Greenbelters Remember V-J Day

by James Giese

On Tuesday, August 14, 1945, the Japanese accepted the Allies' surrender terms. President Harry S Truman announced the unconditional surrender to the White House correspondents at 7 p.m. A short time later, Emperor Hirohito broke precedent by making his first radio broadcast in order to announce the surrender to the Japanese people. The formal surrender however, did not occur until September 2 aboard the battleship U.S.S. Missouri anchored in Tokyo Bay.

Truman later recalled the evening he announced the end of the war: "The correspondents shouted congratulations as they rushed out the doors to flash the word to their papers. Mrs. Truman and I went out to the fountain on the north lawn. A vast crowd had assembled outside the gates, and when I made a V sign in the manner of Churchill, a great cheer went up..."

"This was a most significant and dramatic moment, and I felt deeply moved by the excitement, perhaps as much as were the crowds that were celebrating in cities and towns all over the nation..."

"The guns were silenced. The war was over..."

Greenbelt Celebrates

Seconds after the 7 o'clock news flash, according to the Greenbelt Cooperator, the town air raid siren blared the tidings all the way to the North End. Automobile horns honked, tin cans clattered and pots and pans were banged as residents streamed down to the Center to make a joyful noise over the victory in the Pacific.

The Community Band arrived on the scene in double-quick time and, together with the Boy Scouts, formed a nucleus for the celebration, playing "The Stars and Stripes Forever" and other stirring marches while the crowd whooped and cheered them on. The group formed into a parade which eventually made its way up to the other end of town. Committee meetings were cancelled in favor of spur-of-themoment parties, impromptu dancing in the streets, and dashing off to Washington to join the general rejoicing there.

One group did work on V-J evening. A civic-minded committee of nine counted ballots that day which were cast in a town referendum on whether or not the Federal Public Housing Administration should lease space for a package liquor store. Ballots were sent by mail to residents over the age of 21. The committee worked until 11:30, while the noise of the celebrants blared outside. Of the 1439 votes cast, 309 were for the liquor store and 1106 were against it.

The next day was a holiday for many people. Greenbelt Consumer Services opened its stores only until noon. Picnic areas at the lake were crowded. In the morning the government announced the immediate lifting of gasoline rationing, a cause for further celebration. Federal workers were given a two-day bonus of time off from war duty.

One group who worked that Wednesday holiday was the staff of the newspaper. It went to press that evening. A late bulletin in it reported on a formal program held by the town that evening at the community auditorium in the elementary school. The program was sponsored by the American Legion, with Frank Riley directing. Mayor Allen D. Morrison presided at the meeting and was one of the speakers, as was Town Manager Gobbel.

Tributes were paid to the town servicemen and women and musical selections were offered by two soloists and the community band. It was estimated that 300 to 400 residents took part in the observances.

Greenbelt Consumer Services ran a quarter page ad that began, "After V-J Day a tired world will have peace. Will it be a lasting peace?" It advocated that men of the world must learn to cooperate and live together in peace or face destruction in another war. It concluded by urging, "Let's protect the peace by constant vigilance!"

Greenbelters Remember

A number of old time Greenbelters were asked their recollections of V-J Day, but most had difficulty recalling what they did on that joyous day. Kathleen Scott McFarland of Fayette Place who then lived at 7-K Crescent Rd. says that she grabbed pots and pans and took her clarinet and ran up and down the street banging and tooting. Although McFarland does not recall it, her sister, Joanne Scott Kennedy, now of Williamsburg, says that she was with her. She does not recall going to the center, parading with the band, although she was a member, or participating in the formal observance. She was going to Strayer Junior College at the time and does recall being downtown when a daytime parade was held in which General Dwight D. Eisenhower participated.

Sherry Brubaker of 6 Court Ridge remembers that she did not participate in the celebration. She was doing laundry at 48 Crescent when she heard the news. She had a baby to care for at the time and could not leave the apartment. Evelyn Barcus of the 2 Court of Gardenway also could not remember the celebration. Her husband, Walsh, had been injured in the war and had returned home in March, 1945. At the time, the couple had two children, Carol and Michael.

Joyce Bates Mangum, also of the 13 Court Ridge, had just graduated from high school in the spring of 1945 and had obtained her first job working for the Veteran's Administration, but she couldn't remember V-J Day. Lossie Thurston Falter of Greenbriar remembers hearing an announcement of the Japanese surrender as she was coming down the escalator at the Woodward and Lothrop Department Store in Washington, but she also can not remember the celebration. Dale Jernberg of Glenn Dale was then living in Greenbelt. He had been discharged from the Navy in June and was getting ready to go to George Washington University in the fall. He also does not remember V-J Day.

