Greenbelt Crossing Plan Approved 2 to 1 by Council

by A. Neil Deo

The vacant Greenbelt Nursing and Rehabilitation Center on Greenbelt Road will be transformed into 90 luxury condominiums to be called Greenbelt Crossing. Razing of the existing building will commence in 2006 and the new units will be completed early in 2008. This much became evident when a Detailed Site Plan (DSP) was discussed and approved narrowly by a 2 to 1 vote at the Greenbelt City Council meeting on February 27.

The 4.5-acre property is located along Greenbelt Road (MD 193) between University Square Apartments and the National Guard Armory. The owner is Armory Place, LLC. The development team is known as Lincoln Property Co., although it also has been referred to as "Lincoln Property; Vika, Inc.; and Lesard Group." Attorney Thomas Haller of Gibbs & Haller spoke for this team during Monday night's council meeting.

Five Conditions

Greenbelt Department of Planning and Community Development staff and its spokesperson for the evening Community Planner Ethan Bindernagel began the presentation by thanking the developer for a good working relationship. The staff report noted, "Generally speaking, the development team . . . has been highly responsive to city requests and very open to staff suggestions throughout the process."

The city and Armory Place, LLC had signed a Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions in November 2004. This agreement granted the city authority to review and approve the project's proposed DSP, landscape plan, building height, free-standing and building signage, architectural elevations, grading, storm drainage and paving plans.

Bindernagel informed council that staff was recommending the DSP with five conditions, one of which provides for $15,000 from the developer for construction of an ADA-compliant sidewalk along the north side of the free right-turn lane on Southway. Other conditions relate to a proposed gateway sign, aesthetically pleasing and of quality construction materials, noise attenuation and acoustical analysis certificates.

The "E-shaped" building will have 211 parking spaces accessible to all units from the covered parking area. The developer has proposed a low-impact development technique on the northwestern wing of the building allowing downspouts to discharge rain water over the grassy, landscaped

USPS, Merchants To Meet with City

U.S. Postal Service representatives will meet with Roosevelt Center merchants and the city council on Wednesday, March 15 at 8 p.m. in the Community Center to discuss the need for a retail or contract postal unit in Roosevelt Center.

Council Action Raises a Query

by James Giese

At its February 27 meeting, only three members of the Greenbelt City Council were present. Councilmembers Konrad Herling and Edward Putens both had excused absences. Section 8 of the Greenbelt City Charter provides that a majority of the five-member council must be present to conduct business. That was the case and the three members dealt with issues before council.

However, Section 8 also provides that "the affirmative vote of a majority of the members elected to the council shall be necessary to adopt any ordinance, resolution, order or vote . . ." As reported elsewhere in this paper, at the meeting council approved by a 2 to 1 vote the detailed site plans for Greenbelt Crossing, the new condominium project proposed for the site of the former Greenbelt Nursing

Council Receives Northway Fields Report for Approval

by James Giese

Council at its regular March 13 meeting is expected to receive a joint report from two of its advisory boards recommending approval of a plan for the Northway ballfields. Such approval, however, would be subject to three conditions; a recommendation was also added to the plan.

The Advisory Planning Board and the Park and Recreation Advisory Board approved the report by a unanimous vote of members present at a February 15 joint meeting, according to Community Planner Ethan Bindernagel of the Department of Planning and Community Development.

The Northway fields, located at the east end of Northway extended, were officially named by a previous city council for James Wolfe, a former mayor of Greenbelt. On the east side of the area is an interchange ramp for the employees' entrance to the Goddard Space Flight Center from the Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

To the south and west the area abuts on the newly-designated city forest preserve. The existing fields and adjacent roadway extend onto land previously designated by the city council as untouchable forest preserve and the proposed plan maintains this overlap. Bindernagel said that the existing tree wall was regarded as a "brick wall that you can't impede upon."

The northern boundary for the ballfields is a 10-acre city parcel excluded from the forest preserve for an observatory to be placed there for use by the Astronomical Society of Greenbelt (ASG). At one time the area was a city landfill. Included in the report is the site plan for the observatory structure previously acquired for ASG.

According to Bindernagel, the boards included a recommendation not to use poured concrete but to use only permeable materials for a small pad to be used by the astronomers as well as for road and parking surfaces. They also recommended fencing the adjacent city material yard to prevent encroachment on adjacent woodland and constructing a defined pathway connecting to the NASA-Parkway access ramp for use by NASA employees walking or bicycling to work and using the ramp as a shortcut.

ACE Education Honors To Be Presented Monday

by Mary Moien

The City Council chambers will be standing room only on Monday, March 13 when the ACE Educator Awards are presented. The council and the members of the Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) will be joined by County Councilmember Douglas J.J. Peters and others to honor one educator from each of the schools that serve Greenbelt students. All Greenbelters are invited to this ceremony which begins at 8 p.m.

