Council Ponders Artist Studios And the Purchase of Parkland

by James Giese

Although adoption of the annual city budget was the major item considered at the June 5 regular Greenbelt City Council meeting and took up the greatest amount of the council's time in discussion before it was adopted by a 3-2 vote, the council acted on a variety of other topics as well. Among these were the adoption of an annual plan for use of Program Open Space funds which designated three locations for parkland acquisition and one improvement project. Other business had to do with the purchase of a stake body truck, a liquor license transfer for the Chef's Secret Restaurant, legislative proposals for consideration by the Maryland Municipal League (MML), and committee appointments and resignations.

Artist Studios

The agenda item that engendered the most discussion had to do with a city staff proposed change in policy for the use of artist studios at the Community Center. The council spent more than an hour discussing the need for further discussion of the policy proposal before its approval. The city solicited applications for leasing the four old classrooms designated for artist studio use at the Community Center. Although as many as 12 artists could be accommodated in the space with several artists sharing a classroom, only 13 applications were received and after a review by a jury of artists, only six were recommended as qualified for the leasing of space. The leases are for one year with a renewable option for two more years.

This left two classrooms empty. Staff proposed that one classroom be used as an "artist incubator." The three artists next highest ranked by the jury for potential will be offered studio space for one year and an opportunity to compete again in the jury process next year. Staff proposed that the other classroom be used as a project space for short-term visiting artists associated with the Arts Emerge program and for use by the city and the artists in residence in connection with special events.

Barbara Simon of the Greenbelt Association of Visual Artists (GAVA) expressed reservations with this proposal of Nicole DeWald, city arts coordinator. She noted that the various arts groups were not aware that space would become available for other uses and that there could be other proposals forthcoming for its use. DeWald advised the council that her proposal was for an interim use and that there would be ample opportunity for other proposals to be considered and worked into the use of the studio space.

None of the councilmembers opposed awarding space to the six artists, all Greenbelt residents, who had satisfied the jury. Nor did anyone oppose the temporary leasing of space to three more Greenbelters in order to provide them with space and opportunity to improve their skills and satisfy a future jury. However, City Councilmember Thomas White felt that approval of the new policy could lock in the uses proposed, and felt that there should be opportunity for proposals and discussion before adopting a

County Bill May Expedite Development of Metroland

by Virginia Beauchamp

To support the proposal of Metroland LLC to develop the Greenbelt Metro parking lot area and the adjacent A. H. Smith property as an upscale retail mall and mixed-use office and residential center, the Prince George's County Council two years ago passed a bill, CB-35, to create a new land use category. Called Metro Planned Community, this zone permitted a new use on property previously designated for industrial uses, or I-2.

CB-35 also described in a very specific way what was meant by "upscale"; that is, what kinds of department stores could or could not be built in this zone, what architectural details and amenities would be called for in the highrise residential buildings, and what sorts of landscaping and public facilities would be required.

At virtually the same time, a public Sector Area planning process was beginning, led by a team from the county's Department of Planning under the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Its purpose was to complete the review and prepare a Sectional Map Amendment (SMA) for this parcel east of the CSX railroad tracks that had been left unchanged at the time the College Park-Greenbelt Master Plan had been prepared in 1989. Now completed, the draft document for the Sector Plan was presented Monday night, June 19, in a public hearing before the county council.

Revised Development Concept

In the two years since the Metroland group began marketing its vision with major retailers it hoped would anchor its upscale mall, complications concerning Beltway access to the property and environmental set-asides have emerged. What impact these issues may have had, if any, on securing the clients they desired is not known, but within the last few months the conception of a major retail mall, such as was specified in CB-35, has been modified. The developers now talk of a "main street" design, probably with a single major department store and hotel but primarily residential and

by Judith Ransom Bell

Jay Remenick, president of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, Inc., opened the department's 45th Anniversary Banquet and Awards Ceremony on Saturday evening, March 18 with welcoming remarks and a call to a buffet-style meal catered by Cozy Restaurant. After everyone enjoyed a delicious meal, coffee and dessert, held in the fire department building, Remenick returned to the podium, along with Chief Randy Krob, to introduce guests and to confer well-earned awards on many of the volunteers.

Those honored included Ronald Walters and Camillo Mascio, who were each awarded Life Memberships; Ted Sacra, the President/Chief's Award; and Alex Szachnowicz, who received the President's Award. Among those receiving service awards were Francis Kolbenschlager and Henry Wynkoop, for forty-five years of service, Michael-Dutton and Robert Pergola, thirty-five years; and Jack "Randy" Krob and John "Dickey" Wynkoop for twenty-five years. Total calls for 1999 amounted to 2,573, including 1,333 fire calls and 1,240 Emergency Medical Specialist calls. The top runner was Brian Tayman, with a whopping 861 calls.

Friends Fete Dr. Boarman At His Retirement Dinner

by Nelda Young

As Dr. Gerald Boarman retires after 30 years of service in the Prince George's County Public Schools (PGCPS), expressions of praise and thanks roll in from President Bill Clinton, Governor Parris Glendening, Mayor Judith Davis, co-workers, and friends. During his last eleven years in the system, Boarman was principal of Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

On June 14 friends gathered at Martin's Crosswinds to revisit the impact Boarman had had on their lives and on the county.

Edward Felegy, former superintendent of schools for Prince George's County, called Boarman an informal leader who considered Eleanor Roosevelt "a work in progress."

John Whittington, former assistant superintendent of schools, PGCPS, told of "Little Hercules" using his foot to push open his office door. Boarman remarked, "It was only a flimsy wooden door."

