City Prepared for Millennium And Y2K Ready, Say Officials

by Barry Bernstein

Is the City of Greenbelt ready for the upcoming millennium?

City officials, confident that Greenbelt is Y2K compliant, shared this view with the public at an informational meeting held in the Community Center Multipurpose Room at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, December 8.

"I am here to address specific operation plans to meet the Y2K challenge," Bowman "Bo" Ferguson, the city's Y2K Coordinator, said. During the meeting Ferguson gave an overview of Year 2000 issues; insight into Greenbelt's readiness and contingency planning; and the readiness of other organizations, including the county, state, and federal governments.

Ferguson went over a time line starting in late 1997 that Greenbelt has followed to its current preparation:

In 1998, the city began installation of two new computer systems to replace computers used by city government that were over 12 years old. During the summer of 1999, frequent updates about Y2K compliance were given to the public. In October 1999, city insurance trusts were deemed okay. Later in the month the Y2K Committee briefed city council on the preparation status.

Furthermore, Ferguson described the city's compliance plan mandating that all vendors doing business with Greenbelt be Y2K compliant. Ferguson and his colleagues sent letters to these vendors requesting their reassurance.

Mayor Judith Davis expressed her appreciation for the months and months of work on the Y2K project by Ferguson and other city staff members. "I think that the worst thing that will happen is nothing," she said.

"In January of 1999, one of the vendors had a glitch with the payroll system, but they fixed it," Ferguson said.

"We received almost 100 percent assurance from those companies," Ferguson said. "How can you be so sure? You can't; however, having them in writing, we feel that the writing is based on their reputation," he said.

Problems were also found in other computer systems in the city. The two most costly problems to correct dealt with the police department - the phone system and the parking ticket system. Until January, parking tickets will be done manually.

Other city services have also been updated. The retrack system, which maintains records of people who use Greenbelt's recreation facilities, was fixed. All systems related to accounts receivable and paychecks for city workers are working correctly. Also, all air conditioning systems in city buildings have been tested and, where necessary, redesigned.

According to Ferguson, no one can say for sure, however, that there won't be temporary disruptions in some services.

Millennium Celebrations

Large celebrations in Greenbelt for the New Year will be taking place at the Community Center, the Greenbelt Holiday

A Little Something for Everyone At Greenbelt New Year 2000

by Patti Brothers

Top entertainers from the Baltimore-Washington area will be sharing their varied talents with all of the folks who will be bringing in the New Millennium at the NY2000 Celebration.

The Community Center will host many wonderful performers, including Trinidad and Tobago, a steelband group that has been in existence since 1961. Through music the band has been exposing its audiences to the great sounds of the Caribbean culture. The band has performed for past Presidents of the United States, with many Hollywood entertainers, at various national and local events, as well as at workshops at various festivals and in numerous school systems. DC Motors will follow Trinidad and Tobago in the gym and will bring in the New Year in fine style. DC Motors is a Washington, DC based band comprised of Mike Dimmick, Tom Ross and Art Fox, and has been performing together for over 20 years. The band plays an unusually wide variety of styles with lots of energy and non-stop fun! They performed previously at Greenbelt NY99.

Bridges to Bliss is a trio of three very talented musicians - Bobbi Bliss, Don Bridges and David Scales. The three have been performing since 1995, and while particularly concentrating on children's music for NY2000, their songwriting and performing styles also include folk, country, pop, adult contemporary, theater tunes, gospel and bluegrass. Their sound is characterized by singable melodies, superb harmonies, and memorable lyrics.

Puppet Show

Kaydee Puppets has been touring the Washington D.C. metropolitan area for over 20 years with a variety of wonderful puppet shows, always delighting each and every audience. Each performance is especially designed to create a fantasy world of tales - which will be enjoyed not only by children, but by their parents and grandparents as well.

Blackberry will fill the dance studio with their wonderful Cajun sounds. The evening will start off with a dance lesson followed by two hours of great "make you want to dance - it is polka, romantic or just plain fun - music" performed by Paula Lucas, Joel Bailes, Jim Briley, Miles Spicer and Justin Briley. A good time for everyone is sure to be had!

