

New Building for Post Office Delayed 'til Covenant Resolved

by Elaine Skolnik

Greenbelt postal workers at the Roosevelt Center post office expressed disappointment when they learned that federal construction funds for the projected new post office building at the corner of Hanover Parkway and Ora Glen Drive (behind the Banc 1 building) had been shifted from fiscal year 1999 to fiscal year 2000, postponing construction of the new facility. The delay results from unresolved litigation over the land in question. In the words of John Turpin of the U.S. Postal Service's Facilities Department: "We have a contract [for the land] but have not closed on acquisition. There is one minor title question." This question concerns a unilateral covenant placed on the property in 1991 by former owner Green Ora Limited Partnership, which would permit only office development on the site. Gary Modjeska of Green Ora and the Midland Company claims that the unilateral covenant placed on Lot 2, where the post office would be built, runs with the land, even though Green Ora lost the property when Madison National Bank, their lender, was taken over in 1994 by the FDIC. The FDIC then sold the land.

Although earlier land covenants had always been signed by both the owner and the city, the City of Greenbelt and BJB

Associates LC, the present owners of the post office site, wanted to remove this restriction. They therefore filed suit in Upper Marlboro's Circuit Court against Green Ora, challenging its right to impose a unilateral covenant. Later the U.S. Postal Service also joined the suit. (BJB Associates is a limited liability company whose parent company is reportedly the Peterson Companies.) No date has been set for a hearing on the request of the city and BJB for summary judgment.

In describing summary judgment, Bruce Marcus, attorney for BJB, explained, "All the papers (in the case) will show only a legal issue needs to be resolved.... This can be achieved without the need for a full trial." The judge in the case will either grant or deny the Motion for Summary Judgment. Any of the parties could then appeal the judge's decision.

History

In 1987, four years before the unilateral covenant, Midland and the Rubin Company constructed Commerce Center Office Building I on Lot 1. This is located at the corner of Hanover Parkway and Greenbelt Road, just north of Lot 2, the proposed post office tract. Midland also built Commerce Center II on Lot 3, located southeast of Lot 2. Green Ora's Modjeska contends that a post office facility on Lot 2 between the two office buildings would lower the value of the surrounding office building properties.

He told the News Review that he had envisioned that NYLCARE, now housed in Commerce Center II, would extend its campus to Lot 2. However, NYLCARE was acquired by Aetna on July 15, 1998 and is now expected to move elsewhere in the county. The City of Greenbelt argues that the unilateral covenant signed only by the developer should be set aside because it violates earlier covenants and amendments signed by the city and the then-developer.

The original covenants, signed in 1985 by Smith-Ewing, the developer at the time, and the Greenbelt City Council, spelled out the types of development permitted on each of the three lots, but then offered the right of substitution based on traffic generation. This action was taken because the properties were zoned Commercial Shopping Center, which neither the developer nor city desired.

Greenbelt Nursery School Seeks City Council's Aid

by Altoria Bell Ross

On June 10, the Greenbelt Nursery School and Kindergarten met with the Greenbelt City Council during a worksession to pursue ways of reducing the school's operating expenses.

Board members told council that the school began accumulating a near-$14,000 deficit since last year, but the deficit has been covered by the school's reserve funds. This deficit is due in part to the higher cost of renting three classrooms in the Greenbelt Community Center for $1,830 a month versus the $600 they had paid when the school occupied the Greenbelt Community Church until 1995, the board said. The other problem is that the school space is not being used to capacity. School Director Pat Schreiber said the school had tried a variety of methods to get parents to enroll their children in programs other than those in the morning so that the whole school would be in use.

"Generally, our afternoon classes are second choice at best," said Schreiber. However, in another attempt, the school will move the kindergarten class from the morning to the afternoon for the 2000-2001 school year. The board also decided to ask council to help the school by reducing its rent to $1,500, waiving the $50-per-hour fee for using the community center gym for fundraisers, and including a $120 bi-weekly cleaning service.