Dr. Michael Reidy, principal, Plum Point Middle School and former dean, ERHS, attended Northwestern High School with Boarman in the 1960s. Even in those days Boarman set unrealistic goals, he said, and then accomplished the impossible. For example, he took his future wife, Valerie, away from an older, bigger, local football star.

"Boarman does what needs to be done," according to Gordon Sampson, principal, Largo High School, including a fiery dance when he "had ants in his pants on the golf course." And, "Little spud always did what was right for the children."

Dr. Bonnie Dill, parent and chair of the Advisory Board at ERHS, sized up Boarman's outspoken nature by saying, "He says what he thinks and why."

Robert Slade, former deputy superintendent, PGCPS, spoke of Boarman's approach to leadership by reminding the students and faculty that ERHS is "your school" and publicly recognizing that "everybody is somebody."

The staff of ERHS was represented by Sharon Walter, curriculum coordinator at ERHS. She summarized Boarman's leadership by referring to his vision of excellence, shared leadership, unselfish generosity with his time, mutual respect offered to all, and his unflinching expression of appreciation to everyone.

All those present agreed with the sentiments of Jim Henderson, member of the Board of Education representing the Greenbelt area, when he summarized the Brrrr!

I visited my former home, Greenbelt, recently and had lunch with two old friends. I told them how I am keeping ahead of rather severe arthritis by participating in the Seattle swim program for persons with such problems and of course asked if there were such a program at the new Greenbelt pool.

I was indeed surprised when both told me they never use the pool because "the water is too cold." Apparently it is assumed that most swimmers are training for the Olympics and prefer temperature in the 70° s, or worse.

After considerable study a few years ago the Seattle Park Department determined that the best temperature to please both the older users and the youngest (classes are held for those only five months old) as well as the distance swimmers and the high school swim teams is a water temperature of 86°. (If this seems warm remember the normal body temperature is 98.6°, and "luke-warm" in cooking means 110°. 86° feels cool when one enters the water.)

Certainly people do not differ physiologically from Seattle to Greenbelt, and there is no sound reason, clearly, why the pool in Greenbelt should be kept so cool that older citizens do not feel able to use it. When one considers that it was these same older citizens who worked hard a few years ago to get the pool it is hard to justify their being excluded from it now. In a word, it is shameful.

Katherine Keene

Ed Note: Greenbelt's indoor pool is maintained at 83° according to Aquatic Center Director George Rogala. The outdoor pool is kept at 78°.

Open Letter

I have served the Greenbelt community and have worked for the Public Works Department for the past 15 years. I have met you at the Community Center, the Labor Day Festivals and all of the various events held in Greenbelt.

It is now time for me to say goodbye. I am retiring on June 30, 2000. I will be taking with me many fond memories, and I will never forget the wonderful years I have had serving your community.

Although I don't live in Greenbelt, I expect to come back and visit your community often. Greenbelters are the nicest people in the world.

Thank you for allowing me the privilege of serving your community.

Shirley Waller

Thanks

My family and I want to thank all those who offered such wonderful support to us upon the death of Irving Siegel.

The outpouring of sympathy and the offers of help were given with great affection which we all felt.

I would further like to express my sincere appreciation to all those who have made contributions to the Washington Home Hospice in Irv's honor and who have set up prayer years, and planted trees in his name. These are wonderful gestures and touch our hearts deeply.

Greenbelt is a great place — its people make it so!

Pearl Siegel and family

Nominations Needed

All of us have had the opportunity to be associated with individuals from Greenbelt who have distinguished themselves for their outstanding volunteer service to our community. Rarely do they receive the recognition they deserve.

Every year, Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen Selection Committee chooses a volunteer to receive this honor during the opening ceremonies of Greenbelt's Labor Day Festival. Besides the recognition and congratulatory proclamations, the honoree serves as the Grand Marshal for the Labor Day Parade.

The committee needs your input to insure that the award is made to the most deserving person. Describe, in your own words, your nominee's acts of kindness and tireless energy. Please take the time to write us about the volunteer you believe should be honored as Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen for the year 2000. If you don't have the time to do a nomination yourself, take the traditional Greenbelt approach — co-op with others to submit a nomination!

A nomination form (on page 16 of the News Review) details the basic information needed for each nominee. The deadline for submission is August 7, 2000.

Can we count on you to keep this one of Greenbelt's special events?

Outstanding Citizen
Selection Committee

Explanation of Rising Tax Rates

by James Giese

I should be happy with reader Jim Heaney's chart that compares city tax increases with increases in the consumer price index (CPI) (see June 1 Letters to Editor). While I was city manager and responsible for preparing the budget (until 1991), the taxes on Heaney's home increased at a rate comparable to that of the CPI or somewhat less. After I left, the rate of taxes went up at a much greater pace.

However, it was not the change in management that caused the greater increase in taxes. I got out while the getting was good. Several factors came together to cause the accelerated increase. Most significant was the recession at that time that, for the first time that I can remember, caused property values to either stagnate or decline. Like other municipalities, Greenbelt has little taxing authority other than upon real property and property taxes are the city's principal source of revenue. Besides existing property values declining, new growth in the city, which was extensive in the '60s, '70s and '80s, slowed down and has nearly come to a complete stop. I balanced many a budget with the added revenue that resulted from new growth.

In the meantime, the city council has declared its desire to maintain and improve and expand city services. This is not a change in attitude by the city council. Its membership has always wanted to better city services. The only problem is that no longer are there added revenues to pay for added costs. Therefore, managers have proposed, and council has agreed to raise taxes instead—for seven years in a row.

