New School to Open; Changes In Two of Greenbelt's Schools

by Mary Moien

When the bell rings for the first day of school on Monday, August 20, two Greenbelt schools will encounter major changes. After years of planning, the new Greenbelt Middle School (GMS) will welcome its students. There will be many changes in addition to the new state-of-the-art building. First, the county has lengthened the school day for all middle school students by 40 minutes. GMS will now open at 8:15 a.m. and end its day at 3:40 p.m.

In addition, GMS is now the Talented and Gifted middle school location for the northern part of the county. Thirdly, rising sixth graders from Greenbelt Elementary School (GES) and several other area elementary schools will join the sixth graders who moved to GMS from Springhill Lake Elementary School several years ago. Most sixth grade activities will take place in a wing of the new school dedicated to the sixth graders.

At GES, the staff is reallocating space that has resulted from the shift of the rising sixth graders to GMS. A future story will describe those and other changes at GES. A story in last week's Greenbelt News Review provided a first view of the new middle school and the new opportunities for students there.

40 Extra Minutes

With the announcement that middle schools will increase the school day by 40 minutes, the middle school day becomes longer than that for the high school. Prince George's County Public Schools (PGCPS) statement declared: "With more instructional time devoted to math, science, reading, music and foreign languages, we believe the extra 40 minutes will improve student achievement. The extra time gives teachers more time to prepare for enrichments and remediation."

Transportation Changes

GMS students also have new bus schedules as their school day has changed. In addition, the locations of bus stops have been "optimized" by the computer taking into account the traffic safety issues of streets in the area and the children's locations. It is therefore possible that bus times and stops are changed for other students.

PGCPS indicated that all parents of bus riding students will receive a letter approximately August 17 with their student's bus stop location, bus number and pick up/drop off times. In most cases bus stops are at corners.

The stops are designed to be within approximately 1/4 mile of any student's home. No changes have occurred in maximum walking distances, which remain at 1.5 miles for elementary and two miles for secondary school students.

Ribbon Cutting at GMS

The Greenbelt Middle School Ribbon Cutting will be held at the school on Monday, August 20 at 7:30 a.m. All are invited.

The school address is 6301 Breezewood Drive.

Council and Audience Differ On Suspension of the Rules

by Barbara Hopkins

The Greenbelt City Council spent most of its meeting on August 13 dealing with new city legislation. In four instances the agenda item called for council to suspend the rules in order to enact legislation in a timely manner, a procedure called into question by two members of the audience, one of them rather contentiously at times. Two councilmembers disagreed with the procedure at times as well and even blocked it in the case of one item.

Tax Anticipation Notes

Council adopted an ordinance authorizing the city to issue tax anticipation notes up to $3.5 million in order to provide cash flow for approved city expenses during the first quarter of Fiscal Year 2013. The notes anticipate that increased funds will be available when taxes on real property begin to arrive in mid-October.

Because some expenses must be paid before council meets again in September, staff recommended suspension of the rules and adoption of the ordinance.

The city has issued such notes for the past three fiscal years, since the expense of the new Public Works building used money from the General Fund that had been available previously to assist with limited first-quarter cash flow. Staff anticipates that once the Public Works building is paid off, there may no longer be a need for such short-term financing.

Interest expenses for the past two fiscal years on similar notes totaled $2,293. Staff found the best rate for the notes from Columbia Bank, which offered a rate of 1.75 percent with no fees.

Bill Orleans questioned council's suspension of the rules and suggested a special meeting to adopt the bill so people could consider the information beforehand. City Manager Michael McLaughlin reiterated the agenda comments on the limited cash flow at this time.

Mayor Judith Davis told Orleans that council rarely holds a special meeting since councilmembers have other duties and meetings. Councilmember Silke Pope said a worksession had already been held on the issue so the information was not new. Councilmember Edward Putens explained that the notes cannot be obtained at a moment's notice and that required paperwork takes time.

Greenbelt resident Cindy Henneberger said she agreed with Orleans "out of respect for the public." Since council knew the situation would exist, she suggested it could have planned better. The mayor said council would take her comments under advisement. Councilmember Leta Mach noted the process had been discussed during adoption of the budget.