Former Greenbelt Elizabeth Goldfaden of Lake Worth, Florida has a better recollection. "Ben and I went down to Washington and celebrated in the streets. There

Restored Deer Returns To Schrom Hills Park

by Dorothy Sucher

The sad tale of the deer that lost its head has had a happy ending.

The 8 foot stainless steel statue of a stag, gift of the sculptor, Richard Zandler, had stood for about five years in Schrom Hills Park and was a symbol of Greenbelt East. Located opposite the entrance to Hunting Ridge and visible from Hanover Parkway, the deer was a popular landmark. Children loved it, and every Christmas it was anonymously decorated with a red nose and a big red bow.

Beheaded by Vandals

But early this year the deer was decapitated by vandals. According to Deputy City Manager Michael McLaughlin, "We didn't have any idea where it was or any hope of finding it." For months the whereabouts of the head remained unknown.

In June, an open letter to Mayor Antoinette "Toni" Bram from Mary Lou McCarthy, a military wife and three-year resident of Greenbelt East, appeared in the Letters to the Editor column of the Greenbelt News Review, pleading for the recovery of the deer. Her children, Patrick, 9 and Helen, 6, also sent illustrated "Get Well" letters to the deer that said, "We miss you very much and hate you to be in such a mess." According to city officials, however, estimates for the repair or replacement of the deer ranged from $8,000 to $24,000.

Head Found in June

Coincidentally, that very week the Greenbelt Police Department responded to a call from the Woodstream swimming pool in Lanham. In April, the head of a deer made of stainless steel wire had been found at the bottom of the pool when it was drained for cleaning. Two months elapsed before anyone made the connection with the damaged statue in Schrom Hills Park.

This good news was soon offset by the estimate of $7,000 the City received to reunite the head and body of the deer—a price that struck Councilmember Rodney Roberts as excessive, especially in an era of tight budgets. Roberts, a mechanic and welder who says, "I enjoy doing strange jobs—one of a kind things," volunteered to tackle the repairs himself, free of charge.

Roberts Replaces Head

The deer and the head were trucked to Gaithersburg, where Roberts works. "I borrowed a Tig welder," he informed the News Review. "It can put a lot of heat in a very small area, to do a finer weld. It's especially good on aluminum and stainless steel. I wanted the joint to be as invisible as possible."

Not only did Roberts replace the

Letters to the Editor

Please Help

Every year the City suffers damage to park fixtures, grounds and landscaping. Generally the damage done is minor and not deliberate. This year, however, in the Windsor Green section of town many plants have been stolen from landscaped areas. On Mandan Road 85 large hybrid zinnia plants were taken. The replacement cost of these plants is more than $300. Unfortunately, the damage is even greater than just the replacement cost because they are not available locally in these sizes and the flowerbeds are damaged for the entire season as a result.

The City would appreciate your help. Please report these thefts and any other vandalism to City property to the Greenbelt Police at 474-7200.

Not Misguided

I applaud the recent GHI yard inspection efforts. It indicates that the GHI board of directors, general manager and staff are responsible and attentive to the original intent and purpose of cooperative living, which is unique and historically different than just any other community or subdivision.

A cooperative is a socially dynamic, interactive and democratic structure. It functions best when all members are involved and contributing in many ways in various degrees of participation. I'm grateful for any and all effort to improve the appearance and cohesion of our cooperative.

Bob Snyder

Complaints

This letter is in response to the anonymous "Misguided Campaign" letter of August 10 regarding GHI's yard and exterior home inspections.

This year's inspections are only different from last year's with regard to compliance. The items being inspected and the criteria used for inspection are, for the most part, the same as last year. The only change is that all members who do not completely meet the GHI Greenbook standards will be cited instead of the worst 15%, which was previous policy.

These inspection standards have been in effect for years and the board has received few complaints about them. Instead, the board has regularly received complaints that we are not enforcing these standards. This led the board to work with management to begin to enforce these standards uniformly throughout GHI beginning this summer. With any new way of doing business some mistakes may be made along the way and aspects of the program may have to be modified to improve the process next year.

It is not the intention of GHI's board or management to impose standards on members that are not acceptable to the majority. I say majority here because we live in a cooperative. This means that we often have to put the benefit of GHI and the community as a whole before the rights of individual members. If you feel that the yard and exterior home standards are unreasonable and/or that the inspection process should be changed, then you should make your opinions known in a constructive way to the GHI Board of Directors. The board has established these inspection standards and if they are inappropriate for the majority the board is responsible for changing them. However without knowing who you are, or the specific nature of the complaint, there is nothing constructive that anyone can do.

Carole Levin

Joins Protest

I join in protest against the yard inspection campaign. The inspectors want to take off one side of my blue spruce tree because it projects over a secondary sidewalk. This spruce is a lovely tree and an asset to our court. Its boughs with their blue needles spiral down to the ground, forming a perfect cone. It houses assorted birds during nesting season and is a year round look-out for a mocking bird.

