Council Discusses CB-8

by Sandy Smith

After an involved discussion at the June 26 regular meeting, the Greenbelt City Council agreed to take no position on County Bill 8-2000 (CB-8), which would enable the implementation of the zoning proposals in the Greenbelt Metro Area Sector Plan. Council Member Rodney Roberts voiced the opinion that "it's best to see what develops with the sector plan" before we support a bill that would facilitate the plan's adoption. There was more discussion of the city's response to the Sector Plan and even more business dealing with development, as Greenbelt and District Heights agreed to "swap" Program Open Space dollars so that District Heights could proceed with a $1 million bike path and Greenbelt continue its acquisition of open space.

CB-8

CB-8 may or may not pass, but at this point, it will rise or fall without the Greenbelt City Council taking a position. Councilmember Edward Putens moved to support the legislation, seconded by Mayor Judith Davis, but after considerable discussion council could not agree on a position. Those in favor thought that CB-8 was a reasonable action to move the process ahead and that it did not weaken but instead facilitated the city's role in planning and review of future development around the Metro site. Those opposed thought, as Roberts did, that this legislation put the "cart before the horse." Barry Schlesinger stated that the city should look closely at the details to be sure about what it was recommending. He thought that the flexibility that might come with CB-8 could bypass due process. On the other hand, Kap Kapastin, of Quantum Management Company, which manages Beltway Plaza, expressed his concern that the bill would set overly-strict standards, for example, on signage. He said such strict standards might jeopardize bringing national retailers to Greenbelt. Kapastin said that the legislation needed to consider the necessary marketing and financial situations.

There was even disagreement as to whether the bill is likely to pass, with some saying that recent opposition makes passage somewhat doubtful contrary to original assumptions. This issue may come back for further discussion at the next Council meet-

Open Space Swap

In response to a request from District Heights, Council agreed to a swap between the two cities of Program Open Space allocations. This is just a bookkeeping switch rather than the actual exchange of real dollars. District Heights needs another $157,000 from the program for its match toward the construction of a $1 million bike path through town.

State open space funds are allocated to each county or municipality. Half of the monies allocated must be used for land

Playgrounds to Be Made Safer

by Diane Oberg

Bringing the city's 31 playgrounds into compliance with safety codes could cost over $266,000 over the next six years. Recreation Director Hank Irving and Bill Phelan, acting superintendent of operations of the Public Works Department, presented a plan for correcting potential safety problems to the Greenbelt City Council at its May 22 regular meeting. Council and staff will discuss the plan in more detail at a worksession on Wednesday, July 12.

Most city playgrounds do not completely comply with safety standards despite much of the equipment having been purchased within the last 10 years. Although the city only purchases equipment that complies with standards, those standards are constantly changing. There are currently two sets of standards—one from the Consumer Product Safety Commission and one from the American Society for Testing and Materials. Although the city is not legally required to comply with either standard, both are recognized by the courts, Irving said. Although injuries in city playgrounds are "minimal," according to Irving, that would be irrelevant in a lawsuit.

Another set of standards has yet to be issued. Irving said that new regulations based upon the Americans with Disabilities Act have been pending for over two years. This leaves the city with some uncertainty as to what will be required to meet its goal of having "fully accessible" playgrounds, although staff believes that the recommended surface material will meet the guidelines, once issued.

The city staff has proposed a six-year plan that addresses the most significant safety hazards first. There are 11 playgrounds in the city that do not meet the standard for appropriate surface material. This is considered a potentially life threatening situation that should be corrected as soon as possible. Thus, the current budget sets aside $130,200 for playground improvements, by far the most for any year in the plan.

Major Change

Three of these playgrounds will be eliminated according to the report. The one at Greenbriar park will not be replaced based upon concerns raised by neighboring residents about illegal activities occurring at this playground. The city plans to work with the community to determine if there is a need for a playground at another location.

The playgrounds at 31 and 39 Ridge will be removed and a new, consolidated playground will be created on city parkland behind 56 Crescent. All three sites are in the superblock bounded by Gardenway, Eastway, Ridge and Crescent.

