Council Agrees to Fight Kenilworth Ave. Snowball

by Betsy Likowski

The Greenbelt City Council was annoyed to recently learn of more fallout from the building of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) headquarters building on Sunnyside Avenue. Although it asked to be kept up to date on developments relating to the project, they found out the latest development when informed of a public hearing that was held on October 14. Council spent considerable time at the October 26 regular council meeting discussing plans with its attorney and environmental consultant on this subject. Council also reviewed plans for a new medical building and revised the city code on zoning at this meeting.

The Greenbelt City Council has opposed the USDA building from the beginning. It has held there were other locations that would have been better for the USDA and the environment, the site is isolated from mass transit and roadway access, and the council opposed the piecemeal road improvement planning process.

Improvements to Sunnyside Avenue mean Edmonston Road will be widened. When it is widened between Cherrywood

Lane and Sunnyside Avenue wetlands will be impacted. Wetlands mitigation is required and the wetlands proposed for this are located west of US Route 1 and south of the Beltway near the Paint Branch Stream Valley Park.

Kevin Kelly of Environmental Systems Analysis, Inc. asked the council members about their goals and plans, and he gave some of his thoughts on the matter. Both Councilmembers Rodney Roberts and Alan Turnbull opined that if council did not react to this project, then the impression would be given that council would roll over on the metro project plans. Make this an example, said Councilmember Edward Putens, for the metro site plan showed no sensitivity.

Halt the widening of Kenilworth Avenue, said Turnbull. We need to prevent a

Exhibit, Talk on Modern Home Offered by Museum

Decorative arts of the Depression era are the subject of two upcoming November events sponsored by the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum (FOGM). The first is a talk by Shelley Nickles of the Smithsonian on the influence of modern art and design on ordinary, mass-produced household objects of the 1930s and 1940s. Nickles will speak on Thursday, November 19, at 7:30 p.m., in the City Council room of the Municipal Building, 25 Crescent Road. Her presentation is entitled "From Manhattan to Main Street: Creating the Modern Home."

On the following evening, Friday, November 20, at 7:30 p.m., FOGM will open its new exhibition, "Fashionable, Functional and Frugal: Modern Style Comes Home, 1930-1946," in redesigned space at the Greenbelt Community Center. The exhibition features colorful glassware and household objects, demonstrating how penny-wise Depression age shoppers were lured into purchasing new, machine-made items for their homes.

Among the many objects on display are modernistic styles of glassware in Manhattan and Tea Room patterns. Another section is devoted to the Homer Laughlin China Company which produced the popular Fiesta Ware and Harlequin dinner ware. Shiny chrome toasters, irons and coffeepots boast a streamlined design.

There are also colorful early plastics such as Bakelite and Catalin, as well as original Greenbelt furniture designed by the Federal government in the 1930s for Greenbelt's modern-style homes.

The free lecture and exhibition were made possible through grants from the Maryland Historical Trust's Museum Assistance Program and the Maryland Humanities Council, funded through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The Friends of the Greenbelt Museum is a nonprofit community organization which operates the Greenbelt Museum in the National Historic Landmark city of Greenbelt. Greenbelt was built as a model planned community by the federal government in 1937 following the Great Depression. Pedestrian paths connect playgrounds, gardens and homes with an historic "downtown" shopping center.

Museum volunteers provide tours of an original home, restored and furnished in Depression era objects. The Greenbelt Museum is open Sundays, 1 - 5 p.m., and is located at 10-B Crescent Road. The exhibition in the Community Center is open daily, 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. The new exhibition will continue through 1999.

For more information on the lecture, the exhibition or tours of the Greenbelt Museum, call 301-507-6582.

Manzi Sends Letter

In a strongly worded letter dated November 3, City Solicitor Robert Manzi requested of Terrance Clark, chief of the Nontidal Wetlands and Waterways Division of the Maryland Water Management Administration, a meeting with the city council to discuss the possible piecemealing of road improvement projects related to the construction of the USDA facility on Sunnyside Road. This action had been requested by the Greenbelt City Council at its October 26 meeting.

Manzi noted that for over one year the council had been requesting such a meeting and that such a meeting was promised in a June 14 letter from the Director of the Water Management Administration to Senator Leo Green. Instead, the city was notified of a public hearing held on October 14. That hearing failed to afford free discussion of all the issues, Manzi contended. In addition, issues raised by the city remain unanswered, despite statements that they would be answered before November 4, the deadline for filing further comments for the record.

Besides the meeting, Manzi requested a 30 day extension of the November 4 deadline for filing comments.

