old" crew that worked for the Co-op over the years by saying that we are very disappointed to see the business that we worked so hard to keep going is now gone. To a lot of citizens of Greenbelt, you know who you are, closing the Co-op is like closing Floyd's Barber Shop in Mayberry. It was a nice place to start or end your day with a cup of coffee and some small talk amongst friends, but now we can just drive by and remember the times we had. To the people who did not think it was worth the effort to keep the old place going, please remember the old phrase of "You don't know what you've got till it's gone."

Thanks

As President of the Woodland Hills homeowners' association, I wish to express appreciation to the City Council and staff for initiating the speed hump experiment on Northway Road, and demonstrating their willingness to try something different. For several years, we have expressed to the Council our community's concern about speeding on Northway. Almost all residents have seen people - especially children - crossing the street, walking, or riding their bikes, almost hit by vehicles. Five cars have been struck in one area by others that have been going too fast to successfully negotiate the narrow, curved roadway; three of the struck cars belonged to one family!

The City staff analyzed various speed control measures in great detail, presenting reports to the Council. After considerable debate and listening to those who might be impacted, the Council decided to test speed humps. So far, the response of the residents has been very positive.

We recognize that the speed humps are an inconvenience to those who have to travel on Northway. Even though the majority of people using the street did not speed, something needed to be done to restrain the minority whose thoughtlessness endangered everyone. One especially attractive feature is that speed humps cost less than other alternatives - police diverted from other activities or installation of sidewalks where terrain would be difficult. Furthermore, other alternatives would only have had a limited impact on speed.

The speed humps will be evaluated after a trial period. Woodland Hills will continue to work with the city to develop the inner trails system, which will help take the pedestrians off the street.

Mark J. Davis

Spooky Time

A great big "Thank You" to the Committee to Save the Green Belt for its fabulous Halloween activity on Northway extended last weekend. The pumpkins were delightful, the monsters stirring and the treats delicious. It was so great we took the "walking tour" several times. Our grandchildren Randy and Wesley really enjoyed it, and were less scared than their grandparents! We all really appreciated your hard work and your own obvious enjoyment.

Henrietta Haslinger

Henrietta P. Haslinger, 11 Ct. Ridge Rd., died at her home on October 16, surrounded by her children. Mrs. Haslinger, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., and her husband, Joseph T. Haslinger, moved to Greenbelt in July 1942, when Mr. Haslinger, a naval officer was assigned to the U.S. Navy Dept.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Haslinger founded and directed a school of dance and elocution in New York and was also employed as an assistant to the principal of St. Bridget's School in Brooklyn.

After her marriage in 1934, she traveled extensively with her husband and children on his various naval assignments.

Mrs. Haslinger's first priority was the nurturing of her ten children, but she was also actively involved in various community organizations, especially at St. Hugh's Catholic Church. In addition to serving as president of the Sodality and annual retreat director, she was a member of the parish council and the Ladies of Charity. In 1980, she graduated from the Education for Parish Service Program at Trinity College in Washington, D.C.

She was preceded in death by her husband and a son, the Rev. Joseph T. Haslinger. She is survived by children Henrietta M. Bradley, Robert H., John P., Nancy L., Henry D. and Thomas R. GHI Board Agrees to Reduce Required Working Capital Fee

by James Giese

At the well-attended October 6 board meeting, the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) board of directors agreed to temporarily reduce the working capital fee required of new members in order to encourage home resales. The board also approved the installation of a new above-ground gasoline tank at its maintenance facility, approved a contract for frame home roof replacement, amended the personnel policy on health benefits and OK'd the creation of a separate maintenance reserve for additions. It also reviewed the second budget presentation and disposed of two member requests, approving one and denying the other. Director Vonda Henry was absent from the meeting and Director John O'Boyle left early.