Top off one side of this "pine tree" (that's what the inspectors called it) is to destroy its symmetry, which is its beauty. No matter that it is aesthetically appealing- it must be hacked back. Once cut, the limbs will never grow back.

For shame, GHI. There will be no "curb appeal" if you mess up my tree. I invite you other "GHIs" to come to 56 court Ridge and decide for yourselves.

Jeanne Whitney

Overdue Campaign

The anonymous author of the August 10 letter regarding yard inspections does not represent the opinions of many Greenbelters. Residents are tired of the eyesores and declining property values that accompany neglected neighborhoods.

GHI has been on the extreme end of liberal rules enforcement. Most homeowner's associations and condo groups are far more strict in dealing with uncooperative members. The current GHI conditions would not be tolerated in other areas. The number of citations are a result of languid owners, not overzealous inspectors.

I applaud 'Overworked Overdurff' and her attempts to improve this community. I also commend Joyce Abell and the Resale Issues Committee for their work on the inspection program. We are members in a cooperative, and we must all work together to improve our community.

Celebrate Women's Right to Vote

On Saturday, August 26 in commemoration of the 75th anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amendment granting women the right to vote, the National Archives will host a free family event on the Constitution Avenue steps. The program will include patriotic music, songs of the suffragists, the U.S. Armed Forces Color Guard, and dramatic readings highlighting the debate for women's suffrage. Featured speakers will include television and radio correspondent Cokie Roberts and former Congresswoman Barbara Jordan. The free program begins at 10:00 A.M. on the Constitution Avenue steps between 7th and 9th Streets, NW.

Visitors are also invited to see the original 19th Amendment, which will be on display from Thursday, August 24 through Monday, September 4, in the National Archives Rotunda. The Rotunda is open from 10 to 9 daily. Throughout 1995, the National Archives will salute the civic contributions made by women with public programs in Washington, DC and nationwide. For recorded information about current public programs, call (202) 501-5000.

GEAC Meeting Discusses CCIH

by Beth Alegret

On August 3 the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee decided to postpone its formal position on the development of Commerce Center III until developers Jim Herl and Daniel Colton of Ora Glen L.L.C. meet with City Council on August 14. The purpose of the meeting with Herl and Colton is to schedule a date for the council to vote on the development plan for building three restaurants, which would require a modification to the current zoning. Attending the GEAC meeting, Mayor Toni Bram said that if GEAC votes against the restaurant plan, Council may not even meet with them.

Sensitive to the adverse effects that building three restaurants in lieu of the current zoning for a 106,000 sq. ft. office building would bear on Windsor Green, some GEAC members were not prepared to take a position prior to Windsor Green's formal statement.

Sheldon Goldberg, president of Windsor Green's Board, recently met with residents and reported, "the vast majority of people who showed up were against the restaurants" and "voted unanimously against them." Herl has received letters of intent from three popular restaurants—Outback Steakhouse, Appleby's and Fuddrucker's. Windsor Green residents want the zoning to be upheld for numerous reasons, however, the added noise, traffic, and crowds at night and on the weekends are the most prevalent. Goldberg said that should the current zoning be maintained, an office building would not draw the large crowds and traffic at night. Herl, however, has assured Windsor Green residents that a mature tree line would be planted between the homes and the restaurants. But, residents are skeptical of the usefulness of the tree line. Additionally, Goldberg speculated that there may be enough illumination from the restaurants to light up the adjacent basketball court, encouraging night playing. In the past residents were disturbed when a light pole was nearby until it was subsequently removed. Now that Windsor Green has announced its decision, the boards will be prepared to vote in September.

Herl and Colton believe that the restaurant plan is a better use of the site, noting at a prior meeting that there is too much vacant office space in Greenbelt already and building another office building would not benefit the community or investors. Some GEAC members expressed dissatisfaction with the clarity of the plan saying that it has been modified several times. The latest plan may include two restaurants and a retail establishment. Several GEAC members said they have invited Herl and Colton to further explain the development plans to their neighbors, but they have received no replies. Bram said, "I think vagueness is part of their approach."

Code Variance

GEAC also discussed variances to the city housing and property maintenance code. In particular, Bram and Council Member Ed Putens decided that Section PM-303.3.1 of the code, which pertains to the removal of snow and ice, would have to be rewritten. As it is currently written, the code is too vague and can easily be misinterpreted.

An issue was also raised about Section PM-301.3.1 which in summary says that vacant structures shall be secured temporarily with exterior boards. Noting that homeowners do not want vacant adjacent homes boarded up, it was agreed that this code was also in need of clarification.

Six Mile Hike

Come on a six mile hike through Greenbelt Park on Sunday, August 20. Meet at the campground entrance at 10 a.m. A park ranger will guide people along the Bridle Trail which circles the western part of Greenbelt Park.