Ethics Rules

Council also introduced revisions to the city's ethics ordinance. The State Ethics Commission had informed the city that its ordinance needed language to clarify participation and prestige provisions and that a section on financial disclosures needed revisions to comply with state law.

City Solicitor Robert Manzi had made changes but had communicated to council before the meeting that changes requested to financial disclosures do not apply to Greenbelt elections because city candidates file for office in the same year as the election. However, in order to have the State Ethics Commission review Greenbelt's ordinance at its September 13 meeting, council needed to adopt its ordinance at this meeting.

Orleans questioned the process and report of the city's ethics commission. He sparred verbally at times with the mayor and attempted to discuss the previous item on tax anticipation notes. When he had used up his allotted time he was given an additional two minutes to speak.

He asked why the rules needed to be suspended if the state letter on required changes had been sent months ago. City Clerk Cindy Murray explained that the letter arrived in April but that subsequently the state had not responded quickly.

The ordinance was introduced by Putens, the rules suspended and the ordinance adopted unanimously.

Selling Ads: A Necessary Job

by Jessica Wilde

It takes a certain sort of person to sell ads and the News Review always needs that person. Ads are what keep the paper printing every week and many of them are unsolicited or regulars.

"The more ads we have, the larger a paper we can put out," said Sue Krofchik, a News Review volunteer who used to sell weekly ads and now coordinates proofreaders.

But there is no one going from business to business right now and the newspaper's editor, Mary Lou Williamson, said that's because people don't particularly like selling ads.

"I don't understand," she said. "I enjoy talking with advertisers about getting their message out to the community."

No experience is needed and training is given, Krofchik said.

"The paper is actually read," she said. "People don't just look at the first two pages and throw the rest away."

It can be difficult to convince businesses that ads are more effective if they appear every week. If someone needs a service, they will pick up the latest issue of the News Review and see what is out there.

"I wasn't sure I could do ads because I had never done it before," Krofchik said. But she responded to a request in the paper and wanted to help. Williamson showed her how the conversion chart works to come up with rates per ad size.

And she started going from business to business, showing them a recent issue with the size and price marked on existing ads in the paper.

"A two by four is not a piece of lumber," she said. "It's an ad two columns across by four inches down."

And it's best to make the first visit in person to establish a relationship, she said. After that, you become your own boss.

While Krofchik no longer sells ads, she has volunteered during

Glad of Directions To Indian Springs

I was delighted to read Robert Haslinger's directions to Indian Springs in your August 9 issue. My sisters and I often visited the springs which we approached from what is now Buddy At-tick Park, across to the spillway and up the hill into the woods. Those summer outings to the lake were adventures for three little girls in the '40s.

As part of our return to Greenbelt for the celebratory dinner dance, my sisters and I plan to visit many of our old haunts and now we know how to approach one of them. Thanks Robert! Your brother Joe was a classmate of mine at Holy Redeemer so I like reading your contributions to the News Review. I have also enjoyed Leo Slaughter's essays as many of his rememberings mirror mine . . . girls did wild things too.

Photo, Please

What a pleasure to learn via Robert Haslinger's letter that Indian Springs not only still exists but is easily accessible, instead of having to walk up and over a hill from the end of the dam at the Lake as we used to do. I will not be visiting it, however, because I now live in the cool highlands of Arizona. I would love to see a photo, though, if someone would kindly send me a jpeg via email. Many thanks.

Welcome Back, Tony!

Word was on the street long before the letter appeared in last week's News Review.

"Guess what?" my neighbor Jeanette sounded breathless when I answered the phone. "Guess who delivered our mail this morning?"

"No . . . not Tony?" I answered, afraid to believe it.

"He's back!" Jeannette crowed. It's true. Tony Schiavone is back on the beat after the U.S. Postal Service terminated him eight months ago. As Tony said in his letter last week, it was "simply incredible" the way Greenbelt residents came to his aid. Building on a 75 year tradition of citizen activism, neighbors wrote letters, placed ads and gathered petitions outside the Co-op grocery store. Protest letters arrived at the Greenbelt Post Office and in the Postmaster General's office. Residents called the National Letter Carriers Union to alert them to the problem and quizzed other postal employees to see what could be done to reinstate Tony.