The schools themselves select one staff member to be honored each year. It may be a principal, a teacher, an aide or other staff member. All adults who work in the schools are "educating" the students. If this year is like earlier years, the chambers will be filled to overflowing with school principals, colleagues, family and friends of each awardee. Each winner receives an apple trophy.

Although the 2006 ACE Educator Award winners have not been made public, it is noteworthy to mention those winners from the previous two years. Many are still educating Greenbelt's children.

The awardee from Greenbelt Elementary School was first grade teacher Barbara Packer; from Springhill Lake Elementary School came Bonnie Gregory, classroom teacher and technology coordinator. Principal Phyllis Gillens was honored by Magnolia Elementary and Linda Wilson, school counselor, represented St. Hugh's. At Greenbelt Middle School, Paulette Duncan, language arts teacher, was honored. Allison Galloway of Eleanor Roosevelt High School was chosen for her extensive knowledge of the biological sciences.

2004

The honoree from Greenbelt Elementary School was science coordinator Pamela Bauer; from Springhill Lake Elementary School, Trena White was selected for her professional commitment to her students. At Magnolia Elementary a parent was chosen - Annie Haber who is the parent liaison for the ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages) program. St. Hugh's School nominated receptionist (and all-around helper) Paula Beaver. The award winner at Greenbelt Middle School was Fay Jackson who headed the math department and the math tutoring program. Eleanor Roosevelt High School selected math teacher Connie Davis.

All Greenbelters are invited to this year's ceremony to learn more about the adults who are molding the Greenbelt citizens of tomorrow.

News of Awards Adds Glow To the City Council Meeting

by A. Neil Deo

Two awards, a significant donation to the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and a glowing magazine article about Greenbelt took center stage, initially, at the Greenbelt City Council meeting. The February 27 meeting then proceeded with discussion of the Greenbelt Crossing Development and Greenhill/Hillside Roads Outfall Stabilization and Stream Restoration Project. (See article above.)

Bay Partner Award

First was the golden moment of recognition for Greenbelt's pro-environment role in the Chesapeake Bay Program. The city received a citation and a "Chesapeake Partner Sign" as part of the Chesapeake Bay Partner Community Award sponsored by the Chesapeake Bay Program (established in 1997) and its Local Government Advisory Committee (LGAC).

The award's purpose is to recognize local governments in the Chesapeake Bay watershed whose actions demonstrate their commitment to protecting and restoring the Chesapeake Bay, its rivers and streams. Greenbelt had qualified for the silver award in 2000 and "went for the gold" in 2005.

Member cities (about 650 in total) are judged on their programs and activities, including reducing impervious surfaces. Greenbelt performed well on 42 benchmarks in four categories based on the goals in the Chesapeake Bay 2000 Agreement.

On hand to make the presentations was Kelly Porter, Seat Pleasant city councilmember, representing the LGAC. Porter addressed the meeting and volunteered to stay beyond the photo opportunity. Assistant Director of Planning and Community Development Terri Hruby was recognized and invited to be included in the picture as the person responsible for making the application.

Porter reminded the audience, "Everything you put out there [on yards and lawns] works its way down to the Bay." He noted that the city had acquired over 210 acres of undeveloped land in the past 10 years and had been among the first to begin and increase biker lanes and car-share

by Peter H. Curtis

It has been almost 10 months since Friends Community School (FCS) held the groundbreaking ceremony for its new "green" building on its property off Kenilworth Avenue just south of Westchester Park. Last week the bright orange fencing marking the area to be prepared for construction finally went up and heavy equipment began working.

In an interview, Head of School Tom Goss explained that this long delay had many causes. Part of the problem was simply the normal, slow process of securing the needed permits from the many relevant governmental bodies. But two major factors seriously delayed the project even prior to the permitting process, Goss explained.

First, early in the summer the original general contractor, Gilbane Building Company, informed the school that it was unable to meet its original cost estimate for the project. Because of the very tight building budget, the FCS Board of Trustees decided that the school could not afford Gilbane's revised price.

Instead, in July the entire selection process for a general contractor began all over again. As a result, it was not until late September that a new general contractor, Harbor View Construction, Inc. of Baltimore, was selected.

By then there was another major, unforeseen problem. When FCS acquired the property, it fell heir to a portion of a private sewer whose ownership was unclear. Cutting across private and federal land, this damaged sewer involved local, state and federal agencies ranging from the National Park Service to the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission (WSSC). Lengthy discussions and negotiations ensued and finally all parties determined that after the school repaired the sewer, WSSC would assume ownership of it.

Once the future of the sewer had been determined late in the fall of 2005, it was finally possible for the school to apply for the necessary county building permits. On February 9 the rough grading permit was issued and the general contractor was notified to gear up to begin work.