John Hill's voice and talent on the acoustic guitar will provide an evening of great music in the upstairs lounge. Hill comes to Greenbelt all the way from Havre de Grace, MD. He has done a number of recordings over his career and has been involved in recording and producing radio jingles but says performing for live audiences is his favorite thing. He performs all over Maryland and Delaware in clubs, Legion halls, community festivals and private parties.

Eric Henning, a master magician, will be performing in the Greenbelt Theatre with three

Acquiring Jaeger Tract For Park Often Sought

by James Giese

Once again efforts are being made to acquire undeveloped land adjacent to Westchester Park for Greenbelt Park. This time, a letter writing and petition drive is underway seeking federal and/or state funds for the acquisition of the remaining undeveloped parcels of the Jaeger tract, much of which was developed in the 1960s as Westchester Park. The catalyst for this action is the possible development of the remaining land. V-shaped and owned by the Jaeger family, the original 76.5 acre tract fronted on Edmonston Road and later on the newer Kenilworth Avenue, with the bottom of the V fronting the road and the two extensions jutting into Greenbelt Park.

A D and C Management Company is proposing to buy the remaining acreage and construct 35 detached single-family homes on a 17.4 acre tract located south of Westchester Park Drive, about 300 feet east of Kenilworth Avenue. Two adult garden apartment buildings totaling 60 units are proposed for another 3.7 acre parcel located between the existing Westchester Park condominium townhouse/garden apartment development and the first high-rise apartment building, now a condominium.

Dr. Metts Sets Sight To Raise School Funds

by Nelda Young

Money was the theme of Superintendent of Schools Dr. Iris T. Metts' presentation to the Greenbelt City Council on December 13. Money to bring Prince George's County's cost per pupil up from the lowest in the metropolitan area. Money to construct, renovate, and convert old buildings into schools. Money to hire additional teachers. Money to increase salaries of current teachers and retain top administrators like Dr. Gerald Boardman, principal of Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

Metts intends, she said, to create a State of the State public school system by finding new money and claiming surplus budget funds for Prince George's schools. Grant development, therefore, is one of her top priorities, and the University of Maryland has been targeted by Metts to create a major foundation for kids. She is looking toward other outside sources as well.

She praised Eleanor Roosevelt High School for its recent selection as an outstanding school by being named a New American School. She noted that ERHS excels in sports as well and won the state football championship the same week it was recognized at the White House for its academic excellence. She pointed out that the feeder schools for ERHS are exceptional.

Officers Dave Buerger and Jim Parker were praised by Metts for developing Greenbelt's police in the schools program. She said she intends to use Greenbelt's program as a model for the county.

For those who are frustrated with the school bus service, she noted, help is on the way. The Prince George's transportation system is being computerized, replacing the old hand-routing system. In the future, when bus drivers call in sick at the last minute, it should be easier to find a substitute driver, because subs are slated to begin receiving benefits.

Earlier in the day Metts visited Johns Hopkins Talent Search program. She suggested that parents of exceptionally gifted students in Prince George's County consider the enrichment classes that are offered at the Rockville, Columbia, and Homewood campuses of Hopkins. These classes are available on weekends and in the summers to those who receive top grades on standardized tests. Metts said the classes cost $2,000 each but that scholarships are available for those in need.

In an exclusive interview following her talk to the council, Metts was asked to comment about Kent County's top scores on the latest MSPAP tests and whether Prince George's schools would address writing skills, problem solving, and use of logic in an attempt to improve scores. Metts said, "Prince George's is quite different from Kent County. ERHS alone has more students than all of Kent County. We have one challenge: to improve all schools." She wants Prince George's schools to go back to the basics of reading, writing and arithmetic. Grant development is her first priority right now.

Carriers Bring Greetings

Around this time of year it has been traditional for the youngsters who deliver the News Review to leave holiday greetings envelopes at the homes they serve. The News Review's financial position is such that we cannot pay our carriers very much. They are therefore dependent on generous holiday donations to supplement their nominal pay.

