

Flowerless Trees Are Selected To Shade The Roosevelt Center

by Diane Oberg

At its May 26 regular meeting the Greenbelt City Council approved changing the trees planned for the renovation of Roosevelt Center and learned that the work would be delayed until after Labor Day to avoid tight deadlines to complete the work before the Labor Day festival and to permit time for the trees to be prepared for planting. In other actions, council agreed to continue prohibiting left turns from Greenway Center onto Hanover Parkway and to replace the Lakecrest Drive tennis courts. The council also adopted the city budget (see May 29 issue).

New Trees for Center

On a 4-1 vote with Councilmember Rodney Roberts opposed, council approved the recommendation by architect Sharon Bradley-Papp and city horticulturist Bill Phelan to change the trees planned for the mall at Roosevelt Center from the London Planes shown in previous plans to Zelkova, in response to calls for more colorful trees. The trees planted along Centerway are London Planes. Bradley-Papp said that she and Phelan considered every type of tree that grows in this area. Mayor Judith Davis quipped that the criteria used were more detailed than what most people use when looking for someone to marry.

The criteria included a high and open branching pattern (to avoid obstructing passerby and storefronts), capable of providing shade without overwhelming the mall, disease and pollution resistant, non-invasive (that is, a tree that won't launch volunteer seedlings all around the surroundings), not surface rooting (to avoid breaking up the pavement or creating a tripping hazard), and not messy (no nuts or seed pods). One criteria that was not met was for a native tree, but Phelan and Bradley-Papp did not feel that any native tree met all the criteria. She said that the Zelkovas would change color more in the fall than the London Planes and would hold their green better during hot or dry weather.

Although some people asked for flowering trees in the Center, Bradley-Papp said that flowering trees tend to be smaller so that the tree canopy would again block merchants' signs and the statue. The second part of the mall renovations, which has not yet been approved, calls for planting flowering hawthorns behind the statue for additional springtime color, she noted.

Hanover Parkway Bollards

Last year the city installed

flexible bollards on Hanover Parkway at Greenway Center to allow left turns into the shopping center while prohibiting left turns out of it when the third left turn lane was added. This was done as an alternative to the original staff plans to close the median completely. Director of Planning and Community Development Celia Craze reported that no complaints and several positive comments have been received about the changes. The city's traffic enforcement officer reports that the bollards have improved the management of traffic in that area. Council approved retaining the bollards and will consider more permanent measures, such as a concrete median in the future.

ERHS Choir Director Acclaimed For Her Leadership in Music

by Altoria Bell Ross

Dr. Barbara Wesley Baker teaches the world to sing in perfect harmony, and she does it with heart.

"It's a blast," Baker says. "It's just been a wonderful experience meeting different musicians."

When in Greenbelt, Baker, a vocal music teacher at Eleanor Roosevelt High School, instructs the school's five choirs and has done so for the last 20 years. However, her love of music also has sent her throughout the world — to Canada, Mexico, England, and last year to Ireland.

As part of a world music festival in Dublin, Baker instructed 60 teachers in gospel workshops. She also had one day to teach eight gospel songs to three of the city's high school choirs during the week of the concert. Days later, she conducted the 175 students in a concert where they sang the songs from memory.

Concerts and History in Germany

Baker does not always travel solo. In March she took 63 Roosevelt choir members to Germany, completing an exchange with 73 students from Winfriedschule Gymnasium in Fulda. The Roosevelt chamber and women's choirs gave concerts in their host city, and in Munich, Neuhaus, Petersberg, Gotha, and Wiesbaden. They sang gospel, Negro spirituals, American pop, and traditional and contemporary choral music, in Italian, German, and Japanese. Audiences throughout Germany gave the choirs standing ovations.

"It was a very powerful and awesome experience for the children" Baker says. "It made the history come alive."

One of the history lessons unfolded at Dachau, a Nazi concentration camp in Bavaria, 12 miles northwest of Munich. Students viewed the grounds and the ovens where Jewish captives died.

"It was so sad," says Sarah Lynn, a 14-year-old Roosevelt freshman. "I couldn't understand how people could be so cruel to one another."

Despite Germany's history of persecuting minorities, as an African American Baker says she did not focus on the past. "The true testimony of the human spirit is not how things were, but how they have moved forward," she says.

Not only has Germany progressed, but so has Baker's music career from its modest beginnings in Kannapolis, North Carolina, her birth place.

Making Music in North Carolina

Baker was born to an African Methodist Episcopal Zion minister and an elementary school teacher. Baker's father prayed that she would sing and play the piano, and she did. At five, Baker began studying the piano. She and her father would travel 60 miles from Kannapolis to Greensboro so she could take lessons. By eight, Baker had begun playing in her father's church in Fayetteville.

Later she received a bachelor of music degree from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, a masters of arts degree from Teachers College at Columbia University in New York City, and a doctoral degree from the University of Maryland at College Park.