Labor Day Festival Art Show

Anyone living, working or attending school in Greenbelt is welcome to enter artwork in this year's Labor Day Festival Art Show. There is no entry fee and all entered work is hung, but everyone must pre-register to participate. A registration form is in this issue of the News Review. Children are especially encouraged to participate in their own show which accompanies the adult show. There are prizes in various categories for both shows. This is a great way to share your art work with your community. There will also be information at the show about upcoming arts programs at the Community Center this fall. Arts information will also be available at the Information Table staffed by the Greenbelt Arts Advisory Committee on Saturday of Labor Day weekend. For more information, call Barbara Simon, 474-2192.

Photography Exhibition and Competition

At this year's Photography Exhibition and Competition, awards will be given for the best prints in the following categories: landscapes and flowers; wildlife; animals and pets; people, adults or children (over three years); and Greenbelt babies (subjects should be three years and under). There is a special category for entries from young photographers (under 16). A maximum of three prints per person is accepted; frame size must not exceed 16 by 20 inches. Prints must be framed, wire attached and ready to hang. For Greenbelt babies bring your snapshot, unmounted; frames will be provided. There are no fees, no pre-registration necessary. Bring photos to the Youth Center from 6 to 8 p.m. on Friday, September 1. For more information contact Prospero Zavallos at 345-3770 evenings or weekends. A new feature of this year's exhibition is the display of the Maryland Professional Photographers Association Traveling Loan Collection.

Talent Show

The annual Talent Show affords Greenbelters an opportunity to show us their stuff. You don't have to be a professional, but the Festival is striving to put together a high quality production. The production will take place Saturday, September 2 from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Dancers, violinists, pianists, guitarists, singers, poets and comedians have taken to the stage for past Festival talent shows to perform for an audience of their friends, neighbors and visitors to the Festival. Last year's performers ranged in age from eight to 80 and produced a diverse, lively and entertaining program. Producers Patti Brothers (982-7147) and Konrad Herling (345-9365) are waiting to hear from you. There's still time—but it's going fast—to reserve your spot in this year's show.

Salute to American Workers

This year's Salute to American Workers will feature "Greenbelters at Work." The vehicle will be a photographic slide show, Friday evening, Sept. 1 at 9 p.m. The slide show will be a photographic history of Greenbelt's development and the role of labor and volunteer efforts in building America's first planned community. Building Greenbelt's original houses, as well as creating a lake, education, commercial, civic, religious and recreation facilities was an effort to provide much needed employment and to design a "newtown" plan for an affordable, complete community life. This year, the Festival will give a greater significance to this aspect of our lives in Greenbelt by showing these photographs, both at the Opening Night Ceremonies and also as part of the display at the Art and Photographic Exhibition. For more information contact Konrad Herling at 345-9369.

Craft Show

There's still time to sign up for the Labor Day Craft Show, sponsored by the Greenbelt Recreation Department, a first for this year's Labor Day Festival. Crafters will have the opportunity to display and sell their handmade arts and crafts on Saturday and Sunday of the Festival weekend. There's a small fee for a table in the show. Contact Julie McHale at the Greenbelt Recreation Department, 474-6878.

Publicity

If you can distribute or post a flyer about the Labor Day Festival in your community neighborhood or office, please contact Sandy or Ray Smith at 474-6127.

Army Band Performs

The United States Army Band-"The Army Blues" will perform on Sunday, August 20 at 7 p.m. at "Buddy" Attick Park. The public is invited to attend. In the case of inclement weather, the concert will be held at the Greenbelt Youth Center.

City Notes

Braden field sports facilities were upgraded. Football goal posts were installed and eight tons of sand were added to the volleyball court. Reconstruction, painting, and refurbishment of deteriorated Labor Day Festival booths continued.

A refuse collector was bitten by a dog during refuse collection rounds.

Pavement markings were repainted at Roosevelt Center parking lots, Ivy Lane, and Cherrywood Lane.

Work was done on landscaping plants throughout the city. Stone walls were erected and flowerbeds at the Greenbelt Cemetery.

Audition Days Set For MD Chorus

Come sing with the University of Maryland Chorus, directed by Paul Traver, during its spectacular 1995-96 Concert Season. Audition dates for members of the community are August 24, 25 and 26. Highlights of the season include: a fall performance of music by Brahms and Mendelssohn with guest organist William Neil (Memorial Chapel, UMCP); the National Symphony Orchestra's annual Messiah series in December (The Kennedy Center); a choral double-bill—Mendelssohn's Lobgesang and Schönberg's Kol Nidre with the American Symphony Orchestra in January (Lincoln Center, NYC); and performances of the Berlioz Requiem with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra conducted by David Zinman in April (Joseph Meyerhoff Symphony Hall). Got Room to Spare?