Working Capital

The Resales Issue Committee, Leonard Wallace Acting Chair, recommended to the board that the requirement for new members to contribute to the working capital fund be reduced from 3% to 1.5% of a GHI home's purchase price for one year. Nat Shinderman represented the committee at the meeting. He told the board that while the committee intends to do a comprehensive review of the problems of resales, this could take some time. The committee felt that reducing the amount of working capital required was something that could be done right away to help resales and should not wait for a final committee report.

Shinderman called the recommended reduction in working capital, estimated at $33,800, to have negligible impact on GHI. The corporation would lose interest earnings on the funds it would not be paid if the proposed policy is adopted. However, for a new member closing costs would be reduced by about $750.

O'Boyle moved to go farther than the committee's recommendation and reduce the working capital requirements from 3% to 1% for one year after which the board would review the matter again. This motion would reduce the working capital by about $55,000 and closing costs by about $1,000.

When Director Carole Levin questioned the committee's decision to make a separate recommendation on this rather than looking at the entire problem first, Shinderman responded that it would take the committee eight to 12 months to complete its study. "The problem is now," he said. "Therefore our recommendation is now."

The working capital was set up to provide GHI with a cushion of funds on hand when the cooperative was first created. Originally, its establishment was important to the cooperative's success. It amounted to $185,000 according to Shinderman. Now it amounts to $1,600,000. Director Alan Turnbull wondered if the working capital fund was not an anachronism that should simply be phased out.

Shinderman responded that working capital is used to pay for three months of taxes due in September even though the portion of member fees allocated for the tax payment for the last three months of the year were still not paid. It has also been used to make loans to GHI's subsidiary corporation, GDC, with the interest paid by GDC being used to reduce member monthly fees. "It is also a super reserve for any other need that might occur," he told the board. "It precludes the need for us to go to a bank and borrow."

Director Wayne Williams agreed that the working capital fund had been used for some "high-ticket" items. He was concerned that other efforts to reduce sales costs had only resulted in asking sales prices going up a like amount. Williams preferred to reduce the working capital by only 1% at this time, but his motion to that effect failed to receive a second. O'Boyle's motion was then adopted with Williams casting the only dissenting vote.

Gasoline Tank

At the last meeting, the Board did not go along with a staff recommendation to purchase an above ground gasoline storage tank to replace an underground one that has to be removed for environmental reasons. Instead, the board had asked management to look into buying gasoline at a discount price from a local service station.

Staff reported that Co-op has announced the closing of its service station. The other station near GHI would not give a discount because the quantities GHI would purchase were not sufficient. The price difference for gas at that station and for bulk gas delivered to a GHI tank is 18 cents a gallon. In any event, GHI would need some kind of a tank for its small equipment pieces which need to be filled once or twice daily. Director William Phelan moved the staff recommendation to purchase a tank and the board unanimously adopted the motion without further discussion.

Frame Roofs

The board also quickly approved a contract to have Browne and Merry Construction Company replace 36 frame home roofs at a cost of $1,749 per roof, plus the roof of one addition. Originally planned to be done with existing staff and summer help, the work couldn't be accomplished because of the shortage of summer help and new safety requirements that would require buying new equipment.

This work can be done by the end of the year and more work added to the contract for the new year. Director of Technical Services Jay Freedman noted that a small overhang would be added to each replaced roof. This will prevent clogged drains from overflowing down the sides of the homes where water damage can occur. Instead the water will fall to the ground if the gutter overflows.

GHI Owned Homes

GHI owns two homes as a result of member delinquencies. Efforts to sell them have failed so far. General Manager Gretchen Overdurff proposed two options to the board to deal with the problem. One is to list the homes with a realtor after taking proposals from various interested realtors. This would have the advantage of the homes being multiple listed. The other option is to rent the homes for a while with options to purchase. Overdurff noted that there are now 115 GHI homes on the market

Phelan asked about the possibility of GHI assisting in the financing of these homes. Overdurff didn't think the bylaws would permit that. Phelan suggested amending the bylaws. Former boardmember Betty Deitch reiterated her complaint of last June that the appearance of the yard of a neighboring home was affecting the sale of one home and asked why nothing had been done to correct the situation.