According to Manzi, questions raised by the city concern what alternatives were considered, how was the mitigation area selected, was this the only way to handle the traffic issue and, a newly raised issue, the possibility of a beltway interchange access to the USDA.

Copies of Manzi's letter were sent to the Governor, the two U.S. Senators, Congressman Hoyer, the city's Senator and Delegates to the Maryland General Assembly and Steven Elinsky of the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

Patrons Flock to Theater To See "The Wizard of Oz"

by Altoria Bell Ross

Over a thousand movie goers followed the yellow brick road to the Old Greenbelt Theater last weekend to see the remake of "The Wizard of Oz" that kicked off a promotional film festival to save the theater and ward off a threat to close it.

"It was very successful," said Sarah Schaffer, city recreation coordinator and spokeswoman for the Save the Greenbelt Theater campaign. "It is probably more people than the Greenbelt Theater has had in a long time."

It certainly was. Owner Paul Sanchez said the normal weekend attendance for the theater is between 200 and 300 people.

"If we can do this business [all the time], we would have no problems," he said. "It was definitely a step in the right direction."

On Friday, the first 100 people that entered the theater received free "Wizard of Oz" posters and the first 100 that visited the Friends of the Greenbelt Theater table received discount coupons for refreshments and a future movie. This week, Schaffer said she is sending letters to the 200 customers who left their ad-resses, inviting them to join the effort to support the struggling theater. Schaffer said the community needs to patronize the theater.

Colleen Torske, a regular customer, comes just for the atmosphere. "I like the style of this theater," said the Bowie resident. "I like walking back in time. It is really classy."

Other reasons drew first-time customer Rose Jochum of Cheverly. Jochum decided to see the movie in Greenbelt instead of Washington, DC, due to the attractive admission price and her desire to avoid a crowd.

In addition to sponsoring the film festival, W. Bowman Ferguson, the city's senior management analyst, said Greenbelt is looking for other ways to use the theater during the day, such as hosting business conferences. In the meantime, the theater will feature the classic musical "The King and I" on December 18 and 19, followed by "The Sound of Music" on December 20 through 23.

"This is what makes Greenbelt great," said Neil Williamson of Washington, DC. "I hope people realize the treasure they've got."

Letters from the Amanis In Tegucigalpa, Honduras

Former Greenbelter Mary Jo Amani sends word from Honduras that the situation there is deteriorating quickly in the aftermath of Hurricane Mitch.

"There is still no running potable water in the capital and elsewhere is worse. So many bridges are out that it will be months until transportation outside of the city is possible. Right now, an incredible number of people around the country are being fed by airlifts of rice, beans, and oil. But there are no milk, eggs, cheese, bread, meat, vegetables, or other staples in the grocery stores. Bread is still available if you get in line at bread stores. Gas is being rationed to four gallons a person," she says.

"Even the best scenarios project epidemics of cholera and other pestilences, and increasing security concerns (riots, robberies) when so many are without food and water and other basics.

"So many have asked how you might help and have talked about getting people together to help. The best place currently is probably to give assistance through the Red Cross Hurricane Relief project or a similar international relief organization. Todd is working long hours as are all U.S. government personnel to ensure that Honduras gets as much assistance as possible through the U.S. government channels.

"What's sad is that there was already enough human misery and poverty there that needed addressing but it's all on another level now."

The Amani kids went with Mary Jo, she reports, to help make sandwiches (rice and bean) to airlift around the country. They went around to the local hotels to collect cooked beans and rice as they have the only kitchens big enough to cook such large quantities. Hundreds of volunteers show up daily at the American School gymnasium to make the sandwiches, or tortillas, or to stuff the food into bags for families of five or six persons. Luke was sure that the number of sandwiches being made in one day (thousands) would be sufficient but was told it was "a mere drop in a bucket," she concluded.

From Elisabeth

In her email to friends here, Elisabeth writes "There was a big hurricane here called Mitch and it destroyed everything in Honduras. In Choluteca a lot of the village got flooded completely and people died and lost their stuff. In Tegucigalpa a lot of bridges came down. The soccer fields got totally flooded and you can't even see the goals because they are under water. My housekeeper Mina lost her house when it fell into the river. We helped her with food, water, and we brought her kids and three little cute puppies to our house to take care of. The bad thing is there is no water and poor people have

Notice to Readers

Delays in printing last week made delivery of the News Review to Greenbelt very late on Thursday night. Ian Tuckman, the paper's circulation manager, was still able to make a few drops to carriers that night. He resumed delivery to businesses and individual carriers beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday, when he returned home from work. Carriers were faced with not receiving their papers at the time they had set aside for delivery and had to scramble for available time later during the weekend. The News Review regrets the inconvenience to its readers.