How will this long delay impact the school? Goss stated that it does not present any problems for FCS as the school has been able to extend the lease for its present building in College Park until the end of this calendar year. Since the estimate of construction time for the new building is about nine months, Goss expects to be able to oversee the move of the school during the coming academic year, likely late in the fall. He also noted that the delay will have no effect on the "green" construction techniques to be used in the building nor on the plans to have FCS offer grades kindergarten through eight instead of its current K to six.

Senior Resource of the Month

The TeleTouch Program

The Prince George's County Department of Family Services Area Agency on Aging is introducing a "TeleTouch" program. Previously called the Telephone Reassurance Program, it recruits volunteers from the community, senior centers and other volunteer programs to place daily reassuring phone calls to senior citizens in the county. Calls are made Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The goal of the program is to eliminate some of the concerns facing seniors who remain independent. Other program goals are to assist senior citizens in maintaining their independence, to provide an opportunity for daily socialization and a source of contact with the community, to help decrease feelings of loneliness and isolation and to provide an avenue to report mistreatment.

The program provides the opportunity to connect by telephone with someone who cares. The program also provides added peace of mind for relatives who live out of town or who are unable to contact their family members on a regular basis.

This free service is open to Prince George's County residents, 60 years of age or older, who are socially isolated. Persons interested in receiving calls for themselves or another qualified senior can call 301-265-8410.

The Senior Resource of the Month is provided as a community service by Christal Batey, Community Resource Advocate.

Passover Wine Tasting, Book Sale

In preparation for the holiday of Passover, which will begin on April 12, Mishkan Torah will hold a Passover wine tasting party along with a used book sale on Saturday, March 18 at 7:30 p.m. Different types of kosher wines from around the world will be available for tasting. The purpose of the wine tasting is to help broaden participants' knowledge of wines and to help make their Passover seders very festive.

It will be possible to order the kosher Passover wine of one's choice. There will also be a variety of cheeses, fruit, crackers and other nonalcoholic drinks with the wine. There is a fee for the food and wine tasting. Minors will not be allowed to taste any wine.

A used book sale will start on Saturday evening and continue on Sunday, March 19 from 9 a.m. to noon. (See ad on page 3.)

Mishkan Torah Celebrates Purim

The Jewish holiday of Purim will begin on Monday evening, March 13 at sundown. Services at Mishkan Torah will begin at 7:30 p.m. It will be a time for merriment where some people will come in costume and the magilla Esther, i.e., the book of Esther, will be read in its entirety, probably in many different languages, depending upon who will be called to do some of the reading. The languages that have been identified so far are English, Hebrew, Yiddish, Ladino, French and perhaps German. For Jews of the past 150 years, the message of Purim has special significance.

Congratulations to Sherry Garten, who has been selected by Kiplinger's Personal Finance magazine and career consulting firm "Dream In You," as a semifinalist in their Dream Job Contest. Garten, with degrees in nutrition and art, wants to market a series of coloring books she has created to teach kids about healthy foods through cartoon characters. Two other metropolitan-area women are also among the 25 semifinalists. Three winners will be announced at the end of March and will receive a three-month skills analysis and job coaching program, $5,000, a new computer system and the opportunity to consult with mentors appropriate to their dream job field. Way to go, Sherry - we hope to hear at the end of the month that you are one of the three winners!

Congratulations and a very happy 88th birthday to Mat Amberg, who reaches this milestone the date of this issue, March 9.

Mat tells us that daughter Maggie Winz and her husband Dick spent a week as volunteers doing reconstruction work in Katrina-ravaged Mississippi. They worked near where the eye of the storm had hit. Maggie, a retired kindergarten teacher, helped with jobs needed in the school held in a trailer for kindergartners through third graders. Dick, a graphic artist, helped in building. They were so impressed by what they saw and so energized that they left their trailer to be used by helpers and plan to return several more times.

Three Greenbelters will appear in "Noises Off" presented by Prince George's Little Theater, Inc. starting March 10. They are Zachary F. Brewster-Giesz, John Decker and Keith Brown. Performances are at the Publick Playhouse in Cheverly.

surface to allow for natural percolation and evaporation.

In summary, the DSP on Greenbelt Crossing addresses all environmental impacts and concerns raised by city staff. The developer has likewise provided details on exterior and interior noise attenuation provisions, including a noise wall to reduce noise pollution from Greenbelt Road.

The developer has been less forthcoming in agreeing to market the condominiums primarily to Greenbelt's senior residents. Haller, speaking on behalf of the developers, said that they had not wanted to "limit their market" that narrowly; and on the question of using the co-op model, he pleaded lack of familiarity with its intricacies.

Councilmember Leta Mach said she would make available to Haller the information she has on cooperatives, financing and home loans and Haller said he would accept it.

Councilmember Rodney M. Roberts expressed gratitude that the developer would plant 85 trees at Greenbelt Crossing, well above the county requirement. However, he remained insistent that senior housing was "the most critical need" in Greenbelt housing.