Most of the carriers range in age from pre-teen to the middle teens. For the younger boys and girls, delivering the News Review is their first job experience. Many of the older carriers started at a young age and continue to deliver the News Review mainly as a service to their neighborhood. It is a learning process for all these youngsters and, in some cases, the instillation of responsibility takes time and patience.

The holiday season affords us all a chance to show appreciation and to provide encouragement for the efforts of these youngsters and at the same time to show understanding for any failings that might have occurred during the year.

Again this year, the carriers will leave envelopes. We hope these envelopes, equipped with our carriers' names and addresses, will be helpful to our readers who wish to show appreciation. In case the carrier's name or address is in doubt, envelopes may be mailed to the News Review, 15 Crescent Road, Suite 100, Greenbelt, MD 20770-1887, for forwarding. Please include your address so we can identify your carrier.

Letters

Thanks

I would like to publicly thank the City of Greenbelt for the generous loan of their sound system for the St. Hugh's School Christmas Pageant on Monday, December 13. As our pageant has grown over the years, the acoustics in the hall are no longer adequate. The City of Greenbelt has once again come to our rescue and provided a much-needed sound system for the evening. Our hall was filled to capacity with over 100 costumed children and even more proud parents and family members.

Thank you to Joe McNeal, Community Center Supervisor, and Greg Varda, Recreation Coordinator, for their kindness. Merry Christmas to all!

Commendation

The News Review is to be commended for the excellent article by Elaine Skolnik describing the controversy swirling about the Jaeger tracts and the development being proposed for them, which if built will have a detrimental effect on our beautiful Greenbelt Park.

This proposed development of 35 houses on the 17.4 acres will affect the water quality of Still Creek which would have to receive the runoff of lawn chemicals and pet waste from the adjacent development.

A few years ago a Park Superintendent and some in the National Park Service expressed to several Greenbelters the belief they had, that Mr. Jaeger, had he lived, would have given these tracts to the Park as he had previously done with other acreage. The previous gift is still referred to by the Park people as "The Jaeger Tract" years later.

The Greens of Greenbelt passed a resolution Monday night opposing the development. The Greens applaud City Council for consistently opposing the development and for urging the Federal Government to purchase this land and add it to the Park.

Lakeside Dog Delays Mail to Local Homes

by Nelda Young

One medium-sized black dog at 6 Lakeside was mightier than rain, sleet, or snow. He stopped the mail on December 6.

When a dog is aggressive, it is standard U.S. Post Office procedure to put the health of the postal carrier before delivery of the mail. So 10 or 12 homes in the Lakeside development did not receive their mail at the usual time that day. Some people received their mail after 5:30 p.m. on Monday. Others received two deliveries on Tuesday.

In all his years of working at the post office, Robert Browning, a manager at the Greenbelt Post Office, said he could not remember a similar dog story.

(The rest of the story that the Post Office did not know follows: a burglar let the dog out of the house and a well-intentioned neighbor who built a stairstep wood pile next to the fence for the homeowner, himself laid up with a broken leg, provided the canine an exit from the yard.)

Henderson Elected School Board Chair

The Prince George's County Board of Education held elections during their reorganizational meeting on Monday, December 6, selecting District 2 Board Representative James Henderson, who represents Greenbelt, as chair.

Henderson was elected to the Board of Education in 1998. He is a retired Air Force major who currently works as a financial consultant. Over the years, Henderson has been involved in a variety of civic organizations including Youth for Understanding, the community Advisory Council on Magnet and Compensatory Education Programs, and the Executive PTA Board at DuVal High School. He chairs the Budget and Administration Committee for the Board of Education.

Condolences to Resa and Hugh Jascourt of Maplewood Court on the death of her mother, Rose Zall, 92. Grandsons Leigh of Tempe, AZ, and Stephen, of Westway in Greenbelt, joined their parents at services at an Annapolis synagogue last week.

Friends and family were saddened to learn of Steve Gingell's death December 14. Our sympathy to sister Karen Smith, brother Ron Gingell and niece Penny Smith.

While most Americans are celebrating the holiday season at home or with family, Navy Seaman David J. Grego, son of David J. Grego of Ridge Road, is scheduled to spend the holidays forward deployed to Yokosuka, Japan, aboard the Seventh Fleet Flagship USS Blue Ridge.

