

Prince George's County Schools To Open Monday, August 24

by Mary Moien

Prince George's County Schools will open Monday, August 24 and will close on June 10 if no make-up days are needed.

There will be three holidays in September. Schools will be closed for Labor Day Monday, September 7, for a professional day Friday, September 25 and Monday, September 28 for Yom Kippur. The latter two days will make a four day weekend for the students.

On the first day of school parents are encouraged to walk with their children to school or to meet them at the school when they arrive by bus. Hours for all schools are shown in a box elsewhere in this paper.

Highlights of Changes

All Greenbelt children will attend one of three elementary schools – Greenbelt Elementary, Springhill Lake Elementary and Magnolia Elementary Schools. Springhill Lake Elementary School, Magnolia Elementary School and Greenbelt Middle School require students to wear uniforms. Uniforms are not required at Greenbelt Elementary School.

Springhill Lake will continue to have the 5th grade as its highest grade.

Sixth graders from Empirian Village apartments attend Greenbelt Middle School, although their classes are often separate from those of the older students.

Turning Point Academy is a public charter school located in Greenbelt East. Currently it has grades K-5. Students throughout the county can apply to attend this school.

Parents can prepay for school lunches so children will not have to carry money every day.

Starting Age

The birth dates for admission for some classes have been in flux in recent years as cut-off ages for admissions to various classes have gradually pulled back from December 31 to September 1 of specific entry years.

To be eligible for pre-kindergarten (formerly called preschool), a student must be four on or before September 1, 2009, although parents of children who will be four by October 15 can apply for admission if there are demonstrated educational needs.

For kindergarten, children must be five on or before September 1. Parents of children who will be five by October 15 may ask to have their child evaluated for admission.

For first grade, children must be six by September 1. Completion of kindergarten is required. Because of complexities with admission to first grade, parents may call the school system at 301-808-4000 for more information.

Documents

New students need to bring all necessary paperwork when registering for school. This applies to new students and transferring students at all age levels.

Students must have six specific documents with them when registering. These are birth certificate, immunization record, child's Social Security number, proof of residency, name and

P.G. County School System Sets Rules and Regulations

by Mary Moien

The Prince George's County Public School system has provided information on grading, school absences and participation in extracurricular activities.

Grading Policy

Grades are based on: 1) competence as determined by tests, examinations and teacher evaluations and by demonstration of meeting performance objectives; 2) completion of assignments as determined by the quality of work done, the regularity with which they are turned in and punctuality in performing them; 3) participation in the day-to-day activities of the class; 4) daily work habits in the classroom; and 5) attendance.

Children in grades 2 to 12 receive letter grades in all classes and courses taken for credit except where other means of evaluation have been authorized.

All first graders (and some second graders) will have their progress assessed through use of the numeral 1, to indicate satisfactory progress, and the numeral 2, to indicate that the student needs more time to master a skill.

Parents of students who are not making satisfactory progress will receive notice of that situation midway through each grading period.

Attendance Critical

Students who are unlawfully absent receive a zero (0) for that day's work and the zero is averaged with other daily grades. Unlawfully absent students are not given make-up work to offset the zero grade.

In grades 9 to 12 a student who is unlawfully absent five or more days per semester course or 10 or more days per full-year course will receive no grades or credits.

Students in grades 9 to 12 may be lawfully absent but are required to make up the work missed in a timely manner. Failure to make up missed work will result in zero grades for missing assignments.

Extracurricular Activity

In order to be eligible to participate in extracurricular activities, students in grades 9 through

Series of Phone Calls, Emails Not a "Meeting," Manzi Finds

by Thomas X. White

The issue raised by Greenbelt City Councilmember Rodney Roberts at the June 22 meeting of council, where he alleged illegal and/or inappropriate action by a majority of council, came roaring back at the August 10 meeting when the investigative report requested by council on June 22 was made available.

A preliminary foray started at the beginning of the meeting when Roberts requested that agenda item #17 "Report from City Solicitor on Whether a Violation of the Open Meetings Act Occurred," be removed from the agenda. Roberts' reason to take the item off the agenda was that the topic had not been properly advertised or published in advance of the meeting.

Curiously, like a segment from "The Gang that Couldn't Shoot Straight," the version of the proposed August 10 council meeting agenda sent to the Greenbelt News Review last week by the city erroneously reprinted the council agenda for "Other Business" as published in the June 18 advertisement for the June 22 meeting, where the brouhaha had started, instead of the actual "Other Business" items proposed for the August 10 meeting. Roberts felt the item had not been properly advertised and that citizens awaiting the report had not been given adequate notice.