The message I got from city council this year in its budget deliberations is that it still does not want to cut city services. A key indicator on this was council's unanimous decision to restore a cut proposed by the manager in the swimming pool hours. Staff, based upon a study of usage, found that the number using the pool didn't justify keeping it open during late evening hours. Even such a minor change in service was not acceptable to the council.

As usually happens, the council wound up increasing the manager's proposed budget. In most cases, the members approved the increases by unanimous vote.

While some councilmembers gave lip service to cutting the budget, I did not see any real effort made. You don't cut budgets by voting for additional expenditures. The greatest part of city expenditures is for paying salaries and wages to city employees. You can't make significant cuts in expenditures without cutting out employees. That's the way corporations cut expenditures or downsize — they let employees go. The city council doesn't want to do that.

Many people say they like Greenbelt because of the good services provided by the city and the variety of recreational and cultural opportunities offered to them. I agree. But it costs money to maintain these services. If you want them, you have to pay for them.

I am not aware of any person coming before the city council to seek budget cuts or reduced taxes. There was plenty of opportunity for anyone to do so. There were many who came to seek more expenditures for their particular project or service. Under such circumstances, it is not surprising that council did not seek to cut the budget.

Heaney, in his letter, says that the current trend of city taxes increasing more rapidly than the CPI cannot continue forever. He is probably right, and at some point council and city staff will get a message from the electorate to cut taxes. So far, that message has neither been sent nor received.

PEDESTRIAN AND BIKE SAFETY TIP

GREENBELT CELEBRATES PEDESTRIAN SAFETY

WALK SMART. DRIVE SMART.

PROBLEM:
When crossing the street, you may be "screened" from the driver's view by another car, a bus, or even a bush or a mailbox.

ADVICE:
Bicyclist/skateboarders etc. should get off their bike and walk it across the street.

Make sure all cars have stopped before you step off the curb.

If a car has stopped, don't assume that an overtaking car will also stop. That driver may not even know that you're there.

Always STOP at the outside edge of any "screen" and LOOK around it for cars that might be coming.

Be especially alert if you step in front of a stopped bus because, due to its size, it's even harder for an overtaking driver to see you.

Getting Along Together

Mr. Curtis grew up in Huntington, West Virginia and graduated from Marshall University of Huntington. He served in the Navy for three years as a commissioned officer. He retired from the University of Maryland in 1995, where he had been employed for 16 years.

Survivors include his wife of 11 years, Janet, a son David of South Boston, MA, and a daughter, Cindy Spencer of Avon, MA, his mother, Eldora Weaver Curtis of Huntington, WV, and a sister, Julia Kincaid of Bladenboro, NC, and two stepchildren, Linda Riddle of Martinsburg, WV and Ervin Riddle of Cabot, AR, as well as numerous grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

Mr. Curtis was a member of the Mishkan Torah congregation in Greenbelt. Services were held at the Takoma Funeral Home in Takoma Park on June 8. Burial was at the Maryland Veterans Cemetery in Crownsville, MD.

Memorial contributions may be made to Mishkan Torah, 10 Ridge Road, Greenbelt, MD.

In Memoriam

David Curtis was a quiet and modest man. I first met David several years ago through his neighbor and my friend, Eunice Coxon, now 87 years old. In recent years, as her health and strength declined, it became increasingly difficult for me to transport Eunice to the various doctor's appointments. Although not in good health himself, David took charge, assisting Eunice in many ways until his death. David was the personification of "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

Wiring in School Begins by Comcast

by Judith Ransom Bell

Last month County Executive Wayne Curry, Superintendent of Schools Iris T. Metts, Comcast Cable Regional Vice President Jaye Gamble and Vice President and General Manager of Comcast's Prince George's System Douglas McKenzie wired the first Prince George's County public school with a free ultra high-speed internet service via Comcast@Home cable modem technology.

Athena Ware, supervisor of External Communications, reports that all schools will be receiving the internet wiring. The installation will be done by region, and the work has begun in Region I. Greenbelt is in Region II and an additional announcement will be made when the wiring is ready to begin there. The service is free to schools, as well as to libraries, and there are no plans for a rental fee in the future.

"Comcast and the Prince George's County leadership has forged a unique high-tech public and private partnership that will deliver this new tool to Prince George's County classrooms, allowing teachers and students to explore a whole new world of information and educational services unmatched by any other technology," said McKenzie. "We're making every effort to move our system into the 21st century. This donation from Comcast will aid us in our goal," said Superintendent Metts. BOARMAN evening by saying, "If I could, I'd give Boarman a new contract."

When Boarman took the mike, he received a standing ovation. Perhaps in explanation of his go-getter nature, he began by saying his attitude has always been "to ask forgiveness rather than to ask for permission." In proof of his colleague Walter's words on shared leadership, he said, "The principal of a school always gets too much credit and too much blame." And in confirmation of his generous nature he proceeded to recognize and thank virtually everyone present, and especially his wife for "allowing me to do what makes me happy."

Dill's stated opinion was "I don't believe Jerry will be able to stay away." All those present at Boarman's farewell party on Wednesday night certainly hoped she was right.

Letter to ERHS Faculty

Dear Friends,

This past year has been the most rewarding of my professional career. Your total dedication to the goals that we have established has resulted in the school receiving the New American High School Award, one of only 11 given in the country. A month later we were designated one of only 12 schools in the nation chosen as a pilot site for the National Academy of Information and Technology. These awards along with our excellent arts and sciences program, athletics program, and extra-curricular programs, as well as your course offerings provide the students who attend Eleanor Roosevelt the most balanced educational opportunities anywhere in the country.