Each new academic semester thousands of international students arrive in Washington to study at local universities. These undergraduate and graduate students need a place to live.

Anyone who has a spare room in a house or apartment and would like to rent it to an international student on a long or short-term basis or in exchange for rent or service, such as childcare, may list those accommodations with the Foreign Student Council. This is a unique opportunity to help an international student and participate in a worthwhile cultural exchange. Housing in Northwest Washington and nearby suburbs is particularly needed.

First Deliverance/Revival in the Washington Metropolitan Area

Faith Ministries, in conjunction with Hegewisch Baptist Church of Indiana (the oldest and renowned deliverance Church in the U.S. and whose deliverance services have been televised on national networks) will be conducting a three day deliverance/revival in the Washington Metropolitan Area from August 18th thru 20th, 1995.

This deliverance/revival is the first of its kind to be hosted in this area and you are cordially invited to attend. Guest speaker is Dennis Hauer, Pastor of Hegewisch Baptist Church.

Come and witness the mighty power of God at work during our mass deliverance services. It will be a lifetime experience!

For registration materials, you may call (301) 441-4935 or write

Faith Ministries, P.O. Box 865, Greenbelt, MD 20768.

Revival will be held at: 40 Ridge Rd. Greenbelt, MD 20770.

Volunteers Needed For HIV Drug Trial

A clinical trial is underway to evaluate the role of the drug Interleukin 2 (IL-2) when administered subcutaneously in the treatment of patients with early human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) infection.

People are needed to participate in the study who meet the following criteria: have evidence of infection with HIV; have a CD4+ (T4 helper cells) lymphocyte count greater than or equal to 500 cells per cubic millimeter; have begun treatment with an oral antiretroviral therapy at least six weeks prior to starting the clinical trial; are women and/or minority group members, including American Indian or Alaskan native, Asian or Pacific Islander, African-American (Black), or Hispanic/Latino;

The study will take place at the NIH Clinical Center in Bethesda and will last approximately six months.

There is no cost to the patients participating in this trial; travel expenses will be paid. For more information, call Talitha James at 1-800-710-8053 during the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. All information will be held in confidence and is not made public at any time.

Volunteers To Be Honored

The "Maryland You are Beautiful" Program, in conjunction with the Department of Business and Economic Development and the Governor's Office, announced that nominations are now being accepted for the annual "Maryland's Most Beautiful People" Volunteer Awards.

"This year we are focusing on the people who work at promoting Maryland," said Floraine Applefeld, director of the "Maryland You are Beautiful" Program. "The volunteer might be a tour guide at a museum or historic landmark; the person who organizes a local fair, festival or parade; or anyone who improves the quality of life in your county through volunteer efforts." Nomination forms are available in many public buildings throughout the state. Deadline for nominations is August 25.

All nominees will be honored at local award ceremonies. One nominee from each county and Baltimore City will be chosen to represent the hundreds of nominees from their area at a statewide awards ceremony in Annapolis hosted by Governor Parris N. Glendening this November.

For more information: contact Linda McClure or Floraine Applefeld "Maryland You are Beautiful" Program (410) 333-6611 x300.

Women's Rights March

Greenbelt's Gray Panthers will participate in celebrating the 75th Anniversary of Women's Suffrage at the Women's Rights March which will be held in Washington, D.C. on Saturday, August 26. For more information call 474-6668 or 474-6890.

Rock Gardens

Don Humphrey, Manager of Green Spring Garden Park will discuss the design and construction of a rock garden and rock garden plants which can be successfully grown in the Washington, D.C. area. Don designed and built the rock garden at Green Spring Garden Park. Wednesday, August 23, 10:30 am. The discussion will be held in the Administration Building classroom of the National Arboretum, 3501 New York Ave., N.E., Washington, D.C. Telephone (202) 245-2726

Christian Music Concert At Holy Cross Church

Dennis Benton, a contemporary Christian music artist, will perform at Holy Cross Lutheran Church 6905 Greenbelt Rd. on Sunday, August 20, at 10 a.m. Benton earlier this year recorded his first audiocassette, Reflections of Praise. He is a graduate of Emmanuel Baptist University and Seminary and began his Master's Creation Ministry in 1993.

The Public is invited to attend. For more information, contact the Church office at 354-5111 or Lisa Baldwin at 773-6751.

POLICE BLOTTER

Based on Information Released by the Greenbelt Police Department

A strong-arm robbery occurred at Eleanor Roosevelt High School on Tuesday, August 8 at 9:35 a.m. A student reported that he was approached by five suspects near the outside temporary classrooms. They pushed him up against a wall and managed to take his wallet and watch. The black male suspects, last seen running towards Mandan Rd., are described as a black male, 5'9", wearing a black tee shirt and black jeans, and four black males, all wearing gray and white clothing.