Roberts expanded on this subject later in the evening by suggesting that seniors may sell their two-bedroom townhouses and opt for alternate senior housing – housing that may, sometimes, be referred to as "luxury" condominiums – and that the developer would not be "risking" any profits or limiting sales by focusing on seniors in such a targeted marketing plan.

Haller went only so far as to suggest that he would ask the developers to consider posting a sign at Greenbelt Crossing with information guiding Greenbelt residents about whom to contact if they wanted to be on a short list. He added that Greenbelt Crossing is definitely not for families with young children: "We are not putting play equipment there" and the clubroom and fitness center design will be attractive to a more mature population.

Roberts argued with Haller and Bindernagel that although the original plan had called for 90 condo units, the city's zoning regulations had allowed only 67 on the former nursing home location. The city worked with the county to allow the regulations to be revised upward for the 90-unit development.

Roberts had anticipated, he said, that Greenbelt's need for good senior housing would have been satisfied by the developer. "I'm going to vote my way . . . and I'm not going to vote for it [this plan] as it is," Roberts said.

Davis queried if Lincoln Property Co. would find some way to market to Greenbelt residents first. She added, "I'm thinking of that [development for myself] too." Haller answered that ads in local newspapers along with the sign on the property would be possible ways to try to achieve this goal.

Mach thanked the developer for "making this an exceptional development" and reiterated the need for Greenbelt Crossing to have "a strong focus on . . . seniors in Greenbelt." Additional comments emphasized that seniors and "chronologically challenged" residents in Greenbelt may be willing to add their names to an early list within weeks and months.

Mach moved to approve the DSP on the recommendation of city staff along with the five conditions. Davis seconded the motion. With Councilmembers Konrad Herling and Edward Putens absent, the motion carried, 2 to 1, with Roberts voting no.

Three Ordinances

Of three ordinances passed unanimously, two related to streamlining accounting procedures relating to the Unemployment Compensation Reserves and Temporary Disability Reserves. The repeal of the separate funds for these reserves will not affect the benefits provided to city employees.

The third ordinance increases the maximum amount allowable for minor purchases without the necessity of taking bids.

Outfall/Stream Restoration

Terri S. Hruby, assistant planning director, persuaded council to approve $31,700 for a design services contract for restoration of 800 feet of the stream running between Lakewood and Woodland Hills subdivisions.

During the Greenbelt Lake Watershed Study, Environmental Systems Analysis (ESA) looked at four watersheds. The watershed for this stream was identified as highest priority in terms of addressing stream erosion issues. Hruby said the city may not recoup all of this design cost in future grants but once the design services are contracted, the city stands a better chance of locating nonprofit or other funding for the restoration project.

The problem and solutions envisaged have some similarities with the work done behind St. Hugh's Church. Although funding for design work is almost nonexistent, the city received several hours of pro bono work from ESA assisting staff with grant applications.

HB 659 Support

Council voted to support Maryland House of Delegates bill HB 659 as being consistent with the city's opposition to construction of a proposed University of Maryland Connector Road. The bill calls for a detailed study on reducing vehicular traffic at the University of Maryland, College Park.

and Rehabilitation Center next to the National Guard Armory on Greenbelt Road. Councilmember Rodney Roberts voted in opposition.

When contacted, City Clerk Kathleen Gallagher said that a question on the vote came up later and that council was not sure how to handle the situation. City Manager Michael P. McLaughlin advised that City Solicitor Robert A. Manzi had been asked for an opinion on "the ambiguity of the language." He thought that there might be a need to amend the city charter in order to avoid a similar situation in the future. McLaughlin expected the matter to be considered by council at its March 13 regular meeting.

Hospice Seeks Help With Stride 'n Ride

Hospice of the Chesapeake is looking for committee members to help plan its annual Stride 'n Ride – a walking, running and cycling event to raise awareness of and money for hospice care in Prince George's and Anne Arundel counties. The 2006 event will take place on Saturday, May 6 at Watkins Regional Park in Upper Marlboro. For more information call Leletha Bailey at 800-745-6132 or email lbailey@hospicechesapeake.org.

BARC Lands Included In Stewardship Plan

On January 23 the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) signed an agreement with the state of Maryland and other adjacent landowners to protect a 25,660-acre East Coast natural area in the nation's capital region. The signing marks the formation of the Baltimore-Washington Partners for Forest Stewardship to develop a comprehensive Forest Stewardship Plan.

"This natural area with 3,270 acres of forest and 3,230 acres of wetlands is sometimes called the 'green lungs' of the Washington, D.C., metropolitan region because the trees emit so much oxygen into the atmosphere," said ARS Administrator Edward B. Knipling. "ARS will continue to do its part to exercise good stewardship over this valuable natural resource." Also known as the "Green Wedge," the wooded area has long been designated an historic forest research area by the state of Maryland. It has been the site of development of a theory used to determine the amount of forest acreage needed for survival of various bird species. It has also been the site where major national and international bird-counting techniques were developed.