Your role in this quest for excellence has led the way for the 11 years that I have had the pleasure and honor to serve as principal of Eleanor Roosevelt High School. From my first day on the job you have been supportive and willing to try new and innovative programs, only asking one question, "How will this benefit our students?"

As I have wrestled with the question, "Will he stay or leave?" I have faced an internal crisis that has torn me in different directions and placed before me the most difficult decision of my life. My relationship with you and my love for you as individuals have had a major impact on my ultimate decision. Along with that aspect of the decision-making process has been my sense of surrogate fatherhood to our students and my sincere love and admiration for them. They really are remarkable and together we have instilled in them the "Roosevelt Way," a way that has become part of their life! What an accomplishment for all of us to build on and extend beyond the boundaries of Eleanor Roosevelt into the society we share together.

The rehire program currently being offered to principals in Prince George's County is very generous. However, there are some benefits that have been excluded from the program that would be important to me, as I plan to work for the next ten to twelve years. Therefore, I have reluctantly decided that I will not be returning to Eleanor Roosevelt as your principal next year.

It has been a wonderful journey and I will miss each and every one of you. You have been my professional family and I owe my professional success to you and the support and assistance you have given me over the last 11 years. More importantly, during our tenure together you have been instrumental in the career pathways and success of thousands of students. Money can't buy the feeling that we all have and the pride we demonstrate daily as staff members of Eleanor Roosevelt High School (but it sure could help I know!)

I will always be available to you as a friend and colleague and can be reached at gboarman@yahoo.com if you would like to drop me a note, or if you ever need my assistance, advice, or just an encouraging word.

You are the best in the profession and will still be the best when the 2000-2001 school year starts and we go our separate ways. Remember, the only thing that counts in the end is doing what's right for all students and always providing them with your best effort.

Respectfully,
Jerry

New Lions Officers Want to Help

by Emory Harman

The Greenbelt Lions installed officers for 2000 and 2001 at their last meeting of the year, June 9, at the Best Western Hotel in Berwyn.

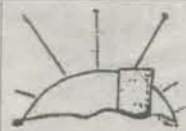

About 30 members and guests attended the ceremony conducted by newly elected 22-C District Governor, Jordan J. Burick.

District Governor Burick installed Lion Roland Goodloe as president, Lion Shirley Clute as secretary, and Lion Richard W. Jones as treasurer. The remaining officers were also installed at this time. In addition, District Governor Burick inducted a new member, Judith Davis, Mayor of Greenbelt.

The new president, known as a King Lion, is a 33-year Lion member from New York state. Well-versed and well-qualified in Lionism, he plans to bring a strong and active program to Greenbelt. The aims and objectives of Lionism — helping the less fortunate and assistance in scholarships — will be extended to the fullest by Lion King Goodloe. Establishing a Leo Club (youth group) is also one of his goals.

The Greenbelt Lions Club strives to serve the community in all possible ways, as spelled out in its charter. Anyone who needs aid may contact any Lions Club member or write to P.O. Box 677, Greenbelt, MD. Requests will be acted upon by the Board of Directors and given immediate attention.

The Lions are always in need of new life blood to keep their aging group moving. So, any adults interested in helping the less fortunate in our community, please contact the Lions by the method previously mentioned.

Beltsville Company Charged by State

The Maryland Consumer Protection Division has charged a Beltsville mirror company with unfair and deceptive practices and has requested an order requiring it to cease such practices and return payment owed to consumers. Sterling Mirror of Maryland, Inc., and its president Michael Kaperst, were charged with failing to honor consumers' cancellation rights and refusing to refund deposits to consumers who were denied financing for their order, in violation of the Maryland Door-to-Door Sales, Retail Installment Sales, and Consumer Protection Acts.

Sterling sells customized mirrors and installation services to consumers in their homes. Under the Maryland Door-to-Door Sales Law and Retail Installment Sales Act, consumers who wish to finance their purchases are not obligated to pay for the mirrors they order unless their financing is approved and they are provided fully executed contracts setting forth the terms of that financing. The Attorney General alleges that Sterling office construction. In other words, the zoning-by-legislation process created by CB-35 no longer applies to the revised concept for the development.

For that reason, County Councilman Thomas Hendershot and Councilwoman Audrey Scott have introduced a new bill, CB-47, which was heard on June 7 before the county's Planning, Zoning, & Economic Development Committee (PZED). What the new language describes is "an array of commercial, lodging, recreational, residential, entertainment, retail, social, cultural or similar uses which are interrelated by one or more themes."

Prior to the committee meeting, in the form of a letter dated June 6, Greenbelt Mayor Judith Davis presented the city's position, unanimously opposing the new legislation. According to her letter, because of the imminent June 19 hearing on the Sector Plan, and "the intensive public involvement" in its drafting, the city feels "it makes sense to defer consideration" of such proposals until the Sector Plan process is complete.

"In this way," the letter says, "it can be the public planning process that governs the future development of the area, not legislation that has been drafted to facilitate a specific proposal." Included with the letter was a memo prepared by Celia Craze, the city's director of planning and community development, outlining some of the guidelines from the Sector Plan proposal that should be incorporated into any proposed development.

PZED Hearing

The city's request had no effect at the county's June 7 PZED hearing, however. Councilwoman Scott, who represents Greenbelt on the County Council, was absent because of the serious illness of her mother and thus unable to respond to the city's recommendations. Subsequently, on a vote of 2 to 1 (Councilman Walter Maloney dissenting), the committee endorsed CB-47. It is expected to be introduced before the County Council later this month.