"Golly, I'm glad." That's a quote from Dave Meadows, manager of Old Greenbelt Citgo on Southway, announcing the return of Kelvin Amick as a mechanic. This gives the Citgo three full-time mechanics in addition to Meadows. Stop in for a visit over the holidays to say hello and welcome Kelvin back.

Congratulations to former Greenbelter Michael and wife Carol Sucher of Fairlee, VT, on the birth of Rachel Evelyn on December 8. Proud grandparents are Joe and Dorothy Sucher (she is the noted author and a long time News Review staffer). Rachel Evelyn's maternal grandparents are Amy Hausner of New Jersey and Mel and Frieda Hausner of New York.

Greenbelt resident Aaron Faulkner helped Indiana University of Pennsylvania men's basketball team to victory with 14 points over Kutztown recently. He also had a career-high 18 points to lead IUP to victory over Westminster with its sixth straight win.

Buy a Book Program Sponsored by ACE

As part of its mission to support Greenbelt schools, the Greenbelt Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) is sponsoring a "Buy-a-Book" program. The purpose of the program is to give parents, grandparents, friends and civic groups in the Greenbelt community an opportunity to make a contribution to their school's library collections in order to improve educational resources available to the children.

ACE has collected wish lists from the schools that Greenbelt children attend as their neighborhood school: Greenbelt Elementary, Springhill Lake Elementary, Magnolia Elementary, St. Hugh's, Greenbelt Middle, Robert Goddard Middle and Eleanor Roosevelt High School. ACE has collected the lists in notebooks and given them to two local bookstores - Crown Books at Greenway Center and Bookland at Beltway Plaza.

Individuals who would like to participate in the Buy-a-Book program can request the notebook "wish lists" at the book store's counter and check out what books the school would find most beneficial. After purchasing the book, participants can present them to the school themselves or bring them to the Greenbelt CARES office in Greenbelt. ACE and the Greenbelt schools have bookplates for those individuals who would like to fill them out to honor a special student or use as a memorial.

ACE Buy-a-Book Chair Bart Byers explains, "Donating a book to a school during the holidays is a nice way to recognize a child's teacher. We suggest the program as one idea for those having a difficult time finding just the right gift because it is something the whole school will enjoy."

Co-ministers

Is Christmas coming too fast for you? Slow down with Advent!

The Christmas season seems to start sooner every year. Many stores put up Christmas decorations the day after Halloween! We are pressured to engage in a two-month spending frenzy. The anxiety builds as the shopping days dwindle. So many gifts that still need to be bought! So many parties to attend! So many family gatherings to plan! No wonder we often feel deflated when Christmas Day finally arrives!

There is an alternative. For thousands of years Christian people have observed the four weeks before Christmas as the season of Advent. This is a time of quiet, spiritual reflection—during which we prepare for the coming of God into the world as a human being named Jesus.

We invite you to experience Advent at your local Episcopal (Anglican) Church...

Local Youth Theater Stages "Hippo" Whimsy

The Greenbelt Arts Center's Youth Theater members are hard at work preparing the Arts Center's contribution to the community's Millennium revels. "The Hippopotamus who is wanted to be a Classical Ballerina," a play by Sheilah Crossley-Cox with songs by Trix Whitehall. This is a significant and amusing dramatization of the fortunes of a charming hippopotamus, Cleopota, and her friends as they discuss career choices, relate to the world around them, battle natural and man-made disasters, and instruct unthinking intruders in the ethics of conservation and human relations. The serious basis of this moral tale is leavened by a whimsical and frequently amusing approach to the delivery of the message.

There will be two performances during the evening at 6:30 p.m. (right after the fireworks) and 8:30 p.m. Admission is only by New Year 2000 ticket, obtainable at the Community Center.

The BookKids Enjoy Millennium Party

by Timothy, Mark and Joey Nutwell

On December 8, the BookKids at the Greenbelt Library had a millennium party. The group ate pizza from Generous Joe's. While waiting for the pizza they discussed the books by Mary Downing Hahn that they had been reading for the last month. Everyone there enjoyed themselves.