Throughout the city, residents will see playground surfaces upgraded with engineered wood fiber material in wood frames with full drainage systems. Phelan said that the surface material looks like "cheap mulch." Although it may look cheap, bringing the surfaces below and around playground equipment up to standards is anything but. To reduce costs, the plan calls for rearranging equipment in several city playgrounds to reduce the amount of surface material needed. Councilmember Thomas White questioned this approach, arguing that, from a kid's perspective, the mad dash from one piece of equipment to another is a part of the fun. There are also socialization issues around equipment placement, he said.

In evaluating playground equipment, Phelan said, one thing that must be taken into account is that "kids do real strange stuff." Equipment needs to be safe even when children are playing on it in ways the manufacturer never intended. Some equipment can be retrofitted to eliminate potential problems such as a child's head getting stuck in a gap between equipment parts (such as steps or foot rails), or someone strangling because a hood's drawstring got caught on a protruding bolt. Other equipment must be removed.

Merry-go-rounds will be removed and not replaced, under the staff plan. Although the merry-go-rounds currently in city playgrounds are much safer than those many readers may remember from their childhoods, they no longer comply with safety standards. Phelan recommended against buying new merry-go-rounds, which although safe are "no fun at all."

Seventy-seven proud sixth graders said their good-byes to Greenbelt Elementary School on Friday, June 16 at an awards assembly.

All sixth graders participated in the assembly. There was the entire group singing "Watch as We Walk on Our Way," others welcoming parents, leading the audience in the salute to the flag and in singing the "Star-Spangled Banner," and then all receiving recognition for their years of hard work. Even the program was made by sixth grader Tiasha Boyd.

Principal Selection Plans Worry Parents, Teachers

by Mary Moien

Two emergency meetings of the Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS) Parent, Teacher, Student Association (PTSA) were held last week. The first smaller meeting was held on June 26, followed by a larger meeting on June 29. At the latter meeting, more than 130 parents, teachers, students, and community members were present. It appeared that at least one-third of the group were ERHS teachers and staff. Leta Mach, chair of the Greenbelt Advisory Committee on Education also attended. The meeting was led by outgoing PTSA President Dale Manty and incoming President Allen Elliott. A number of issues were discussed including the lack of written guidelines for selecting a new principal; the fact that ERHS will lose 4.5 faculty this year despite the fact that enrollment is slated to increase somewhat; and the possibility that the school will lose a prized vice principal, Reggie McNeill.

Fall Classes

Manty and Elliott assured those present that school will open smoothly in the fall. Recently retired principal Gerald Boarman has set up class schedules and current vice principal Gary King will be acting principal. However, schedules were set prior to the information that there may be more students and fewer teachers in the fall.

Vice Principals

As part of a reduction of 17 high school vice principals throughout the school system, vice principal Reggie McNeill is being reassigned. This is of special concern because McNeill is also coordinator of the successful QUEST program, which prepares 7th and 8th grade minority and other students to compete successfully in the Science and Technology Program. It was proposed that concerned people write to Schools Superintendent Iris Metts. The PTSA reported that more than 100 letters were forwarded. In addition, another vice principal, Claudine Wilson retired at the end of the school year. Wilson was the last dean of ERHS when Boarman held the title of Chief Educational Administrator.

Principals

Of primary concern to the PTSA is the selection of a new principal. There is concern about the selection criteria, and especially the reported lack of written criteria for selection not only for the ERHS principal but for all county principals. In a written issues paper the PTSA stated that a representative of the superintendent said a new process is being used to choose principals, but "this process is not yet in writing and in successive contacts (with the superintendent's office) the description of this process changed from one day to the next." There will be community involvement in the selection but the composition of this committee is not set at the present time. The PTSA is particularly concerned that it is proposed that applicants be prescreened and that the committee will only be involved in reviewing those applicants, not all applicants. An issues paper was distributed at the meeting for input.

In response to a question from the audience, the PTSA confirmed that Michael Reidy, former ERHS dean, and currently the principal of a high school in Calvert County had applied for a Prince George's County principal position but had not passed the prescreening process even though Reidy's school has been named a Blue Ribbon school under his leadership. Manty indicated that he was not proposing backing Reidy for principal but using this incident as a concern for the prescreening and selection process in general.