Combining her education and teaching experience, Baker has written several articles on gospel music. She authored a portion of a chapter about the topic in the 1994 textbook, "Music: Its Role and Importance in Our Lives." Baker also wrote a chapter on teaching gospel music that was published in Methods and Perspectives in Urban Music Education in 1983. In addition, she has arranged two gospel pieces, "Feel Good," written for the treble voice in 1993, and "The Storm Is Passing Over," for treble and mixed voices in 1996. Her musical talents have been passed on to her 12-year-old son Matthew, who began piano lessons at six. Matthew sings in the National Cathedral Choir of Men and Boys in Washington, DC.

Award-Winning Choirs at Roosevelt

Baker's expertise and devotion to music and to her students are also reflected in the Roosevelt

Final Solution to Beaver Management Problem Sought

by Al Geiger

At a poorly attended public information meeting, the Greenbelt City Council sought information and public comment on the real or perceived problem with beavers in Greenbelt Lake. Mayor Judith Davis introduced William Bridgeland, wildlife biologist, who showed slides of beaver habitat and examples of flood damage caused by plugged culverts and the various strategies for combatting damage.

According to Bridgeland, Greenbelt Lake is of a size that can support only one mating pair of beavers. The pair will have two to four or more kits per year that remain for two years, after which they are driven away by the parents. Beavers eat the bark of trees in fall and winter, preferring aspen, poplar, tulip, sweet gum, dogwood and some other trees that surround the lake. Beavers mainly live in single large lodges with several underwater entrances. They also may have several small dens dug into the bank, also with underwater entrances.

Bridgeland suggested that since the beavers arrive from downstream only, a fence with a one-way gate at the lower end of the concrete channel below the lake would possibly keep more beavers from coming to Greenbelt but would allow the 2-year olds to leave. Eventually, when one or both of the parent pair dies, the lake could be beaver free.

Live trapping is possible, Bridgeland said, but any beavers caught would have to be killed because relocation is against state regulations.

Council Queries

Councilmember Ed Putens asked if beaver activity had ceased. Bridgeland answered that beavers had been sighted recently but, at this time of the year they would be eating succulants and new twigs and not cutting trees.

Greenbelt Day Weekend Offers Fun for Everyone

by Al Geiger

This weekend the City of Greenbelt marks the 61st anniversary of its incorporation as a municipality. The celebration started Friday evening with ball games and a family swim.

Saturday will feature a "pedestrian safety fun walk" through the town's underpasses and overpasses and "survival skills for pedestrians" to raise awareness and to develop self-protection strategies. Greenbelt Intergenerational Volunteer Exchange Services (GIVES) will hold an annual meeting open to the general public, the Golden Age Club will sponsor a flea market and the Lions Club invites the public to participate in the Greenbelt Community Center grounds cleanup.

Also on Saturday, the Greenbelt Photography Club will hold a reception to commemorate its first annual Photo Exhibition. The exhibition will be open until June 21. The Greenbelt Arts Center will present its annual children/youth play. This year the play will be C.S. Lewis' "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe." It will be repeated on Sunday. A family concert featuring "Blackberry," a five-piece Cajun/Creole band led by Paula Lucas will be preceded by dance instruction. There will be a pot luck lunch, more ball games, the Aquatic and Fitness Center and the outdoor pool will be open, and the New Deal Cafe will have live entertainment by folk-singer Michael Ball.

On Sunday the resident artists at the Community Center open their doors and invite all. The New Deal Cafe will be open with light fare and refreshments and the photo exhibit open house will continue.

At the Legion

On Sunday "Family Day" will take place at the Greenbelt American Legion Post #136 from 1-6 p.m. Starting at 1 p.m. the Legion will host a variety of activities. As usual, food and drink will be offered for sale.

Mayor Judith Davis and other members of the City Council will participate in the special Greenbelt Day program including a presentation honoring State Senator Leo Green and Delegates Joan Pitkin, James Hubbard and

Half-Days Scheduled For Last School Days

On Thursday, May 21, the Prince George's County Board of Education announced the current school calendar will provide half-day schedules for all students on Tuesday, June 16 and Wednesday, June 17. School buses will run and lunches will be served according to half-day schedules. The last day for a.m. kindergarten classes will be Tuesday, June 16, and the last day for p.m. kindergarten will be Wednesday morning, June 17. Students who attend p.m. kindergarten will not attend school on June 16. The Before and After School Care Program will conduct normal hours until 6 p.m. on both days, June 16 and 17. However, the last day for the after school program at Greenbelt Elementary School will be Friday, June 12.

For more information, please call Debbie Hager, communications supervisor, 301-952-6003.

Mary Conroy for their work on Greenbelt's behalf in obtaining the grant for the Community Center window replacement and fire department facility renovation. County Councilwoman Audrey Scott will receive an award in recognition of her fundraising and her strong legislative support.

Pet owners and those who love to see what animals can accomplish should be on hand about 3:30 p.m. for "Greenbelt Dog Obedience" sponsored by the Legion Auxiliary.

Others may be interested in meeting Sonia Amir, Miss Prince George's County, and Kellie Lobough, Miss Teen Prince George's County. Kelly Glorioso, Miss Montgomery County, and her sister Casey will join other pageant winners in a mini-preview of the 1998 Miss Maryland and Miss Teen Maryland to be held later this month.