Emory Harman Honored

by Altoria Bell Ross

To Boxwood resident Emory Harman, Greenbelt is the Garden of Eden which God instructed President Franklin Roosevelt to build. Decades later on a blustery March afternoon, Harman walked into the Greenbelt Library's Tugwell room, named for Rexford Guy Tugwell, an advisor to President Roosevelt who advocated for Greenbelt, and reflected on his years of service to this "garden" and its surrounding area. For this service Harman was nominated by Senator Leo Green for the county's "Affair of the Heart" award that Harman accepted on March 23 at Martin's Crosswinds. "He's such a wonderful man," said Green of Harman, who has been his treasurer for 30 years. "He gives everything he has."

Harman often gives by representing Green in Greenbelt. Recently, for example, Harman presented Greenbelt Advisory Council on Education awardees with certificates in the senator's stead. Last summer Governor Parris Glendening reappointed Harman to the Trial Courts Judicial Nominating Commission for the county's 13th district. In this capacity, he conducts background checks and interviews attorneys who desire to become judges and judges who want to move to a higher court.

And that is not all. Shirley Morrison Clute, who was a student in Harman's physical education class at Greenbelt High School in the 1950s, where he also taught history, said, "He's in every club there is." Harman has spent 45 years contributing to the Lion's Club where he has helped with its vision, hearing, diabetes, and disaster relief programs.

"I enjoy helping other less fortunate people in the community," he said, as he flipped through photo albums and news clippings of Labor Day festivals for which he worked in some leadership ca-capacity from 1968 to 1975. Currently he is also president of the Greenbelt Historical Society, vice president of the Democratic Club, a board member of Greenbelt Access Television, and a docent at the Greenbelt Museum. In addition, Harman leads in his congregation, Greenbelt Community Church, chauffeurs residents of Green Ridge House to engagements, and annually plays Santa Claus at the Youth Center.

Harman's path to volunteerism led from the University of Maryland in College Park, where he received bachelor's and master's degrees in education. In 1948, he moved to an apartment on Parkway dubbed teachers' row to take a position at Greenbelt High School. Later Harman, who donated the 1941 blueprint of Greenbelt, the first money order, and other memorabilia to the Tugwell room, became the city's postmaster from 1963 to 1980.

Harman's late wife, Margie, who died in 1994, also shared his philosophy of helping others. She taught in the county's elementary schools for 25 years, served in the church, and played Mrs. Claus alongside him. Their children, Ellen, Emory, Jr., and Clay, inherited this "gene." Ellen is a juvenile counselor with the state, Emory, Jr. is an administrator and counselor to retarded and developmentally disabled children, and Clay is a guidance counselor.

When asked about his motivation to volunteer, Harman said, "It makes you happier being around people."

Volunteers Needed

Greenbelt Park, a unit of the National Park Service, is seeking volunteers to walk the different trails in the park and report on trail conditions, update and revise the Park's web page (no training is available so web page experience is required) and volunteers to help answer phones and greet campground visitors in a warm and friendly environment. The positions are available each day of the week in four hour shifts, 8 a.m. to noon and noon to 4 p.m. For additional information call park ranger Kevin P. Barry at 301-344-3944.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Remenick proudly announced that the completed phase of this year's renovation project includes a renovated men's bunkroom, a new ladies' bunkroom, a new ladies' auxiliary office, a sprinkler and alarm system required by code, and new lighting in the apparatus room and several other areas. "This project would not have been...possible without the tremendous effort put forth by the Greenbelt City Council members and staff, the State of Maryland and county-elected officials," Remenick said. "I especially want to thank Assistant to the City Manager David Moran for his exceptional effort toward making this a success and let us not forget former Mayor Toni Bram who started this process a few years ago."

President Remenick announced that the newly renovated bunkroom was being dedicated to the city council and staff. A plaque was presented and read as Mayor Judith Davis, Councilmember Thomas White, and Moran came forward; the plaque will be hung in the bunkroom.

New equipment received from the county this year was a badly-needed ambulance, a 2000 Freightliner. Remenick reported that Greenbelt's first fire pumper, a 1935 Ford Howe, has been re-purchased. The company is exploring revenue sources to restore the pumper to its original condition, and city council is looking into ways to obtain historical grant funds.

Ladies Auxiliary President Nancy Remenick made awards presentations to members. Life memberships to Kathy McAndrew and Teresa Crisman, and the President's Award to Teresa Crisman were among many of the awards given.

At the conclusion of the awards ceremony, Jim Pappas of Nite Life II DJ Entertainment began the music and dance portion of the program.

Library Fetes Volunteers

by Eileen Farnham

On April 14, the New Carrollton Library was the site for the Prince George's County library system's annual recognition program for volunteers. The event, an elaborate brunch with all the usual foods as well as specialty omelette makers and reading-oriented gifts for each attendee, includes milestone service awards and entertainment by some real talents among the library system's staff. The crowd was greeted and thanked for the services they provide the library system by Maralita Freeny, interim director, Prince George's County Memorial Library System, and attorney Rebecca Gitter, who is president of the Board of Library Trustees.