Where the usual custom of the council is to honor a councilmember's request for removal of an item, no other members supported removal of the item and it remained on the agenda. The majority of council believed the report should be discussed at the meeting and had no problem with it being discussed again at future council meetings after residents had a chance to review the report.

The Report

Later in the meeting, when item 17 came up, City Solicitor Robert Manzi provided an overview of his 11-page report. Labeled as "Short Answer" in the second paragraph of the report, Manzi writes: "The council did not violate the Open Meetings Act or City Charter by discussing the election date issue privately because those discussions did not constitute a 'meeting' as defined under the Act, when only two councilmembers (and less than a quorum) discussed the issue at any given time."

That short answer was followed by a nearly nine-page discussion explaining Maryland Open Meeting law and then walked through the rationale supporting his conclusion that the Open Meetings Act does not apply to the situation because there was no meeting as defined under the Act.

Manzi's report constructs a two-part scenario necessary for an alleged action to be subject to the Open Meeting Act: that the Act would be applicable to the action(s) alleged to have been taken by Roberts' colleagues "only if the subject matter of the discussions falls under the scope of the Act and if there is a meeting, as defined under the Act." Manzi concluded that the discussions among the councilmembers did not constitute a meeting.

The investigation included interviews of all members of council, whose statements are included in the report. The statements generally relate pertinent activities of the respective members following the May 26 meeting of council when, by a 3-2 vote, council voted to move the Greenbelt council election from odd years to even years to coincide with county, state and federal elections.

Chronology

The report relates that Councilmember Edward Putens discussed with the mayor the possibility of removing the election year charter amendment from the agenda about a week before the June 8 meeting. At about 5

City Provides Time-line, Candidate Requirements

On Tuesday, November 3, 2009, registered voters in Greenbelt will elect for the first time seven members to the city council to represent them for the next two years. Expansion of the city council from a five-member to a seven-member board occurred as a result of the recent election reform process. The process began in February 2008 when the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) wrote a letter to the city threatening legal action unless the city addressed the lack of minority representation on council. In response, the city scheduled nine public forums in various sections of the Greenbelt community after which the current council enacted a charter amendment enlarging the size of the city council to seven members.

Process for Candidates

Any qualified voter of the city wishing to run for council may do so by submitting:

1. Nomination Petition(s) – Forms for potential candidates will be available on Monday, August 17 at the City Clerk's Office in the Municipal Building, 25 Crescent Road. The form requires the signature of at least 50 registered voters of the city and must be signed by the circulator of the petition, giving the petitioner's proper name (e.g., Mary Doe or Mrs. John Doe) and address. The completed form must be notarized.

2. Acceptance of Nomination and Affidavit – The first form confirms that the nominee agrees to serve if elected. The candidate's affidavit is a sworn statement providing the potential candidate's name, date of birth, Social Security number and residential address. Both of these documents must also be notarized.

3. Financial Disclosure Statement – The disclosure of business entities and real estate interests held by the nominee and family and sources of specified income or debt is due at or before the time the acceptance of nomination is filed. Incumbent candidates have already complied with the disclosure requirements and are not required to file again.

THANKS!

Community, Community, Community . . .

Patricia Novinsky stressed this to us at the annual May board meeting as part of her GHI board member election speech. We at 8 Court Laurel Hill Road took this to heart.

It all started when Novinsky moved in and began raking leaves in the fall for us all in 8 Court and cutting our grass in the summer just because she enjoyed doing it! One person after another beautified their yard. Some did more work than others, some offered drinks and encouragement, bringing us all together as neighbors and friends. Now we have landscaping and beauty and a true sense of what Novinsky was speaking of.

Thank you, Patricia, for teaching us all through your daily actions what community means. You started it all for us and we are so happy you are a part of our community.

Jan Cruz and Pat Salzman

Correction

Last week's article on the City Council Ethics work-session incorrectly reported that there was agreement by council that the remote access city email accounts used by councilmembers for city business should not be used during an election campaign because non-incumbents would not have access to the system. In a communication from the city, the News Review was informed that that was not agreed to but there was agreement that councilmembers that become candidates need to set up separate personal or candidate emails so that city email accounts do not get used for campaign related communications or purposes.