ARS and Patuxent Research Refuge joined with the other two major federal land-holding facilities – the U.S. Army's Fort Meade at Laurel and the NASA/

Goddard Space Flight Center at Greenbelt – and with the nonprofit Center for Chesapeake Communities to sign a memorandum of understanding with the State of Maryland. The stewardship plan will be designated to be compatible with the missions and ongoing programs of the participating agencies.

USDA has overseen a 13-year sustainable agriculture research program that has reduced pesticide use at BARC by 75 percent and protected the center's streams, one of which supports brown trout that require very clean water.

The "Green Wedge" is in the watershed of the Chesapeake Bay, so the quality of runoff from this area also affects the bay's health.

Patuxent Refuge Hosts Celebration

The public is invited to attend the 103rd anniversary of the National Wildlife Refuge System on Saturday, March 18 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the National Wildlife Visitor Center in Laurel. Police Blotter

Based on information released by the Greenbelt Police Department.
Dates and times are those when police were first contacted about incidents.

Attempted Murder

February 27, 12:04 a.m., 5800 block Cherrywood Terrace, police responded to a report of shots fired in an apartment building. A man reported that he heard a knock at his door; when he looked out the peephole he observed someone crouched down and a second person standing nearby in the hall. The man called out to the two but got no response. He partially opened the door and the first person stuck a handgun into the opening and fired several shots; no one was injured. Both suspects then fled the scene on foot in an unknown direction. The suspects are described as two black males, 18 to 25 years of age, of medium height and build, wearing all black clothing; one also wore a black knit hat.

Robbery

February 24, 4:27 p.m., 5600 block Greenbelt Metro Drive, a woman reported that she met a man in Rockville after answering an ad for an employment opportunity. The woman got into the man's vehicle; they drove on the Beltway for some time when she decided that she had changed her mind about the employment offer and asked to be dropped off at her residence. The man instead took her to the Greenbelt Metro Station, pulled her from the vehicle and took money from her purse. He fled the scene and she contacted police. The suspect is described as a black male, 28 to 30 years of age, 6'1" to 6'2" with a heavy build, black hair and brown eyes, wearing a beige jacket, a black baseball cap and gray New Balance sneakers. His vehicle is described as a gold Lexus 4-door with red and orange lines on the hood.

Assaults

February 24, 9:06 p.m., Jasper's Restaurant, a nonresident man was arrested and charged with second-degree assault, disorderly intoxication and resisting arrest. He was asked to leave the restaurant by police for being disorderly. As the man walked to the lobby area he began shouting profanities and pushed the officer. He was arrested, resisting attempts to place him into custody. The man was transported to the Department of Corrections for a hearing before a district court commissioner.

February 27, 10 a.m., Eleanor Roosevelt High School, a resident youth was petitioned for second-degree assault after he allegedly punched another student for unknown reasons inside the school.

February 28, 12:57 p.m., Beltway Plaza, a Metro bus driver reported that he had picked up passengers in the area of the mall when he was approached on the bus by a young man who asked why the driver didn't pick up his friend. At the next bus stop the man punched the driver in the face then fled the scene on foot. The driver declined medical treatment for minor injuries. The suspect is described as a black male, 16 to 19 years of age, 5'9", 170 pounds and dressed in all black.

March 1, 11 a.m., 20 Court Ridge Road, a man reported that he was walking down the sidewalk when he was approached by three youths. At least one of the youths punched him in the face for unknown reasons. When a witness attempted to intervene, all three fled the area on foot toward Southway. The suspects were described as all 16 to 17 years of age, one a black male, 6' with black hair in dreadlocks; a black male, 6'1" with black hair in cornrows, wearing a blue shirt; and an Asian or Latino male, 5'7" with short hair, wearing an orange jacket.

March 1, 9:27 p.m., Greenway Center, a man reported that he was walking in the parking lot of the shopping center when a vehicle pulled up alongside him; the driver asked him if he wanted to buy a CD. The man stated that he did not, at which time a rear seat passenger displayed a handgun and told the man to buy a CD. The man ran from the scene and later flagged down a police officer patrolling the area. The suspects were described as a black male, 17 to 19 years of age, 5'7" to 5'9", 140 to 150 pounds with black hair and brown eyes; a black male, 19 to 22 years of age, 6' to 6'1", 200 to 210 pounds, heavy set with black hair and brown eyes; and possibly a black female. Their vehicle is described as a white older-model Chevrolet, possibly a Lumina.

Police responded to a report of a man with a gun at the Atlanta Bread Company. A manager reported that a gun was found in an employee's jacket in the employee area after hearing that the employee had been carrying a gun with him to work. The gun was located and secured in the business' safe and police were called. The employee was patted down for additional weapons and was found to be in possession of a quantity of suspected marijuana and paraphernalia commonly used to store marijuana. The suspect was transported to the Department of Corrections for a hearing before a district court commissioner.