Further events will feature young entertainers from Talent Unlimited, and musical selections by the Greenbelt Concert Band under the direction of Tom Cherrix. Also children's games, a moon bounce, face painting, clowns and balloons will be on site to entertain the children. Horseshoe and dart tournaments, bingo, another variety show and D J music are also being planned.

The Recycling Advisory Committee and Greenbelt Adult Care Center will offer information about their programs.

Events are free at Family Day, which is co-sponsored by the Greenbelt American Legion post and by the Greenbelt Recreation Department. Proceeds from the sale of food will help provide new picnic tables and park benches for Schrom Hills park and Buddy Attick park. Those attending are encouraged to bring their own blankets or lawn chairs for seating.

Letters to the Editor

Please, Please!

The next time that the trash and recycling pick-up schedule is changed, print it on the front page of the paper. 98% of the people on Lakeside Drive had their "things" out today and the squirrels and crows scattered it all over the place.

Luckily, someone called us and we brought ours back to the house. Then I hunted to find it in the paper and, oh yes, there it was on the bottom of page three.

Thanks

I want to take the opportunity to personally thank the people in your reading area for their wonderful and generous contributions to the children of Bosnia. To date we have received over 5,000 large boxes from across the nation. Children and teachers here are ecstatic over the receipt of your gifts. They are pleasantly surprised that so many Americans care about their plight.

I knew something great was happening when the packages first started pouring in from the United States. Please continue sending school supplies if you find it in your heart to contribute. The program will continue until the schools are back on their feet. We will be relieved by another unit and will be leaving some time this summer. This effort will continue well after we have returned home.

I want to personally thank all those in Greenbelt, who sent school supplies, for your contributions. Please know that the children, who have suffered so much in this war-torn land, have benefited from your gift. Your supplies have been distributed by the soldiers under my command to various schools, refugee camps, and orphanages. The generosity of Greenbelt and the surrounding area is a reflection of the national character that has made the United States of America a truly great nation. Please know that your contributions have touched all the soldiers of Second Squadron, Second Armored Cavalry Regiment. We will be here until mid-summer if any additional donations are sent to us. It is truly wonderful to have the opportunity to make this nation a better place for the children of Bosnia-Herzegovina. God bless you and have a wonderful 1998! Toujours Pret!

Golden Age Club

by Dolores Capotosto

At the next Golden Age Club meeting on Wednesday, June 10, at 11 a.m. in the Multipurpose Room of the Greenbelt Community Center, Janet Hartley will speak on Voluntary Simplicity.

Hope to see all Greenbelters at the Golden Age Flea Market/Yard Sale this Saturday, June 6, from 9 a.m. - 2 p.m. Thanks to all the helpers, especially Bill Souser and his wife, Arlene.

The Golden Age trip to Myrtle Beach last week was filled with excitement and enjoyed by all, particularly the three variety shows with great dinners. There was also a side trip to Charleston which included a bus tour of the city. On the bus a "southern belle" gave a comical version of the "true" history. In addition, there was plenty of time for shopping as they need those "Yankee" dollars to help re-build. Kudos to John Taylor and the bus driver, Mr. Pittman (Pitt), for their patience and perseverance. Most want to go back for more beach time.

Come out to the meetings for the latest news on travel plans and the interesting programs. Stay cool. Hope to see folks at the pool and other places.

The Family Tree (formerly Parents Anonymous Child Abuse Prevention Center) is looking for caring, nonjudgmental women who want to make a difference in a motivated teen mother's life. Become a volunteer in the P.A.N.D.A. young parent mentoring program in Prince George's County. People who have four hours a week to give, can be trained and matched with a young parent, and provided with ongoing support. Call The Family Tree at 301-808-5681.

P.A.N.D.A. (Parent Aides Nurturing and Discovering with Adolescents) mentors visit teen parents weekly in a home-based program. They teach parenting and life skills, lend them a sympathetic ear, and help them to make healthy choices. The P.A.N.D.A. program is effective — it reduces the repeat pregnancy rate by 80% and a greater percentage of P.A.N.D.A. participants stay in school than non-parent teens. The Family Tree approach is nonjudgmental and emphasizes life-enhancing, positive attitudes.

Friends of the Greenbelt Museum dedicated a flowering dogwood tree to the memory of the late Ruth Kennedy, a museum volunteer, on May 21. Gathered beside the tree were Delegate Joan Pitkin, James and Bernie Giese, Bonnie Sirbaugh, Gorge Newman, J. and Sherry Brubaker, Chris Scherer, Ken Kennedy, Sandra and David Lange, Lee Shields and Barbara Havekost.

Expectant Mothers Offered Prenatal Tour

A "Prenatal Tea & Tour" is held every second Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in Prince George's Hospital Center's auditorium. All expectant mothers and their guests are welcome.

The tour will be conducted by the professionals who assist at births. Visitors tour the birthing rooms, nurseries, and mother and baby suites. Nurses, midwives, and doctors meet with attendees to personally answer questions.

GIVES Earns Award by Municipal League

The City of Greenbelt will receive the Maryland Municipal League's 1998 Award for Excellence in the over 10,000 population category for its Greenbelt Intergenerational Volunteer Exchange Services (GIVES). The award will be given to the city at the Maryland Municipal League's annual convention at the Ocean City Convention Center during the awards banquet on July 1.