Bones of Colonists Tell Interesting Tales

The exhibition, "Written in Bone: Forensic Files of the 17th-Century Chesapeake," at the National Museum of Natural History, Washington, D.C., examines history through 17th century bone biographies, including those of colonists teetering on the edge of survival at Jamestown, Va., and those of wealthy and well-established individuals of St. Mary's City, Md. This free exhibit runs through February 6, 2011.

Reel & Meal Film Is on Pet Preparedness

On the fourth anniversary of Hurricane Katrina, the next Reel & Meal film will address whether people and their companion animals are ready for a disaster.

On Monday, August 17 at 7 p.m. the Reel and Meal at the New Deal Café program will screen the documentary "Dark Water Rising: The Truth About Hurricane Katrina Animal Rescues." A vegan meal is available for purchase at 6:30 p.m., followed by the 75-minute free film and guest speaker Scotlund Haisley.

"Dark Water Rising" by award-winning filmmaker Mike Shiley captures volunteer efforts to rescue more than 50,000 companion animals left behind when their guardians fled New Orleans or were forced by FEMA to leave during the mandatory evacuation and later prevented from returning to retrieve animals. The viewer is left to conclude that the animal suffering could have been avoided by adequate planning, allowing companion animals to be evacuated with their guardians. Ultimately the message of the film is one of hope, as relieved guardians are reunited with their companion animals and other cats and dogs find new homes. As a result of the media exposure of this historic rescue operation, Congress passed the PETS (Pets Evacuation and Transportation Standards) Act of 2006 which requires states to have animal evacuation plans in place in order to receive FEMA funding. More information about the film is at <http://www.filmbaby.com/films/212>. Autographed copies of the DVD will be available for purchase.

Guest speaker Scotlund Haisley is the senior director for Emergency Services for the Humane Society of the United States. He oversees an animal rescue team that responds to natural disasters and man-made emergencies such as hurricanes, flooding, wildfires, hoarding cases, and puppy mills. For seven years he was executive director of the Washington Animal Rescue League (WARL), from which he led teams of rescuers in the New Orleans area after Katrina. Prior to WARL, he gained a national reputation in the animal protection community with work in New York, California and Washington, D.C. His international credentials include work with Mahatma Gandhi's granddaughter in India as well as work in Puerto Rico. Haisley will discuss the D.C. area's animal disaster preparedness status and answer questions.

Kliman Memorialized by Youth Scholarship

by Virginia Beauchamp

A Greenbelt artist, the late Ted Kliman, is being memorialized in a significant way by his son Todd Kliman, who is establishing a scholarship in art in his father's name for area young people, 10 to 18. The elder Kliman died in February. Todd has also recently paid tribute to his father's memory in a biographical piece, "Let's Go Eat," that appeared in the July 2009 issue of Washingtonian magazine.

As a high school senior Todd Kliman won the Alfred R. Skolnik Award as an outstanding journalist, this paper's tribute to our late president and mentor. He is now food and wine editor for the Washingtonian. In his biographical piece he describes the many outings around the Southern Maryland countryside he took with his father, and sometimes his mother, to locate area barbecue haunts.

Todd describes dining with his father at local Thai and Spanish, French and German, Indian and Greek eateries – back when most Prince Georgians were still sticking with a meat and potatoes diet.

In an earlier memorial tribute in the News Review issue of February 26, Todd focused on his father, the artist, whose works were shown from time to time in exhibits here in Greenbelt. His most recent paintings were what he called the Lamentation series, mostly hooded figures in black and white in attitudes of suffering and repose. A one-day exhibit of these paintings, set up by his son, appeared at the Greenbelt Arts Center as a surprise for Ted Kliman's 75th birthday.

A major exhibit including many of these works was also held at the New Deal Café during October 2007. Earlier they had been exhibited at Harmony Hall Regional Center in Prince George's County and at the U.S. District Courthouse in Greenbelt.

The Kliman family moved to Greenbelt in 1968, first as residents of the new Charlestowne Village development. Later they bought a GHI house in the 58 court of Ridge Road, where Todd's mother, Itsy, still lives.

Ted Kliman was born and grew up in Philadelphia. He showed an early interest in drawing, which his mother actively discouraged. He graduated from Pennsylvania State University majoring in film and English and then started a film career as director of a film unit at Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg. Later he was employed at Wayne State University in Detroit.

For 20 years, according to his son Todd, Ted Kliman produced many award-winning films for a company in Baltimore. Todd forced to watch one of his own films as a patient himself before his discharge after open-heart surgery in 2007.