To most Greenbelters, Tony's plight seemed to disappear into the mysterious world of unions, arbitration and appeals. But Forestway resident Linda Edwards would not be kept in the dark. She attended Tony's arbitration hearings and was allowed to testify at his second hearing. She shared letters that had appeared in the Greenbelt News Review and other testimonials about Tony's stellar service to the community.

As word spread that first week of August, Tony was greeted enthusiastically at the doors of many homes. "Here he comes!" cried Kathleen McFarland. "I missed him yesterday," she said, abruptly hanging up the phone and hurrying to the door to celebrate with her favorite mail carrier.

"Everyone has been great," beams Tony. "I really appreciate all the support. It's just great to be back."

Earlybirds Encourage Animal Trash Vandals

Neighbors, it's a big hassle to put your trash out on the morning of pickup and get to work on time. Also a hassle to remember the day delay in pickup when there's a federal holiday.

But we have to keep our trash inside until the morning of pickup. Animals are tearing into it.

They could be foxes, which somebody near me says they have seen. They could be coyote (with a dog mix) which WTOP has reported being seen as far out as Anne Arundel County. With all the trees around here, they could be raccoon. In these hard economic times, they could also be pets thrown away by owners; feral dog packs are reported in St. Mary's county killing pets. I've seen traces the right size for a dog midway between beagle and pointer size. At least one neighbor near me has also had trash bags torn into.

Animals like these don't have rabies shots. Besides the mess they leave, they could attack you or your family or pets. Keep your trash inside and remove an attractive nuisance.

Reel & Meal to Show Education Under Fire

The next in the monthly Reel and Meal at the New Deal film series, on Monday, August 20 at 7 p.m. will show "Education Under Fire." This documentary, co-sponsored by Amnesty International, depicts the plight of Baha'i youth in Iran, who have been systematically denied access to higher education in their country. There is no charge for the film or discussion afterward; a special vegan meal is available for purchase at the café beforehand starting at 6:30 p.m.

After the Islamic Revolution in 1979, Baha'i faculty and students were expelled from Iranian universities and have been barred from higher education ever since. In 1987 the Baha'i community created the Baha'i Institute for Higher Education (BIHE), an underground university operating out of individual homes. BIHE offers more than 700 on-line courses, whose credits are accepted by more than 65 graduate programs worldwide including Harvard University's School of Graduate Education. Between 1987 and 2005 Iranian authorities closed down the university several times. On May 22, 2011, officials from the Ministry of Intelligence entered the homes of at least 30 of the academic staff of the BIHE, seizing books, computers and personal effects. A total of 16 educators were arrested. Some of those arrested were transferred to Evin prison. Still BIHE faculty continue to teach.

Discussion following the film will be led by Haideh Sabet, M.D., who will help participants understand what can be done about persecution of the Baha'i community in Iran in the context of the springtime of thought in the Middle East.

Anna Andrus

Anna Andrus, widow of Greenbelt Pioneer Joe Andrus, died August 5, 2012, after a brief illness, just shy of her 85th birthday.

Mrs. Andrus was born on September 18, 1927, in Keene, N.H., to William and Gilda DiMeco who emigrated from Italy. Anna was the oldest girl and was one of six children.

Anna met Joe when he was playing baseball with the Keene Blue Jays. She moved to Greenbelt after marrying Joe in 1951, first living on Crescent Road and in 1958 moving to Lakewood. She was a loyal sports fan; her favorite teams were the New York Yankees, Boston Celtics and her beloved Dallas Cowboys – hard teams to cheer for in the Washington area!

She enjoyed working in the yard and always made sure the bird feeder was full and that there were bread and peanuts for the squirrels. Mrs. Andrus also enjoyed spending time with her family, especially her granddaughter's friends who loved spending time with Nana.

