Greenbelt Station Agreement Is Approved by City Council, 4-1

by Marat Moore

After a year of study and debate, the Greenbelt Station project has received the city's preliminary stamp of approval, following the 4 to 1 vote by city councilmembers on May 9 to accept a revised development plan with Metroland Developers/Greenbelt Metropark (MD/GM). The vote came late in a meeting that stretched until nearly midnight and followed last-minute negotiations to work out details in the contract language. The development agreement sets forth conditions and responsibilities for Greenbelt Station and the city regarding future improvements at Greenbelt Station.

The proposed development is a huge and complex undertaking, with large tracts divided into the "North Core" and the "South Core" of the project. MD/GM owns the South Core and the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) currently owns the "North Core" and has negotiated a confidential purchase agreement with MD/GM. Following a week of negotiations about confidentiality, council was able to discuss the substance of that document in closed session. Following that discussion, City Solicitor Robert Manzi recommended revisions to the city's agreement with MD/GM to protect the city's interests since WMATA has refused to sign on.

Greenbelt's Planning Director Celia Craze presented the revised agreement to council and noted elements of the plan that were positive for the city over the last year including:

- city approval of site plans
- city control over annexation of the South Core
- fewer environmental impacts than earlier plans, with city authority over those impacts
- a larger tract of parkland – 14 acres – in the South Core
- a significant contribution to the additional cost for city services and facilities
- a trolley/tram system that will be a north-south connector
- improvements to the intersection of Metro Access Drive and Cherrywood Lane

"We've done a lot to ensure the quality of this development, with mitigation of significant public service impacts which will accrue to the city as it develops," Craze said.

The agreement spells out the financial support the city will receive to help serve the needs of the expected 5,000 additional city residents that will result from annexation of Metroland, which will include housing, retail stores and other businesses and open space for recreation. The agreement lists the following financial outlay by the developers: $2 million for public recreation facilities; $720,000 to fund six additional Greenbelt police officers; $500,000 for improvements to the Greenbelt police station; and $300,000 for an interpretative nature center as part of a stream park.

"Is it a perfect agreement? No – there is never a perfect agreement," said Manzi. "It has some flaws because WMATA

Proposed Public Works, Parks Budget Requests at $3,431,500

by Thomas X. White

In its fourth budget worksession for the Fiscal Year 2006 budget, held on April 20, the Greenbelt City Council dealt with the Public Works Department. The department's budget is projected at $2,508,400, an increase of about $128,000 from last year's adopted budget.

With the additional proposed parks budget of $923,100, the total effort by the Public Works Department will total $3,431,500. This is about the same as the Recreation Department budget (minus parks) and less than half of the Public Safety budget.

Although the city's parks and athletic fields are under control of use by the Recreation Department, the parks budget provides for supplies, materials and public works manpower used in maintaining the parks, playgrounds, athletic fields and tennis courts. In addition to the city-owned athletic fields at Braden Field, McDonald Field, Schrom Hills Park and the Wolfe Field(s) at Northway, the city also maintains an athletic field at the board of education site in Windsor Green and helps to maintain fields at Greenbelt Middle School and Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

Other Public Works expenditures relate to departmental administration (including maintaining the PW facility adjacent to Attick Park), street and sidewalk maintenance, waste collection, traffic control, equipment maintenance, the Greenbelt Connection bus service, the city cemetery, special events (e.g., Labor Day Festival and Fourth of July fireworks) and maintenance and cleaning of all city buildings.

In a departure from previous budget presentations that focused on the department's accomplishments, budget issues and challenges in the coming year, Public Works Director Kenny Hall, Superintendent of Operations Carolyn Clemens, Assistant Public Works Director Bill Phelan and Recycling Coordinator Cindy Murray provided this year's presentation by highlighting the people involved in all of the Public Works projects recently completed or ongoing around the city.

Hall directed council's attention to the list of department accomplishments for FY05 and the issues for FY06 contained in the manager's proposed budget document, but wanted to use his department's presentation to introduce to council all the supervisors, crew-leaders, maintenance workers, refuse collectors, technicians and operators who day-in and day-out carry out the essential work of the department and accomplish many projects around the city that improve its environment and the quality of life for Greenbelt citizens.

Using a presentation that captured many of the current projects underway, the slides pictured not only the projects but the crews, with Hall, Phelan and Clemens introducing the workers as they were shown in the slides. Council's response to the presentation was salutary, thanking Hall for connecting faces and names for all of the workers.

In its review of the budget accounts, council addressed in passing a few specific items. In discussing the city's recycling and refuse collection program, it was noted that the city's recycling rate for the year has reached 48 percent. Unless something dramatic happens in this area, further increases in this rate will be difficult.

Council members felt that the city's rate, compared with that of the county and other municipalities, was commendable. There is some concern about the impact of the city's new yard waste policy, which states that yard waste in plastic bags will no longer be picked up for the city's mulch program.

As of March 1, residents are required to place yard waste either in paper yard waste bags or in special bins for yard debris.

FOP President Highlights "Negative" Budget Policies

by Virginia Beauchamp

The Greenbelt City Council budget worksession with representatives of the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) had to be cut short on Monday, May 2 when council went into executive session concerning new information on the pending agreement on the Metroland tract west of Cherrywood Lane. Before closing off the meeting, however, council had time to hear a presentation by FOP President Craig Rich on retirement issues, cost of living adjustments and salaries and pay scales, as well as to listen to introductory remarks on the topic of collective bargaining by former FOP President John Rogers.