Prior to its meeting with council, Schreiber said the school had already decreased the staff by attrition, cut the cost of field trips, reduced expenses for the school's library, and added extra fundraisers. At present, the school operates solely on money it receives from tuition and fundraising. The school also takes part in several recycling programs and receipt programs with local grocery stores, (see box on page 9).

Mayor Judith Davis suggested the school might have an alumni or founder's day to raise funds. "There are enough people in this area that have ties (to the school)," she said. "Just try it and see."

Schreiber said that indeed some graduates do stay in the area, which is evident during the Labor Day parade when the members of various organizations participate.

"The nursery school trains all the rest of the volunteers that make Greenbelt a success," said Schreiber. "They get a strong foundation in their training at the nursery school."

Founded in 1942, the non-profit school is run by parents who agree to volunteer with the school in one or more areas: in the classroom, with finance, administration, fundraising and cleaning of the school. Mayor Davis said the school's work had not gone unnoticed.

"We definitely appreciate the work you have done to incorporate yourselves into the community," she said. "We are positively going to work on this."

Five New Police Officers Hired, Greeted by Council

by Jason Martens

The July 12 regular city council meeting featured two presentations considered beneficial to the city. Greenbelt's security issues were addressed as five new police officers were sworn in. The second presentation featured a program highlighting historical landmarks in Greenbelt and surrounding areas often overlooked.

The newly appointed police officers, Beatrice Sullivan, Michael Downey, Louis Gonzales, Craig Caiton, and Randy Marks, had gone through a rigorous process before being hired. The officers were taken from a select group. Of an original 100 applicants only 30 passed the test. In speaking about the process of becoming an officer, Police Chief James R. Craze said, "It's not easy to become a Greenbelt police officer."

A majority of the officers come with past crime enforcement experience. Beatrice Sullivan has worked with the Greenbelt Police Department for the last five years as a dispatcher. Louis Gonzales, Craig Caiton, and Randy Marks previously served in the military, bringing additional experience to their new positions.

Following the ceremony Mayor Judith Davis addressed the new officers: "I know that you will add to our police force in measurable ways."

Councilmember Edward Putens also addressed the officers: "This is a professional organization and you will be looked upon for professionalism."

First Run Movies Need Big Audience to Profit

by Altoria Bell Ross

Theatre owner Paul Sanchez is hoping movie goers will come to the Greenbelt Theatre to see newly released movies rather than going to other cinemas to view them.

In May, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" ran in the historical movie house at the same time it opened across the country, and nearly 3,000 people saw it in old Greenbelt. In the past, the theatre got movies weeks after showing elsewhere. However, Sanchez said despite doing more business, he is paying out more money.

With the older movies, Sanchez said the theatre normally would give the movie distributor 30% to 35% of the box office sales. Now, he has to agree to show a new movie for a month no matter how it fares in Greenbelt and pay a descending percentage to the distributor for each week: 70%, 60%, 50%, and 40%. Also with the first-run movies, the theatre's advertising expenses have increased for it to appear in the "Washington Post."

"It's probably a break-even situation," he said about the revenues for a "Midsummer." "[But] if you try to build a business up, you've got to take a chance on it."

So Sanchez took another chance on the new movie, "An Ideal Husband." A little more than 1,500 people turned out to see the movie in its first week. With two more remaining, Sanchez is hoping the theatre will attract even more movie goers. He added,

"Time will tell."

Missing

Our Italian miniature greyhound who answers to "Wishbone" with a beige patch over his eye is missing.

He is a beautiful dog, a racing hound, and loves to run, outrunning nearly every other dog. We miss him dearly! He weighs 14 lbs., stands about 20 inches high at the shoulder and looks like the hound on the greyhound buses.

Mom and Dad took him to the Greenbriar garden plot on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. and made sure to lock the two gates. While they were gardening, Wishbone disappeared. They are distraught, especially Dad, as he is an important part of their lives.

He is collared, with a tag showing our home phone number of 301-474-1781 and his medical tags.

Please help us find him. I'm offering a reward and can be reached at 301-292-0700, ext.