She is survived by two brothers and two sisters of New Hampshire, her daughter Julie Ann and granddaughter Joanna of Greenbelt. She is remembered fondly by many friends, who considered Nana part of their family.

At her wish, there will be no funeral service. The family plans to have a party celebrating her life at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made to the Alzheimer's Association or the Alzheimer's Foundation of America.

Back to School

Bus Stop Tips

Since there may be several buses picking up children in the same area, PGCGS recommends to parents:

Before the school year begins, parent and child should visit the arranged bus pick-up location.

Be sure the student knows the safest way to the exact location where the bus will stop.

Parents should take the child to the bus stop on the first day. It is important to be at the pick-up location at least five minutes early.

Students should know the route number and the name of this year's school to insure they board the correct bus. Each bus has a sign located on the side in the second window on the door side.

Parent and child should become familiar with the assigned bus driver but be aware that a different driver may substitute when needed.

Transportation help is available: the PGCPSS Transportation Phone Bank is open daily Monday through Friday from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. at 301-952-6570.

Schools Inaugurate Paypam System

Parents of students enrolled in Prince George's County Public Schools can now pay for their children's meals, sports activity fees and other fees through the school system's new Paypam electronic system. Paypam, which stands for Parent Account Management System, can be accessed at <https://paypams.com/HomePage.aspx>.

Back-to-School Resource Fair

Prince George's County Public Schools (PGCPS) will host a Back-to-School Fair on Saturday, August 18 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Show Place Arena, 14900 Pennsylvania Avenue in Upper Marlboro.

With the first day of school on Monday, August 20, the fair will be a community-wide opportunity to provide all PGCPS students and parents with access to resources needed for a successful school year.

School representatives will be present as well as information on before- and after-school programs and county agency assistance. There also will be school registration, PTA registration and information on needed school supplies as well as school uniforms available for purchase.

Admission is free; interpreters will be available and backpacks will be given away.

School Registration, Schedules Online

Registration is ongoing at all local public schools. Registration packets can be picked up from the school offices during regular office hours. A copy of the child's immunization record is required, as well as the Social Security Number, proof of residency and proof of age. For more information go to www1.pgcpss.org/backtoschool.

Parents are encouraged to register their children as soon as possible.

Schedules for registered students should be available online via the SchoolMax Family Portal on the PGCPS website. Information on how to access SchoolMax, which also lists students' grades for each assignment during the year, will be given to new students at the beginning of the school year.

Volunteers Needed Help Out at School

Volunteers help enhance education for students in the Prince George's County school system. Parents, students, neighbors, friends, business and government employees, crafts people, retirees and anyone who has time to share is invited to be a volunteer.

Volunteer activities include tutoring children individually or in small groups; aiding teachers in reading, mathematics, handwriting, science, English as a Second Language or any area of interest or sharing skills and talents, job expertise or life experience, as special resources for classroom instruction.

Volunteers are needed to assist staff in the school office, media center and cafeteria. Those unable to travel to a school could volunteer to help from home by making instructional materials, typing, making displays and carrying out many other activities. Contact the local school to offer assistance.

School Meal Prices for 2012-13 Year

Prince George's County Public Schools have announced meal prices for the coming school year – student breakfast: $1.50; elementary lunch: $2.60; secondary lunch: $2.85. Milk alone will be $0.55.

The required forms to apply for free or reduced-price meals can be obtained at each school and will be sent home with the children. Parents may also call 301-952-6517 to have an application form mailed to their home.

75th Anniversary

Co-op Celebration Acknowledges Longstanding Tradition in City

A perfect summer afternoon drew people to Roosevelt Center on Sunday to celebrate Greenbelt cooperatives with a sing-along, co-op bingo and co-opsicles. Greenbelt Cooperatives Alliance sponsored "Celebrating Co-ops: Building a Better Greenbelt for 75 Years" as part of the United Nations' International Year of Cooperatives. Informational tables represented the city's seven co-ops, the Greenbelt 75th Anniversary Committee and the National Cooperative Business Association.