Rich expressed the feeling of longer-term members of the Greenbelt Police Department that they were being disadvantaged by the current formula for paying a cost of living adjustment (COLA) based on the midpoint salary figure for the department. Before 2001 a straight percentage COLA had been used for all police personnel.

But following a study on city compensation carried out by a consultant the midpoint system was adopted whereby newer recruits, whose salaries fell below the midpoint, received a somewhat higher percentage COLA and the higher salaries of longer-time employees received an increase based on a lower percentage figure. Rich argued that this system especially affected employees during their three final years of service.

Rich also noted that the city's "buy-back" program had been reduced by 50 percent, thereby lessening an officer's pay even further. In the buy-back program officers could sell back to the city up to 40 hours of unused annual leave in any given year. As of last year's budget, the buy-back amount had been reduced to 20 hours.

Recreation Review Notes Varied Activities Offered

by James Giese

The Recreation Department budget presentation to the Greenbelt City Council on May 4 began with a slide show with background music of departmental activities over the past year. It highlighted the many varied multicultural and multigenerational activities which the department offers to Greenbelt residents. Other than a slew of recreators, city administrative staff and council, only one citizen was present, Clement Lau, a member of the Park and Recreation Advisory Board, who remained silent during the meeting.

Director Harry G. (Hank) Irving began his overview by announcing that Brian Butler, recreation coordinator at Springhill Lake, had received an Innovative Program Award for a boys mentoring program, Boys United in Learning, Developing and Igning the Next Generation (B.U.I.L.D.I.N.G.) at the recently held Maryland Recreation and Parks Association conference.

The $4,391,400 budget for recreation and parks for fiscal year 2006 is an increase of 6.8 percent over that for the current fiscal year. Of this, $3,468,700 is for recreation programs and facilities and $922,700 is for parks, where most costs of operation are incurred by the Public Works Department, which is responsible for park maintenance as well as many other activities. Irving attributed the budget increase to higher energy costs, employee benefit costs and salary increases. No additional personnel are proposed.

Council then reviewed the budget page by page. Council

Open Letter to ERHS Parents on Tests

One of the requirements for earning a high school diploma in the State of Maryland is that students are required to complete five high school assessments that are administered near the end of specific course work. The courses involved are English 10; local, state and national government, biology, algebra and geometry. The dates for testing are specified by the Maryland State Department of Education. The primary testing week for 2004-2005 is May 23 through May 27. The schedule for testing is as follows:

May 23	English 10
May 24	Government
May 25	Geometry
May 26	Biology
May 27	Algebra

Make up testing is scheduled for June 1 through June 13.

Students work independently. The tests include numerous multiple choice questions and a variety of essay questions. Results are posted on students' high school transcripts. You may view sample questions on the Maryland State Department of Education's website at <http://www.mdk12.org>. Public release items for each assessment are listed.

It is extremely important that your student is in school every day on time. We need your support to make sure your student does his or her best job.

Please make sure:

1. Your child arrives at school on time. Testing takes place in the morning.
2. Your student eats a substantial breakfast on testing mornings to give him or her the necessary energy and alertness for participation in testing.
3. Your student gets a good night's sleep the night before each testing day.
4. Your student is in school on testing day. Students absent on a testing day will participate in make up testing.
5. You send your student to school with a snack. Testing takes approximately 5-1/2 hours so students will be eating a late lunch.

Thank you for your assistance and support. Should you have any questions, please call the school and ask to speak with Mrs. McDonald, the testing coordinator. Her number is 301-513-5400 extension 320.

Open Letter To Mayor Davis

May 8, 2005, a fire began and spread in a section of Parcel V of GHI that has been named "the test plot" for herbicide experiments for almost three years. No residents adjacent to this plot approved of this plan to test mixtures of various pesticides directly bordering their homes (that drifted into our yards). This section of the parcel was cleared of most living vegetation (both native and invasive) and most likely was hailed a success: lots of dead, dry plants over acres and acres of the parcel.

The large patch of bamboo that ignited Sunday afternoon had been cut to about 6 inches as repeated tests were conducted to determine what cocktails of pesticides were deemed "appropriate." The dead stalks were surrounded by layers of dry leaves along with the stalks that were left piled against them.

Why was the bamboo cut and left to dry and die? It was done to rid the forest of the dreaded invasive species. This steeply-sloped area was never replanted and the dead, dry vegetation was left to rot. No care was taken to remove the dead plant material and non-native plants were even brought in to replace what had thrived for decades. The wildlife was wiped out, the stream banks were left to erode and now, after years of trying to persuade officials to conduct an investigation, residents are still left to solve this on their own.

Kudos to the Greenbelt Fire Department which got the flames under control and saved our yards and homes. We want a full investigation of invasive species management that has been allowed to devastate our forests and wildlife. Will our homes be next? Or yours? Who is responsible for approving this plan? The city? The county? The state? The EPA? The pesticide applicators? Who is going to fix this?

We want answers that will put an end to this crazy, half-baked scheme that isn't working. There are better ways to create a healthy eco-system without waging war on us all.

THANKS

A hearty "Thank You!" to the Greenbelt Baptist Church and to the Greenbelt Theater. Your open-to-the-public events helped us to observe important occasions.