In his 40s Ted Kliman returned to school to study art as a serious interest. He attended the Maryland Institute College of Art, from which he graduated with an M.F.A. at the age of 49. Todd describes how his father worked at his painting from early in the morning till late at night. "Everything he did in life, he did enthusiastically," Todd says. Ted Kliman also lectured on women artists.

Ted Kliman's work is currently included in more than 200 private collections, according to Todd, as well as in religious institutions throughout the country. A chapter about his work and style is also included in a college text, The Challenge of Drawing by Alexander Russo.

Congratulations to:

– Maura Warner, the daughter of Stephanie and Jeremy Warner, who has been named to the dean’s list of Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., for academic achievement during the spring semester of the 2008-09 school year. A graduate of Sidwell Friends School, Warner was a first-year student at Macalester last spring.

– William Dunham, Nadir Ameir, Javier Ayala, Brian Faherty, Grace Gyemfi, Saba Gyemfi, Moulaye Haidara, Cory Holland, Linden Houston, David Katz, Ihuoma Nwachukwu, Chigozie Nwachukwu, Chibuzo Nwachukwu, Cassie-Ann Quashie and Robert Rudd, who received Maryland State Legislature scholarships for the upcoming academic year from District 22 Delegate Anne Healey.

– Larry Hilliard, from Goddard Space Flight Center, who was one of four NASA scientists selected as an Innovation Ambassador, working at a leading external research and development organization. Hilliard will work with Primary Simulation, Inc. of Silver Spring on a project to apply their “laser ball” technology to interactive educational tools.

– Lara and Matt Granzow of Glenn Dale on the birth of their new daughter, Mara Bella, on August 3, 2009. The new baby weighed 6 lbs. 10 oz. and joins big sisters Lily and Macy. Proud grandparents are Sharon and Barry Miller of Greenhill Road, Phillip and Renee Walker of Pearland, Texas, and Molly Granzow of Mt. Rainier. Great-grandmother Estelle Miller of Riderwood and Aunt Danielle Miller of Greenbelt complete the welcoming family group.

We are glad to hear that Leonie Penney (last year’s Outstanding Citizen) is improving from post-herpetic neuralgia that developed after her bout with shingles. It happens when the chickenpox virus (which causes shingles) locally affects one’s nerve fibers. This is a condition that can be lengthy and limiting to one’s energy and activities but we are betting that Leonie will conquer it. Best wishes, Leonie!

Our best wishes to News Review staffer Pat Davis for a fast and uneventful full recovery from a broken leg, now that she’s out of the hospital and on the mend.

Send us your reports of new babies, awards, honors, etc. to share with our readers. We’d especially like to hear more from our neighbors in Greenbelt East and Greenbelt West (Springhill Lake/Empirian Village). To send information for “Our Neighbors” email us at newsreview@greenbelt.com or leave a message at 301-474-6892.

address of previous school and the child's last report card.

Immunizations needed include diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, poliomyelitis, measles (rubeola) and rubella (German measles). Varicella (chicken pox) and Hepatitis B vaccines are also required. Preschoolers may need additional immunizations. Newly enrolled pre-kindergartners through first graders also need a lead screening certificate. Parents should check with their health care provider to obtain additional details on immunizations and other needed health screeners.

Proof of residency in Prince George's County could include a deed or an apartment rental contract. The importance of bringing the student's last report card was also emphasized as the courses taken and grades received can help place the child quickly in the appropriate classroom.

Attendance

State law requires school attendance for every child between the ages of five and 16. All children in the State of Maryland are required to attend kindergarten or an alternative program. A law, passed several years ago, lowered the age of compulsory school attendance to five years of age. It also requires that children attend kindergarten before entering first grade.

The law permits some exemptions. Five-year-olds may be enrolled in a child care center or Head Start or home school program. When appropriate, a child may be granted a one-year level-of-maturity waiver.

A parent or guardian of a child who attended an alternative program must register the child for first grade before the opening of school in the school year in which the child becomes six years old and must provide documentation showing proof of attendance in the alternate setting. Documentation includes the date the child enrolled and the number of days the child was absent.

A six-year-old child who moves into Maryland who has not had a kindergarten experience may be enrolled in either kindergarten or first grade. The local school system will determine the appropriate grade placement.