There are seven co-operatives operating in Greenbelt – Greenbelt Homes, Inc., Greenbelt Federal Credit Union, Greenbelt Nursery School, Greenbelt Co-op Supermarket, the New Deal Café, Rapidan Camps and the Greenbelt News Review.

Sandra Lange, Carol Griffith and Marat Moore sport new T-shirts at the Greenbelt News Review table.

Above, Kevin Skolnik leads a singalong of familiar songs revised with cooperative-related lyrics in front of the iconic Mother and Child statue.

The co-opsicles were a hit with Eric Moreno (11, front left) and Evan Moreno (10, front right) as grandparents Joyce and George Krieger look on along with father Dan Krieger, who holds the shredder he won at a raffle for the Greenbelt Federal Credit Union.

School Zone Creation

The third piece of legislation requiring a suspension of the rules was a suggested resolution to establish school zones within the city. Davis said before the meeting that council had been divided on suspending the rules for this item and provided opportunity for a motion against it.

Several councilmembers expressed their support for suspending the rules and proceeding. Mach noted that the half-mile limit for school zones is required by state law.

Putens introduced the resolution, after which Councilmember Rodney Roberts said he opposed suspending the rules on this topic and another one on purchase of a street sweeper. Councilmember Konrad Herling agreed with Roberts.

After discussion council was informed that Manzi had determined that council needed six votes, which it did not have, to suspend the rules.

The school zones are on public roads within a half mile of one of the five schools in Greenbelt. Some streets were considered too small to be included because they are cul de sacs, dead ends or limited by stop signs.

Roberts thought all streets within a half mile of schools should be included in school zones. McLaughlin said if council wanted to use that approach, staff could go back and include those streets.

Davis and Mach, however, supported moving forward with the resolution and amending it later if desired, rather than changing it now and necessitating a re-introduction.

McLaughlin pointed out that the resolution does not include the installation of speed cameras, though staff had recommended locations for cameras following a survey by the city's speed camera contractor. The survey had been done at all five Greenbelt schools in 18 locations over a two-day period when school was still in session.

In analysis of 15 locations, the contractor found many drivers going in excess of 12 miles per hour over posted speed limits in several areas. In other areas, such as Springhill Drive near the Springhill Lake Elementary School, the firm found few speeders.

Suggested locations for speed cameras are on Crescent Road between Northway and Greenhill, in the 7700 blocks of both Hanover Parkway and Mandan Road, on Edmonston Road at Springhill Court and in the 5900 block of Cherrywood Lane. Another location on Greenbelt Road may be recommended later but it is on a state highway and requires approval from the State Highway Administration.

The resolution will come up again in September for second reading and adoption. Davis asked that actual locations be listed on the agenda to provide the public with as much information as possible.

Street Sweeper Purchase

As a member of the Four Cities Coalition, Greenbelt shares

a street sweeper with College Park, New Carrollton and Berwyn Heights. Public Works directors from all four cities have concluded that the current equipment is not meeting the needs of the coalition cities. The cost of operation has increased and the equipment has become more unreliable, staff notes indicate.

According to Greenbelt Public Works Director Ken Hall, the group seeks purchase of a new Tymco 600 sweeper body at a cost of $112,280 from Mid-Atlantic Waste Systems. This would be installed on the existing 2000 Freightliner cab and chassis. Each city will pay a fourth of the cost, $28,070.

Greenbelt's FY13 budget includes $25,000 for purchase of a street sweeper and staff reports the remaining funds are available in the Replacement Fund.

Hall said he asked for immediate adoption of the ordinance because the equipment takes six to eight weeks to build and install the sweeper. Meanwhile the old sweeper costs money to maintain and keep going. He said the expenditure has been approved already by the other three cities in the coalition.

In response to a question from Roberts, Hall said there are no plans to keep the old sweeper as backup. Roberts said the new one will also break down in time and suggested having a backup. Hall said he would discuss this with the other Four Cities Public Works directors. He added that the old body is rusted and has many holes. He estimates the new one will last closer to 10 years and hopes to create a schedule of its use that will allow it to be parked more often than previously.