GIVES' mission is to help the elderly and disabled remain independent in their own homes longer by developing a pool of on-call volunteers who will respond to requests for assistance with various services.

Supported by donations, in-kind contributions, grant money, and fund raising activities, the annual budget for the program is $3,000. The city provides half of the budgeted expense through in-kind contributions of office space and limited staffing and support.

Currently, GIVES has 165 participants ranging in age from 30 to 90, male and female, of many ethnic origins and health conditions. The program fosters independence, promotes camaraderie and community spirit, and provides harmony among age groups, races, religions, income levels, and political adversaries. In addition, the care receiver feels no imposition when asking for help.

Festival Notes

The winner of the 1998 Miss Greenbelt Pageant will receive a $2,000 savings bond, Pageant organizers have announced. "We want to make a substantial contribution to the scholarship or career plans for this year's Miss Greenbelt," Pageant Chair Natasha Jewell said. In fact each winner will receive a savings bond. Little Miss Greenbelt and Junior Miss Greenbelt will receive a $200 savings bond. Savings bonds will be awarded to the first, second and third runners-up for Miss Greenbelt, as well as Miss Congeniality, Most Photogenic and Most Spirited. This award is in addition to the savings bond given to each participant. There is also a Pageant award which is given to the girl who contributes most to the Pageant.

There are three Pageants open to girls who live, go to school or work in Greenbelt. The traditional Miss Greenbelt Pageant is open to teens ages 14 to 19; Junior Miss is for those 11 to 13; and Little Miss for girls 7 to 10. The participants enjoy events throughout the summer, including parties, trips, and community activities. The Miss Greenbelt Scholarship Pageant promotes education. Girls participate in a professional photo session, appear on television, make new friends, learn new skills, participate in make-up and modeling sessions, and ride on a special float in the Greenbelt Labor Day parade.

An orientation meeting to learn more about the Pageant will be held at 7 p.m., Thursday, June 11, at the Youth Center's Multi-Purpose Room. The orientation meeting is an opportunity to talk with the Pageant volunteers, hear firsthand from those who have participated, ask questions and gain the information needed to decide if the Pageant's for them. The Pageant's first meeting to get started on the summer's program is Sunday, June 14 at 3 p.m., also at the Youth Center. To sign up to

Post Office Gets Recycling Award

The Greenbelt Post Office was honored on May 18 for their outstanding and innovative achievements in recycling. Postmaster John Hyater, Robert Moore and Sandra Morris attended the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (COG) fifth business recycling awards luncheon, where they received one of four Judges' Special Awards. The Greenbelt Post Office has been sending 85% of its bad mail to recycling.

Working with the City of Greenbelt in an effort to minimize waste cost and to maximize reuse of waste, the Post Office began recycling mixed paper in December 1993. The mixed paper consists of excessive circular advertising delivery for distribution and unforwardable third/fourth class. (Please remember the USPS makes every effort to deliver and forward mail to the addressee.)

The next meeting of the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee is June 9, 7:30 p.m., in the Greenbelt Community Center. Meetings are open to all and provide a good opportunity to learn more about and join in the Festival plans. More volunteers are needed for each activity.

City Notes

A new, larger water heater was installed at the Greenbelt Aquatic Center. It was necessary for the building maintenance crew to work overnight on the project in order to not interrupt the pool operations. The streets crew cleaned a swale at 1 Court Plateau for GHI and installed a new storm drain. Also, blacktop was spread in the Public Works yard around the new natural gas pump. Besides routine maintenance, the cleaning crew refinished floors at the Community Center. The specialty operations crew hung banners for Safety Week and began painting traffic arrows in parking lots. The horticultural crew was busy planting and mulching annuals. Besides mowing grass and preparing ballfields for games, the parks crew delivered picnic tables and a grill to several locations for weekend activities. The vehicle maintenance crew repaired the floor of the car used by the Greenbelt Connection on Sundays and, with the help of the streets crew, sand-blasted a truck in preparation for repainting.

face the tennis courts on Lakecrest Drive. However, when the company began the work, the existing surface began to collapse. Inspection by city staff and the contractor determined that the existing courts did not have an adequate base and would not support the weight of the equipment needed for the resurfacing. Council unanimously approved the staff recommendation to spend an additional $38,325 to replace both courts by constructing a new sub-base and top surface.

North End Parking

Art Abrams of Ridge Road asked for an update on the city's progress on "the abandoned vehicle problem" in the north end of town. Craze explained that the cars were not actually abandoned. The vehicles in question are operable and licensed, although frequently unused. (Abrams described one of the cars as covered with two inches of pine needles.) Although county ordinances forbid parking for more than 72 hours without moving the vehicle, the city does not enforce this ordinance. Most of the problems described by Abrams, she said, involve a single individual who owns multiple vehicles and is, in essence, storing them on city streets. Council should receive an Advisory Planning Board report on the issue within a couple of weeks, she said.

Committee Reports

Council accepted two reports from the Youth Advisory Committee. One recommended that before reopening city woodlands to mountain biking that erosion problems be corrected and that consideration be given to limiting the hours that city trails would be open to bikers.