February 23, 5:35 p.m., 6100 block Breezewood Court, a resident youth was arrested for concealed deadly weapon and disturbing the peace. Police responded to a report of several youths possibly smoking marijuana in front of an apartment building. The youths were located; one became disorderly, shouting profanities at the police. The suspect was arrested, found to be in possession of a box cutter type knife and was released to a parent pending action by the juvenile justice system.

ing to the possession of crack cocaine, cocaine and marijuana. After police stopped a vehicle for a registration violation, a computer check revealed that the man had a suspended license. Upon approaching the vehicle an officer detected the odor of what was believed to be marijuana. Located in the vehicle was a quantity of suspected crack cocaine, a quantity of suspected powder cocaine, a quantity of suspected marijuana and paraphernalia commonly used to package marijuana and cocaine for sale. The man was transported to the Department of Corrections for a hearing before a district court commissioner.

After police stopped a vehicle for a traffic violation they approached it, and detected the odor of what was believed to be marijuana coming from inside. The man was found to be in possession of a quantity of suspected marijuana and paraphernalia commonly used to store marijuana. The youth was found to have paraphernalia commonly used to store marijuana next to him in the vehicle. The youth was released to a parent pending action by the juvenile justice system. The man was transported to the Department of Corrections for a hearing before a district court commissioner.

DWI Arrests

February 28, 10:03 p.m., Kenilworth Avenue and Old Calvert Road, a nonresident man was arrested and charged with driving while impaired and driving under the influence after being stopped for a traffic violation. He was released on citations pending trial.

March 1, 1:05 a.m., 6400 block Greenbelt Road, a nonresident man was arrested and charged with driving while impaired, driving under the influence, reckless driving, negligent driving, driving on a revoked license and other traffic offenses after being stopped for a traffic violation. County Delegates OK Incentive for Police

On Friday, March 3 the Prince George's County delegation voted 20 to 0 to pass House Bill (HB) 1026, introduced by Delegate Justin D. Ross. HB 1026 would waive the county's transfer tax to county police officers who purchase their first home in the county. It would reduce the transfer tax from 1.4 percent to one percent for county officers, other than first time homebuyers, who purchase a home in the county. The bill would also provide the same reductions for municipal officers who purchase a home within the municipality they serve.

The bill will now go to the House of Delegates where it will first be heard in the Ways and Means Committee.

degree burglary after they allegedly removed a dirt bike from the complainant's backyard. The youths were released to their parents pending action by the juvenile justice system.

March 2, 2:31 p.m., 6100 block Springhill Terrace, it was reported that unknown person(s) entered a residence by breaking out a ground floor window. The residence was ransacked but nothing appeared to have been taken.

Vehicle Crimes

Three vehicles were reported stolen: a 2005 Ford F-350 pickup truck from the 6000 block of Greenbelt Road; a tan 1995 Honda Accord 2-door, Maryland tags 7ATH20 from the 7800 block Mandan Road; and a red 1995 Plymouth Neon 4-door, Maryland tags HLE772 from the 8000 block Greenbury Drive.

Three stolen vehicles were recovered, one by Greenbelt police and two by outside police departments. No arrests were made in any of the recoveries.

Vandalism to, theft from and attempted theft of vehicles were reported in the following areas: 7900 block Mandan Road, 7900 block Spring Manor Drive, 38 Court Ridge Road, 6100 block Breezewood Drive and 6200 block Springhill Court.

The city had also lowered fertilizer usage by 50 percent and purchased official vehicles using alternative natural fuels. The city also puts out an informative water quality brochure.

Donation

Second, the Greenbelt Rotary Club has found another worthy cause, donating valuable water rescue equipment, including a cold weather suit, to Chief Brian Rudy of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad. Rudy accepted the life-saving equipment on behalf of the organization.

Third, Robert Manzi received recognition and a pin from Mayor Judith Davis and the City of Greenbelt for 20 years of service to the council. Manzi serves as the city solicitor.

Later in the meeting Davis mentioned a "very glowing" article about the city manager's office in the magazine "Municipal Maryland." The article was written by Brent Elrod, a former intern to City Manager Michael McLaughlin, who added that the article also mentioned Greenbelt's emergency preparedness program in a positive light.

Other Business

During the reports section of the meeting Councilmember Leta Mach urged residents to volunteer at the city's new animal shelter or to adopt its animals. McLaughlin added that all animals except one "fat cat" had been adopted at the open house attended by Mach on February 19. Davis confirmed that interested residents can call the animal control facility about volunteer opportunities such as walking and feeding the animals.

Davis also described attending two Black History Month activities, one hosted by Greenbelt Middle School and another by Congressman Steny Hoyer. She found both to be enjoyable and impressive celebrations.