For the National Day of Prayer (Thursday, May 5), the Baptist Church-hosted gathering at the Municipal Building at noon near the flag poles gave us the opportunity to raise our petitions to God.

And the "Concert of Prayer" gathering at the church that evening gave us the opportunity to raise our voices in song. The husband and wife duet was particularly moving. Classic America.

For the 60th anniversary of VE Day (the end of World War II in Europe), May 1945, the German-language movie "Downfall" was most appropriate. The horror and fear as the enemy closed in. The devastation. Although I have read a multitude of books on World War II, as well as seen many movies, this particular show was the most vivid example of what it must have been like. And the German language of that film added to the realism of that man-made disaster of April and early May 1945.

We can be grateful that, despite the shortcomings of international relations, no one has had to go through a major war for 60 years.

Christopher K. Scherer

Catching "The Interpreter"

A hard-driving political thriller, "The Interpreter," opens Friday, May 13 at Old Greenbelt Theatre for at least one week. It pivots on the roles played by two stars: Nicole Kidman, as a troubled interpreter at the UN from the fictional African country of Matobo, and Sean Penn as an out-of-sorts Secret Service agent (with a suspiciously thick head of hair). Did Kidman overhear a real plan to assassinate Matobo's dictator? How adroitly can Penn & Co. shake down the question? Will Kidman and Penn hook up personally? Director Sidney Pollock won an Oscar for "Out of Africa" some two decades ago; here he cooks up a more traditional stew with a practiced hand and more white-on-black shading. PG-13, 135 minutes.

Education efforts for this new program are ongoing. Upon request, Public Works will provide residents with special stickers to identify yard waste bins, which can substitute for the paper bags if residents wish.

The proposed budget includes an increase in the refuse/recycling fee to $47 per quarter ($188/year) and the recycling only collection to $25 per year.

During discussion of the proposed budget for maintenance of multi-purpose equipment, Hall noted that the department will surplus the city's 45-year-old bulldozer this year and place it in auction on the internet. Also of note in this account, increasing costs for fuel has had an impact in the current year's budget and will impact the FY06 budget. In FY03, the city's cost for gasoline was $1.21/gallon. In FY05, it is $1.60/gallon and heading up.

Parks Budget

There was considerable discussion of the parks budget, which includes funding for a new maintenance worker to handle additional work resulting from the city's new playground agreement with GHI and some of the homeowners' associations in the city. The city will be working with the homeowners' associations to develop a plan for rehabilitation of playgrounds covered by the new agreement.

Based on priorities identified in those discussions with the affected neighborhoods, it is estimated that three or four playgrounds could be rehabilitated this year. Council will likely further discuss this item before consideration of the final budget.

Another item discussed briefly at the work session and slated for further exploration by council involves an analysis of the relative value to the city of the additional costs for biodiesel fuel. Public Works has conducted air emission tests of city vehicles using both regular diesel fuel and biodiesel fuel. The tests indicate that all trucks tested when burning biodiesel had higher emission levels of hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide. Two of the three trucks tested had higher levels of carbon dioxide and all of the trucks had lower levels of oxides of nitrogen.

With the average increased cost per year to purchase biodiesel in place of regular diesel fuel at $8,900, Public Works staff have questioned the purported benefits of the program. Since the city's objective for the biodiesel program has been environmental improvement, the staff recommended that, based upon the analysis, the city discontinue use of biodiesel.

Also up for further discussion is how the proposed budget handles expenditures for contracting services for landscaping, tree removal and other maintenance activities. Some council members thought there may be opportunities for savings; others were not so sure. The staff position is that use of contractors for selected projects allows greater flexibility for the daily city crews and generally accomplishes the service at reduced cost.

Following council's review, Carl Skaggs, a parks supervisor speaking on behalf of some of his fellow employees, expressed concern regarding the proposed increase in the manager's budget for the employee contribution percentage for health benefits. The manager's proposed budget would change the employee share of the cost of health plan premiums from 15 to 20 percent, saving the city (and the budget) $60,000.

Skaggs wanted council to know that such an increase would impact public works employees more severely than other employees because on average they are the lowest paid in the city.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts expressed his concern with the health benefits proposal, indicating that funding for additional staff should be eliminated to allow the health benefit formula to remain unchanged. That would likely place the health benefits question on the list of items to be discussed further in their consideration of a very difficult budget challenge.

CITY OF GREENBELT NOTICE OF A PROPOSED REAL PROPERTY TAX INCREASE

The City Council of the City of Greenbelt proposes to increase real property taxes.

1. For the tax year beginning July 1, 2005, the estimated real property assessable base will increase by 8.1%, from $1,211,118,495 to $1,309,423,079.
2. If the City of Greenbelt maintains the current tax rate of $0.716 per $100 of assessment, real property tax revenues will increase by 8.1%, resulting in $703,861 of new real property tax revenues.
3. In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the real property tax rate should be reduced to $0.662, the constant yield tax rate.
4. The City is considering not reducing its real property tax rate enough to fully offset increasing assessments. The City proposes to adopt a real property tax rate of $0.776 per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 17.2% higher than the constant yield tax rate and will generate $1,492,742 in additional property tax revenues.

A public hearing on the proposed real property tax increase will be held at 8 p.m. on Monday, May 23, 2005, in the City Council Room of the Municipal Building, 25 Crescent Road, Greenbelt, MD 20770.