The second report reviewed a proposal for a skating park. The committee recommended that such a park would benefit youths in their early teens or younger, allowing them a place to "hone their skills without injury or trespassing." The committee recommended the park be located close to the center, as the most accessible area and that's where most teen activities occur. However, while approving of the idea of a skating park, the committee did not see it as a solution to "the skating and rollerblading problems that occur in the community."

Other Actions

Mayor Judith Davis presented a proclamation to members of the Senior Citizen Advisory Committee declaring June "Pedestrian Safety Month." The city plans promotional banners, a 5K "Fun Walk," school safety seminars and a citywide crosswalk evaluation. Acting Police Lieutenant Douglas Sappington said that city police will be conducting enforcement and education activities aimed at improving pedestrian safety.

Davis also presented a proclamation to Acting Public Works Director Kenny Hall in recognition of "National Public Works Week," held May 17 -

Greenbelt CARES

CARES welcomes two newcomers to the staff, Crisis Intervention Counselors (CIC) Heather

23. Hall told council about the success of the department's open house, which was well attended despite rainy weather. He thanked all the citizens who had attended.

The cable television franchise granted to Jones Communications of Maryland, Inc. was extended through December 30 to allow completion of franchise renewal negotiations. The city is participating in joint negotiations between the company and the governments of Prince George's County and other county municipalities.

Council accepted Karen Yoho's resignation from the Youth Advisory Committee and reappointed Joseph Wilkinson, Lester Whitmer, Tod Chernikoff and Paul Sabol to the Park and Recreation Advisory Board.

Armed Robbery

Beltway Plaza, May 22, 6:50 p.m., a man was walking to his vehicle and was approached by two other men. One demanded the victim's jewelry. The victim refused and a scuffle ensued. The robber attempted to use a knife during the scuffle; however, he was unable to stab the victim. Both robbers fled after the victim was able to fend off the attack. The victim was not injured and nothing was taken in the incident.

9100 block of Springhill Lane, May 22, 9:25 p.m., a man was approached outside his home by 13 to 15 youths. One youth hit the victim in the head with a split rail. At the same time, several others removed currency from the victim's pants pocket and took his Walkman-style radio. The victim sustained injuries and refused medical treatment. The youth with the fence board is described as a black male 15 years of age, 5'5", with a thin build; he was wearing blue jeans and no shirt and wore his hair in cornrows.

7400 block of Greenway Center Drive, May 23, 1:29 p.m., a 29-year-old male nonresident was arrested for armed robbery. He had snatched a purse off a woman's shoulder. The victim was not injured, and all her property was recovered.

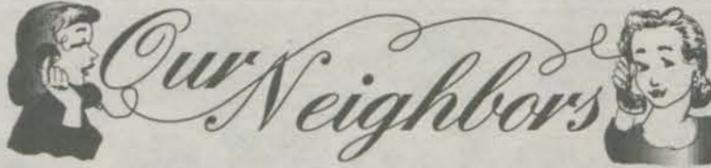

Safeway store at Greenway Shopping Center, May 28, 4:35 p.m., a man entered the store, approached a cashier, and asked if the store was hiring. The cashier told him to drop off an application at the front desk, at which time he showed the cashier a gun in his backpack. The man told the cashier to walk slowly to the office, and once in the office, he made the cashier lie on the floor. Another employee was made to place currency in his backpack. The robber then fled. No one was injured in the incident. The suspect is described as a black male in his 20's, 5'11", 160 to 170 lbs., wearing a blue ball cap with "Adidas" on the front, a gray shirt with writing on the front, and tan shorts.

Burglary and Theft

7500 block of Hanover Parkway, May 24, 2:31 p.m., an attempted burglary of a medical practice was reported. The robbers fled when the alarm sounded. Entry was not gained.

choirs. They are award winning. The chamber choir has won gold medals and superior ratings at county, state, national and international festivals that include Williamsburg, San Francisco, Orlando, Boston, Chicago, Toronto, and Mexico City. The women's choir, which has earned similar awards, performed in 1991 and last year in the "I Still Believe" concert, a tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. at the Kennedy Center.

Baker - A Shining Star

Baker's efforts have been honored. The Maryland Women in the Arts, which is coordinated by the Maryland State Department of Education and the Maryland Commission for Women, selected her as a 1998 Distinguished Woman in the Arts. The Maryland Music Educators Association also recognized her as the Outstanding Secondary Vocal Music Teacher in 1991.

"I can't think of anyone that I respect more than Barbara Baker," says Dr. Gerald L. Boorman, chief education administrator and principal at Roosevelt. "She is truly looked upon as a shining star and a beacon at Roosevelt."

"She is a wonderful director," says Roosevelt Band Director Rebecca Holtz. "She's enthusiastic and brings a lot of energy to the class."

Roosevelt parent Kitt Kling agrees. "She's great," says Kling, whose 16-year-old daughter, Samatha, sings alto in the women's choir. "She pushes the kids hard, and they respond. They really love her."