Second Meeting

Frustration was in the air at the June 29 meeting. This frustration included a review of the June 26 meeting at which both Boarman and the Greenbelt school board representative Jim Henderson were present. At that meeting, and confirmed by Manty, Boarman indicated that in his retirement letter, he indicated to Metts that he would be available to work until June 30 or July 31 to help with the transition. However, he did not get a reply from Metts so June 30 was his final official day. The importance of these issues was impressed on Henderson, who said he would place them on the July 6 school board meeting agenda. This meeting is the last of the summer. It remains unclear if the PTSA concerns have been placed on the agenda.

On to Upper Marlboro

The final decision made was to have a large ERHS presence at the July 6 school board meeting. Interested people were encouraged to ask to sign up to speak as visitors. A possible rally before the meeting was discussed. An ERHS teacher commented "that Dr. Metts has backed down" before when a community is really involved and used a big turnout for the board meeting to get their point across. A parent of several ERHS students, who asked not to be identified, argued that "We are too adversarial. We must stay polite and politically correct. Even if the process is not what we want it to be, we must welcome that person and show that person what ERHS is like."

Letters to the Editor

Thanks

Once again Greenbelt showed its greatness. We are so grateful for all the support we received upon the passing away of Walter Penney, our husband, father, and grandfather. We would like to thank especially those of you who arranged to join us for the Memorial Service celebrating his life. And last but not least: our thanks go to the City of Greenbelt for the availability of their premises and their services which so greatly facilitated both the Memorial Service and the burial in Greenbelt Cemetery.

Buyer Beware

July 1 is the date we are to be able to choose whom we would like to provide our electric power. So far I have not seen a list of the companies that are going to provide the generative power. Or what the rates are going to be. So how can we make an intelligent choice? I urge GHI members not to rush into signing a binding contract with APPI until they provide more information than they already have. I do not see what service they are providing that justifies their taking 30% of what they save. If you have read the application carefully, you will notice that you must notify APPI 60 days before the contract ends. If you do not, you are au-tomatically committed for another year. Mr. Payne also stated that you must stay in for the full term of the contract.

I for one will not change my service as to the rates and savings. Mr. Payne didn't give me any satisfaction on how much he could save me. He did not even quote his own terms correctly.

I will not buy into something blindly. Show me some facts and figures on paper; then I can make an intelligent choice.

Supports "No Build"

I attended the informational public meeting on US 1/MD 201 at High Point High School on June 21. After studying the displays and talking with Maryland State Highway Administration people, I support the "No Build" option with respect to MD 201 (Kenilworth Ave. Extended).

The proposed widening of MD 201 would have these effects: first, the destruction of open space and trees; second, an increase of traffic with a possible increase in traffic accidents (according to MSHA figures, the current rate of accidents on Kenilworth Extended is no greater than on comparable roads in the rest of Maryland), and a likely increase of traffic on Crescent Road, as motorists cut through to Greenbelt Road.

acquisition. The other half may be used for parkland improvements, but can also be used for land acquisition. District Heights is fully developed and can't use its land acquisition fund allocation. It does need more funds for parkland development than it now has allocated. Since Greenbelt plans to use the vast majority of its funds under this program for acquisition of open space, the switch of allocations was proposed.

Councilmember Alan Turnbull spoke in favor of the action. He thought that it was important to increase the public's awareness and appreciation for open space and that this exchange would benefit District Heights without any downside for Greenbelt. Roberts wanted more confirmation that there is no open space left for acquisition in District Heights and found it hard to believe that there was no land left that could be purchased. Putens said that there is probably land there for purchase at some price, even, he stated, land available in the heart of New York City if you're willing to pay the price. Davis suggested that District Heights officials could be invited to an upcoming council meeting to discuss this project in greater detail, but felt that it was not appropriate to have an independent assessment of the availability of open space as Roberts had once suggested. Eventually council voted unanimously to approve the switch of funds.