The Plan

The plan for the fields was prepared by landscape architects Clinton and Associates of Hyattsville. At the urging of Greenbelt Recreation Department staff, according to Bindernagel, the plan calls for a multi-use athletic facility.

Two softball diamonds will be laid out on the field with the right field line of one paralleling the left field line of the other. Home plates will be located toward the west side of the fields. Batters will face northeast and southeast at these fields. The center outfields will be 275 feet deep with varying lengths in the right and left fields. Pitching areas will be flat.

Bleachers, one facing each field, are proposed for placement in an allée separating the two ball diamonds. It is proposed to relocate a memorial plaque to James Wolfe to that area.

The plan proposes also using the north field for Little League play. That league uses a smaller 200-foot field, according to Bindernagel.

Overlapping the outfields and a part of the infields of the two diamonds will be a football-soccer field, 165 feet wide and 360 feet long, running in a north-south direction. Bindernagel said it would also be possible for two smaller youth soccer fields to be established in each of the two ball diamond outfields. A 15-foot fence will be used along the edges of the two fields to prevent balls from escaping. Around the field's perimeter, a walking/jogging path is proposed.

Parking

To the west of the fields is a gravel parking area that is to become one of two parking areas for field users. Bindernagel said it is proposed to surface these parking areas with street millings which have been stockpiled by the city in that area to provide a permeable surface for the road and parking areas. Surface water will flow to the northwest corner of the site where, according to Bindernagel, the city is considering landscaping with water-absorbing plants to curtail runoff into the adjacent forest preserve.

On the north side of the fields another parking area will be located for joint use by field users and astronomers. This area will add 20 spaces to the 46 spaces on the west side of the field for a total of 66.

North of the western end of the parking lot will be the site for the small metal observatory structure now stored at the Public Works facility. A curved walkway will lead from the parking area to the structure. Bindernagel said the interior of the structure is not handicap accessible as the door is too narrow and there is a raised platform. The AGS proposed constructing a 30 foot square concrete pad on the south side of the parking area. The pad would be a surface upon which telescopes could be set up for use by handicapped individuals. The AGS criteria for this pad is that it must not be subject to vibration from moving vehicles in the parking lot.

Because the boards object to the use of impervious concrete, Bindernagel said, they have suggested a wooden platform or one of gravel or stone. The AGS finds neither material suitable, he said, and staff is trying to find a workable solution to the problem.

Pets and Picnics

At the south end of the parking area, a 4,000-square foot fenced dog park is proposed. In earlier concepts, a large dog park was to be located just west of the parking area where a picnic area is now proposed. Bindernagel said the advisory boards had requested the addition of the picnic area and that city Animal Warden Susie Hall reviewed the new dog park plan and found it suitable.

The proposed picnic area is to be situated where the stockpile of street millings is now located, Bindernagel said.

North of the eastern end of the parking lot is an area used by the city for storage and composting of organic material such as leaves. This use will continue. The boards recommended adding steel fencing to the plans in order to better contain the compost.

Goddard Pathway

Bindernagel said he talked to a Goddard official about providing a pathway to the access ramp which provides employee access to NASA from the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. Currently some NASA employees cut through the area as a shortcut to work. From a security point of view, Goddard does not object to accessing the facility this way as further along there is a guarded gate, Bindernagel was told.

March Artist Named At Patuxent Refuge

Janet Mandel is the artist on display during the month of March in the Hollingsworth Art Gallery at the Patuxent Research Refuge's National Wildlife Visitor Center.

Mandel's love of nature and appreciation of all creatures has determined her subject matter since 1995. Inspiration for her work has come from zoos and game parks or as close as her own backyard. Her many works include paintings of songbirds, North American and African wildlife, sea creatures and domestic animals, especially humorous cat portraits, as well as her unique animal mandalas. Mandel's work has been featured by the National Audubon Society, the National Geographic Society and the Smithsonian Institution.

To see some of her work visit her website at <http://www.janet-mandel.bigstep.com>. The public is invited to view Mandel's work during the month of March at the National Wildlife Visitor Center. The Visitor Center is located off of Powder Mill Road between the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and Md. Route 197, south of Laurel. Schools in the News

School Board OKs 2006-2007 Calendar

At its March 2 meeting the Prince George's County Board of Education approved the 2006-2007 school calendar. The next school year begins on Monday, August 21 with a calendar that includes 180 instructional days for students as required by state law and additional planning time for teachers.

Teachers will have three days dedicated for grading and planning and one and a half days for professional development during the next school year. Teachers have a second opportunity for parent-teacher conferences in the spring. Four professional development days are planned for all teachers and three training days for new teachers are scheduled during the two weeks prior to students returning to school.

The 2006-2007 school calendar highlights include: two parent/teacher conference days – November 6, 2006 and March 30, 2007 – when schools will be closed for students; three teacher grading/planning days – October 27, 2006, January 12, 2007 and March 29, 2007 – when schools will be closed for students; two election days – September 12, 2006 (tentative date) and November 7, 2006 – when schools and offices will be closed; and additional days built into the third semester to offset instructional days lost to Maryland School Assessment testing.