Help Kids Learn About Maryland

Could you please publish my letter in your paper so that your readers might help me with research about your state?

In my eighth grade social studies class in Chicago, we are studying United States history. One of our assignments is to write a research paper about a particular state and how it relates to the history of the country. I have chosen Maryland as the subject of my research. I would like to learn about individuals from Maryland, or events that involved Maryland or occurred in the state that played an important part in U.S. history.

I would very much appreciate if you could send me items that would be of an interest. Post cards, newspapers with unique features about Maryland, clippings, articles, video tapes, old license plates, unique products from your region, or other items might help geography come alive in my classroom. We are to present a report to the class and anything especially interesting would make my report the best in the class. Please help me learn about your state and spark the interest of my classmates. Besides, everyone enjoys getting mail!

Our school is on the northern side of Chicago, about six miles from the downtown area (The Loop). We have about 100 students in the eighth grade and about 1,000 students in the out building (K-8). Most of our students are either immigrants or children of recent immigrants. We have students from many parts of the world — Mexico, Bulgaria, Korea, Nigeria, India, Bosnia, Vietnam, Guatemala, the Philippines, and many other places. Most of the students have not lived outside Chicago.

My name is Mary, and I was born in Chicago. I'm 13 years old and I attend Budlong School. I enjoy reading, roller blading, bike riding, ice skating, and watching Bulls games. My favorite subject in school is science. I chose to write about Maryland because I would like to know more about the state and the people who live there.

I look forward to receiving mail from you. Thank you for your interest in my education and your kindness.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks

The members of St. Hugh's Council of the Knights of Columbus appreciate the generous contributions of the citizens of Greenbelt during our recent Tootsie Roll Drive for the mentally handicapped.

Our thanks also to Greenbelt Co-op, K-Mart, and Safeway.

Mike Rousseau, Chairman

Thank you for once again entrusting me with the duties and responsibilities of being your representative in the Maryland State Senate. I will continue to work diligently and faithfully for you in my attempt to make government open, accountable, and responsive to the will and needs of the people. My experience in all levels of our community and government will again place me in a leadership position, which I will use to address the major issues of the next millennium; among others, educational reform, economic and job development, protecting the environment, re-vamping the juvenile criminal system, and redesigning our health care system to respond to patients and physicians rather than profits.

As we enter into a new era of challenges, and major issues, I welcome your views on issues of concern. I also appreciate having your opinions and suggestions on legislation and budget items under consideration by the General Assembly. Citizenship is realized to its fullest extent when people participate in civic affairs at every level — registering, voting, and making their positions known to their elected representatives. In the firm belief that such communication is a two-way street, I look forward to any inquiries you may have about state government and to providing assistance to you in any matter.

Leo Green, State Senator
23rd District of Maryland

I wish to thank the coaches of the Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club soccer program for 4 - 6 year olds — Marco D'Ottavi, Tim Murphy, and Dave Ralph. Under their guidance, my son and the other soccer players learned both soccer skills and good sportsmanship. It was exciting to watch them play, learn and make friends. I thank the coaches for their contributions to this community!

Katie Calder
(Michael Abraham's mom)

Please let me thank you, the voters of the 23rd District, for the confidence you have shown in me by electing me once again to the Maryland House of Delegates. I will do my best to live up to your expectations. During this election year my motto was "Constituent Service is my Business," it will continue to be my motto for you, the voters of the 23rd district. If the need arises and you need my help, please call my office. The toll free number is 301-858-3101. My door is always open.

Mary A. Conroy

Thanks to Voters — Also Glasses Found

Many thanks to all the Democratic poll workers (and voters!) who helped to get Gov. Parris Glendening, Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, and the local 23rd District Democratic Team (Sen. Green, and Dels. Conroy, Hubbard, and Pitkin) re-elected on November 3.

Alas, either an over-worked poll worker or distracted voter left behind a pair of men's bifocal eyeglasses with brown frames in a black case with Velcro fastener. I have them at my home, and they may be claimed with a phone call: 301-474-1052.

The Old Curmudgeon

by I. J. Parker

How would you like to park within three feet of a fire hydrant, and not be given a parking ticket? All you need is a "handicapped" license. There is a handicapped parking space on the east side of the Roosevelt Center on Centerway that is located next to a fire hydrant!