The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged.

Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call 301-474-8000 for further information.

GHI Annual Meeting & Elections Biographies of Candidates

The following members of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) have consented to run for election to the Board of Directors and the Nominations Committee. The elections will be held at the recess of the GHI Annual Meeting on Thursday, May 19 and continuing on Friday, May 20. Biographies are written by the candidates.

Board of Directors (Vote for five)

Patricia Novinski 8-E Laurel Hill Road

The candidate became a GHI resident in 2001, following relocation from New York State upon retirement from Social Work. Patricia reports enjoying her one bedroom unit, her neighbors and the spirit of living cooperatively. Shared raking, snow shoveling, walking and yard selling have been welcome experiences. Mutual bemoaning about mossy lawns, cicadas and English ivy has provided relief.

The candidate's three year association with the Architecture and Environment Committee has educated her about tensions in the GHI Community where individualistic ideals vie with the stated purposes of the Greenbelt pioneers. Members' understandable desires to fashion a dwelling and life style of their dreams can come in conflict with regulations promulgated on behalf of the GHI mission statement. Growing pains are a predictable component in the journey to secure the viability of this enduring inheritance.

The candidate is interested in supporting the Board of Directors in its efforts at preservation and enhancement of the green community at a time when models of modernization make it difficult to maintain loyalty to aging founding goals.

Chuck Hess 8-E Research Road

A member since 1983, Chuck Hess became active in the affairs of the cooperative in 1984. He has served on the following committees:

- Architecture and Environment
- Finance
- Ad Hoc Resales
- Investment
- Audit

Chuck is currently serving his 14th year as a member of the Board of Directors, six of those as Treasurer. He also serves as Chair of the Investment Committee.

Chuck Hess is a C.P.A. He earned his M.S. in taxation from American University, Washington, D.C.

Sheila Alpers 30-D Ridge Road

I have lived in GHI since 1987, first in a frame home and now in a masonry home. I was first attracted to "Old Greenbelt" by the mature trees, the pathway around Buddy Attick Park and the affordability of the homes. I liked the small-town feeling of Greenbelt and the fact that maintenance services were provided to coop units. I can honestly say there is no other place in the metro area I would rather live. If elected, I plan to continue to work towards improvement in GHI based on findings of the IT and Management Audits.

Sylvia Lewis 2-C Gardenway

I have been a GHI member since 1968, when I moved into the community with my husband, Robert, and our two young children. When I retired from my position as Executive Director of the Prince George's County Red Cross ten years ago, I became more involved in Greenbelt and our cooperative. Since then my GHI activities have included: Member and Community Relations Committee (1997-present); Audit Committee (1998-2000); Chair, Audit Committee (1999-2000); Investment Committee (2000-present); Board of Directors (2000-present); and Treasurer (2000-present).

I enjoy living in Greenbelt, especially in our cooperative community. I seek reelection to the Board so that I may continue to make constructive contributions to ensure that GHI continues to be fiscally responsible, responsive to member concerns, and a wonderful place to call home.

Born: London, England; Education: London School of Economics and Indiana University School of Social Work; US citizenship obtained in 1969.

Julia Eichhorst 3-P Research Road

Early in 1992, I moved to GHI. I was attracted to the small town atmosphere of the community and the amenities that Greenbelt offered.

I am completing my 4th term on the Board of Directors, am currently on the Marketing, Member and Community Relations, and Newsletter committees. I am a docent at the Greenbelt Museum.

I am currently serving on the Board of Directors for the National Association of Housing Cooperatives (NAHC) and the Potomac Association of Housing Cooperatives (PAHC). I have also trained for the NAHC since 1999.

Joyce Abell 1-B Research Road

Joyce Abell has lived in GHI for 26 years. She currently serves on the Board of Directors of Greenbelt Homes and the New Deal Café. Since the mid-eighties Joyce has served on the Member and Community Relations Committee, Marketing, Pet Sub-Committee and chaired both the Resale and Ad Hoc Committee for Deregulation of Electricity. She currently serves on the Finance Committee. Joyce was named Outstanding Committee Member 1999-2000.

As a member who spent four years on the GHI Board, eight years in Real Estate and many volunteer activities, she brings knowledge and skills that lend themselves to serving another term on the Board. As a Board member she continues to listen to the concerns of all members.

Nominations & Elections Committee (Vote for five)

Deborah Cooley 1-F Plateau Place

Have lived in GHI for 12 years. B.S. in Management from Wheeling Jesuit University. M.B.A. in Accounting, Southeastern University. Work as an Accountant for U.S. Senate Disbursing Office. 4 years experience on the Nominations and Elections Committee. Served 2 terms with the Audit Committee. Member of the Companion Animal Committee.

Andy Carruthers 2-M Gardenway

If elected, I will serve.

Alan Turnbull 45-H Ridge Road

(No bio submitted.)

Roger Brown 9-B Research Road

Roger Brown is married and has lived in Greenbelt for many years. He is retired from the Prince George's County Memorial Library System. Brown would like to get involved with GHI decision making and enjoys living here.

GHI Holds Annual Meeting

by Mary Moien

All five incumbents whose terms are expiring this month will be running for re-election to the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) board of directors. As of press time, one additional member is also running for a spot on the board. GHI's annual meeting will be held on Thursday May 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the Greenbelt Community Center with shortened voting hours on Friday. A candidates' forum will be held on Tuesday May 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers of the Municipal Building. Cable Channel 71 will rebroadcast the forum on Wednesday May 18 at 5 p.m. and on Thursday, May 19 at 9a.m., 11a.m. and 1p.m.