Turnbull opposed renting the home because GHI is a member owned co-op but felt that a realtor should be used right away. He moved to proceed with management's first option. He also asked staff to look at the standards for neighborhood yards. However his motion was tabled by a five to two vote. Levin who made the motion to table, felt that staff should first look into the possibility of offering financing to the purchaser. Williams then expressed his interest in allowing leasing, noting that GHI used to lease homes and gave preference to GHI employees in doing so.

Member Fences

The board OK'd the member at 8-A Plateau replacing an overly long privacy fence with a new basket weave screen that, while shorter, would still be longer than normally permitted. It also approved placing the screen next to an existing chain link fence, contrary to regulations.

The board denied the neighbors' request at 8-C to repaint their fence silver to match the original metallic color. The regulations permit only three colors that are used for vinyl coated fencing—green, brown and black. The member present told the board that color preference is in the eye of the beholder, and he and his wife like silver. Phelan felt the member should be able to maintain the fence in the same metallic color but he was supported only by Director Donald Comis. A motion made by Levin to deny the request carried five to two.

Turnbull then moved that the board consider for approval a color close to the original fence color which he felt was not silver. James Maher of the Architectural and Esthetics Committee (A & E) advised that the committee had considered a smoky gray." O'Boyle suggested "gun metal."

Williams moved to table the motion which carried six to two with Freas voting with the majority in order to obtain the two-third majority vote required by the bylaws. Maher said the A & E is looking into whether there

Other Actions

A statement of the charge for the Legislative Committee was approved without discussion. The personnel policy was amended to reflect the decision made at the last meeting that GHI employees will pay a part of the premium for health benefits. The amount paid by each employee will be determined by the board with the board giving 90 days notice of any change prior to a plan renewal.

A handbill left at a realtor's office and the GHI drop box declaring that GHI and the police sanctioned a crack house in Greenbelt and other illegal activity drew a motion declaring GHI does not approve such activities and has faith in the police department, and that any member found involved with the flyer can face a termination of mutual ownership contract hearing. It passed with two negative votes. Turnbull felt the action gave credit to a "pathetic little punk," and Comus felt the action was hasty with more facts needed.

The board approved a separate maintenance reserve for those members with additions who voluntarily decide to include the maintenance of their additions with GHI. Sinner said that this would satisfy those who contribute to the reserve that they are not having their money used for other purposes and those who don't pay that the people with additions are paying enough. Levin moved the staff recommendation and added that management attempt to ascertain what the needs for the additions in the program will be. The motion carried with Williams objecting to it because he felt it would create another class of GHI member.

Recycling at Work

Recycling in Greenbelt is very convenient. Recycling at the office might be a different story. But there are plenty of things one person can do to encourage waste reduction and recycling. For example, bring a coffee mug to work so paper/styrofoam cups aren't needed, make double sided copies so less paper is needed, rethink the numbers of same-issue periodicals that the office receives, use E-mail for inter-office messages, and route items to office mates instead of making lots of copies. Work with your office manager about starting a "mixed paper" recycling program. Many offices are already recycling white office paper through their refuse hauler. Business recycling accounts for over half the tonnages in the County. For more information about business recycling in Prince Georges County, call Joe Sedlock at 883-5952.

Pamphlet Clarifies Hospital Medical Bills

Sorting out medical bills after a hospital stay is the subject of a new consumer publication prepared by the office of Maryland Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. The brochure is the 10th publication in a continuing consumer education series entitled 'I'll Buy That!'

"My office receives many complaints from consumers who assume they're being billed twice for the same service such as an x-ray because they've received two bills," Curran says "But most of the time they're actually being billed for different services — those provided by the specialist and those provided by the hospital."

Funded by a grant from the Morris A. Mechanic Foundation, Inc., the 6-page brochure explains separate billing as it is usually practiced by four medical specialists: emergency room doctors, radiologists, anesthesiologists and pathologists.