How the hydrant got there is an interesting story. The hydrant used to be located across Centerway on the side near the pedestrian underpass that leads to the Center. But it sprung a leak. This precipitated a meeting between the city planners, the WSSC, and the fire department. They decided to relocate the fire hydrant to its present location. If anyone thought of the proximity of the hydrant to the parking space, it was evidently deemed to be safe from obstruction because the "steamer" (the outlet) faced the street. There was also a reluctance to spoil the esthetic and balanced nature of the parking spaces, plus the unwillingness to lose a space.

I suspect that this location in Greenbelt is the only one in the state, perhaps the country, where a motorist can park right next to a fire hydrant and not get a ticket. If you are inclined to do something normally illegal or illicit, just get a handicapped license and drive down to the Center for a cheap thrill.

Baha'is Celebrate Birth of Founder

by Nasseem Rouhani

Last Wednesday, November 11, 1998, the Baha'i community of the Washington D.C. area joined millions of other Baha'is around the world in observing the 181st anniversary of the birth of Baha'u'llah, the Prophet-Founder of the Baha'i Faith. The celebration took place right here in Greenbelt at Martins Crosswinds, where several hundred participants gathered for the 29th annual Birth of Baha'u'llah banquet. The banquet was followed by an address given by Dr. William Roberts, a member of the National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of the United States. Throughout the celebration, there was music, which included a performance by the Washington D.C. Chorale. Most importantly, this celebration was a time for fellowship amongst the participants.

Baha'u'llah, meaning the "Glory of God" was born into a noble Persian family on the 12th of November, 1817, in Tehran, Iran. The Baha'i religion, with over five million believers worldwide is now the second most widely spread world religion after Christianity with members in more than 200 countries, territories, and islands.

Project Thanksgiving Helps Needy Seniors

TheBus, Prince George's County's community transit system, is sponsoring a system-wide food drive to provide a special meal for needy seniors at Thanksgiving. From November 16 - 20, in lieu of collecting the regular fares for rides on TheBus routes throughout the county, operators will accept a donation of non-perishable foodstuffs such as canned goods and packaged foods. The food will be collected by TheBus officials for Project Thanksgiving and delivered to the County's seniors.

Flyers will be posted on all TheBus buses to let passengers know about the food drive for Project Thanksgiving. Boxes will be placed on all buses to receive donations.

The County's Department of Public Works and Transportation currently operates 17 TheBus routes for Prince George's County residents. TheBus provides community service on most routes from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday. For specific route or schedule information call 301-883-5656.

to drink dirty water or no water and I feel bad for them. We are ok but if we didn't have a cistern we wouldn't have any water, but we do have a cistern so we are in luck. Where I live it is ok, but there is a lot of rain and it is flooding streets and overflowing rivers. Because of the hurricane we've missed two weeks of school and no one knows when school is going to start."

The Amanis moved from Greenbelt to Honduras this summer. Kids who played soccer or went to school with Luke, Elisabeth or Liam, might want to send them messages via Mary Wirick, 13-C Ridge Rd or Mary Lou Williamson 301-441-2662. Although families of Americans are likely to be evacuated this week, Mary Jo's latest email gives no hint that they plan to leave.

How to Help

The Middle School at Sandy Spring Friends School, where the Amani children attended the past two years and Mary Jo taught last year, are collecting clothing, canned food, toiletry items, baby bottles, diapers and medicines such as Tylenol, Motrin and Advil to send to Honduras and Nicaragua. Those wishing to make cash donations should make checks out to "Hurricane Relief Fund." Friends of the Amanis and others wishing to help in this disaster may call Williamson or Beth Novick.

Science Competition Hosted by ERHS

The eighth annual Final Frontiers Science Competition requires students to build devices designed to meet specific engineering challenges. The catch is that they can use only masking tape, drinking straws, balsa wood and other inexpensive materials to construct their frequently odd-looking contraptions. Student teams then compete with one another to determine who has built the best device.

In Prince George's County, this event will take place on Saturday, November 21, from 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. The competition is held in school classrooms.

The Maryland Space Business Roundtable is a nonprofit organization that promotes the state's $2 billion-a-year space industry. It has sponsored Final Frontiers since 1990 in the hope that the competition might inspire students to pursue technical careers. This year's competition, which features five different events, is expected to draw hundreds of students from both public and private schools.

School Public Forum To Be Televised

Prince George's County Public Schools will televise the November 9 public forum held by Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Jerome Clark, and Board Chair, Dr. Alvin Thornton, to provide the public with informational updates regarding the MGT of America Audit report, the State Accountability Task Force Report, the Memorandum of Understanding, the Comprehensive Plan, and the Master Plan. Persons interested in viewing the public forum can watch Cable Channel 12 during the following times: Friday, November 13, at 5 p.m.; Saturday, November 14, at 1 and 8 p.m.; and Sunday, November 15, at 1 and 8 p.m. For additional information, contact Hope Hall at 301-952-6005.