Candidates

GHI board of director incumbents running for re-election include Joyce Abel, Sheila Alpers, Chuck Hess, Julia Eichhorst, and Sylvia Lewis. Patricia Novinski, a member of the A&E Committee, is also in the race. The three members of the Audit Committee are elected each year. As of press time, only one incumbent had filed to run - Diane Wilkerson. Audit committee nominations cannot be made at the annual meeting, so if there are not at least three candidates, the new board may have to seek additional persons at a later date interested in serving on the Audit Committee.

Members of the Nominations and Elections Committee are also elected at the annual meeting. Nominations are allowed from the floor for these positions.

Biographies of the candidates are found on this page.

Agenda

Topics to be discussed at the annual meeting include a report by the ad hoc Yard Line Committee. The Companion Animal Committee will review their newly-approved stringent regulation modifications on the care of pets. Pets cannot be chained or tethered in the yard and animals cannot be left in the yard while members are absent from the house. The A & E committee will report on a member opinion survey that was undertaken since the last annual meeting.

The Woodlands Committee will again be providing a plant giveaway. It was very popular last year. Door prizes will be given away. This year, to encourage people to be ready to begin the meeting right at 7:30, there will be a special door prize given to one of the members who is registered and seated by 7:30.

Voting

Voting for the board of directors and the audit committee will take place after the meeting on Thursday night. Members can also vote on Friday from 7 to 9 a.m. and from 5 to 7 p.m. at GHI offices. Note that the polls will only be open during two periods on Friday, and the location is GHI offices, not the Community Center.

Absentee ballots

If unable to attend the annual meeting, a member may apply for a proxy to give to another member to vote for them on issues that require voting during the meeting. Contact GHI offices by May 13.

To cast an absentee vote for the board of directors, members may obtain a ballot from GHI from late Monday, May 16 through noon on Wednesday, May 18.

won't agree to it. But that's not the fault of the developer. I think we have gotten the best agreement we can get under the circumstances, particularly the key provisions that gives the city approval authority over site plans.

"These are very large pieces of property in a unique area that includes land owned by the state and by WMATA. There are a lot of interests involved in this property," he said. "This agreement gives us a lot more leverage in the process and more partnership with the developer than we would have under current law."

Support

Councilmember Leta Mach expressed support for the reduced density, expanded parkland, the stream/valley park and support for city services and asked if the covenants would be held in escrow as discussed previously. Manzi replied that covenants for the South Core could be completed soon but that an escrow agreement would be drawn up for the North Core section owned by WMATA.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts said, "Everybody's right about one thing – this whole development agreement has been one long drawn-out process." Saying he was "not quite ready" to vote in support, he asked about the number of ballfields that could be placed in the open space of the site.

Craze responded that no appropriate site currently existed for a ballfield and that discussions were underway with Springhill Lake about potential ballfield development. But, she added, "If there are opportunities for additional parkland, we will pursue them."

Not Happy

Roberts pressed on. "I'm not happy with the way this whole thing is going," he said. "It's not compatible with what Greenbelt's about. The only reason we can't get [a ballfield] is because it's a money development."

Mark "Kap" Kapastin, representing GB Mall Limited Partnership which owns Beltway Plaza, told councilmembers that his company has not reached resolution on any issue with MD/GM and stated that he felt the city has ignored the interests of Beltway Plaza.

Mayor Judith Davis acknowledged his sentiment and added, "There is a limit as to what the city can do in relation to business development."

Collaboration

Daniel Colton of MD/GM also appeared before the council and said that they needed Springhill Lake and Beltway Plaza to join in the collaboration. He added that he has asked the developers active in the South Core to move forward on annexation.

Davis reserved her comments for the end. "My burning interest was the environment," she said. "We knew that Greenbelt Station was going to be developed. Citizens came forward to talk about this valuable piece of land that needed to be saved. We also wanted to make sure that whatever was developed was under our control and that the development wouldn't be detrimental."

Far Better

"This agreement is far better than what we almost signed a year ago. The language is more specific. It's a good compromise. It's a no-brainer for me. I'm ready for a motion."

Councilmember Edward Putens made the motion to approve, which Mach seconded. All except Roberts voted for the motion. The approval is contingent upon covenants to be prepared reflecting the provisions of the agreement, which must be filed within 60 days and upon the signatures of all parties.

Beltsville Club's Plant Sale

The Beltsville Garden Club will hold its plant sale on Saturday, May 14 from 8 a.m. until noon at High Point High School, 3601 Powder Mill Road, Beltsville. For information call Geoff White at 301-937-1539.

Another negative feature in the new budget proposal, Rich noted, would reduce from 85 percent to 80 percent the amount the city would pay into medical insurance coverage for city employees.

Less Competitive

In a labor market where the number of applicants had been sharply reduced (the most recent pool being 12 Greenbelt applicants versus a typical 100 or so a few years ago), Rich believed that Greenbelt was becoming less competitive. Of nearby jurisdictions, starting salaries for Greenbelt and Hyattsville police officers were lowest, those for Laurel and Takoma Park somewhat higher and those for Gaithersburg and Rockville highest, he said.