The publication also suggests eight steps consumers can take to identify and solve medical billing problems, and explains the difference between participation and assignment with Medicare or other insurers.

Consumers can order a single copy of the pamphlet by sending a self-addressed, business-size envelope with $.29 postage to: I'll Buy That #10, Consumer Protection Division, 200 St. Paul Place, 16th floor, Baltimore, MD 21202.

Organizations interested in receiving a bulk quantity for distribution should call the Division at (410) 576-6500.

Spotlight on the Arts

by Jean Turkiewicz

On Friday October 21, the Arts Center will sponsor an "Evening with Friends," a celebration of the Arts and community. The evening will include interviews with Mary Linstrom, outstanding citizen for 1994, Mondo Greenbelt editor, Bill Cornett, and the Pugliese family, whose members are involved with both recreation and the arts in Greenbelt. Performers will be Laura Doyle, Bill Stanley, Melody Bowles, and Sixx, a group of talented 14 and 15 year olds. There will be videos of community events and door prizes.

The following evening, Saturday, October 22, the Arts Center will present the Machaya Klezmer Band at 8 p.m. Klezmer music is lively Jewish dance music. The instruments include accordion, keyboard, violin, clarinet and Greenbelter Brian Choper on drums. This is a good chance to learn a dance or just enjoy the music.

October performances conclude on October 28, 29, and 30 with a weekend of "War of the Worlds," adapted from the H.G. Wells novel, written and directed by Steve Blais.

Looking ahead, November 5 marks the return of "A Celtic Evening." This popular event was a sellout last year.

Auditions for the plays for this year's annual Festival of Lights productions will be October 23 at 2 p.m. and October 24 at 7 p.m. One of the one act plays is "Stubby Pringle's Christmas" an original play by Katherine Prieto (she wrote and directed Alice in Wonderland). The cast needed is nine adults. Children will be cast in the other one act play.

Hearing

The Metrorail maintenance yard and Capital Office Park are located east of Site A, the Beltsville Industrial Park to the north, the National Agricultural Library is to the west and private residences to the southwest. The Beltway is south of the proposed site.

The EIS found this site to be well served by both roads and public transportation, with reasonable access to utilities. The proposed use, USDA found, is consistent with nearby land uses. On the negative side, the EIS noted that development would increase traffic congestion in the area, requiring mitigation, and would result in the loss of open space. Storm water drainage could be a constraining design factor, according to the study.

Site B

Site B is 120 acres east of the Baltimore Washington Parkway, southeast of the intersection of Powder Mill and Soil Conservation Roads. No private residences or commercial properties are adjacent to this site. It is the furthest of the three from the Metro station and is not currently served by Metrobus. Utilities are not reasonably accessible, according to the EIS and development would not be consistent with existing local land uses and would result in the loss of open space.

Site D

The final site is 94 acres in the western portion of BARC southeast of the intersection of Edmonston and Beaver Dam Roads. Nearby are private residences along Edmonston Road and Rosedale Lane, some BARC buildings, undeveloped woodlands and BARC cropland. The study found it the most accessible to public transportation. Currently it is served by Metrobus and is the closest site by road to the Metro station. Development would require mitigation of the increased traffic congestion and result in loss of open space. The view from nearby residences in the direction of Edmonston Road would change from agricultural fields to the office complex. Utilities are reasonably accessible, the study found.

Traffic Impact

Greenbelt's Director of Planning and Community Development Celia Wilson told council that the EIS assumes that all road improvements in the master plan will be implemented. (Council is on record as opposing a major component of this plan—the widening of Edmonston Road to four lanes.) She noted that the federal government is not required to mitigate the excess traffic created by development, as are private developers.

Without the USDA development, Wilson said, the level of service at the intersection of Sunnyside and Edmonston Roads is already at E+ (unacceptable) level of service and would get significantly worse with construction of the office complex.

Councilmember Thomas White also noted that Sites A and D would also be "right in the midst" of Indian Creek. Councilmember Rodney Roberts voiced concern that the federal government would not limit itself to building on just 30 acres of the 100 acre sites.