BookKids is a program at the Greenbelt Library where children ages 8 through 12 talk about their favorite books and authors. Kids read books by their favorite authors and find out about other books and authors as well. Mrs. Jane (Jane Lydon), one of the children's librarians, leads the program.

BookKids meets the second Wednesday of the month from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m..

On January 12, 2000, BookKids will meet again. A famous author, Hahn, will be visiting the group and telling them about her books and answering questions. Hahn was a children's librarian at the Greenbelt Library.

The public is invited to attend a reception and gallery talk with the artist on Monday, January 10, from 7 - 8 p.m., prior to the city council meeting.

Y2K

Inn, the Greenbelt Marriott, and Martin's Crosswinds. The Holiday Inn expects a group of 800 to 1,000 people and 200 people will attend a party at the Marriott. The Community Center is the focal point of Greenbelt's New Year's celebration, co-sponsored by the city and the Recreation Department. Over 2,000 people are expected to be in and around the gymnasium. The building's generator has been tested and is Y2K compliant. A modified generator has also been added to provide heat to the building if the power should go out, according to Ferguson.

The Public Works Department director will also be stationed at the Greenbelt Emergency Command Center located at the Police Department starting at noon on December 31 to give directions to crews that may have to work if a problem should occur. Three-way radio systems will be used at the command center for all operations. Additionally, the generator at the police department has been modified so that operations at the command center will not be interrupted during the New Year.

The Public Works Department also has pre-ordered road salt and gasoline for city trucks. Gasoline pumps owned by the city will be able to operate manually during the time period. Moreover, approximately 25 stop signs were ordered by Public Works if traffic lights in the city should go out. All traffic lights are owned by the county or state and have been checked for Y2K, according to Ferguson.

Greenbelt does not have a computerized water system, so there should be no problems, he said. Just in case of mishap though, Public works is maintaining a list of all water shut-off valves in the city.

"The City of Greenbelt is compliant with the Washington Council of Governments and the President's Council on Year 2000 Conversion as a result of these preparations," Ferguson said.

Public Safety Issues

"I am here to redress specific operation plans to meet the Y2K challenge," Lt. Tom Kemp of the Greenbelt Police, said.

Forty Greenbelt officers will be on call from December 29 through January 4, working under a four-level operation of contingency.

Patrol shifts will be expanded to 12 hours and a special force used for extremely severe problems will be on patrol from noon December 31 to noon January 2. The command post will be located at police headquarters, and a minimum of two officers will be designated at police substations at Beltway Plaza, the Community Center, and Springhill Lake.

Volunteerism will also be very high during the New Year. The Greenbelt Citizens Police Academy Association is allowing 10 volunteers to help the police, according to Kemp.

Other Areas of Readiness

Prince George's County officials have verified 100 percent of the county's core critical systems and 90 percent of their total systems are Y2K compliant, according to Ferguson. The county will have its own emergency operation center, with which Greenbelt will be in hourly contact during the New Year. The county will also have a live satellite link to New Zealand, one of the first countries where the millennium will hit. This will allow a 13-hour notice for the United States.

On the state level, the governor does not expect any problems and the Maryland Emergency Management Association (MEMA) is treating Y2K as if it were any other emergency problem.

Local utilities, including PEPSCO, are ready for the millennium. It will rely on manual power if there should be a problem with its computer systems.

Ferguson also pointed out that the 911 system will not be able to handle an overwhelming number of calls during the New Year. He asked that people wanting to know the status of Y2K at the time of the New Year should call 301-Y2K-1999, the Prince George's County Year 2000 information hotline.

Worst Thing

Major Judith Davis expressed her appreciation for the months and months of work on the Y2K project by Ferguson and other city staff members. "I think that the worst thing that will happen is nothing," she said.

Home Preparedness

"I want to congratulate the community of Greenbelt about being so conscientious with Y2K," Steve Kave of the Greenbelt Y2K Group, said. "Greenbelt is in the top one percent of some 80,000 communities in the country," he said.

"If you haven't started preparing now, don't wait until the last minute. It would take up to three hours to empty the Co-op and three days to restock it," Kave said.

Kave provided his recommended list of preparations for Y2K (see box).