The city's officer corps is also aging, Rich pointed out. Some 60 percent are already halfway to their 25-year retirements and something like a 50 percent turnover is expected within the next 10 years, he predicted. He noted that the city's competitive position was also affected by plans of Prince George's County to hire new officers.

Mayor Judith Davis queried Rich on whether he had retention figures from these jurisdictions but he was not able to provide that information.

Collective Bargaining

According to Rogers, who is first vice president of the Maryland State Lodge of the FOP, several Maryland jurisdictions now provide for a system of binding arbitration in work issues and remuneration. He looks on this system as "a very positive thing." Rogers indicated that a bargaining unit would consist only of officers of sergeant rank and below.

He cited various jurisdictions now using this system: Ocean City, Montgomery County, Prince George's County, the Maryland Park Police, Takoma Park and Easton.

The city of Hyattsville is now in the process of considering collective bargaining, Rogers said. In this system contract arrangements could be set for three years at a time.

"Every issue would be up for discussion," Davis pointed out, "many non-monetary, such as working conditions and the negotiating process itself."

Councilmember Edward V.J. Putens said that establishing collective bargaining in Greenbelt would be "a historical step – a big step." He felt that the citizens should be called on to decide such a change, perhaps to be put on the ballot in the November election. In the meantime the FOP could conduct an education campaign, he noted.

Councilmember Leta Mach noted that the city must be consistent in its policies toward all employees. Councilmember Konrad Herling agreed. Collective bargaining should be explored for all departments, he said. He asked specifically how the arbitrator, the third-party tie-breaker in an unresolved disagreement, would be determined.

"We need to be educated" on this process, Davis said. "We represent a lot of people; you represent a very defined group."

All agreed that a further worksession would be in order once this year's budget hearings have concluded.

WANTED —

In May 2004, Yant participated in an early morning homicide of a man in Capitol Heights. Yant is a black male with brown eyes, black hair, 5'7", 140 lbs, 21 years old, walks with a limp. His last known address is the 8600 block of Greenbelt Road in Greenbelt but he is known to frequent the Clinton area.

Yant is considered dangerous and should not be approached. Anyone with knowledge of his whereabouts is asked to call the Sheriff's Office 24 hours a day at 301-883-6987.

Body of Missing Student Found

The body of Greenbelter Arvin Sharma was recovered from the Anacostia River on April 25 after he had been missing for a week. Sharma vanished on April 16 after a night out with friends in Southwest Washington, according to The Washington Post.

A University of Maryland student, the 22-year-old lived with his brother and was scheduled to graduate next month.

There were no obvious signs of foul play but police were awaiting results from an autopsy. The family said they suspected foul play because it was unlike him to simply disappear. Anyone with information about the case is asked to call the police at 202-727-9099.

A Happy Ending

The Greenbelt Police Department was able to locate and return a nine-year-old autistic boy who got lost in Schrom Hills Park on April 18.

Jeffrey Cousins of Washington, D.C., was visiting Schrom Hills Park with his father, also named Jeffrey, when he got lost on the bike trail.

A friend of the family called the Greenbelt Police Department and they arrived within five minutes. "It truly takes the combined effort of many officers using every means possible to cordon off an area to conduct a search of this nature," said Chief James Craze. "But it is something officers do with greater zeal than any other assignment," he added.

Cousins wrote a letter to Craze stating that ". . . their professionalism and efficiency . . . left me with a very high view and impression of the Greenbelt Police Department."

Cousins added, "I want to specifically thank and commend Captain Kemp, Captain Craddock, Corporal Musterman, Officer Washington, Officer Dewey, Officer Bladzinski, Officer Lawson, Officer Laver, Corporal Donovan, Rose Caless, Officer Walter and of course Officer Gullledge for specifically finding Jeff."

Yard and Office Work Volunteers Needed by GIVES

by Virginia Beauchamp

As spring advances, some members of GIVES, the Greenbelt Intergenerational Volunteer Exchange Service, may be looking for help with garden clean-up and other outside yard work. They won't have to look far, since some dozen members among their colleagues are already listed in the group's directory as providing just this kind of service.

Nor will any money change hands, for GIVES members pay through offering some other kind of service – let's say pet sitting or transportation – that may in fact be rendered to another member. It's all handled through a central bookkeeper who keeps track of each member's debits and credits. And of course that bookkeeper also earns credit hours that can then be exchanged for another kind of service that he or she may be seeking. It is called a "care credit" bank.

Volunteers Needed

The organization currently needs volunteers to answer the phone during the 10 a.m. to noon office hours on weekdays in the Community Center. GIVES occupies a corner in the pleasant Senior Lounge, where records are kept and request phone calls received and call-outs made. Volunteers may choose to commit two hours on a particular day each week or merely to act as backup for an occasional unscheduled period.

The largest category of service – especially important for shut-ins in Greenbelt – is a group of 47 volunteers who will carry out shopping errands. Another large group is listed as willing to drive another member on necessary trips as, for example, to medical appointments or to provide meal deliveries.

Tutoring, telephone reassurance calls, mending, letter writing, minor home repairs (like replacing light bulbs in ceiling fixtures) and just visiting are also possible exchange services.

GIVES was founded in 1993 by a community-wide coalition brought together by Greenbelt's Senior Citizen Advisory Committee. It is supported by donations, in-kind contributions, grant money and fund-raising activities.