As usual, Greenbelt was well represented — and especially so this year in awards, with milestone recognitions to Greenbelters Judith Goldstein for 500 hours and to Kathryn Connolly for 1,000 hours service to the library. Nearly an entire long table was filled with volunteers who can be seen giving time on a regular basis here in the Greenbelt library. With an obvious affinity for the written word, among them, too, were a number of library volunteers who are also Greenbelt News Review staffers. Present at this year's brunch were the following volunteers who are News Review regulars: Lucie MacKinnon, Julie Kender, Eileen Peterson, Judith Ransom Bell, and the writer of this piece, who is attached to Fairmount Heights as a homebound reader.

Library volunteers receiving milestone awards this year alone have provided 30,900 hours of service in county libraries, without counting the hefty crowd of volunteers attending — or the many who could not be at the brunch — for whom this year does not mark a milestone award.

After awards were presented: a tote bag to Judith Goldstein and plaque for Kathryn Connolly, and group photos, the crowd was regaled by storytellers Yvonne Harris, in African dress, telling the tale of King Harold and Maria Martinez, in Spanish dance costume and castenets, with the story of the courtship of Martina, a meticulous cockroach, whose hand in marriage is sought by rooster, duck, and cat before ultimately being won by the mouse, whose lilting talk sounded like a song to Martina. Harris and Martinez were followed by a group of library staffers called The Deliveries (Leslie Busby, Wayne Cabbagestalk, Kenneth and Thomas Gross) who, accompanied by horn and guitar, serenaded the group with a series of love ballads. The finale was the door prize drawing — Greenbelt's own Lucie MacKinnon walked away the winner of the large floral centerpiece decorating the front of the room.

The annual program, one of the "perks" of being a library volunteer, is a festive opportunity to mingle with volunteers from Greenbelt and other branches, as well as library staff. Those interested in performing any of the many services volunteers provide to the library (tasks include book store coverage, shelving books, planning and coordinating library activities) can visit the library to complete a form indicating their interests or skills.

policy. Delaying approval bothered the other councilmembers, however. They were concerned that the room would be left standing empty for as much as six months while groups and advisory boards were given time to submit and review alternate proposals.

The councilmembers spent considerable time trying to come up with a motion that would satisfy all and to make clear that the uses proposed by DeWald were interim uses for not more than a year. However, whenever a councilmember had the opportunity to clarify what the language proposed meant, another member would take exception to it. Finally, Councilmember Rodney Roberts moved simply to approve the staff recommendation. In discussion it was made clear that the motion was intended as an interim process for one year. The motion, described by Mayor Judith Davis as a motion that included amendment based upon the council's discussion, was adopted with White opposing.

Program Open Space

The council unanimously approved a draft annual plan for the expenditure of program open space funds. These funds, provided by the state government for the acquisition of park and open space and improvements to parks, are allocated, by formula, to the county and reallocated, in part, to the local municipalities. The city's allocation for fiscal year 2001 is $162,193 bringing the total funds allocated to the city that are unspent to $849,481.

The FY 2001 plan calls for the acquisition of unspecified parcels of land in three general locations and for safety upgrades to nine city playgrounds. While the specific parcels to be acquired are undesignated, the plan calls for the acquisition of land in Greenbelt East in an area that includes a portion of the Maryland Trade Center, the Greenbrook Office Park, Commerce Center III and the ten-acre Sunrise property, the only undeveloped, privately-owned parcel in the designated area. The plan proposes the acquisition of 10 acres of wooded and undeveloped land in Greenbelt East for parkland and conservation purposes and to provide a natural buffer (green belt). The plan allocates $443,611 for this project.

In Greenbelt West, approximately one-acre of undeveloped land is designated for use as parkland. The area designated for this purchase includes all the land bounded by the Capital Beltway, Cherrywood Lane and Kenilworth Avenue, an area that includes Capital Office Park, the city cemetery and the State Highway Administration facility. The only vacant parcel in the area designated is a 0.7 acre parcel at the entrance to Capital Office Park that was originally planned to become a gasoline service station. $100,870 is allocated for this purpose.

In the central area of Greenbelt, the plan proposes the acquisition of one acre of undeveloped land to provide increased public access to parkland and to expand the city's inventory of parkland. This acquisition is to be located in an area that includes all of the subdivisions of Boxwood Village, Lakewood, Woodland Hills and Lakeside and Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) property located west of Westway, south of Hillside Road and west of Research Road. Besides GHI greenspace, only one or two lots remain vacant in this area. $205,000 is allocated for this purpose.

The fourth use for the open space funds is providing safety upgrades to some nine city playgrounds. Improvements would include resurfacing with approved rubberized surfacing material and replacement of equipment failing to meet current safety requirements. The plan allocates $100,000 of open space funds and $30,000 of Community Development Block Grant Funds.

In response to council inquiries, City Manager Michael McLaughlin made clear that this was just a plan to show that the city has a use for the money allocated and that the funds would not be committed until council approves a project. Also, the city can make changes in both the use and amount of funds set forth in the plan.

Other Business

City Clerk Kathleen Gallagher was authorized to co-sign city checks temporarily while the City Treasurer and Assistant City Manager were away from the city.

The purchase of a stake body truck from Tysons Ford was approved for $43,979.38 and a radio for the truck for $800.

Following usual procedure, council took no position on the transfer of a liquor license for the Chef's Secret Restaurant to the new owners of the Sarinta Corporation: Suttichai Raungtriphop, president; Sirit Raungtriphop, secretary and Siriporn Rusanonta, treasurer.

Council approved a staff recommendation to write the National Capital Planning Commission about proposed federal capital improvements planned in or near the city. The city will express its support for construction of a new post office and for renovation projects at Goddard Space Flight Center and the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center that strengthen the mission of these facilities. However, it would like to have more information about the design and location of a conference center at Goddard.