Samatha Kling remembers last year 'crying in class, frustrated at not being able to sing all the music. At year's end, Baker selected her as the most improved music student. Kling, who is now a junior, says her posture, tone quality, vocal range, and sense of rhythm have benefitted from Baker's instruction.

"I can really work at something and attain it," said Kling, who aspires to become a professional musician.

Several of Baker's former Roosevelt students have gone on to do just that. Syretha Smith sings back-up to Whitney Houston, and Kenny Latimore was nominated at the 38th Annual Grammy Awards for best vocal performer in the rhythm and blues category. And he is still singing. Latimore's most recent release, "South T," is in the record stores.

Despite these successes, Baker believes that singing is not an exclusive activity. "Music is one of God's gifts to everyone," she says. "Everyone should be able to use it."

And to those who are willing to use their gifts, Baker wholeheartedly conducts their singing worldwide in perfect harmony.

A Review

Strong Acting, Beautiful Costumes Make "Camelot" a Good Journey

by Altoria Bell Ross

Strong acting and beautiful costumes graced the stage of the Greenbelt Arts Center on Friday, May 29, for the opening night of Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," first adapted by John Fuller in 1941.

Fuller's adaptation was very liberal, so much so that the rendition barely resembled the novel except that Fuller was kind enough to include the major characters and a couple original episodes. Other than that, Fuller completely rewrote Twain's brilliantly penned classic that included the Yankee's fascinating adventures and intellectual musings about class, politics, the church, and his unromantic insights on being an official in King Arthur's Court.

True to the novel, Hank Morgan as the Yankee, played earnestly by Andy Greenleaf, still popped into sixth century Camelot from 19th century Connecticut. But from here, the play diverges from the book. Queen Morgan Le Fay, King Arthur's sister craftily played by Gail Gauldin, and Merlin artfully portrayed by Keith Mervine, plot to overthrow the kingdom of King Arthur rendered royally by John Bird. The grand performances of these actors and the outstanding acting by Patrick Ready as the bumbling Sir Sagamor and Tom Zanner as Sir Launcelot drive the play.

Both new and familiar faces also appeared in this production. Teenager Chenoa Jones as Hank's handy assistant, Clarence, launched a promising beginning in theatre; Stephanie Keenan, who can also be seen in the movie, "Deep Impact," was queenly as King Arthur's wife, Guenever, and Gina Mai Denn was lovely as the damsel in distress, Sandy. Jennifer Elaine Rapp as Elaine and Heather Martin, the owner of the Voice from Factory 5, were back at the Center after "Bye Bye Birdie" for another energetic performance. And then there's Mark Twain.

Director Mary Lou Fisher said she did not like Fuller's prologue or epilogue. Thus, she cleverly replaced Fuller's text by having a bushy headed Twain look alike with a mushroom mustache who gave punchy monologues throughout the show. Fisher said she decided to use an anonymous actor to play Twain because this addition was not in the adaptation. The speeches of Twain, who was dressed in a plantation white suit, went well until the play's close. Because of the massive rewrite, Twain's monologue about Hank's death that came from the novel did not bridge the gap from the adaptation to the book. In this context, this speech simply did not make sense.

What did make the connection were the costumes. Ginny Zanner did a splendid job with the magnificent period clothing.

They lent credibility to the performance, along with Jim Robertson's stunning use of light, especially during the eclipse scene.

So if you are willing to forgive Fuller's re-creation, tours leave for King Arthur's Court on June 5, 6, 12, 13, 19, and 20 at 8 p.m. and on June 7 and 14 at 2 p.m. Do come early to see the pre-show fair that includes the creative talents of a knight, a storyteller, a ribbon seller, and a juggler who set the mood for your journey into Camelot.

GHI Discusses Parking, Investments and Contracts

by Dennis Jelalian

At the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) Board of Directors meeting on Tuesday, May 28, board officers were elected and Green Ridge House parking, the investment committee and work contracts were discussed.

Board Elections

Keith Jahoda was elected president; Julia Eichhorst, vice president; Margaret Hogensen, treasurer; and Dorothy Lauber, secretary.

Green Ridge Parking

Two members, Jan Bodner and Ron Jewell, expressed concern over plans to expand parking at Green Ridge House. Bodner is concerned that the city might approve a parking access road from Gardenway. President Jahoda said the city is unlikely to take any action without first consulting with GHI. Director Eichhorst said the city is having a work session on this issue on June 25.

Jewell presented the three options currently under consideration: 1. Enlarge the present lot; 2. Build a rear lot with access from the west; and 3. Build a rear lot with access from Gardenway. All three plans appear to have serious drawbacks. Parking needs at Green Ridge House increase at the rate of about one car every four months.

Investments

The board discussed possible members for the GHI investment committee. A slate of tentative members includes board members Chuck Hess (possible chair), John Taylor, Margaret Hogensen and at-large members Connie Arnold and Julie Phelps. Other volunteers and interested members will be encouraged to attend meetings.

Contracts

The board passed a motion for first reading to hire Tri-County Industries to remove seven underground oil tanks at a cost not to exceed $30,000. This action will leave 65 tanks still to be removed.

The board passed a motion, for first reading, to hire B&P Utilities to replace sewers at 12 sites in GHI at a cost not to exceed $75,000.