This year at the annual meeting on June 14 a special ceremony will honor two outstanding GIVES volunteers whose dedication marked some of the early years after the organization first began. A plaque in their honor will hang on the wall in the Senior Lounge.

GIVES, whose motto is Neighbors Helping Neighbors, is always open to new members. There is no fee or charge for participation. For more information call 301-507-6580.

members asked questions about numerous programs and activities but on the whole seemed satisfied with the kind and quality of programs offered by the department. One major item added to council's list of items to be considered for possible cost savings was not hiring someone to fill a recreation coordinator position authorized in the current budget but never filled. City Manager Michael McLaughlin noted that while there would be cost savings, it would be necessary to increase the number of hours worked by part time employees at the recreation centers.

A Recreation Supervisor position is also vacant following the recent resignation of Nancy Wilmot to spend more time with her family. She had been involved with the various kids' programs and camps.

Review Comments

Mayor Judith Davis noted that the department employed 60 teenagers. Irving responded that they were used mostly at the pool and summer camps.

Councilmember Leta Mach expressed concern about damage to the gym floor at the Springhill Lake Recreation Center caused by its use for the Cinco de Mayo celebration held on a rainy day. Assistant Director for Facilities Joe McNeal noted that the floors are annually refinished in September or October before the basketball season begins.

Mach asked staff how it got its ideas for new programs. Assistant Director for Programs Julie McHale responded that some were ideas obtained by attending conferences and by reading material from recreation and parks associations. Irving said that many ideas came from Greenbelt citizens. Nicole DeWald, arts coordinator, said that she utilized suggestion forms.

Davis asked if they received ideas from kids or the Youth Advisory Committee (YAC). The response was generally negative. Recreation Coordinator Greg Varda said that the youth were not involved in programming either after-school activities or sports. McNeal noted that the members of the YAC served for only three years, whereas many Park and Recreation Advisory Board members served for many years. Varda added that the YAC members faded out in their senior year. Teen forums also have not gotten good attendance and Varda is thinking of doing something on cable to encourage participation.

Davis noted that program revenues were not growing. She advocated that council hold a worksession at a later date to evaluate recreational programming and the reasons for lack of revenue growth.

Instituting new technology is also a challenge. The department could use more technology resources. Currently staff members are working with the city's IT staff on installing a program to enable people to register for classes on-line.

The department utilizes 300 non-classified, part-time employees. Maintaining proper pay levels for these essential workers and providing needed training are continuing challenges.

Aquatics

Davis noted that the Aquatics and Fitness Center had instituted use of a time clock for employees and a pass card reader for patrons. She was happy to see the center was now using a sign-in sheet. Aquatics Center Supervisor George Rogala said the sheet had not yet been utilized but was available in case of an emergency or for reference if an incident took place at the pool. He also reported that a program to pay summer lifeguards at the end of the season an extra 50 cents an hour for their time if they worked the full summer season had helped insure that there would be guards still working at the pool at season's end. However, there was still a problem in finding guards to work at six in the morning and on Saturday night.

How was the new "surf and turf" program going, Davis asked. This is a program offering seniors who attend the city's Food and Friendship Program a .50-cent admission pass to the swimming pool. Rogala noted that the program has only been going for three weeks. So far only eight passes have been turned in, four of those by the same person.

Rogala also reported that a survey of customers last fall gave the pool high evaluations. He noted that the pool was acquiring an automated pool cleaner device that could be placed in the water to work all night on cleaning the facility.

Staff is now keeping the pool temperature at about 83.9 degrees, a little higher than the recommended 83 maximum. So far, the higher temperature has not caused complaints from lap swimmers while reducing complaints about the water being too cold.

The swimming pool will probably need to be closed in the fall to make necessary repairs at a cost of $31,000. The Aquatic and Fitness Center was closed briefly in order to install new carpeting in the hallway and replace women's lockers.

Leisure and Fitness

Basketball appeared to be the most popular sport, Davis noted. Its number of participants is growing. Participation in soccer and softball are down. City Treasurer Jeff Williams, a soccer enthusiast, told council that the leagues in Montgomery and Howard Counties offered more attractive opportunities to adult players. Varda noted that Boys and Girls Club soccer was second to basketball in popularity.

Community Center

Planned for October 2 is a tenth anniversary celebration of the opening of the Community Center. It will be tied in with an Artful Afternoon. McNeal said that a chatauqua was planned as well as demonstrations and open houses by the tenants. Community Center Supervisor Di Quynn-Reno noted that the budget contemplates closing the center at 7 on Sundays for a cost savings of $2,000. Both a basketball group and an organization that have been meeting there agreed to change their schedules to accommodate the closing.

Staff reported on a recent incident in which a baby shower group had violated regulations by bringing in beer and creating loud noise. Staff is going to take extra measures to assure that there is not a repeat of this kind of incident and may inspect incoming coolers, if necessary.

Vandalism in the art gallery was also noted. A security camera has now been installed. Irving said this type of incident is very rare.

The Community Center is also to get stage lighting in the new budget. There is concern as to how the control panel might be secured. Davis asked if the new lighting would satisfy the needs of the Greenbelt Band. It was noted that this would be stage lighting and not just overhead lights.

Center receipts are now being emailed to program participants in order to save time and money.

Councilmembers noted that the knit and crochet group organized this winter is making items to donate to charities. The yarn they are using is donated by various individuals. Participants of all skill levels have taken part.