Hearing Arrangements

The hearing will begin at 7 p.m. on Thursday, October 27 in the BARC Auditorium, Building 3, 10300 Baltimore Avenue. Speakers will be limited to 10 minutes each. Written comments may be submitted until October 27 to Michael V. Sazonov, Contracting Officer Technical Representative, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Office of Operations, Washington Area Service Center, South Building, Room S-313, 14th and Independence Avenue SW, Washington, D.C. 20250. For information call (202) 720-2804.

Copies of the full EIS are available at the Beltsville, Greenbelt and College Park libraries and upon request from the address above.

City Notes

Wildflowers planted around the deer statue at Schrom Hills Park were trimmed to ground level per city council request.

Horticulturist Crewman Brian Townsend completed a training session on tree climbing and safety.

Three speed humps were installed as approved by council, on Northway and painted with identifying stripes. Warning signs have been installed. A traffic island for a stop sign at Woodland Way was completed.

Improvements to the police department gun range are continuing. Footers and foundations are being constructed for erection of the range control tower.

Traffic counters were serviced and relocated for the continuing survey of the effects that the Northway speed humps may have on neighborhood traffic patterns.

The backyard composting demonstration on October 8 was attended by 25 Greenbelters. Dick Briggs won a gift certificate donated by Hechingers. Nine households requested free wood pallets for construction of compost bins.

Over 2,000 pounds of telephone books were picked up.

Office Park

A major source of disagreement between the owners and the city is over the interpretation of the county's adequate public facilities ordinance. The city wants the developer to contribute to the cost of funding an additional police officer for each building permitted. The full costs of salary, equipment, benefits and training would be the responsibility of the developer at the time the building permit is issued. This requirement would decrease by 20% per year until the contribution is completely phased out.

Slepicka stated that her client "is not interested" in entering into such an agreement with the city. In her opinion, the county's adequate public facilities does not impose such broad responsibilities on developers.

In a written report, Wilson noted that in 1992 when the city first sought to make the office park responsible for the costs of additional police officers, the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission "failed to support the city," ruling that the requirements relate only to physical facilities not to staffing resources.

Bike Lanes

The city also seeks to have bike lanes installed, along with two full lanes of traffic in each direction for the length of the property. Here Slepicka partially agreed. Her client agrees to forego street parking for the development. However, the client can not agree to widen the existing road to create full width bike lanes in addition to two travel lanes in each direction. If this were done, Slepicka noted, it would create a curb line that would "jog in" at the intersection with Ivy Lane, then jog back out near the bridge over the beltway. She estimated that such a bike lane would be just 300 to 400 feet long. This, she said, does not make sense.

The office park could grant the city sign plan review for monument signs, but feared that unnecessary delays would occur if building signs were subjected to this requirement.

Council made few changes to the conditions recommended by staff and the Advisory Planning Board. The changes included removing a condition that Wilson agreed was no longer applicable; and replacing a request for city trails on the outlot with a request to be made a partner, if feasible to the conservation easement. If such conditions were not agreed to by the applicant, council recommended that the county disapprove the application. The motion passed on a 4-1 vote with Councilmember Rodney Roberts opposed. Roberts objected to the amount of office space proposed. His colleagues noted that the proposal is consistent with the approved concept plan for the park.

Drug Bust at Holiday Inn

Thirty thousand dollars in cash, a quantity of suspected marijuana and other drugs, and drug paraphernalia were seized from a hotel room at the Greenbelt Holiday Inn on Tuesday, Oct. 11. Five individuals, most from western states, were arrested on various drug distribution-related charges, according to Greenbelt Police.

Officers went to the hotel shortly after 2 p.m. after receiving reports of the smell of burning marijuana coming from one of the rooms. After speaking to the room occupants, officers seized about 400 grams (over three-quarters of a pound) of marijuana. They also seized a quantity of suspected valium and suspected clonazepam, a valium-like drug, in addition to cash, a measuring scale, and other paraphernalia commonly used to package marijuana.