Meal Prices

Elementary school children's lunch will cost $2.00. Lunch for middle and high schoolers is $2.25. Reduced-price lunches are 40 cents for all grades. Breakfast for all students is $1.25. Milk is 50 cents. Adult lunch is $3.50. Some children may qualify for free milk. All prices are subject to change.

Children will be bringing home information about free or reduced cost lunches close to the first day of school.

From Asian pears to zucchini, more than 24 different Maryland-grown fruits and vegetables will be featured on school lunch menus during the 2008-2009 school year. This program will bring more Maryland-grown foods to school lunches, educate students about where their food comes from, how it is produced and the benefits of a healthy diet. The Maryland Department of Agriculture also will provide teachers with educational materials to integrate into their lessons and help students make the connection between their school lunch menus and the agricultural process.

Expulsion Policy

Strict standards will continue to be upheld for drug, alcohol and weapons (including knives) abuse. Students need to be aware that none of these items may be brought to school at any time and that expulsion will result should the rule be broken. According to the Code of Student Conduct students will be expelled for the first offense involving the use or possession of weapons.

For incidents involving drugs or alcohol students will be expelled for the first offense involving distribution and the second offense involving possession. Most of these students will not be eligible for re-admission to a Prince George's County school until the following fall semester. They must also present documentation of satisfactory participation in an alcohol/drug treatment program. Should a child bring a loaded weapon to school, the parent will be prosecuted under state law.

Extracurricular Events

High school students need to have a 2.0 or better grade point average in order to participate in extracurricular sports or activities. Averages will be computed quarterly. Students must have a passing grade in each course.

Medication Policy

The Department of Health and Human Services within Prince George's County Public Schools, acting on a recommendation from the State of Maryland, changed school policy several years ago regarding the dispensing of prescription and non-prescription medicine to students.

No medicines will be given to students without a physician's medication authorization form PS-51 or PS51-EPIPEN. Forms are available at all schools. All medications will be kept in the health room and not taken to the child's classroom.

Parents are asked to inform the school principal, health services staff and the classroom teacher of any known allergy or serious health problem their child(ren) may have. Every effort will be made to protect all students from injury and to provide a healthy environment.

Students will be transported by ambulance to the nearest medical facility should they require emergency treatment that cannot be provided at the school site. Parents will be notified as soon as possible.

Websites

All schools in Greenbelt have a website (see box for website addresses). Some are more detailed than others and, as of mid-August, most had not been updated to reflect the new school year. Some schools have a list of needed school supplies on their sites.

The Prince George's County school system has an elaborate website (www.pgcps.org) containing general information about the school system, as well as detailed information on bus schedules, policy issues, future plans, school board meetings and agendas and information about individual schools in the system.

The most popular site at the county level is a listing of lunch menus for an entire month. Students, parents and community members are encouraged to access their school website. Greenbelters without children in school may want to access this site to learn more about the school system and its philosophy and activities.

One particularly useful service available to parents is an email notification that is issued if schools close early for any reason. Parents can find this service on the parents page under weather-related closings.

Emergency Closings

When schools must be closed, opened later than usual or closed early because of weather or other emergency conditions, an announcement will be made over all Washington area radio and TV stations. In order to keep telephone lines open for emergency calls, parents are requested not to call the schools, central office or radio stations. When schools are closed early, bus transportation will be available for those students who are bused.

Bus Schedules

Since school bus schedules have been computerized, the school system has been unable to provide Greenbelt bus schedules to the News Review. Elementary school students are considered "walkers" if they live within 1.5 miles of school; the radius for middle school and high school students is two miles. For more information call the school system Department of Transportation at 301-952-6570.

Volunteer at School

Volunteers help enhance education for students in the Prince George's County school system. Parents, students, neighbors, friends, business and government employees, crafts people, retirees and anyone who has time to share is invited to be a volunteer.

Volunteer activities include tutoring children individually or in small groups; aiding teachers in reading, mathematics, handwriting, science, English as a Second Language or any area of interest or sharing skills and talents, job expertise or life experience, as special resources for classroom instruction.

The volunteer could assist staff in the school office, media center, health room or cafeteria. Those unable to travel to a school could volunteer to help from home by making instructional materials, typing, making displays and carrying out many other activities.

Contact the local school to offer assistance.