Methodist Church

Bob Thomas, president of the Board of Trustees of Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church, requested that the church be allowed to continue to rent out the house they own, 2-A Northway, when it is not needed as a parsonage. The request was denied. While the board is sensitive to the needs of the church, the consensus was that it's better if GHI homes are owned rather than rented, and that the board would welcome another creative solution to the problem.

GDC Stockholders

The board passed a motion to hold the Greenbelt Development Corporation (GDC) annual meeting on June 11. They passed another motion giving each GHI director a proxy for 1/9th of GHI's shares of stock in GDC for the next year.

Student Intern

Avis King, special assistant to the GHI general manager, introduced Farah Strickland, a student intern from Austin, Texas. Strickland will be here for the summer. She will be calling all GHI members to complete a demographic survey begun last fall.

N&E Report

Charles Braun, chair of the Nominations and Elections Committee (N&E), reported that the committee has three recommendations to make. The first is that, in the event that there are not enough candidates, additional nominations should be accepted from the floor. The second is that the GHI board might be reduced from nine to seven, reducing the need for candidates. The third is to make other changes in the bylaws. President Jahoda tabled further discussion and said the board would take up the recommendations later.

Co-op Organizations

GHI belongs to the Eastern Cooperative Housing Organization (ECHO). Management recommended that GHI join the Potomac Association of Housing Cooperatives (PAHC) which will include membership in the National Association of Housing Cooperatives (NAHC). The board approved a motion to join PAHC for one year.

Antennas

The board passed a revised antenna and satellite dish policy.

While the language was refined, there was no major change in policy.

Training

The board discussed plans for board member training, possibly in the evening or at a weekend retreat. King offered her house for a retreat. Management presented a variety of issues and topics that might be addressed. Discussion was tabled until a suitable date could be found in July or August.

Open House

Director Eichhorst reported that the recent Open House held by the marketing committee was a success and resulted in three new contracts. They hope to have another open house in the fall.

New Members

The board approved applications for three new members.

Directors Betty Deitch, Bill Phelan, and John Taylor were absent from the meeting.

Linkenhoker Honored At Co-op Conference

Kathleen (Kathie) Linkenhoker, a Greenbelt Homes Inc. staff member, was honored by being selected to participate in the Future Co-op Leaders Program held in Washington April 22 - 23.

The program was sponsored by the National Cooperative Business Association (NCBA), and is designated to build leadership in U.S. cooperatives by encouraging up and coming co-operators to attend the conference where they can meet and learn from other co-op leaders. Special activities were planned for the 15 co-op leaders who were selected from among applicants nationwide.

The program featured Capitol Hill Day, which provided a chance to meet with members of Congress on April 23 to increase Congress's support of cooperatives.

Capitol Hill Day also featured the fourth Annual Festival of America's cooperatives. The festival featured booths and displays of cooperative businesses. The displays provided cooperative conference participants with the opportunity to show congressional representatives and over 300 Hill staffers what makes cooperatives a valued part of America's economy. Linkenhoker also met with Thomas J. Klouda, legislative assistant to Barbara A. Mikulski, and Michael T. Beresik, a staff member on the Senate's Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

Kathie Linkenhoker

At GHI, she assists newcomers to join GHI, and prepares the applications for membership in GHI for Board approval. She assists GHI members to sell their houses and move out. She is also on GHI's Marketing and Community Relations Committee.

Kathie grew up in Greenbelt and attended Greenbelt schools. She served in the U.S. Navy for four years. A mother of two, she has been active in Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club. She is an active participant in Greenbelt Community Church.

hen it's your breast, there's no such thing as a "tiny lump"

Once the doctor says there's something suspicious on your mammogram, that little speck takes over your whole life.

At Doctors Community Hospital, we want you to find out just what that lump means—and we've found a faster, less painful way to help.

As part of our commitment to the women of Prince George's County, we are now equipped to offer a quick, less expensive, less intrusive kind of biopsy. With our new Stereotactic Breast Biopsy System, the procedure takes only minutes, and you can have your results within 48 to 72 hours. This exquisitely accurate machine takes tissue samples with a small needle, not a knife. You walk away with the kind of bandage you'd use on a child's skinned knee.

If you need a breast biopsy, we think you'd feel better if you could do it with no scalpel; no stitches; no scar; no painful disfiguring surgery; and no general anesthetic.

Please call the Greenbelt Breast Center at Doctors Community Hospital for more information at 301/552-8513.

Local Men Invent Toilet Locater

The Invention Submission Corporation has announced that two of its clients, M. Delaney and J. Jones of Greenbelt invented a toilet bowl attachment for easily locating the toilet in a darkened bathroom. This invention is patented.

Delaney and Jones both agree that it is rather annoying to be awakened by the bright bathroom light when using the restroom in the middle of the night. They decided to invent a device to help locate the toilet in the dark, without the straining brightness of the main bathroom light.

This invention allows anyone to use the toilet at night, at dawn, or whenever it is dark, without turning on the bathroom light. The device informs women if the seat is up or down. In addition, the invention aids in locating toilet tissue and is ideal for households with toilet training boys.