In November 2005, school system administrators held their first meeting with a committee of stakeholder groups that included employee union leaders, principals and parent, teacher and community representatives. The draft 2006-2007 school calendar was posted online for public comment from January 17, 2006 to February 3, 2006. The approved 2006-2007 school calendar is now posted at www.pgcps.org.

P.G. School System Announces New CEO

At its March 2 board meeting the Prince George's County Board of Education voted unanimously to name Dr. John Edward Deasy as its choice for new Chief Executive Officer of Prince George's County Public Schools. Pending approval by the State Superintendent of Schools, Deasy's effective start date is May 1.

"The Board of Education and its many stakeholders are excited about the energy and expertise that our new leader, Dr. Deasy, brings to the school system," said Board Chair Beatrice P. Tignor. "I believe he understands the challenges we face and has the right skills, vision, sense of urgency and understanding of what it will take to lift up every child in all of our schools."

Dr. Charlene Dukes confirmed that the board completed its due diligence last week, evaluating Deasy according to criteria established by its stakeholders committee in October 2005. As the board's Personnel Committee Chair, Dukes joined Tignor and Robert Duncan, Finance, Audit and Budget Committee chair, when they visited the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District on February 23.

They met there with the following groups: board chair and board members; cabinet level central office staff; elementary, middle and high school principals; support staff; parents and PTA representatives; chamber and business representatives; union leadership and students.

During the February 16 board meeting, the Prince George's County Board of Education unanimously approved naming Deasy as its "lead candidate" for the CEO position. That resolution required board members to exercise due diligence by visiting the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District and the communities surrounding it before finalizing an offer.

City Information

School Needs Are Major Greenbelt West Concern

This article is the sixth in a series of articles to ensure that Greenbelt residents are aware of the development and redevelopment proposals being considered for Greenbelt West. Greenbelt West is that area of the city west of Kenilworth Avenue, east of the Metrorail tracks and between the Capital Beltway and Greenbelt Road. This week's article is about the impact these developments are likely to have on the schools in that area.

There are currently two schools in Greenbelt West: Greenbelt Middle and Springhill Lake Elementary. Greenbelt Middle School is one of the oldest middle schools in Prince George's County. Long before there were any plans for the development and redevelopment of Greenbelt West, its deteriorating condition had become a cause of concern to the city. A renovated or new Greenbelt Middle School has been in the school board's Capital Improvement Program since 1988; however, for a variety of reasons, the project has been deferred year after year. At the same time, Springhill Lake Elementary was not scheduled for any significant work.

This picture started to change with AIMCO's plan for rebuilding the Springhill Lake community. Springhill Lake Elementary is located at the lowest part of the property and one of AIMCO's proposals was to acquire this property for the purpose of building a lake. In exchange, AIMCO offered to build a new elementary school elsewhere in the neighborhood. Over recent months, support had developed for the idea of building a combined middle/elementary school on the present Greenbelt Middle School property, which would serve about 1,000 middle school and 800 elementary school students. However, as discussions continued, it became increasingly apparent that the new residential units to be added by Greenbelt Station and the redeveloped Springhill Lake (2,000 and 2,900 respectively) would likely generate more than enough children to require at least another elementary school, if not another middle school.

Now that these needs have been recognized, the parties involved are looking at various options. The school board owns a 19-acre property in College Park, just across the Metrorail tracks from the South Core of Greenbelt Station. This property could be used for either a middle or elementary school. Based upon conversations with county representatives, including County Councilmember Douglas J.J. Peters, another scenario is that the county may choose not to relinquish the existing Springhill Lake Elementary School site or do so only if AIMCO provides a site for an additional elementary school.

In addition to land, the funding for the schools must be identified and committed. The school board's Capital Improvement Program includes $31 million for a middle school and both AIMCO and Greenbelt Station will be required to pay school surcharge fees. Although those fees are typically paid over time on a per-unit basis as the development is built, AIMCO has offered to pay $20 million up front as its fee toward the combined elementary/secondary school. It is projected that enough funding is available for the combined school but funding has not yet been identified for any additional elementary or secondary school.

Other impacts will inevitably occur depending upon which plans are ultimately adopted. For example, if a combined middle/elementary school is built on the Greenbelt Middle School campus, then students will have to be relocated for a period of two to three years. A location on Greenbelt Road between Good Luck and Lanham-Severn Roads is under consideration.

The schools issue is one of the most complicated issues related to the development of Greenbelt West because it involves so many interested parties and because the decisions to be made are so intertwined. Since building Greenbelt Station and rebuilding Springhill Lake will take seven to 10 years, there will be time for all the school needs to be identified and solutions to be found. Finding the best solutions will require the creativity and cooperation of everyone.