Grateful

Once again, congratulations to the Public Works Dept. for splendidly completing their crushed-stone gray surface around the lake. This time they tackled the entry-exit areas. It's such a pleasure now to access the lake area via the Greenhill entrance. This morning (Tuesday), after a night of rain, I didn't have to carefully navigate my way through a wet, muddy, puddled morass before reaching the path around the lake. Similarly, it was great exiting the lake area via the path that goes by St. Hugh's, and experiencing a smooth gray pathway, radically unlike the rocky, creviced, rooty pathway of old. Perhaps it's my imagination, but I see more people venturing around the lake. It's accomplishments like this that promote and encourage such usage. I'm very grateful.

Our Neighbors

Our sympathy to the family of Gloria Gleason, who died on June 28.

Congratulations to Coit Hendley, chemistry teacher at Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS), who received a 1999 Presidential Award for Excellence in Mathematics and Science Teaching. This award is the nation's highest commendation for K-12 math and science teachers. Each award includes a $7,500 grant from the National Science Foundation which goes to the recipient's school.

Diana Hugue and Jason Burek of ERHS have each received Merit Scholarships from the University of Maryland. Sponsored by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, the Merit Scholarship Awards are made possible by grants from approximately 600 independent sponsors. Congratulations.

Congratulations also to area students who received 1999 Project Excellence Scholarships. Founded by journalist Carl Rowan, the Project Excellence Foundation awards scholarships to African-American youth who have excelled academically and display outstanding writing and speaking skills. Scholarship recipients are as follows: Jocelyn Mason, ERHS, Ashleigh Goldberg, Parkdale HS, Carl James, ERHS, Michael Lang II, Parkdale HS, and Patrick Siewe-Siyam, Parkdale HS.

Nancy DePlatchett was one of six Prince George's County educators who were awarded Certificates of Study from the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. This certificate recognizes educators who have continued their professional development in the arts by participating in 30 or more hours of study during a two-year period in the Kennedy Center's Professional Development Opportunities for Teachers Program.

Mathieu Amon Kovame of Emily's Way received academic honors in science from Purdue University. To earn the honors, students must have at least a 3.5 semester or cumulative grade-point average. Honors were awarded for the spring 1999 semester.

Senior Softball Team Struggles With Losses

The saga of senior softball continues this year with zero wins and twenty-three losses. That's 0-23 in shorthand and shorthanded. The team lost several games as the result of injuries, vacations, and players moving out of the area. Despite their winless season, the senior softball team does have some highlights. New additions to the team include Don "Lefty" Smith of Greenbelt who has hit a couple of long ball homers. Other new players are Jim Cole and Ray Reed, who have banged out several 2 base and 3 base hits.

In giving a reason for the teams losses, Burt Kerr said: "We seem to be able to stay in the game for 4-5 innings and then fatigue sets in allowing the opposing team to get more runs than we are getting." Optimistically Kerr says, "Anyway the way we look at our games is that they are good exercise and fun. The senior softball team encourages people who would like to come out and see us play." The next home game is at Schrom Hills Park on July 21 at 10 a.m. For more information call Burt Kerr at 301-474-9498.

In the event of rain, the performances will be staged at alternate locations. In Bowie the performance can be seen at the South Bowie Community Center and in Laurel at Deerfield Run Elementary School.

The theater also encourages people to bring lawn chairs and blankets. The performances are free.

First Graders Excel in Musical Program

by Barbara Likowski

Who would expect that first graders could put on a musical performance, complete with chorus, that had all the discipline and credibility that one would expect from much older children? Greenbelt Elementary School's first graders did just that this spring.

Parents, friends and students were treated to a musical rendition of "The Little Red Hen" (by Carol Kaplin and Sandi Becker). The characters were all animals. There was Corrine Hughes as the hen; Olatobi Iguade, Whitney Byrd, Nathan Trexler and Bria Alston, as the chicks; Jenny Lindvall, the cow; Cartrell Wiggins, the cat; Griffin Jayne, the pig and Theodoretus Breen, the fox. Each child wore noses and ears of the animals he/she portrayed. All seemed to take their parts seriously. There was very little wiggling as one might expect from first graders. This was serious business and each child seemed eager to play his/her part well in spite of the fact that they did not talk or sing.