Other Business

Greenbelt has been asked to name a representative to serve on the Maryland Bicycle and Pedestrian Advisory Committee. Council agreed to publicize the position and ask for volunteers. Members thought that there would be a number of good candidates in Greenbelt and wanted to get out the word about this opportunity.

Council also approved for first and second reading a number of end-of-year budget adjustments.

City Manager Michael McLaughlin announced the retirement of two long-term city employees, Pat Fitzenreiter with 22 years of service to the city and Shirley Waller who retired after working for the city for 16 years. He mentioned their exceptional work and wished them the best.

Councilmember Putens commended Greenbelt Police Officers Marty Parker and Dave Buerger, who gave a workshop at the Maryland Municipal League conference on the Greenbelt Youth Police Academy. Putens said that Greenbelt was lauded for its community policing programs and leading the way in programs working with young people.

All Councilmembers congratulated Rena Hull, chair of Eleanor Roosevelt High School Grad night, which was attended by an overwhelming majority of graduates, 140 parents, school and city staff, who, together, make the program very successful. Hull described the program and its focus on a fun, safe evening with no drugs, alcohol or tobacco. She also expressed appreciation for the incoming chair who will now take over the planning.

Playground Program

A summer playground program for children ages 6 - 12 is held at Springhill Lake Recreation Center, 6101 Cherrywood Lane; Greenbelt Elementary, 66 Ridge Road; and Schrom Hills Park, 6915 Hanover Parkway from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Co-sponsored by Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Greenbelt Recreation Department, the program runs through August.

Control Aggressive Mosquitos in the Yard

The Asian Tiger mosquito is a very aggressive day-biting mosquito which has become a serious pest in parts of Prince George's County. It is a black mosquito with white stripes on the legs and a white stripe down the middle of its head and back.

This mosquito lays its eggs in containers or in holes in trees. In order to keep this mosquito controlled, check the yard for water-holding containers such as: tires, kiddie pools not in use, buckets, barrels or cans, wheelbarrows, canoes or boats, tarps where water can puddle, and flower pots or saucers under pots.

Empty, store or rinse these containers weekly. Don't forget rain gutters — these can breed large numbers of mosquitos if not cleaned regularly so that they flow freely.

COMMUNITY MEDIATION BOARD

The City of Greenbelt has re-established a Community Mediation Board under the auspices of the Prince George's County Human Relations Commission. This Board is comprised of city residents who have volunteered to receive mediation training and be available to mediate disputes between neighbors.

Mediation consists of a step by step problem solving process that results in the involved parties agreeing on a fair solution. Mediation serves as an alternative to litigation and brings both parties to the table on an equal basis. A mediator does not act as an advocate of either party. He/she reserves judgment and does not voice opinion.

Types of problems mediated may be noisy neighbors, barking dogs, trespassing children, blocked driveways, family feuds, littering, loitering, neighboring property neglect, small claims matters, etc.

Mediation services will be available at the Greenbelt Community Center on the second Tuesday and fourth Wednesday of each month. Any Greenbelt citizen who wishes to make use of this free service should call the Human Resources Officer, City of Greenbelt, 301-345-7203.

Prince George's County Schools Superintendent Iris T. Metts, along with the Mentoring Office, saluted the mentors who provided one-on-one support services to students in county public schools at an "Evening Under the Stars," on Thursday, June 29 at the Howard B. Owens Science Center Planetarium.

"We are grateful for the commitment of the more than three thousand mentors who give of themselves unselfishly to assist students throughout Prince George's County," said Metts. The Mentoring Council seeks to expand the pool of mentors to 10,000 for the next school year. The campaign will kick-off with a Mentoring Conference on September 16. For more information about mentoring, contact Sarah

Outstanding Citizen

The Outstanding Citizen committee is accepting nominations for the Outstanding Citizen of Greenbelt for 2000. Nominations will be accepted until August 7. There are lots of great citizens in Greenbelt, but only one can receive this prestigious award each year - which will be presented on stage on the opening night of the festival. Individuals who have been nominated in the past but haven't won can be renominated - perhaps this will be their year. Nominations should be sent to Robert Zugby, Chair, Greenbelt Outstanding Citizen Committee, 94 Ridge Road, Greenbelt, MD 20770.