Orleans again questioned the need for suspending the rules. McLaughlin referred to the agenda comments and said the topic has been under discussion at Four Cities meetings and on a previous agenda of the Greenbelt City Council. He thought it was therefore appropriate and in the interest of time and money to follow the procedure outlined.

All members of council voted in favor of the purchase, although Roberts voted against suspending the rules.

Aquatic Center Fees

A resolution to establish admission fees and pass rates for the Greenbelt Aquatic and Fitness Center was adopted unanimously without discussion. There will be no increase for daily admissions, but all pass rates will increase by three percent. The resolution becomes effective on September 4.

Residents Enjoy National Night Out in Greenbelt

by Sean T. Henderson

Greenbelt residents hit the town on Tuesday, August 7 for an evening of food, fun and festivities in an event that unites the community and creates awareness in the fight against crime.

Greenbelt's annual National Night Out was celebrated at eight different sites around the city. Children, parents and neighbors came out to partake in games and raffles, meet with police and firefighters and get to know some of their neighbors and public officials.

Beltway Plaza

At a site next to Beltway Plaza, police, firefighters and Franklin Park employees helped out with the festivities, which included free food donated by local vendors, a live D.J., balloon animals and fun games for kids.

Onlookers watched in awe as a park police helicopter flew overhead and landed nearby. As the pilot hopped out, children ran to have their picture taken with him in front of the spectacular blue and white flying machine.

Not to be outdone, firefighter George Moore drove up in an antique fire truck. First purchased by Greenbelt in 1936, the truck has been fully restored and was a big hit with its shiny red body and historical charm.

Greenbelt resident Barington Fair enjoyed the chance to get to know his neighbors better on a warm summer night. He appreciates the efforts made by the event organizers to protect the community.

"This area is really peaceful and nice and calm and I'd like to keep it that way," Fair said.

Fair also got his picture taken with McGruff the Crime Dog. The renowned crime-fighting dog visited the sites in a D.A.R.E. police car escorted by Kelly Lawson of the Greenbelt Police Department.

National Event

National Night Out is a nationwide event taking place in all 50 states sponsored by the National Association of Town Watch. Its purpose is to prevent drug use and crime on a local level.

Prince George's County Councilmember Ingrid Turner noted the importance of the event in raising awareness about criminal activity and uniting the community to keep Greenbelt safe.

"National Night Out is about communities coming together and being the eyes and ears for the police officers," Turner said. "Nobody can do it alone and as we come together and we make our community safer, we look out for each other."

Roosevelt Center

In Roosevelt Center, community members shared stories and looked at the sky as Greenbelt resident Bridget Cornett towered above them. Cornett, who is a trained stilt walker, skillfully traipsed about on her metal appendages and showed off her juggling skills.

Neighborhood Watch member Tom Fishbeck came out to show support for the event, as well as for Greenbelt's neighborhood watch program. The program monitors the neighborhood by reporting suspicious activities and safety hazards.

"I hope that everyone – whether or not they can get out and be a member or get out and walk – at least will have the attitude of neighborhood watch wherever they go," Fishbeck said.

Greenbriar

At the Greenbriar Condominiums site, Councilmember Silke Pope met with Greenbelt residents and was glad to see people taking the opportunity to get to know one another and build friendships.

"It's a good time of the year to get to know your neighbors, your community and your responders," Pope said.

Mayor Judith Davis also stopped by the Greenbriar site to say hello, along with fellow Councilmembers Ed Putens and Emmett Jordan. The councilmembers visited several of the sites to show their support, catch up with old friends and make some new ones.

"It's like taking back the night, at least for one night," Davis said. "It's about the community working together and joining together and having a good time . . . and not being afraid of the dark."

Raffle Winners

Herb Wyche, a member of the Public Safety Advisory Committee for the city, announced the winning raffle numbers at the Greenbriar site. Wyche, well known in the area, considers himself an unofficial neighborhood watch member.

"The overall message is that we're all one," Wyche said. "Let's look out for each other. We can all work together as one and make this a much safer place to be."