Police estimated the street value (pending confirmation of its identity) of the seized suspected marijuana at about $4,000. No estimate was available for the other suspected drugs.

All five persons arrested were charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, a felony with a maximum penalty of 25 years. The suspects, were also charged with possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia.

One suspect was also charged with keeping a house that distributes controlled dangerous substances, a misdemeanor which carries a 2-year maximum sentence and a possible maximum fine of $100,000. She is being held on $15,000 bond pending trial. The other suspects are being held on $10,000 bond.

Police Department spokesperson George Mathews said that the suspects had been following a concert tour of the Grateful Dead, who were playing at US-Air Arena, (formerly the Capital Centre) in Landover Oct. 9-11. A ticket to the concert was among the evidence seized.

Commenting on the circumstances which led to the arrests, Mathews said, "They made it easy for us."

That's Real Cooperation!

by Linda Savaryn

When Bill Quigley was hired by the Co-op Supermarket last November to perform parcel pickup, he had no idea it would change his life. Neither did Marlene Powers, who was hired as a cashier a week later. But soon the two introduced themselves, and the friendship that began with going on breaks together and sharing lockers and rides home grew into something more serious. In February they became engaged, and four months later they were married.

Marlene said she had never thought she was going to meet her future husband at the Co-op. But she liked Bill's smile and thought he would be nice to meet.

The couple were married on June 25 at Grace Brethren Church in Lanham with the Rev. Ron Carnevali performing the double-ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her friend, Kenneth Aaby. Matron of honor was Edna Pike. Bridesmaids were Linda Smith (from Vermont) and Deborah Powers, with Randi Henri as flower girl. Sandy King was greeter and book attendant.

Don Quigley, the groom's father, was best man. Ushers were Casey King and Jeremy Thomas, with Travis Brown as ring bearer.

The couple honeymooned at Deep Creek Lake, after a reception at the home of Don and Eleanor Quigley, parents of the groom. The bride is the daughter of the late Mary and Joseph Francis Powers.

Dels. Pitkin & Conroy Honored as Leaders

Delegates Joan Pitkin and Mary Conroy have been honored by Women United To Prevent Violence Against Women with its leadership award. The award was presented at the organization's first annual banquet held October 2 at Martin's Crosswinds.

Del. Pitkin was the author of the Domestic Violence Medical Response Act which was signed into law this year. The law establishes a pilot program in three hospitals to train hospital personnel to better identify, treat, and refer victims of domestic violence. One of the primary aims of the legislation is to bring victims of family violence into contact with resources such as shelters, social services, legal assistance and support groups that exist in their communities. Delegate Conroy was honored for her actions in co-sponsoring several bills on the subject.

The Maryland Food Committee was founded by leaders in the religious community and relies heavily on support from churches throughout the state. Help is urgently needed. Maryland Food Committee volunteers will be calling for pledges in October. For more information call Gail Lee at (410) 366-0600.

Greenbelt Edges Out Beltsville Team 15-12

by Jeff Keir

In a remarkable head-to-head duel, the Greenbelt Boys & Girls Club's 85 lb. division football team defeated Beltsville 15-12. The win elevates Greenbelt to sole possession of first place. The two teams had previously shared the honor, each going into the game with three wins and no losses.

Said Head Coach Robert Green, "This was one of the toughest games of the season, and it went down to the wire."

An outstanding performance by record-setting Alonzo "Pancho" Corbett helped to put Greenbelt over the top. He kicked a 2-point conversion and threw a 50-yard touchdown pass—to the quarterback! (Matt Gregory)

Solid performances from other Greenbelt players were also instrumental in the team effort. These include the running of Delante Morgan, Phillip Raynor, Vincent Osbourne, and Victor Akinyanju, as well as the offensive and defensive playing of Jamel Hobson, Ryan Hyde, Michael Proctor, Michael Reynolds, Chris Schwartz, Patrick Weston, Marcus Paxton, Michael Sike, Paul Carey, Kent Tate, and Anthony Tiger-Brown.