Y2K Preparations

The following preparations for Y2K were suggested by Steve Kave of the Greenbelt Y2K group:

Preparations for Y2K

Stock at least a three day supply of water, canned goods, grains, and dehydrated food.

Water heaters and toilet tanks are good sources of fresh water.

Do not use combustible fuels which cause deadly carbon monoxide to form.

Kerosene and propane are good to use because they cause no carbon monoxide.

Outside grills can be used for cooking.

Keep layers of clothing and blankets for all home dwellers.

Install battery operated smoke alarms.

First-aid kits should be handy.

Get prescription medicines filled.

Have medical records on hand and don't schedule surgery in the first week of January.

Have extra cash in your home but don't have an overabundance.

Have a copy of all financial statements.

Pay all bills now so they arrive before Christmas.

Gas tank in car should be filled.

Be aware of neighbors around you and let them know your plans for the New Year.

Be aware of people that may be at risk (elderly, handicapped, etc.) if problems arise.

Be aware of Y2K scams.

Major Judith Davis expressed her appreciation for the months and months of work on the Y2K project by Ferguson and other city staff members. "I think that the worst thing that will happen is nothing," she said.

Kudos to Businesses

Among nominees for "Excellence in Business" awards given by the Prince George's County Chamber of Commerce in November were Cetrone's Restaurant, Jasper's Restaurant, and the Lions' Eye and Tissue Bank. The Chamber made the awards at a luncheon at the Greenbelt Marriott.

Honorees distinguished themselves "by establishing a reputation for quality, innovation and entrepreneurial spirit."

Chung to IRS Council

John Chung, co-owner of a Greenbelt tax firm, Moryadas Associates, L.L.C., has been appointed to the Internal Review Service Advisory Council. The council provides a public forum for raising, studying, and making recommendations on tax administration as well as IRS restructuring and modernization.

Giant and DRC Agree

The Disability Rights Council of Greater Washington (DRC), and Giant Food, Inc. (Giant), the area's largest grocery retailer, announced a settlement agreement under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). Giant will take steps to ensure that persons with disabilities are provided full and equal access to Giant supermarkets in Washington, Maryland and Virginia. The DRC and Giant speak of the agreement as showing the effectiveness of cooperative efforts between advocacy organizations and responsible businesses to implement the equal access promises of the ADA.

Robinson, Griffin Join Coldwell

Tammy Robinson and Douglas Griffin have transferred to the Greenbelt office of Coldwell Banker Stevens, Realtors as sales associates. Robinson worked for a regional real estate company prior to joining the company. Previously, Griffin worked for several local real estate companies, as a realty specialist at Housing and Urban Development (HUD), and started his own real estate company. He has a broker's license in Washington, D.C. and an associate broker's license in Maryland.

City and Treasurer Awarded Certificate

The Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting was awarded to the City of Greenbelt by the Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada (GFOA) for its comprehensive annual financial report (CAFR). The Certificate of Achievement is the highest form of recognition in the area of governmental accounting and financial reporting, and its attainment represents a significant accomplishment by a government and its management.

An Award of Financial Reporting Achievement has been awarded to the individual designated by the government as primarily responsible for preparing the award-winning CAFR. This award was presented to Jeffrey L. Williams, City Treasurer.

The CAFR is judged by an impartial panel as meeting the high standards of the program including demonstrating a constructive "spirit of full disclosure" to clearly communicate its financial story and motivate potential users and user groups to read the CAFR.

The GFOA is a nonprofit professional association serving approximately 13,500 government finance professionals with offices in Chicago, Illinois, and Washington, D.C.

Much of his work focuses on researching, writing, training and providing expertise to better define and engineer effective organizational and individual performance systems.

Before joining Clifton Gunderson, Braunstein was an Independent Management Consultant providing a variety of services for the National Academy of Public Administration and other organizations in the public sector.

Federal Data Corp. Gets FAA Contract

Congressman Steny H. Hoyer announced the award of a $3.6 million contract to the Federal Data Corporation in Greenbelt by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). The services provided by the local corporation will help the FAA increase safety and security in airports nationwide.