Council agreed to submit to the Maryland Municipal League three proposals for state law enactments for that organization to include in its legislative program that would enhance city finances. They are: permitting municipalities to jointly purchase electricity together in order to have better buying power; increasing the share of income tax allocated to municipalities; and increasing the amount of state aid for police protection.

Brenda L. Walker was appointed to the Youth Advisory Committee and council accepted the resignations of Steve Perez from the Recycling Advisory Committee and Philip Larkin from the Park and Recreation Advisory Board.

Greenbelters to Serve On SHA Task Force

by Judith Ransom Bell

Five Greenbelt residents and one city staff representative have been chosen to serve on the State Highway Administration (SHA) Neighborhood Conservation Project's task force for Greenbelt Road (Rt. 1 to Mandan Road). Celia Craze (city staff), Sharon Bradley-Papp, Joyce Chestnut, William A. Clarke, Paula Clinedinst, Scott Fifield, and John Pak have agreed to serve as members of this group, which also includes representatives from College Park and Berwyn Heights.

The purpose of the project is to address a variety of aesthetic, safety, access and operational needs along Greenbelt Road. The initial project phase will include the identification of issues. Among those initially identified include pedestrian access and safety, bicycle access and safety, sidewalk connections, roadway conditions, and aesthetics.

Craze, Greenbelt's director of planning and community development, requested that the following specific concerns be added to the project study: how to extend the Cherrywood Lane bike lanes to Greenbelt Road, the need for a traffic signal at Lakecrest Drive, school crossings at Greenbelt Middle School and Eleanor Roosevelt High School, the possible use of audible pedestrian crossing beacons, the timing of pedestrian crossing phases at signals, accommodations for visually impaired pedestrians, and the location of transit stops. The task force is scheduled to meet approximately four times to define needs, review background studies, and review concepts. Karen Townsley, the SHA consultant, was expected to attend a Four Cities meeting on June 22 for a briefing.

Peace Poster Contest Has Two Local Winners

by P. J. Siegel

The Lions International Peace Poster Contest, created in 1988, gives young people an opportunity to express their feelings about peace. The theme of the 1999-2000 contest was "A New Beginning for Peace."

Locally, the Greenbelt Lions Club sponsored students and youth groups at Glenarden Woods, Oakcrest Elementary, and Thomas Pullen Arts Middle School. The three first place winners at the local level each received a $25 cash award. The winners were Maia McWilliams and April Roberts, both from Greenbelt and Samantha Vernon who resides in Lanham. At the district level, 38 first place local winners competed against each other. Samantha Vernon placed first and Maia McWilliams finished second. Samantha placed third at the district level in last year's peace poster contest.

The Greenbelt Lions Club has made a strong commitment to community service and serving youth for almost 50 years. Schools and youth groups attended by Greenbelt students who may be interested in participating in next year's contest may contact P.J. Siegel at 301-474-2324. The theme for 2000-2001 will be "United in Peace."

Replacement Actor Is a Hit in "I Remember Mama"

by Sabine Hentrich

"I Remember Mama," by John Van Druten, opened on June 16 at the Greenbelt Arts Center. Some might remember the play as a novel, a musical, a movie (1948), or, most likely, a TV series in the early '50s. It is set at the turn of the century in San Francisco and the action revolves around a Norwegian family's struggles and accomplishments in "the new country."

The story is told from the point of view of Katrin (Kathleen Wise Pugh), the eldest daughter of the Hansons, who is a writer in the making. The play is perfectly balanced with its comic and tragic moments, which were all appropriately captured by a wonderful cast.

Greenbelters who regularly attend the Arts Center's productions noticed that the play opened a week late. Due to a family emergency of one of the cast members, director Keith Mervine had to make some last minute changes in order to get the show on stage. Amazingly, the play did not suffer.

Trix Whitehall (originally cast as Aunt Jenny) bravely took over the leading role of Mama. Certainly she did not fail to capture her audience, who never seemed distracted by the script in Whitehall's hand. Whitehall was simply right on as Mama. Her accent, her appearance, her demeanor, and gestures—it was obvious this wonderful actor knew her role.

Another actor, whom the Arts Center is grateful to for filling in on such short notice, is Mary-Lou Fisher, who took over for Whitehall as Aunt Jenny. She, too, appeared on stage as if she had been rehearsing this particular role for the past few months. If the director had not made an announcement before the show, few people would have noticed the change.

Papa and the children were played by remarkable actors as well. Dagmar (Michaela Haber) and Christine (Nancy Draper) in particular performed their characters with spice.

Further, Uncle Chris (Eliot Malumuth) was well cast with an actor who has a great, projecting voice (and last made the audience laugh as Mayor Shinn in the Music Man).

All the adult actors did a marvelous job on their various European accents. Lastly, the set design by Keith Brown and the costumes by Norma Ozur and Lois Rapp gave the turn-of-the-century immigrant setting a final, authentic touch.

No doubt the cast performed this wonderful play with great love and respect for it, doing their best to cope with losing the lead actor.

Everyone interested in seeing "I Remember Mama" at the Arts Center is invited to do so every Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. until July 1 with a Sunday matinee on June 25 at 2 p.m. Call 301-441-8770 for information and reservations.

Electrical Safety In the Home

The city's Office of Planning and Community Development offers the following electrical safety hints:

Wiring: all wiring should be installed and inspected by a qualified electrician.

Some signs of inadequate wiring are: lights dim or flicker; motors (such as an electric drill) change speeds when an appliance goes on; circuit breakers trip or fuses blow frequently; heat-producing appliances (such as toaster or iron) are slow to heat up; and the picture on the television "shrinks."