County Dress Code

Springhill Lake Elementary and Magnolia Elementary schools and Greenbelt Middle School require uniforms. Other Greenbelt schools will follow Prince George's County dress code requirements:

- A headdress can be worn indoors for religious or health reasons only.
- Shirts and blouses should be continuous from neckline to waist. The entire mid-section should be covered. There can be no tank tops or muscle shirts; no clothing with vulgar language, obscene pictures, weapons, or drug/alcohol products; and no see-through clothing.
- Skirts, dresses, shorts and spandex skirts should be approximately six inches below the buttocks or not shorter than fingertip level.
- Pants should be secured at the waist – no sagging below the waist to expose undergarments.
- Tights, stretch pants, leggings and spandex body suits must be worn with clothing long enough to cover buttocks.
- Shoes must be worn.

12 must maintain a grade point average of at least 2.0 for each grading quarter preceding the start or continuation of their participation in the activities. Students must have a passing grade in each subject.

Students who do not maintain the 2.0 grade point average are excluded from participation in any extracurricular activity. Participation – regardless of the activity – is prohibited beginning on the date the new report card is issued, as scheduled in the Board of Education school calendar.

The exclusion remains in effect until the student attains the required 2.0 quarter grade point average and becomes eligible to participate in a subsequent quarter's extra-curricular activities.

Extracurricular activities are defined as all activities except those for which student participation is necessary to receive a grade in a specific course in which the student is currently enrolled.

The 2.0 policy applies to all high school students with the exception of individual special education students who have been exempted.

p.m. on June 8, shortly before the meeting, he received via email a copy of the statement that the mayor was planning to read at the meeting.

Putens said he received subsequent emails from Councilmembers Leta Mach, Konrad Herling, Judith Davis and Stephen Sylvestri, council's outside counsel on election issues.

Mach acknowledged that she had met the mayor casually at the Greenbelt Farmers Market and discussed with her the election law issue. Mach also received an email from Davis on June 8 including the draft statement. Mach said she provided comments and suggested amendments to the draft that Davis was planning to read later at the meeting. Later in the day she received a second draft of the statement, which she approved.

Davis' statement acknowledged she had met and discussed the election matter with individual councilmembers on three different occasions, first with Mach at the Farmers market, then with Herling following a council worksession and a third discussion with Putens following another worksession discussing the possibility of removing the election year change item from the agenda of the June 8 meeting.

In addition, her statement indicates she spoke with Roberts just before the June 8 meeting, who said he still wanted the issue to be considered by the voters on a ballot. Further, prior to the June 8 meeting, the mayor sent a draft of the statement which had been reviewed and revised by the city manager and Sylvestri to council. (It is not clear from the statement as to whether Roberts received a copy of the email.)

Herling said he had several discussions with Davis on the issue via email and telephone conversations prior to the June 8 meeting. Like Mach, Herling was getting calls from residents about the majority vote taken on the election year change following the May 26 meeting and he emailed Davis to advise her he may reconsider his position in light of the comments he had been receiving. He confirmed that his discussions with Davis did not involve other members of council. He also received Davis' draft statement on the afternoon of June 8 and responded that he approved the language/wording of the statement.

At that time he was advised by Davis that Mach and Putens had also confirmed they had no problems with the statement.

Roberts' Response

Roberts said he did not have any conversations or exchange emails with anyone, including constituents, on the election issue. He was unaware of Davis' proposed statement until she spoke to him about it five minutes before the June 8 meeting. He was upset about how the statement had been prepared and about its wording in light of the fact that he had not been involved in its preparation. After the meeting he tried to speak with the city manager about the statement but was advised to discuss the issue directly with the mayor.

In conclusion to the report, Manzi briefly discusses the mayor's use of "we" in her statement, asserting that she was using the "colloquial 'we' and was referring to herself as well as Mach and Herling when making the statement. The report said that the mayor's statement could have been better phrased by naming the members of council who favored the amendment to the agenda or by noting Roberts' disapproval of the statement.

The conclusion then states that since Roberts did not express his objection or concern when the statement was read at the June 8 meeting and that he joined the other three councilmembers present in voting unanimously to approve the amended agenda with the issue removed, Manzi concludes that the mayor's statement and the discussions prior to the statement did not violate the Open Meeting Act or the City Charter. As a result, he said, no further action is warranted.

Council Statements

Roberts led off brief council remarks on the report after wondering about how thorough a review of emails had been made by Manzi and what was Manzi's role in development of the draft statement. Manzi said his input had not been requested but he prepared a suggested draft on his own that had not been embraced by the city staff.