Arts

DeWald told Davis that there have been over 700 participants in the first year in arts field trips. This is a program where elementary school classes come to the Community Center to participate in hands-on arts activities. The kids have a great time, DeWald said. She is grateful to teachers for their cooperation. She noted that the program is linked to the curriculum of the schools relating to arts.

Art a la Carte is another new program offering. These are fee-based workshops available to Scout Groups and other youth groups. DeWald pointed out that the kids choose what they want to do. Scout groups have used it as a way to achieve merit badges. Davis suggested that it could be used for birthday celebrations. DeWald said the program was just getting underway.

She also told council that the Aquatic and Fitness Center was now being used to display art.

Recreation Facilities

Irving noted some of the problems at the Springhill Lake Recreation Center. It is difficult to get volunteers there because of the transient nature of apartment residents, many of whom are working mothers. Security is still a problem – at all centers but more so at Springhill Lake. Use of alcohol and marijuana by some who attend or hang around the centers continues. The recreation staff works closely with the police department, Irving noted.

Rogala said that the police presence at Roosevelt Center has eliminated the rougher element that gathered there. Bike patrols at Braden Field also help, he said. Irving noted, however, that police presence in one place pushes the problem somewhere else. Also some of the troublemakers are not youths, but rather young adults. "We have the same challenges as the schools do," he said.

Staff talked about an incident where an 8, a 12 and a 13 year-old started a series of fires in dumpsters and in a trash can in a restroom at the Community Center. The miscreants were filmed on surveillance cameras. Fortunately none of the fires were serious, the one at the center being put out almost immediately by an alert staffer.

Irving took note that recreation facilities were aging. This results in higher maintenance costs, he said. Overuse and misuse of ballfields is a particular challenge. Floating athletic groups come in at times and use a field without permit and with little concern for taking care of the facility.

It is also hard to keep athletic teams off the field in the early spring when they are still not in useable condition. The antiquated, 30-year-old lighting at the Braden Field tennis courts also needs to be replaced.

Councilmember Konrad Herling asked if there might be budget implications as a result of building the skateboard park this year next to the Youth Center. McNeal responded that it was not planned to charge a fee for using the facility, nor was it planned to staff it. If there should be high use at the start, stickers might be issued for placement on helmets to limit use to Greenbelt residents, and the facility might need to be staffed for a while.

Insurance costs are expected to be nominal, perhaps $1,500. Williams said that the insurance cost would not appear on the city's bill until next fiscal year.

Special Events

Irving commended the Public Works Department for always being on top of things at the city-sponsored special events such as the Independence Day fireworks and Labor Day Festival.

Included in the budget is a list of over 400 activities offered by the department. With nearly a half-million facility patrons and program participants, the department staff believes it is meeting its goal of providing high quality leisure services and facilities that offer something for everyone.

City's First Animal Shelter Is Nearing Completion

by Matt Johnson

Greenbelt's first animal shelter, assembled behind the police station, is expected to be operational by late May. The shelter will provide an adoption service to the community as well as a place for Animal Control to house stray and wild animals.

"We're trying to provide for as many opportunities to use these facilities as we can," said Celia Craze, AICP director of Planning and Development.

The building's 24-by-36-foot prefabricated structure was completed a year ago, but the permit to move the structure to the small area behind the police station was obtained just two months ago.

"[The shelter] came delivered to us as a turn-key operation," said Craze. She remarked that aside from the permitting, the shelter has been an easy project.

The next step is to bring in a plumber and an electrician. The outlets and light switches are already in the walls and the pipes are waiting to be connected.

Once the shelter is operational it will hold dogs, cats and exotics. Exotics include any of the myriad wild animals found roaming the streets and parkways.

"This is the wildlife season," said Susie Hall, Greenbelt's animal control officer.

Guinea pigs, ducks and turtles have crossed the paths of motorists in the past few years — sometimes with frightening results. The shelter will provide a temporary place for these animals to stay. "Sani-kennels" and a grooming room will keep the animals clean and healthy. A private interaction area will give visitors a chance to get up-close and personal with the animals by appointment.

Outside a free-range area is in the works. Hall is to be the primary staff member of this project but she hopes to bring in volunteers to assist once the operation takes off.

A ribbon-cutting event to celebrate the shelter's completion is planned for June.

Migratory Bird Day Is Saturday, May 14

Patuxent Research Refuge will celebrate the 13th annual International Migratory Bird Day on Saturday, May 14 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the National Wildlife Visitor Center in Laurel. Activities will include live birds, naturalist-led hikes, refuge tram tours, craft activities, puppet shows and more. Winning artwork from the Maryland Federal Junior Duck Stamp competition will also be on display.

International Migratory Bird Day is an annual event that focuses attention on the return of migratory birds from their Southern wintering grounds and seeks to gain support for migratory bird conservation. This year's theme, "Collisions: Clear the way for Birds!" emphasizes the dangers migratory birds may encounter during an annual migration due to human related hazards. Ways humans can help ease the stress and dangers encountered during migrations are also emphasized during this year's celebration of migratory birds.

Activities will occur rain or shine; admission is free. The National Wildlife Visitor Center is located off Powder Mill Road, between the Baltimore/Washington Parkway and Route 197, just south of Laurel. For information, visit <http://patuxent.fws.gov> or call 301-497-5763.