Greenbelt Theater Makes Friends in the Community

by Dorothy Sucher

Greenbelt sure is a friendly place. FOGgy, too — and the latest friendly fog to blow into town is FOGT, the Friends of the Greenbelt Theater. It joins FOGL (friends of the library), FOGM (the museum), and doubtless others that have slipped my mind.

Well, FOG like this is good — and when you peer through it you can see not only that the city is coming of age culturally but also that the old cooperative spirit of Greenbelt is still alive and well.

The purpose of the Friends of the Greenbelt Theater, which doesn't actually exist yet but is now in the process of formation (see the ad in this issue of the News Review), is to support and preserve the historic movie house in Roosevelt Center. The venerable institution is threatened with extinction, due to market forces, TV, tired blood — whatever the reason, Greenbelters are up in arms.

The City Council has responded by offering the resources of the Department of Recreation and by co-sponsoring a film festival that will offer filmgoers in the next few months a chance to see some of Hollywood's greatest classics on the county's biggest movie screen.

200 Signed Up

So far, some 200 theater patrons have signed up at the Friends of the Greenbelt Theater table, indicating that they wish to join the group. A membership and fund drive will get under way next week, when those who have expressed interest will receive a letter from recreation coordinator Sarah Schaffer with an invitation to join the group. Surely other prospective members are out there as well.

According to Schaffer, the group "will function as a liaison between the theater operator and the community at large. The group will be in charge of developing a survey which will be distributed to the community as a way to gauge what the citizens of Greenbelt would like to see on the 'big screen.' In addition, Friends of the Greenbelt Theater will work with the theater management to organize and promote special events and film festivals."

Films in Festival

The festival opened on November 6 with "The Wizard of Oz," with that fabulous entertainer Judy Garland still looking impossibly dewy, Margaret Hamilton incredibly scary as a green-faced Wicked Witch of the West, and performances by Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, and Billie Burke that have passed into cinema legend. Theater-goers responded by turning out in force — 1,200 paying customers during the weekend. The lines were reminiscent of the theater's opening night in 1938, when Shirley Temple starred in "Little Miss Broadway."

In fact, during the November 6 weekend the Greenbelt Theater was one of the highest-grossing theaters in the region.

Looking ahead to the holiday season, the theater plans a "Classic Movie Week" December 18 - 24, featuring two glorious musicals the whole family can enjoy. Rodgers and Hammerstein's melodious "The King and I" stars Yul Brynner as the polygamous King of Siam, the sexiest bald guy ever to hit the silver screen. The chemistry between him and Deborah Kerr, prim and proper but with those banked fires that are a specialty of the English, is memorable, especially in the "Shall We Dance" sequence, when she teaches him to waltz. And who could forget the delightful "The Small House of Uncle Thomas," Hollywood's interpretation of a Broadway interpretation of a Siamese version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin"?

As for "The Sound of Music," what can I say? Julie Andrews' voice is glorious, the views of the Austrian Alps are spectacular, and if Christopher Plummer as the count is a bit stiff, his motherless brood of singing kids is hard to resist. The score is by Rodgers and Hammerstein, and the story — a widowed count, a spunky convent girl who becomes his children's governess, a perilous escape from the Nazis — has timeless entertainment value.

Additional Plans

An Alfred Hitchcock film week is under consideration for March. And the Park and Planning Commission is working with Paul Sanchez, owner of the theater, on plans for a filmmaker's film festival in April. This event will be a presentation of several up-and-coming filmmakers' works. The event, juried by a panel of art-

Diabetes Often Hides From Most Victims

by Sue Krofchik

Do you have diabetes? Don't be so quick to answer, "no." Of the 350,000 people living in Maryland who have diabetes, only about half know they have the disease. In an effort to educate the public, Doctor's Community Hospital sponsored a Diabetic Health Fair at Martin's Crosswinds on November 8, attended by about 200 people.

Dr. Vilma Mascarenhas, an endocrinologist with Riverside Medical Associates in Riverdale, spoke on the causes, diagnosis and treatment of diabetes. In some individuals it is caused by a malfunction of either the thyroid or adrenal glands and when the problem with those glands is treated, the person is no longer diabetic.

In most persons, though, diabetes is a life-long disease which can have severe consequences leading to blindness, nerve damage or loss of limbs, if left untreated or not monitored properly. Mascarenhas suggested persons with the following symptoms check with their physicians to be tested for diabetes: increased urination, thirst and appetite, with or without blurred vision, itching, fatigue or slow-to-heal cuts.