Officers responding to a reported armed robbery in the 7500 block of Greenbelt Rd. on Monday, August 7 at 4:26 p.m. discovered that the story had been fabricated. Arrested and charged with making a false statement to a peace officer were a 13-year-old non-resident male and an 18-year-old District resident. The former was released to a guardian pending trial; the latter appeared before a District Court Commissioner, where he was released pending trial.

As the result of a traffic stop on Hanover Parkway near Good Luck Rd., the driver was arrested for having an outstanding arrest warrant. Suspected marijuana was then located in his pocket. A passenger in the vehicle also possessed suspected marijuana and drug paraphernalia and additional drug paraphernalia was found in the vehicle. An 18-year-old resident of Hanover Parkway appeared before a District Court Commissioner, where he was released pending trial. He was then turned over to the Prince Georges County Sheriff's Dept. for the outstanding arrest warrant. The passenger, a juvenile, was transported to Boy's Village pending action by Juvenile Services.

A resident reported an indecent exposure in the 8100 block of Mandan Terrace. The suspect, a white male, described as 30 years of age, 6 feet tall, 220 pounds and wearing a white tank top and gray shorts, had exposed himself after getting the victim's attention by knocking on a window.

Assaults

A ten-year-old boy was arrested and charged with assault and trespassing after he returned again to the Springhill Lake Recreation Center after he had been asked to leave on Friday evening, August 4. He also had threatened to strike two of the Center employees. The boy was released to his mother pending action by Juvenile Services.

Later that evening, around 10:30, a youth described as age 17, a black male wearing a white shirt and white shorts, got into a fist fight and verbal confrontation with a Seabrook resident, who was hit in the face. The victim sustained a minor injury to his eye. The incident occurred at Beltway Plaza.

A police officer responding to a domestic dispute shortly after midnight on Tuesday, August 8 was pushed by a 19-year-old male resident of the 6000 block of Breezewood Ct. He was arrested and charged with battery. He appeared before a District Court Commissioner and was released pending trial.

Officers responding Sunday evening at about 9 p.m. to a report of disorderly persons in the 9200 block of Springhill Lane found a 20-year-old resident male with an open beer container. He was arrested and charged with possession of the open container in a public place and was released on a citation pending trial.

Car Thefts

A 1988 Pontiac Safari reported stolen on August 3 from the 6100 block of Breezewood Dr. was recovered on Benning Rd. N.E. in the District. The vehicle was in good condition. A 1990 white Nissan 300ZX with Maryland tags AXH989 was reported stolen from the Beltway Plaza on Sunday, August 6 at about 4 p.m.

A 1991 Mazda MPV van, reported stolen from the 6000 block of Springhill Dr. on August 10 at 6:30 a.m. was recovered the same day at 5:25 p.m. by the Berwyn Heights Police Department near Edmonston Rd. and Seminole St. A 17-year-old juvenile was arrested.

While on routine patrol on Kenilworth Ave. and Pontiac St. in Berwyn Heights on August 10, an officer observed a vehicle slide to a stop in the intersection. A computer check of the 1986 Buick Regal revealed that it had been reported stolen two days earlier to the Prince Georges County Police Department. The vehicle was stopped and the driver and one occupant were arrested. Investigation into the identity of the driver revealed that he initially provided a false name.

After the passenger was taken into custody, a hypodermic syringe was discovered in his pocket. Arrested and charged with theft over $300 and making a false statement was a 33-year-old man from Capitol Heights. The other man, 43, was from Takoma Park. Both appeared before a District Court Commissioner, where the driver was held on $1500 bond and the passenger on $2000 bond pending trial.

A 1988 Jeep Cherokee reported stolen shortly after midnight on August 4 from the 7800 block of Hanover Parkway was recovered a short distance away in the parking lot of Eleanor Roosevelt High School. A window and the steering column of the car had been damaged.

A stolen vehicle was recovered unoccupied in the 7700 block of Mandan Rd. A 1991 Mitsubishi, it had been reported stolen to the Montgomery County Police on July 13. License plates displayed on the vehicle had been reported stolen on July 18 from the 7900 block of Mandan Rd. No arrests were made.

A 1992 Acura Legend reported stolen on July 20 from the 7500 block of Mandan Rd. was recovered by the Metropolitan Police Department at the Baltimore Washington Parkway and South Capital St. in Washington, S.E. A gray 1986 Honda Civic with Maryland tags ZAM 437 was reported stolen from the 100 block of Westway on Wednesday, August 9 at around noon.

A 21-year-old District male was arrested and charged with theft of the vehicle he was driving after it was stopped in the 5700 block of Cherrywood Lane after a police check revealed that the license plate on the vehicle had been reported stolen to the Prince Georges County Police Department on January 5. He was released on a citation pending trial.