It was the chorus that provided the audio part. And what a great job they did! It was the more than 60 first graders represented the five first grade classes sitting right up in front of the audience that made it all possible. They sang with enthusiasm, used motions such as pretending to flap their wings when they sang about the chicks and seemed to enjoy every minute of it all. Of course, there was an occasional missed cue here and there but that didn't detract at all from the overall performance. In fact, it seemed to add to the audience's enjoyment of it all. These, after all, were young children doing a super job but young children nevertheless.

Greenbelt Elementary's vocal music teachers Dennis McDade, narrator and director LeslieAnne Bird, can be proud of this performance as can all of the young participants.

Swim Team News Barracudas v Wahoos

by Leslie Hilliard

It was a fight to the finish between the Barracudas and the Wahoos. On Saturday, July 10 the Greenbelt Municipal Barracudas battled it out with the West Laurel Wahoos in our fourth swim meet of the season. It was an exciting swim meet despite the heat. Event by event the point spread shifted, tied, and shifted again, both teams battling to take or maintain the lead. After the Individual Medley events the score was announced. It all came down to the relays.

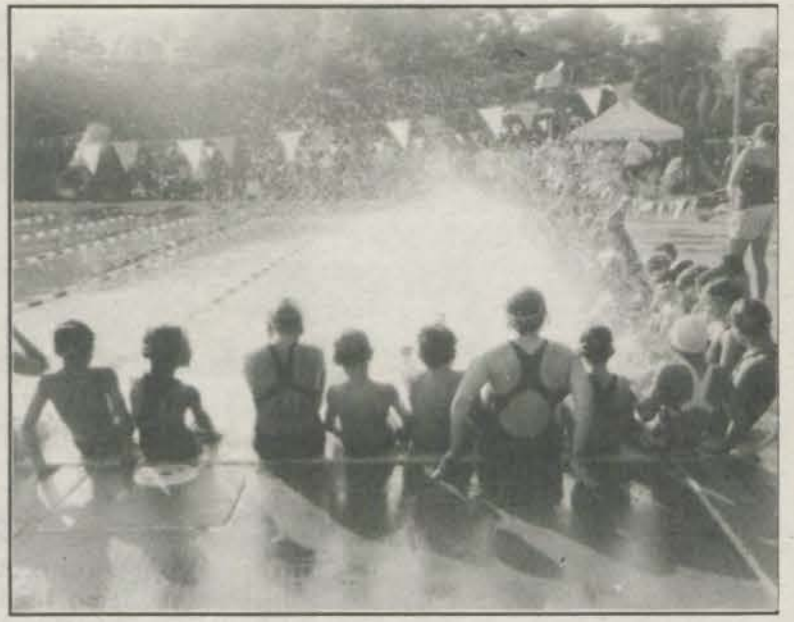

The coaches on both sides had pored over their swimmer's stats to put together the best relay teams for the event. Matching our best with their best. Which team would prove the winner? Would it be the Barracudas or the Wahoos? The teams assembled. "Swimmers, take your mark!" The crowd was hushed. The sound of the buzzer cut through the stifling heat and humidity. Dive after dive, swimmers entered the pool as their teammates finished their leg of the race. The water was churning with activity. The sound was almost deafening as both teams urged their swimmers on. Cheers alternated from both sides of the pool, then one side grew louder. Spectators threw up their hands and danced around. It was over. The West Laurel Wahoos, 264, the Greenbelt Municipal Barracudas 266. The Greenbelt Municipal Swim Team (GMST) won their second meet by two points.

Once again GMST would like to congratulate their triple winners from the meet, 18 year old Ronnie Park and 10 year old Maresa Like-Mathews. Ronnie Park earned this distinction in the 50 Meter Butterfly with a time of 0:29.15, 100 Meter Freestyle (0:57.16) and 100 Meter Individual Medley (1:06.38). Maresa Like-Mathews' winning events were: 25 Meter Butterfly (0:17.73) 50 Meter Freestyle (0:33.73), and 25 Meter Backstroke (0:18.56).