Federal Data Corporation will provide the FAA with training for airport security screeners, and top level maintenance for new detection equipment. They will also train and provide FAA security agents in the field who will oversee compliance of the security regulations.

This contract is the result of Vice-President Gore's Commission on Aviation Safety and Security. The Commission made a variety of recommendations to enhance safety and security. Fulfilling those recommendations has become one of the FAA's biggest priorities.

Girl Scouts Win A Service Award

On October 26, Girl Scout Troop 3030 celebrated a special award ceremony honoring the recipients of the Silver Award. This award is the highest honor awarded to a Cadette Girl Scout. Four members of troop 3030 were presented with their pin and patch to show their hard work and accomplishments. Each girl had to complete many requirements before even beginning to plan their final project. In order to complete a Silver Award Project, each girl must plan, organize and carry through a service project geared to helping in the community. This project had to take at least 30 hours of their time to complete.

Amber Dupree completed her project by organizing four workshops for the Brownies during an end of the year encampment. The girls were taught safety in the woods, knife safety, knot tying and trails signs. Each Brownie went home with the completion of two badges.

Kristel Foerter completed her project by planning and organizing the Labor Day community pet show. She was also instrumental in having PetsMart donate gift certificates to be awarded as prizes.

Laura Wolf and Meredith Dupree worked on their project together by completing a read-along video tape library for sick children. The finished tape and all books were donated to Children's Hospital.

These girls have been an asset to the community and to Troop 3030. As they spend their last three years in Troop 3030 as Senior Girl Scouts, they are again on track to th/ highest award for Girl Scouts, the Gold Award.

Greenbelt Elementary Has Senior Tutors

Inter-generational tutoring has been a part of Greenbelt Elementary School for at least the last five years. Volunteer senior citizens are matched with a first or second grade student and they share an hour a week together learning about reading, writing, and friendship. This national program, called OASIS (Older Adult Service and Information System), provides training and materials for the seniors. The school provides the students.

Currently, Greenbelt Elementary School has eight OASIS volunteers. Other years have seen as many as 13 active participants. Usually a tutor works with the same student throughout the school year but some of the more industrious volunteers work with two students per year. Diane Eades is the school coordinator at Greenbelt and she keeps in close contact with the regional OASIS office located in the Hecht's store at Prince George's Plaza. The May Company and Doctors Hospital are the national/regional sponsors of the OASIS program, providing year-round training sessions and materials for the tutors such as paper and notebooks, a training manual, ideas, a tote bag, crayons, pens and pencils, scissors, sticky notes, 3 x 5 notecards, and a school collection of books to use with the students.

Benefits of being an OASIS tutor include an organizational meeting/luncheon hosted by Eades and discounts at Doctors Hospital ... of course there are no discounts for services such as gall bladder operations, but the discounts are good for special treatment at the hospital's cafeteria and gift shop.

The OASIS regional office can be reached by calling Kathy James at 301-559-6575. The Prince George's Public School System coordinator is Zack Berry from the Youth Development Programs office, 301-883-5304. Calls may also be made to Diane Eades at Greenbelt Elementary School, 301-513-5911.

The OASIS program offers other activities for seniors in addition to tutoring opportunities; there are also trips, arts/crafts classes and other scheduled functions.

NEW YEAR

great mesmerizing shows. Whether weaving an ancient Japanese folk tale with a spool of thread or recounting "Alice in Wonderland" with a pack of cards, Eric Henning's magic evokes the charm of an elegant and unhurried age. And ladies, hold on to your wedding rings (reference to an illusion from last New Year)!

These performers will just be a part of the Greenbelt NY2000 Celebration. In addition, Dave Shuman will be demonstrating his amazing juggling skills in the Community Center and then move to the Youth Center to demonstrate (and teach) his swing dance skills. Talk of the Town will be filling the Youth Center gym with a challenging obstacle course and an always fun sumo wrestling ring and Sight and Sound DJs will be providing music for dancing and singing in the gym as well. Youth bingo will be in the Center also, as well as lots of "fill your belly" food in the form of hot dogs, pizza and much, much more!