Thefts

The following items were reported stolen: an unattended bag of clothing from the 100 block of Centerway, a lawn chair from the 45 block of Ridge Rd., jewelry and electronic equipment from the 9300 block of Edmonston Rd. (no evidence of

V-J Day Memories

were mobs singing, yelling, dancing and flag waving. I remember all the church bells ringing downtown." At the time Ben was stationed at Bolling Air Field with the Naval Research Laboratory. Ben Goldfaden had difficulty remembering what the couple, now married 57 years, did until his wife reminded him. The Goldfaden's are visiting with their daughter in Waldorf.

Mildred Ford of 58 Crescent Rd. was 17 years old, living in Hyattsville and working at the Air Track Manufacturing Corporation across from College Park Airport. She was making fuses on the bomb fuse assembly line in the war plant when the Japanese surrender was announced. "The Big Boss came in the shop and stopped the belt on the assembly line and made the announcement of the news!" she recalls. "He said we could stop working and go home! Everyone in the plant was shouting and celebrating!"

Away from Greenbelt

Many Greenbelters were away from Greenbelt at that time. Lorraine Mullen Nuzzo of 12 Court Ridge was in the WAVES on V-J Day at Newport, Rhode Island. "All the ships out in the bay were celebrating," she said. "They made more noise. I mean they exploded." She advised that the noise was caused by blank charges and that they were not shooting off their guns. She also remembers that all liberty restrictions were lifted. Al Nuzzo was in Engelstock, Germany, with an Army Tank Destroyer in the 899th Tacticle unit of the 9th Division. "We were waiting for a Liberty Ship to take us back to America," he recalls. The soldiers celebrated with beer and wine.

Harold Estes of Parkway doesn't recall V-J Day, but remembers that he was aboard the Assault Cargo Ship AKA 105 in Tokyo Bay when the Peace Treaty was signed on September 2. He and a group of sailors started to go on shore, but then they got worried about the reception they would get. They feared that there might be snipers. "So we came back and got on ship, and that was it," he said.

Virginia Craig McGowan of Glenn Dale remembers celebrating with all the marines at Camp LeJune, N.C. where she lived with her former husband.

Former Greenbelter Eileen Turner, now of Ocean Pines, Md.,

was just graduating from Mt. Clair Teachers College in New Jersey. "Everyone went wild," she says. "They threw all kinds of stuff out of the dormitory windows." Her husband, Cy Turner, was in the Navy at Saipan Island in the Marianas waiting for the invasion of Japan to come about. "I had three extra cans of beer," he recalls.

It was not quiet in Memphis, Tennessee where James Donald "Donnie" Wolfe of Greenway Pl. found himself on V-J Day. Just out of high school, Wolfe went into the Navy in April and was training in the Aerial Gunnery School at the Memphis Naval Air Station. Everyone was given liberty and went into the city to celebrate, he recalls. "The church bells were ringing all over the place," he said. "I like to think that when I went in the service, the Japanese figured it was time to quit."

Not so lucky was fellow high school classmate George and people were going from place to place carrying and drinking beer. After all, Milwaukee was the Beer Capital of the nation, then.

For many of the celebrants, participation consisted of cheering on the most boisterous of the celebrants in performing a wide variety of antics. There were a lot of young girls out waiting to be hugged and kissed and a lot of sailors and other servicemen more than willing to oblige.

Giese remembers that his mother was quite insistant on the family going to the celebration. As a young woman fresh out of high school she had gone down to Wisconsin Avenue to celebrate Armistice Day in November, 1918. It was one of the most exciting events in her life, and she didn't want to miss this celebration either. The family had much to celebrate as Giese's brother, Bob, had survived combat in France and Germany without injury and had

Neumann of Westchester Park, who had been drafted into the Navy. He was at Great Lakes Naval Training Center in North Chicago, Illinois. "We were in Boot Camp," he recalls. "We couldn't have liberty."

In Milwaukee

Many of the sailors from Great Lakes who did get liberty went to nearby Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Jim Giese lived in Milwaukee and remembers going downtown with his parents to celebrate and watch others celebrate. Wisconsin Avenue was filled with people cheering and shouting, including many sailors. The bars were all open, been waiting to be shipped to the Pacific for the Japanese invasion.

Virginia Beauchamp of Maplewood Ct. had a more sobering kind of celebration. "I missed out on all the hoopla and frenzy that washed over most of the people of the United States on that day..." she recalls. "I was in training... for an overseas tour with the American National Red Cross... at Camp Pickett in Southwestern, Va. Almost all the men at this facility were combat veterans. Most had been wounded. Many were under treatment for what today we would call post-traumatic stress syndrome. Recovering at Camp Pickett, they were cut off from families and a civilian environment.

Kathleen Scott McFarland of Greenway Pl. tells of banging pots and tooting her clarinet in Greenbelt when she heard that the war was over on August 14, 1945.