So what else have the Barracudas been up to? On Sunday July 11 GMST sponsored a Mini-B Meet for swimmers age 5 to 10 to prepare them for the big Knights of Columbus Mini-Meet on Sunday July 18. For some swimmers this was their first meet experience. There was some initial nervousness with the youngest swimmers. Some of them surprised themselves and their parents with how well they swam. Every swimmer earned a meet ribbon. There were many smiles all around.

Before the competition, Greenbelt team competitors line the pool side for an opening kicking cheer.

And they're off! Greenbelt and West Laurel 13 and 14 year old boys begin the 25 meter freestyle competition swim race at the West Laurel pool on July 10.

Festival Notes

by Rick Ransom
Photo Show

Get those pictures you've taken this past year ready for exhibition at this year's Labor Day Festival. Photographers of all ages can enter photographs in the Labor Day photographic exhibition. There are varied categories to recognize photos in landscape and portrait orientation and in color or black and white effect. Past shows have included many scenes from Greenbelt as well as moments captured with children, parents, grandparents, pets, and friends. The wonderful horticultural work done by the city under the direction of Bill Phelan provides excellent subjects for nature photography. Buddy Attick Park is always a good background, as well as Roosevelt Center with the newly-refurbished Mother and Child Statue. We always look forward to seeing pictures from around the world as well. There is no advance registration, but photos must be ready for handling and display. More detailed information will be provided as the Festival approaches. In the meantime, you can contact Prospero or Ann Zevallos at 301-345-9696.

Day Festival, is separated into adult and children's rooms at the Greenbelt Community Center. Artists living, working, or attending school in Greenbelt are eligible to share their art work with the community. There is no fee. Prizes are awarded in various categories and presented on the Festival stage during the festivities. Past shows have showcased paintings and sketches, as well as clay sculptures and other forms of artistry. The show has been a premier attraction giving those attending a wide spectrum of classical work along with art in modern themes. (Note: This is one show you won't want to miss, along with the Photo Show.) Details and an official entry form will be posted in later editions of the News Review. Contact Barbara Simon at 301-474-2192.

Pet Show

Pet owners, too, will want to begin to prepare for the annual Pet Show, even though no advance registration is necessary. All types of pets are welcome at this annual Labor Day event. Dogs, cats, birds, fish, gerbils, mice, rabbits, hamsters, frogs, turtles, and the odd snake or two have participated in the past.

The show recognizes the many fine qualities of pets from best personality to prettiest color to brightest coat. The value of pets to their owners is a general theme as well. The Pet Show is organized under the direction of Girl Scout Troop 3030.

Ticket Booth Workers

The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee is again soliciting high school students, 15 or older, to work in the ticket-selling booths during scheduled times on Labor Day weekend. Students can earn money or community service hours. They can also accumulate community service hours by helping in other areas. The Committee also needs adult volunteers to help with counting, recording and securing money and keeping individual banks, serving in the Welcome and Information Booth, and relieving others sitting at special events such as the Photo and Art Shows. Please contact Karen Yoho at 301-982-9626 if you can help us during the festival itself. These positions do not require attendance at regular meetings of the committee, although there is normally one organizational meeting just prior to the festival itself.

Souvenir Program

The Festival committee is preparing the third annual edition of the souvenir program. It will again contain a full schedule of festival events, pictures and bios

Photographer(s) Needed

Our wonderful official photographer, Joe Polanin, has retired after many years of service. If you can help us by attending a few Festival activities, both before and during the actual Labor Day weekend, we could use your photographing talent. We need photos of the Miss Greenbelt contestants, festival revelers, booth contestants, parade marchers (and preparers), city officials, pie-eating contestants, and a host of others participating in Greenbelt's biggest community event. As with all of our volunteer assignments, we encourage you to enjoy yourself while providing a pictorial record of the fun enjoyed by all. If interested, please call Barbara Ransom at 301-441-1597.