The Goddard Storytellers will be telling wonderful tales back in the Community Center and arts and crafts for kids of all ages will be provided by Barbara Simon and the resident artists of the Community Center. Keep an eye out for the clown and balloon sculpturist who will be roaming the halls. The New Deal Cafe will be providing lots of good food in this location all night long.

The "new" New Deal - in Roosevelt Center - will have non-stop entertainment all evening long as well as lots of good food in their new location too. The Arts Center will present the wonderful play "The Hippo Who Wanted to be a Ballerina" (two performances) to be followed by the edgy sounds of Peroxide.

Reduced rate tickets can be purchased at the Community Center now through December 25. Tickets after that date are at a slightly higher price. Children under five are free. Call 301-397-2208 to reserve yours now or for more information. Also check out the New Years website at www.ci.greenbelt.md.us/NewYear.

drive in opposition to the development. The committee favors the remaining undeveloped land being incorporated into Greenbelt Park.

Letters to state and federal officials seeking park acquisition have also been sent out by neighboring municipalities—Greenbelt, Berwyn Heights and New Carrollton. College Park is expected to send out a similar letter.

History

The Jaeger tract was one of a number of tracts originally designated for purchase for the planned model town of Greenbelt, along with other lands that now constitute Greenbelt Park. However, purchase appropriations lapsed before the purchase could be consummated. The DiCamillo tract, now Parkside, located off Good Luck Road was another tract with a similar history. When the Public Housing Administration divested itself of Greenbelt in the 50s, it transferred most of the Greenbelt land south of Greenbelt Road to the National Park Service for Greenbelt Park.

According to the January 30, 1964 News Review, the Jaeger tract was designated to be added to Greenbelt Park. However, "through an error, a congressional bill allocating funds for all the parcels comprising the park listed the Jaeger property at 56 acres. The owner contested the acreage figure and Congress never made a supplemental appropriation."

In 1963, when B.F. Saul proposed the Westchester Park development, the Greenbelt City Council fought the rezoning proposed and actively sought national park acquisition, without success. However, after the original development occurred, more than 28 acres of undeveloped Jaeger property was donated to the park service for the park in the late 70s. More recently, in 1995, while Parkside, now developed with single-family homes, was in the planning and development stage, Anne MacKinnon, then chairwoman of the Prince George's County Council, asked the park service to acquire two of the undeveloped parcels of the Jaeger tract, consisting of 17.4 acres. (The two parcels are the proposed site for the single-family homes.)

Not a Priority

In an August 17, 1995 letter, Joseph W. Lawler, acting field director for the National Capital Area of the National Park Service responded to that request. He said the park service would not buy the land and gave the following reasons why. Budget restraints have plagued the national land acquisition program over the past several years, he said. A backlog of land to be purchased, more than 19,000 acres estimated to cost in excess of $1.3 billion, remained unfunded. Competition is rigorous to obtain such funds as become available, therefore priorities have been established for acquisition, he continued. The park service is mandated to pursue only those properties that possess either natural or cultural resources of national significance.

Lawler then stated that the two parcels of the Jaeger tract did not meet those tests. He also noted that the Prince George's County Council had recently rezoned the vacant property from a residential high-rise classification to the very low density rural residential zoning category as part of a sectional map amendment process. Thus, "The impending threat to park resources as a result of the 'Jaeger tract's' future development has...been significantly lessened," his letter said.

Lawler did tell MacKinnon that "stewardship" of the existing resource will continue to be the park service's priority. He noted how working in partnership with the local community had achieved success in mediating the potential impact from the Parkcrest (now, Parkside) development.

(Elaine Skolnik also contributed to this article.)

Tree Cutting Causes Resident to Sue

A suit on behalf of a Charlestowne Village resident, Joanne Janus, was recently brought in District Court against Charlestowne Village Condominium, Inc. and Condominium Venture, Inc., seeking $25,000 in damages. The suit alleges that defendants failed to provide the required notice of intent to cut down a healthy, mature sweetgum tree. The tree was cut down in September.

The plaintiff's attorney, Patrick J. McAndrew, said on November 30 that he had not yet received copies of a response from defendants.

Efforts by the News Review to reach Condominium Ventures have not been successful.