Greenbelt Police Chief Jim Craze was all smiles as he shook hands and posed for photographs with residents.

Craze credits the efforts of watch groups and everyday citizens as a big factor in the unprecedented crime rate decline that Greenbelt has experienced in the past few years.

"The police department cannot be successful in its crime-fighting efforts without the help of the community," Craze said. "It's been a real success story and we want to keep it going."

Police Blotter

Based on information released by the Greenbelt Police Department, <http://www.greenbeltmd.gov/police/index.htm>, link in left frame to "Weekly Report" or http://www.greenbeltmd.gov/police/weekly\_report.pdf. Dates and times are those when police were first contacted about incidents.

Trespassing

August 3, 11:14 p.m., 5800 block Cherrywood Terrace. A 20-year-old Greenbelt man was arrested and charged with trespassing on private property and failure to obey a lawful order, among other charges. He was released on citations pending trial.

Vehicle Crime

An attempted auto theft occurred in the 9200 block Springhill Lane.

Two stolen vehicles were recovered. A 1998 Dodge Stratus taken from the 5900 block Cherrywood Terrace was recovered in University Park with no arrests made. A 2001 Dodge Stratus reported stolen by the Prince George's County Police was recovered in the 7300 block Morrison Drive with no arrests made.

Two acts of vandalism were reported: A windshield and headlight were broken in the 9000 block Edmonston Road and side mirrors were broken in the 9000 block Breezewood Terrace.

Police Aug. Focus: Toward Zero Deaths

August is statistically the deadliest month in terms of traffic-related fatalities, with an annual toll in Maryland of approximately 500 people.

The Greenbelt Police Department is participating in a statewide August effort called "Toward Zero Deaths." During heavy summer travel police are out in force, with the driving public alerted to special enforcement efforts, especially at night.

A concentrated effort to begin working toward an ultimate goal of no traffic fatalities, the message is: slow down, drive sober, pay attention to the road and other drivers. Most importantly, always wear a seatbelt and ensure that children are properly restrained in safety seats.

The Department is offering a reward of up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a suspect in any of the unsolved crimes reported in the blotter.

Call 1-866-411-TIPS.

People may anonymously report suspected drug activity by calling the Drug Tip Line at 240-542-2145.

Violinist Sarah Saviet Concert Is August 26

by Carol Griffith

Local music fans will have one last chance to see Mishkan Torah's own Sarah Saviet perform at the synagogue on Sunday, August 26 at 2 p.m.

Saviet will soon travel to Berlin, Germany to commence a three-year course of study for her masters at the University of the Arts in Berlin after being awarded both a Fulbright grant and a grant from the Deutscher Akademischer Austausch Dienst, a publicly-funded organization of German scholastic institutions which provides financial support to foreign scholars to study in Germany. Saviet is the daughter of Mishkan Torah members Elizabeth Ahmann and Richard Saviet.

This farewell concert will mark Saviet's first performance at Mishkan Torah since her appearance before a sold-out house at the Young Performers Series Concert in March 2011 in which she received a series of standing ovations.

She has just completed studies at Indiana University where she had been named one of 24 Wells Scholars when entering as a freshman. She is the winner of the recent Indiana University Concerto Competition, where she performed Alban Berg's technically demanding Violin Concerto with the Indiana University Philharmonic Orchestra.

Her list of musical accomplishments is already lengthy: at Indiana University she performed regularly with the New Music Ensemble and taught in the string academy. In March she performed in Carnegie Hall as part of a collaboration led by the Carnegie Hall Professional Training Workshops. She also served for the past two years as first violinist for a student/faculty quartet founded by Atar Arad, former violist of the Cleveland Quartet.

Prior to going to Indiana, Saviet studied music at Peabody Preparatory, where she won the full concerto competition. She has been a prize winner in numerous other musical competitions, including the Washington Performing Arts Society's Feder Competition and has given several solo performances in the metropolitan area including performances with the Peabody Sinfonietta and the Landon Symphonette. Saviet performed in the Kennedy Center's Concert Hall as a winner of the National Symphony Orchestra's

Young Artists Competition. At Peabody Preparatory she served as the concertmaster of the Sinfonietta as well as playing with the Conservatory's Symphony Orchestra.