Doctor's Community Hospital has established a Diabetes Care Center to help the community understand the disease better. Two free educational programs are a five hour course and a support group. The next group will meet on November 17 at 7:30 p.m. for a program on holiday eating. For more information or to register, call Elaine Stone at 301-552-5123.

ists and filmmakers, was held last year at Cheverly's Publick Playhouse and was a huge success.

So run, do not walk, to the Greenbelt theater, bring all your friends, and don't forget to join the Friends of the Greenbelt Theater.

Roosevelt Presents Fine Fall Concert

by Dennis Jelalian

The Greenbelt community has a wonderful resource in the talented music students and teachers at Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS). The students usually sing and play with more skill than might be expected from average high school students as they showed at the Fall Concert November 6.

There was preconcert music played by a woodwind quartet. More music from this group would have been welcome. It would have been nice to incorporate this quintet into the rest of the concert. They would have made a nice contrast to the massive groups that provided the rest of the program. The music teachers should be encouraged to feature more small groups.

There were seven groups featured in the concert. Sally S. Wagner directed Concert Band I and the Wind Ensemble. Scott D. Laird directed the Concert Orchestra and the Chamber Orchestra. Dr. Barbara W. Baker directed the Gospel Choir and the Women's Choir. Rebecca J. Holtz directed Concert Band II.

All the groups performed well with a few minor exceptions. Sometimes the singers' diction was poor and the words could not be understood. Some of the players had problems with pitch. Some pieces, notably the Baywood Overture (Concert Band II) and the Renaissance Suite, lacked the expected panache.

One puzzling problem was that the 29 sopranos of the Gospel Choir could hardly be heard. This may be related to the poor acoustics of the auditorium previously noted. The altos managed to make themselves heard, but there were more of them, and lower voices tend to carry better.

Outstanding numbers in the program included Russian Triptych (Concert Band II), Spirit (Gospel Choir), and the Shoop Shoop Song (Women's Choir). The instrumental works showed to best advantage with good orchestrations that made each part stand out.

Symphony #1 by Daniel Bukvich is in memory of the bombing that caused a fire storm in Dresden in 1945. This eerie work is complete with the drone of aircraft, the rattle of machine guns, bombs exploding and people screaming. When the raid is over, the flames die out, the stage lights fade to total darkness, and total silence. Then the orchestra mimicked a lone baby whimpering and crying in the dark. This unusual work received enthusiastic applause.

Education Week to Be Observed by Legion

Plans for participation in observance of American Education Week, November 15-21, have been set in motion by the Auxiliary of Greenbelt American Legion Unit No. 136. This year's theme, "Teaching Children to Think and Dream," reflects 77 years of concern and interest by the American Legion family and other professional groups. Unit 136 expressed its appreciation to the teachers of several community schools in October by delivering baskets of apples and a poem of appreciation. During the coming week the Unit will also provide bookmarks encouraging students to read which will be given to each child who visits the school library. During the week and throughout the year, publications encouraging safety, civic pride and scholarship will be distributed.

American Education Week is for everyone - not just for active parents and educators. Participation by visiting community schools during this week will demonstrate commitment to providing a high quality of education for Greenbelt's children. The Auxiliary urges all citizens to plan now for a visit to a local school during the coming week.

new highway on another side of Greenbelt, said Roberts, for this is a new highway in the making. What is happening is the state and county are using federal funds to start the widening of Kenilworth Avenue up to Laurel and the Inter-County Connector, he continued. Can we affect the federal funding of the project, he asked Kelly.

"There's a huge snowball rolling down the mountain and you guys are trying to redirect it. At worst you will earn their respect, at best you will find an alternative," Kelly responded. However, he asked the council to bear in mind that "these guys" are convinced they have the best alternative. Kelly advised looking at the mitigation plans, reviewing the entire project file, having a formal meeting with the United States Corps of Engineers and Maryland Department of the Environment (and set a serious tone by having the city attorney present), and hire a traffic consultant to look at the traffic situation. But, he cautioned, he believed that unless the city could find a viable alternative to the proposed wetland mitigation that they will go ahead with it.

Council concurred with Kelly's suggestions and asked city attorney Robert Manzi to send a letter requesting a meeting with the state Water Management Administration.

Medical Building

A combined medical office building and ambulatory surgery center will be built near the Holiday Inn. In June a detailed site plan for the two story building was approved by the Prince George's County Planning Board. Now the developer wants to add a third floor. This would increase the building size from 28,200 to 42,300 square feet.