What I remember of that day was a sigh of relief. Their quiet said it all." tremendous silence—like a great

by James Giese

Shortly before the anniversary of Pearl Harbor Day in 1991, this reporter asked James Donald "Donnie" Wolfe, a member of one of Greenbelt's first families if he could remember what happened in Greenbelt on the day that the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. Donnie said that he would get back to me, and in no time he had set up a meeting of a group of oldtime Greenbelt residents. We met at the Greenbelt Post 136 of the American Legion. The recollections I heard that day, together with some other people I talked to resulted in an article for this paper and started me on the way to do other Fifty Years Ago articles.

Earlier this month I called Donnie again. I thought it would be good to get Greenbelters' recollections on what they were doing when the war ended. But Donnie wasn't at home and I had to leave a message on the answering machine. Friday night, August 11, Donnie returned my call. He had just gotten back from Maine. I told him what I wanted and that it would have to be done by Monday. "Let me get back to you," he said. Less than an hour later, he called back. "It's all arranged for Monday after lunch. I've got all kinds of people already and more are expected when they hear about it."

On Monday, August 14, fifty years to the day after President Harry S Truman had announced the surrender of the Japanese and the end of World War II, the group of 14 gathered to talk about their memories of the war's end. Except for a couple of spouses, every person there was an original Greenbelter. Many of them still live in Greenbelt, others close by. More distant travelers were Cy and Eileen Turner, who came up from Ocean Pines, Md. and Ben and Elizabeth Goldfaden, who are visiting in Waldorf but live in Lake Worth, Florida.

I was surprised to note that many had dimmer recollections of V-J Day than of Pearl Harbor Day. Apparently, we remember better what we were doing when calamitous events happen than when good things occur. Also, V-J Day memories are mixed with V-E Day memories and memories of the formal Japanese surrender.

Although there were many events of the time that this group could not recall, there was one thing that recent controversies had brought back to mind and about which they were in unanimous agreement. They strongly believed that the war was brought to a quick end by the use of the atomic bomb, and they felt that it was right for the country to have done so.

head, he also strengthened and braced the legs and feet, to make the statue more childproof. "I really enjoyed doing it," he said. "It was a challenge. I hope we can keep the deer from being vandalized again. I got very attached to it when I was working on it. I realized what a work of art it is."

On August 14, the McCarthy family, who had written the letters to Mayor Bram, just happened to be coming off Southway when they found themselves one car behind a city truck carrying a familiar critter. The newly repaired deer was on its way to Greenbelt East to be restored to its rightful place. "There it was in all its glory!" Mary Lou McCarthy told the News Review. "The kids and I followed the truck to Schrom Hills Park, and I shot half a roll of film. The kids were really happy."

County Schools Hold Football Jamboree

As part of the Prince George's County Public School System's Communities Committed to Children education reform, the system has organized its first Academic Year Kick-Off Football Jamboree to be held at Bowie State University on Saturday, August 19, from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.

An innovation developed by Schools Superintendent Dr. Jerome Clark, the Jamboree is designed to bring communities together and generate excitement for the academic success of the coming school year, showcase the abilities of the school system's scholar/athletes, and provide an opportunity to help communities uplift their children.

Scrimmage times have been established for each of the county's 20 high school football teams. Eleanor Roosevelt vies with Forestville at 12:30 p.m.

There is a fee but children under 12 years of age enter free of charge. Bowie State University is located at 14000 Jericho Park Road in Bowie, Maryland.

For more information, contact Chuck Brown at (301) 952-6152.

Volunteers Sought To Work With Youth

Women In Community Service, Inc. (WICS) is seeking volunteers to work with 16-24 year-old students at Woodland Job Corps Center in Laurel. Job Corps provides GED, educational and vocational training for "at-risk" youth from economically challenged backgrounds.

For information call Patricia Jones, WICS Counselor at Woodland Job Corps Center (301) 725-7900, ext. 3932.

Networking Evening

The Cooperative Education (Co-op) program at University of Maryland University College (UMUC) will host the 1995 "Cooperative Education Networking Evening" on Wednesday, August 30 in the Center of Adult Education in College Park from 5:30 to 8 p.m. This unique event brings together prospective students, current and former UMUC Co-op students, faculty, and select area employers in a dynamic discussion and seminar format. Time is allowed for valuable panel presentations, round table discussions, and informal socialization. Anyone interested in learning more about Cooperative Education is welcome to attend. A light buffet will be served. Reservations are required for attendance at this event. Additional information and reservations may be obtained by calling 985-7780.

Call for Entries

Artists, 18 years and older, living, working or attending school in Prince George's County are invited to enter "The Seventh Annual Prince Georges County Juried Exhibition."

This competition is open to all media. There is no entry fee.

The deadline for entries is Friday, September 1. To obtain a prospectus call 454-1461; TTY (301) 454-1472.