Art Show

Barbara Simon will once again be running the Art Show, which will be open all weekend, with awards being given in various categories. The awards will be presented to the recipients on stage toward the end of the festival. Call Barbara Simon for more information at 301-474-2192.

Photo Show

Anne and Keith Zevallos will be running the Photo Show, which will be open all weekend, with awards being given in various categories. The recipients of the awards will receive them on stage toward the end of the festival. Call either Anne at 301-345-3770 or Keith at 301-474-5542 for more information.

Parade

Applications are still being accepted for the parade on Monday. Awards will be given at the end of the parade. Call Linda Ivy at 301-441-9414 for more information.

Talent Show

The Labor Day stage on Saturday afternoon will offer musicians, actors, dancers and other individuals the opportunity to put on a show for their friends and neighbors. Call Dennis and Marthea Lewis 301-552-9078 to become part of the show.

Information Day

Saturday is Information Day at the festival. Tables are available for businesses, organizations, associations, and other similar groups to rent in order to display their information. Call David Pitts at 301-345-9605 to get an application.

Business Liaison

The committee's business liaison, Jeannie Smith, is in the process of contacting area businesses and individuals for contributions toward the festival. Call Jeannie Smith at 301-345-1091 to have a company, or a person, be recognized in writing either on stage or in the festival program.

The plans for entertainment, kids' games, and the pet show are completed and these events appear to be the best and most fun ever.

Next Festival Meeting

The next meeting of the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival will be on Thursday, July 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Center. Meetings are open to the public and are a great way to meet the volunteers responsible for this yearly event and perhaps even become one.

Commission 2000 Public Forum

Commission 2000, an advisory task force charged with developing a plan to manage future growth and development in Prince George's County, will hold a public forum to present and discuss its draft recommendations for future growth in the county. The forum will be held on Monday, July 10 at the Prince George's Ballroom, 2411 Pinebrook Avenue in Landover. The public forum will begin with an informal display and question and answer session at 6 p.m., followed by a public comment session beginning at 7 p.m.

Commission 2000 is a broad-based advisory task force that was created by the Prince George's County Council to help plan for future growth, development, revitalization, public facilities and environmental protection. The more than 50 commission members include citizens, local government officials, representatives of the legal and development communities, and business owners.

For additional information on Commission 2000 contact the M-NCPPC Countywide Planning Division at 301-952-4712.

GREENBELT AQUATIC & FITNESS CENTER

2000 SUMMER CHILDREN'S WEEKDAY LESSONS - SESSION II

In-person registration, first-come, first-served basis. All classes have a limit on enrollment. Early registration improves your chances of getting the class you want! All registrants must sign up at the Greenbelt Aquatic & Fitness Center for aquatic & fitness classes.

REFUNDS: The Greenbelt Aquatic & Fitness Center reserves the right to cancel classes due to insufficient registrants or causes beyond its control. Refunds will be made if classes are canceled by the Center. Other refunds will be made according to the provisions in the City of Greenbelt Resolution No. 65, which also requires that refund requests, for valid reasons, are to be submitted immediately in writing to the GAFC.

CITY RESIDENCY: Greenbelt residents are those who pay taxes to the City of Greenbelt AND are eligible to vote in City elections. That is as it should be, as our residents pay taxes to support the Recreation Centers and the Aquatic & Fitness Center in our community. However, just because someone has a Greenbelt address, does not necessarily mean they pay taxes to the City of Greenbelt and are able to vote in City elections. We want to be fair to the people whose tax money supports our programs. If you are not sure that you have a Greenbelt address, are able to vote in City elections, and pay City taxes, call 301-397-2204.

All registrants registering as a resident non-passholder must show proof to receive Greenbelt resident status. Acceptable Proof: Valid license or current lease.

MAINSTREAMING: Anyone who is physically, mentally, and/or emotionally challenged is encouraged to participate in any of the Aquatic & Fitness Center's programs. If you need any special assistance, please call 301-397-2208 or TTY 301-474-1811 and ask for Karen Haseley.