The developer sought council approval of the new plans and approval to waive the requirement of 68 parking spaces that would be required with the increased square footage. The developer argued that parking spaces could be used in the Holiday Inn parking lot next door since the two businesses have different peak hours. City staff visited the site and found this was the case - the hotel has low usage rates during the day, which is when the new medical building would be used the most.

News at Greenbelt Community Center

by Dorothy Sucher

It looks like Windows 98 for the Greenbelt Community Center—or maybe 99. Not the Microsoft kind, but the kind that lets in the sunshine, as well as the draughts. Two and a half years after the newly-remodeled Community Center opened, the decrepit old windows are due to be renovated. Funded by a state grant of $200,000 and an equal amount from the city, the window project will soon be put out for bids, and renovation will begin in either the fourth quarter of this year or the first quarter of next year.

According to Joe McNeal, coordinator of the center, the windows will probably be refurbished, not replaced. Speaking at a meeting of the Community Center tenants on October 6, he explained that the windows will most likely be lifted out, frames and all, and taken away to be renovated. One room will be done at a time, and in the meanwhile the window openings will be boarded up. He estimated that the work on each room will probably be completed in about a week.

The possibility of using en-

The city council approved the waiver of parking spaces and the revised site plan. Various minor conditions were part of the approval of the latter.

The council unanimously voted to repeal and reenact the part of the city code that deals with zoning. Earlier this year the city received limited zoning authority from the county. As part of this the city had to make changes in the part of the code that deals with zoning.

ergy-conserving "low-E" glass was discussed, and all the artists who were in attendance expressed concerns regarding their need for natural light in their studios. According to McNeal, this issue will be "thoroughly reviewed and considered when deciding on the kind of glass that is installed."

New Control Counter

A new reception desk and counter will be installed in the lobby, opposite the main office, using a design consistent with the decor of the building. It is to be staffed all day and evening, and should help improve customer service and security.

Other Items

The ongoing need for improved interior and exterior signs was discussed, and McNeal stated that additional funding to cover the costs has been requested in fiscal year 1998/99. In the meantime, temporary signs will be installed to help alleviate problems.

The Community Center staff is developing a "welcome book" for visitors to the building, and occupants of the building are asked to forward information and photographs for the book to Sarah Schaffer.

The Community Center newsletter is to be revived, and information should be submitted to Malia Murray in the main office. The deadline is the 25th of each month.

New Staff

New staff members include office assistant Malia Murray, recreation coordinators Sarah Schaffer and Greg Varda, and maintenance worker John Baluch.

Medical Equipment Available on Loan

Area residents with a confirmed diagnosis of multiple sclerosis (MS) may be eligible to receive the free loan of therapeutic medical equipment such as wheelchairs, portable ramps, canes, walkers, and other items according to the Multiple Sclerosis Association of America. MSAA, now heading into its 29th year of service, provides the free loan of such equipment to qualified members who cannot secure assistive devices either on their own or through private insurance or government programs. To learn more about this program, call the MS Association at 1-800-833-4672 or access www.msaa.com.

In addition to standard pieces of therapeutic equipment, the program offers limited supply of custom equipment as well as the loan of "cool suits." Utilizing NASA spinoff technology, the cool suit (vest and cooling unit) lowers the wearer's body temperature by one degree. Studies have shown this lowering of body temperature offers temporary symptom relief for MS sufferers.

As part of UMUC's Embassy Series of colloquia, Ambassador Chan Heng Chee will discuss the role that her nation, one of Asia's four "little dragons," plays in the economy of Southeast Asia.

America Recycles Day Is Sunday

One of Governor Parris Glendening's first environmental actions since his reelection is to declare November 15 as America Recycles Day in Maryland. This second annual America Recycles Day is a national event that promotes recycling, source reduction and buying products made from recycled materials as means to achieving a more sustainable society.

As an incentive to draw people into the messages of reduce, reuse and recycle, participants will use pledge cards as contest entry forms for a random national drawing for the "American Green Dream House" whose value is $250,000, including property costs. The house to be constructed will be a brand-new 3 bedroom, 2-1/2 bath home built primarily with recycled content and energy efficient materials. The first entry drawn for a contestant under 18 will win a trip to Disney World for a family of four.

In Maryland the state's non-profit recycling organization, the Maryland Recyclers Coalition (MRC), will again spearhead the state's ARD efforts. MRC will promote and coordinate a range of activities across the state; check their website for details: www.marylandrecyclers.org.

For further information contact Richard Keller, chief of Recycling, Maryland Environmental Service, 410-974-7254.

Tooth Whitening

Do you look into a mirror and feel badly about your smile? Do you change your smile during photographs? Are you self-conscious about your teeth?