"I did not expect an easy game from two first-place teams," said Green. "It was a battle of fundamentals, and the Beltsville coaching staff did a superior job of filming and scouting us. But with outstanding coaching from Judy Harris and Bridgett Osbourne, we kept the team focus, and we pulled the game out."

The Greenbelt 85-lb. team has now defeated College Park, Bladensburg, and Laurel, in addition to Beltsville.

For further information regarding upcoming games for all Greenbelt Boys & Girls Club teams, call the 24-hour Sports Information Line at 202-310-1066.

ing along Parkway. All of the options would require some reduction in the width of the green space between the road and the buildings. The options expand the number of spaces by 32 - 79 spaces by replacing some or most of the existing parallel parking places with 45, 60 or 90 degree parking. Two of the options would lessen the loss of grassy area by limiting traffic to one direction only. The Advisory Planning Board has reviewed the proposals and recommended the plan creating the most parking, which also retains two-way traffic.

This is also the most expensive, involving the greatest loss of grassy area and requiring the movement of a number of utility poles. Hirsch expects, however, that any of the options could be completed with the available Community Development Block Grant funds.

Council directed the city staff to mark the new curb lines from the four options in some manner (paint, flags, etc.) for council and citizen information. In addition, council plans a work session with Greenbelt Homes, Inc. and other Parkway property owners.

Mexican Restaurants

Council heard of upcoming changes in the status of three local restaurants. During the first week of October the El Torito's restaurant in Greenway Center was closed. The Chi Chi's chain has acquired all El Torito restaurants nationwide.

The Greenway Center restaurant had an improperly functioning heating/air conditioning system and a roof that leaked "severely," according to attorney Linda Carter. As a result Chi Chi's closed the restaurant so that repairs and renovations into the Chi Chi's format could begin. She expects the restaurant to reopen in early December. The county liquor board will review the transfer of the El Torito's license to Chi Chi's at its October 27 meeting. Council took no position on this transfer.

There is already a Chi Chi's restaurant in Greenbelt, opposite the Giant on Cherrywood Lane. Carter said that the company is negotiating to bring a different restaurant operation into that location. For a short time, both facilities could be operating as Chi Chi's restaurants.

Also on the October 27 liquor board agenda is Chevy's application for a BLX (luxury restaurant) liquor license. Council voted 4-1, with Councilmember Rodney Roberts opposed, to support this application. Roberts objected to the serving of liquor at this location, noting that there are already many restaurants in the city at which people can have a drink with their dinner. His colleagues, however, noted that PepsiCo brought in the more expensive Chevy's operation in response to council's objections to the "All In One" restaurant that the company first proposed.

Chevy's will occupy the former Kangaroo Katie's location in Greenway Center. Carter said that the food offered at Chi Chi's and Chevy's is sufficiently different that the company did not expect the presence of two Mexican restaurants in the same shopping center to be a problem. She also noted that it is not uncommon for restaurants to cluster in what are becoming known as "restaurant parks."

Convalescent Center

Council deferred action on a proposed site plan for expansion of the Greenbelt Convalescent Center. The owners want to add a 3500 square foot physical therapy suite and a 2,500 foot dining room in order to upgrade and modernize the thirty year old facility. Although council delayed a decision until the October 24 regular meeting in order to allow city staff to review recent changes to the plan, the members indicated that approval was likely to be quickly granted at the next meeting.

Attorney Richard Reed said that the improvements were designed to serve residents, not outpatients. Currently, residents must eat either in their rooms or in the lobby area. The physical therapy facilities are also inadequate for current needs. The additions will be one story structures, he said, and below the roof line of the existing structure.

Route 201/US 1 Study

Council unanimously confirmed its longstanding opposition to widening Maryland 201 (Kenilworth Avenue/Edmonston Road) north of Greenbelt. The State Highway Administration is currently studying options for improving the Route 201/US 1 corridor.