Views On Dental Health

PROFESSIONAL DENTAL CHECKUP

When you have a dental checkup, the surfaces of the mouth tissues, the lips, the tongue, the gums, and the teeth are examined for signs of disease. The dentist also looks for signs of an abnormal bite or of clenching and grinding of the teeth. The effectiveness of your oral hygiene is also assessed.

If you wear dentures, their fit and function will be evaluated. Finally, if tartar is found, your teeth may be scaled to remove these hard, crust-like deposits, then polished and flossed. Your dentist may take X-rays periodically to reveal decay and to detect any bone loss from periodontitis (gum disease).

You will also have an opportunity to discuss your concerns and get informed answers. Remember, the only dumb question is the one you didn't ask. Consult your dentist if your dentures become loose or uncomfortable in any way, if your teeth have thermal sensitivity, if your gums bleed, or if you have other oral health problems.

Heritage Area Association, then presented a demonstration highlighting historical sites in northern Prince George's County.

The program initiative began, she said, with the passage of the 1996 HGI resolution by Gov. Parris Glendening. The Anacostia Trails Heritage Area includes sites in Greenbelt, Laurel, Bladensburg, Riverdale Park, College Park, Hyattsville, Mount Rainier and other municipalities.

During the presentation, Sheldon Goldberg, representing Greenbelt East, addressed the fact that parts of the city were not shown on the Heritage Trails site map. Councilmember Edward Putens said that certain landmarks in Greenbelt East, including Schrom Hills Park (formerly Schrom Hills Airport) were important historical landmarks. Parker said she would address this issue at the next association board meeting.

The program's effort to increase knowledge of local history and to restore historic places was recently aided by Senator Paul Sarbanes, who toured the area and announced the availability of federal funds. Parker said, "When a U.S. senator takes time out of his schedule to recognize something major, things will occur."

During Sarbanes' visit, Mayor Judith Davis asked the senator for contributions for several landmarks within the city. Davis' requests included additional funding for the Community Center, $20,000 for the Mother and Child statue and Old Greenbelt Theatre marquee, and funding for the preservation of the city's wetlands.

The Anacostia Trails Heritage Area has over 85 partners, public agencies and institutions, including the University of Maryland and non-profit organizations. Seven subcommittees and focus groups will also be formed on an as-

Astronomy Day '99 Held At Owens Science Center

by Dennis Jelalian

The Greenbelt Astronomy Club, the Goddard Astronomy Club and the H.B. Owens Science Center held Astronomy Day '99 on, May 22.

Greenbelt Astronomy Club President Tom Bridgman made welcoming remarks, outlined activities for the evening, and offered to answer any astronomical questions.

Russell Waugh, director of the planetarium at the Science Center, got the evening's activities under way with an informative talk in the planetarium on how to find major stars and constellations.

Next Steve Lesnik held "Star Party Boot Camp." It wasn't as intimidating as it might sound. Lesnik simply covered the basics of what it takes to get started in astronomy, and how to choose a first telescope.

Perennial performer Doug Love

(posing as the Old Astronomer) told amusing tales of how stars and constellations got their names.

At 8 p.m. the Astronomy Club held the first of two drawings for door prizes.

At 8:15, Dr. Steve Odenwald gave a talk on Astronomy in the 21st Century. Odenwald believes that progress has been so rapid that astronomy will run out of major things to study in the next 50 years. We are near the point of being able to see and understand everything out to the visible horizon. The only remaining tasks for astronomers will be to research phenomena we already know about, such as black holes, and planets outside our solar system.

Patty Seaton, longtime planetarium staff member, read "Poetry Under the Stars" in the planetarium for the third year.

Throughout the evening, refreshments and many displays were available.

Astronomy Day always includes some real astronomy right outside the Science Center. This year the weather did not cooperate, but a few people got to see Mars and a close up view of the moon.

The evening came to a close with the second drawing for door prizes. The club always manages to have a lot of prizes, so many people won something.

If you missed this entertaining and informative evening, make it a point to go next year.