Maryland Offers School Tax Break

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says that new state and local tax benefits will make it easier for individuals to plan for their children's college tuition costs by participating in the Maryland Prepaid College Trust program.

The 1998 Maryland General Assembly enacted two bills to create tax breaks for individuals who purchase a prepaid tuition contract. Governor Glendening signed the bills into law May 21.

The first allows a Maryland-only deduction of up to $2,500 per year for each year that the purchaser contributes to the plan. The maximum deduction is $2,500 whether the taxpayer files a single or joint tax return. "This state-only deduction, known as a subtraction modification, will reduce the adjusted gross income taxpayers report on their federal income tax returns," Goldstein said. Taxpayers who contribute more than $2,500 in a year will not be able to carry forward those excess contributions into the following year for tax purposes.

The second new tax break exempts the investment's earnings from Maryland state and local income taxes at the time the beneficiary uses the contract benefits to pay for college tuition. "This means that students who use the earnings to pay tuition costs will pay no state or local income tax on the earnings," he said. Under current law, the earnings will be subject to federal income tax, but at the student's tax rate.

The Maryland Prepaid College Trust provides several tuition plans and payment options. Contracts can be purchased for children whose ages range from newborn to those who have not yet entered the 10th grade. The enrollment period for this year ends June 30, 1998.

Goldstein suggested that anyone who is interested in further information about the prepaid tuition program should call 1-888-4MD GRAD or contact the Maryland Prepaid College Trust website at www.prepaid.usmd.edu.

Councilmember Alan Turnbull asked what would happen if nothing more was done after preferred species of trees were protected with hardware cloth. Bridgeland answered that they might stay and change to less desirable species but if the habitat is no longer desirable, they might leave.

Councilmember Thomas White asked if there were any benefits derived from the beavers. Bridgeland conceded that some water quality benefits resulted, such as the sediment collected in the forebay when the little dam was built there. Removing trees opens the forest floor to the sun, encouraging new growth of the understory. Bill Phelan suggested people look to the left (west) on the bridge on Research Road over Beaverdam Creek to see the effects of beaver activity — a much more luxuriant understory. Councilmember Rodney Roberts acknowledged that there was now more wildlife (blue herons, for example) to the right of the bridge than there had been when he was young. Most people see only the dead trees.

James Giese asked how far from shore beavers normally forage. According to Bridgeland, this depends on the tree species available; for aspen they might travel 100 yards. He added that some individual beavers are more adventuresome than others.

Carl Kautz asked if there were twice as many beavers next year whether the destruction would be twice as bad. Bridgeland answered that opening up the canopy allows more growth of shrubs beavers prefer and would somewhat lower the demand. Also because the two-year-olds are driven off by the parents, the population soon becomes maximized and would remain stable.

Joanne Tucker asked if anything was going to be done at this time. Mayor Davis answered that the question was still being evaluated but that a decision would be made in the near future. Education of homeowners on protecting their property was one proposal. No damage to private property has been reported.

Giese asked if there were any devices other than wire mesh to protect the trees. According to Bridgeland, some research is being conducted with odors, etc. as well as incorporating grit into latex paint, however, no results have been reported.

What to Do?

Bill Phelan suggested that lowering the lake level by about three feet might encourage the beavers to leave because the entrances to their dens would be above water and exposed. This strategy, combined with an exclusion gate, might be successful in eliminating the beavers, if that is what is desired, he said. Roberts, on the other hand, expressed the need for caution before lowering the lake level. He urged getting information on the possible adverse effects to fish and other wild life before lowering the lake level.

Roberts suggested fencing city property and installing an exclusion gate. Giese suggested that since most damage occurs to scrub trees growing too close together, the city should protect the large and important ones only. Mayor Davis stated that an education program should be undertaken first to show homeowners what they can do. Turnbull said the objectives should be decided before methodology and strategy are determined. White said that since council had decided that the beavers shouldn't be killed and they cannot be relocated, they must be managed.

It was decided that when Bridgeland's final report is received, the "problem" will be on the council's agenda as soon as practicable. In the meantime, at

by Rosie Rhubarb

Planting the summer garden should soon be finished. The frequency of beneficial spring rains will diminish as the hot weather of summer settles in during the next few weeks. Hopefully most gardeners have most if not all their spring planting complete. But with two weeks of rain during prime planting season, many of us have fallen behind.

When planting small seedlings make sure to keep them well watered during the first few weeks so they don't dry out. Another way to help them come through the stress of planting and get off to a good start is to shade them the first few days after they are planted if these are sunny days. In my own garden, I use flowerpots, cones made of newspaper, or window screens propped on bricks to keep the screens off the plants.

Another step I take to diminish the shock of planting is to clip flowers and buds off of any annual flowering plants. Impatiens, marigolds, zinnias, and other annual flowers will bloom all summer. Right now I want them to get off to a good start and work on root production so that they will bloom heavily until first frost.

Squash and beans can still be planted from seed. Squash should be planted soon. Beans, however, can be sown every week or two until August. This will prolong and space out the harvest.

the next council work session, City Clerk David Moran would work up a "menu" for discussion. The meeting was adjourned.