Brown Feted for Teaching Career

by Judith Ransom Bell

Maplewood Court resident Dorothy Brown was recognized by the Prince George's County Board of Education for her 30 years of service at a May 25 employee recognition dinner at Martin's Crosswinds.

Brown began her career substituting at Rogers Heights Elementary School in Bladensburg in 1969, became a full-time teacher in 1970, and has been there ever since. She has taught fourth, fifth, and sixth graders, sometimes in combination programs. She taught Talented and Gifted (TAG) programs when they were "pull-out" programs (with the children pulled out of other classes) and teaches them cur-ports that the effort has been successful for many years.

For 10 years Rogers Heights staff took students (one year they had 186) to Jamestown and Williamsburg overnight, without parents. She reports that they "infused" overnight. She goes on to say that the staff is "phenomenal," in a way "that doesn't fit anywhere in a contract."

Brown has seen seven principals come through the school, all strong leaders with good administrative skills. She muses that with the end of busing the building will become a community school again with community activities, and that it will serve many apartment residents in the area. She expects that the French immersion magnet program will continue, as well as the excellent cooperation between faculty and parents.

Brown has written a social studies curriculum and worked on MSPAP testing. She was named PTA Outstanding Teacher of the Year at Rogers Heights in 1976 and in 1986 she earned an Outstanding Teacher of the Year award in Prince George's County.

Brown says she is teaching the children of children that she taught in the past and reports that she has enjoyed herself, even though teaching "is quite a challenge" now. She will retire July 1 and has applied for rehire. Brown has 70+ hours above her bachelor's degree and is qualified to teach ESOL (English for Students from Other Lands), TAG, and resource students as well.

Education has become a Brown family career. Of her three daughters, Carmen Brown is a counselor at Princeton Elementary, Kendra Gatto teaches art therapy at Springhill Lake Elementary, Zandra Brown is head secretary at Rogers Heights. Husband Ben is currently substituting in the school system.

"Anybody can reach their goals if they work steadily and wait patiently," reports Brown, who says this has been her motto since high school. It seems to work for her.

rently as well, now that TAG has been worked into the regular curriculum.

In what she calls a "Ruth move," Brown came to the area from Winston-Salem, NC in 1966. She explains that her husband Ben got a job with the government and she followed him here.

Brown recounts that when she began teaching at Rogers Heights, it was a community school. When busing was implemented in the early 70s, the school outreach "exploded" into many different communities. The staff went out into the communities to meet with the parents in an effort to begin to unify the school. Brown re-

Be Careful What You Do! You May Be Recorded

by James Giese

At its April 19 budget worksession, the city council heard reports from Police Chief James Craze on three surveillance programs the city has initiated. They are Neighborhood Speed Watch, Cameras in the Center and Red Light Cameras. The first is about to be initiated, the second is in effect and the third is to be implemented as soon as necessary approvals are obtained.

Speed Watch

The Lakeside Citizens Association is the first neighborhood organization to request use of a department radar device to record the speeds of vehicles through its neighborhood, Craze announced. Under this program, two citizens are trained to use a radar speed-measuring device. One citizen operates the device and calls out the speed and license number of speeding vehicles on a street. The other double checks and records the information, which is provided to the department. Chief Craze will then send a letter to the vehicle owner advising that the car was observed speeding by the neighborhood speed watchers. No enforcement action can be taken.

Cameras in Center

Calls for service have dwindled to nearly nothing at Roosevelt Center since observation cameras were installed, Chief Craze told the council. "The whole atmosphere in the center has changed," he said. The merchants seem to be happier. Nor has there been any vandalism or theft of property as was feared when tables and chairs were put out after the mall had been renovated. Councilmembers thought that other changes to the center such as the renovation and the installation of the theater marquee had helped as well.

Red Light Program

Last fall council approved the installation of cameras at key intersections to record license numbers of vehicles going through red lights. Craze reported that the city has been

"in-line to go on-line" since last October and nothing has happened. He feared that too many others are trying to utilize this program. He also noted that a study by the State Highway Administration (SHA) would have to be done before cameras could be installed. SHA must determine if the intersection has a high rate of traffic accidents with a high rate of traffic violations.

The chief outlined three steps before the program can be initiated. (1) Enter an agreement with Howard County, which has an approved procedure for screening camera photographs to sort out law violators and determine the license numbers of violating vehicles. (2) Have a survey done by SHA to qualify intersections. (3) Buy and install cameras.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts expressed his reservations about the program. "What assurance do we have that this will be a program to reduce violations and not just a way to raise revenues?" he asked.

The Recycling Bin

Dear Lorax, I would like to know how to obtain a recycling bin. I moved to my home eight months ago. The previous owner left one here. However, it is falling apart. New Resident in Windsor Green

Dear New, Welcome to the City of Greenbelt! You will fit right in since recycling is a very popular thing to do in Greenbelt. I can tell by your address that your residence does not subscribe to city trash service. It is serviced by a private company. Nonetheless, you can still obtain a recycling bin from the city for a small price. You may stop by the Public Works Facility at 555 Crescent Road to get one. It is located next to Buddy Attick Lake Park. You may contact them at 301-474-8308.

Another option would be to check with your homeowners association. They may be able to supply you with a bin from your refuse provider. I hope this information helps out and thank you for recycling!

Mail your recycling questions, comments etc. to The Lorax, c/o William Smith, 25 Crescent Road, Greenbelt, MD 20770 or visit www.ci.greenbelt.md.us.