There is a fee for tickets, which may be obtained from Mishkan Torah Synagogue, 10 Ridge Road, Greenbelt, MD 20770 or online at www.mishkantorah.org/saviet.

holidays and anniversaries to sell special occasion ads. She has developed good working relationships and enjoys calling the marketing manager for Combined Properties, Linda Dreyer, every holiday season.

"She is always supportive and it's like chatting with a friend," she said.

Altoria Ross, who is on the News Review Board, has also sold special edition ads.

For the city's 72nd anniversary, she contacted local churches and state and county officials to see if any of them wanted to run a congratulatory ad for the city.

"It was really exciting when people responded to the emails," she said.

She gave them sample language and sample sizes and they worked out the ads from there.

There are no set hours or minimum number of ads required and it gets easier the more you do it, she said.

"Soliciting ads is a very important position," she said. "Without advertisers, we could not put out a paper."

McCrinkle Exhibit At Nat'l Gallery

An exhibit at the National Gallery of Art's West Building celebrates Joseph F. McCrinkle's legacy with 71 drawings from his collection spanning five centuries including watercolors by John Singer Sargent. The exhibit continues through November 25.

Library Now Loans OverDrive eBooks

The Prince George's County Memorial Library System (PGCMLS) was the first library system in Maryland to provide Amazon Kindle compatible eBooks to patrons as part of the OverDrive WIN initiative – a series of enhancements that support the library's virtual branch website.

By visiting <http://www.pgcmls.info> and clicking the Online Library link at the top of the page, library patrons can download audio books and eBooks. The newly implemented enhancements will allow most OverDrive eBooks to be read on Kindle readers or by using free apps on the iPhone, iPad, Android and other mobile devices.

PGCMLS has over 6,800 eBook compatible titles in its collection. The eBooks expire at the end of the patron's lending period.

Exhibit Displays Historic Trees

Now through November 16 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily the U.S. National Arboretum presents an outdoor panel exhibit, "Landslide: Every Tree Tells a Story." Discover and appreciate the nation's horticultural heritage at this exhibit of endangered trees of historic and cultural significance from around the country. The final performance of this year's (sixth) Greenbelt Youth Circus was a boffo success – all 200 tickets were sold with a dozen spillover fans hoping for no-shows to vacate some seats in the Greenbelt Community Center gymnasium on Sunday afternoon, August 12.

Under Greg May's masterful tutelage and with his ingenious choreography, 40 youngsters between the ages of 7 and 15 dazzled their dotting families and friends with parodies of West Side Story, Indiana Jones, The Lion King, Mary Poppins, Monty Python and more.

After four weeks of training five days a week seven hours a day, the unicyclists, stiltwalkers, jugglers, tumblers, dancers – the whole motley crew – were indubitably impressive. Julie Sharapi and Amelia Vignola boxing each other on stilts, the bloodcurdling shrieks of Erin and Katie Delaney before being rescued repeatedly by Tyler Clarke (Indiana Jones), Alexi Clarke's fierce MGM Lion's roar and the excellent tumbling of the tall, elegant Sarah Rodeffer were all eyeopeners or earsplitters.

Greg May spread the love around with his farewell remarks, giving lavish credit to his staff, coaches and crew. Betty May (Greg's mom), Erin Boots, Shelly Guy, Sheryl May (Greg's wife), Ryan Campbell, Ema Campbell, Joe Capotosto, Bridgette Cornett and Marina May (Greg's niece) all were applauded.

Greg briefly hyped his new Center Ring Circus School – a full time circus arts facility for children and adults due to open November 1 in Columbia, Md. (See www.CenterRingCircusSchool.com.)

Bella Martins, one of the Unicycling Pirates of Buddy Attick Park, took the microphone and thanked the coaches and staff, after which her parents and other fans presented them with big floral bouquets. The whole cast then danced a rousing chorus line number, sending the happy crowd out into the waning heat.

Alyssa Russell juggles in West Side Story.