Among the many methods of improving one's smile, Tooth Whitening is probably the least expensive, easiest, and quickest way to have an immediate impact on your smile.

Tooth whitening is a process that lightens discolorations and stains in enamel and dentin. The system uses a mild solution retained in a custom fitted appliance that is worn over your teeth for 1 1/2 hours a day or while you sleep. This procedure is safe and won't harm your teeth or gums. The procedure usually takes 2 weeks to complete. Whitening toothpastes purchased over the counter are ineffective, and if abrasive, can actually harm your teeth.

Prepared as public service to promote better dental health. From the office of: Walter M. Miller, D.D.S. • Norman R. Ressin, D.D.S., 6215 Greenbelt Rd., College Park, MD 20740. Telephone: (301) 474-2000; Fax: (301) 474-3440; www.bestsmile.com

Hello Again:
It is now the time of year when we depend on our vehicle headlamps and tail lamps. The lighting circuits are energized sooner with the time change. And, the lighting circuits are one of those forgotten items that no one seems to check until someone tells you that you have a lamp out, or maybe a police officer writes you a safety repair order.
With that in mind, I would suggest a quick inspection of your vehicles' lighting system. Just simply walk around to insure that all areas are properly lit up, that all are evenly lit, not one area brighter than the other. Switch on the high beams to check them. To check the brake lights get close to a flat object and step on the brakes. You will see the reflection of both sides. This is a quick test. To confirm, employ the aid of a helper to make sure.
Generally we at the repair facility replace both headlamps as a pair. This extends the service life and voltage loads.

Actors Offer Convincing Performances in "Algernon"

by Altoria Bell Ross

The Greenbelt Arts Center rendered a riveting performance of "Flowers for Algernon" on opening night, Friday, November 6, a drama by David Rogers based on Daniel Keyes' novella. The drama originally was released as a motion picture in 1962, also based on the novella; in 1992 it was renamed "Charly" and made into a new film which starred Cliff Robertson, Claire Bloom, Lilia Skala, Leon Janney, and Ruth White.

Charlie Gordon, the main character, is a 32-year-old mentally retarded man who wants to become smart. He is given the same experimental medical procedure as Algernon, a lab mouse whose mental abilities escalate. The play follows both the mouse's and Charlie's development after the operation and focuses on how Charlie handles his past, present, and future.

In the Greenbelt production, Chuck Dlubny as Charlie and Sheilah Crossley-Cox as Charlie's mother were remarkable in portraying their roles with emotion and complexity. Dlubny was charming and lovable as the retarded young man, whose halting speech and simple language drew in the audience. As his character matured, Dlubny convincingly changed his body language, speech, and attitude. Crossley-Cox was captivating as Charlie's mother. She impressively pulled off being rational, volatile, and not so sane. Crossley-Cox and Phil Brandis, Charlie's father, artfully exchanged heated dialogue that built tension in several of the dream scenes.

The other supporting actors also contributed to an intensifying performance. Callie Hunter was sensitive and pensive as Charlie's teacher, Alice Kinnian. Fourth-grader Jacob Snider as Little Charlie and sixth-grader Will Snider as Teenage Charlie did excellent jobs shadowing the adult Charlie in the dream scenes.

Michaela Haber, who is in the fourth grade, spoke loud, clear, and expressively as Little Norma.

Among adult performers Judy Holland struck a couple of funny bones as Mrs. Money, Charlie's landlord. Phyllis Kay epitomized Mrs. New York with her nasal accent and grand gestures as Mrs. Donner, the baker. Michael Gilmore was effective as the uptight, hard-line Professor Harold Nemur, as was Jean Roth-Hawkins as the kind Dr. Janet Strauss.

In the novella and the play, Dr. Strauss was male but Director Norma Ozur said she decided to cast a woman instead. "Dr. Strauss was more sympathetic, warmer, and more of a contrast to Dr. Nemur, who was much colder," she said.

In the novella, Charlie wrote in diary form. Rogers transformed these diary entries into insightful monologues. One of the blocking problems that occurs when the Greenbelt Arts Center is broken into three sections is invariably that an actor's back is turned to the audience. Director Ozur solved this problem by having Dlubny face each section of the audience and address them during two of his monologues. The blocking also worked well in Algernon's "escape" during the convention scene and the tripping of Charlie during the dance.

Ozur's use of masks during the dream scenes also heightened the effect of Charlie's initial inability to remember his parents' faces.

But don't you forget — to come out, that is. This thought-provoking and powerful production continues on Friday, November 13 and 20; Saturday, November 14 and 21 at 8 p.m.; and Sunday, November 15 at 2:30 p.m.