Roberts noted that the "action" he was concerned about was not the removal from the agenda but rather that the action comprised the statement and its development. In his view, one member of council does not have authority to enlist the support of staff or counsel without the full council being advised and engaged and made a part of the process.

In his view, "What happened was not right. This is not the way decisions should be made." As he read the mayor's statement, the three members who had voted for the election year change were not simply recounting the action but deferring the issue until a new council could consider it.

Herling read a prepared statement relating his actions following the May 26 meeting and the reason why he ended up changing his mind. He affirmed that there was no meeting and urged that council move on.

Mach also read a prepared statement noting surprise at citizen response to the council vote on the election year change that caused her to change her mind on the issue. She also took note of the report's conclusion that there was no violation of the law. She, like Herling, said they should move on.

Davis insisted that at least one email had been received by Roberts (apparently referring to an email from Mach on June 3 to Sylvestri, the city's outside counsel, on the subject.) Roberts interjected that that email had nothing in it relating to the statement and that the statement's preparation was the issue. Davis expressed appreciation for Manzi's report and her desire to move on. She noted her unease following the split among council and between Greenbelt citizens following the May 26 meeting.

She took responsibility for not going over the statement more carefully and affirmed that the "we" in her statement referred to the three members who voted for the election year change that evening.

Putens, who was last to speak, was also the briefest. He had not been at the June 8 meeting but was delighted that the three members who had voted for the election year change had decided to remove the proposed Charter change from the agenda.

Audience Comments

Two members of the audience were recognized to speak on the topic. Each asked questions relating to what actually defines legislative action and their sense of a lack of transparency on the part of the city when dealing with the election issues.

One speaker also noted the juxtaposition of the August 5 council worksession on ethics and the discussion relating to the problems with emails. He hoped that all members of council would be privy to any actions of the city, noting that having an outside counsel engaged in activity that is "billable" to the city is such an action.

Near the end of the discussion City Manager Michael McLaughlin offered the staff viewpoint that "we erred." Perhaps we were too proactive, he said, in preparation of the statement where many were suggesting language and revisions.

Although there was earlier discussion of having the report on a subsequent council agenda, no action was taken by council in that regard. This segment of the meeting seemed to just close and council moved on.

The City Solicitor's report is tentatively scheduled to be placed on the agenda for the September 28 meeting of council.

Greenbelters Gather for Night Out Events

by Brian St. George

Greenbelters gave up their Tivo to show support for each other and the police force's efforts to "take back the night" at National Night Out (NNO) events on Tuesday, August 4. Groups gathered at nine locations in Greenbelt – up from seven last year – to meet their neighbors, enjoy a cookout and show civic pride.

At Mowatt Memorial United Methodist Church about 30 people met Greenbelt Police and McGruff the crime dog. Doug Mangum, a congregant of Mowatt, said that "anything that gets people out is great." Noah Walden, seven years old, felt that there was a crime problem in Greenbelt as his mom works at a Mental Health Court and "a lot of the people are from old Greenbelt." Pastor Fay Lundin of Mowatt and College Park Methodist Church felt the NNO was a good way to "make neighbors aware that we are here, because people want to meet their neighbors."

Roosevelt Center

The gathering at Roosevelt Center started with about 25 participants and expanded to about 150. A grill had been fired up and hot dogs were cooking. Dessert, drinks and other snacks were around. A table with balloons and beach balls provided by Target was a center of attention. Children and adults were blowing up and tossing the red and white beach balls all around. Jeanette Holman of Greenbelt and a member of the Old Greenbelt Neighborhood Watch Group said that the event has drawn more people every year and that the cameras in Roosevelt Center had created a greater sense of security. Ed James, coordinator for the old Greenbelt group, also indicated the cameras in the Center made a difference.

Chief James Craze made an ebullient appearance asking, "How is everyone doing?" He said the event was "a wonderful thing" and that there were more people attending all NNO events each year.

Mayor Judith Davis also made the rounds at NNO events and said that "it was a great way for neighbors to get to know each other, their police officers and to 'take back the night.'"

Andy Carruthers said it was a "special night and a chance to show positive support for the Greenbelt police." He also voiced concern about trends and that there were some indications of group attacks by young men and women who assault without intent of robbery. Although Greenbelt's proximity to I-95 and 295 may explain part of the crime problem, he felt there was evidence that some of the acts were committed by residents.

Councilmember Edward Putens, at Roosevelt Center, said he would like to see more people attending the growing number of events.
