New School Bell Times Ringing

When the bells rang for the first day of school on Tuesday, August 26 there was a change for Greenbelt Middle School (GMS) and Eleanor Roosevelt High School (ERHS) students. The closing bell times shifted from 4:20 p.m. to 3:40 p.m. for GMS. At ERHS, they rang at 8:45 a.m. and 3:20 p.m. These changes for GMS were a result of the elimination of the 40-minute "enrichment and intervention" period that had been in place for the last two years.

The new school year brings a new principal, George Covington, to GMS. It also brings the new Robert Goddard French Immersion School, grades K to 8, with Principal Nasser Abi, to the old middle school building at 8950 Edmonston Road.

Maximum walking distances remain the same for elementary and secondary schools, at 1.5 and two miles, respectively.

It will be the second year for GMS students at their new state-of-the-art building.

As part of the county's plan to move all middle schools to the sixth to eighth grade model, sixth graders from Greenbelt Elementary School and Hollywood Elementary School moved to GMS and joined the sixth graders already attending GMS from Springhill Lake Elementary School. Sixth graders from Magnolia Elementary school were slated to move to GMS in the 2013-14 school year but this plan was put on hold because of the greatly increased enrollment in the new school building and concerns about overcrowding.

Transition Day

There was a Transition Day for incoming sixth, seventh and ninth graders on Monday, August 25. Students were picked up by school buses, just as on a regular school day. They attended a half-day program before being driven back to their allocated bus stop.

The program aims to help students prepare for life in middle and high school. They learned about their new school and met staff members. In addition, they were shown their lockers, learned how the schedules work, found out about extracurricular activities and heard about homework and student responsibilities.

A Trip Down Memory Lane – It's a Blast from the Past

by Jim Link

About 100 raucous, frolicsome Greenbelters gathered rather spontaneously in and behind the New Deal Café last Wednesday night August 20 to gaze at, touch and reminisce about an iconic symbol of the 60s countercultural rebellion.

Fifty years ago Ken Kesey and his Merry Pranksters drove their psychedelically painted, LSD-fueled bus, Further, across the USA. Singing the body electric, these champions of cultural and political anarchy seemed infused with limitless optimism – a new day was dawning!

Kesey's countercultural classic One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest was a best seller and became a successful movie with Jack Nicholson as Randle McMurphy, the hospitalized, sane rebel psychopath

The Further bus came to Greenbelt August 20 as part of the 50th Anniversary Further Bus Tour across America. Ken Kesey's son, Zane, can be seen in the driver's seat. Zane Kesey and The Merry Pranksters stopped by the New Deal Café after a VIP Congressional tour of D.C.

Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test chronicled the Pranksters' flamboyant hedonism.

Half a century later Kesey's son Zane is reprising his dad's journey, driving from east to west with a younger generation of Merry Pranksters.

As Zane drove into the Greenbelt parking lot the hard-core faithful and just plain curious let out a huge shout. Those who remembered the first journey are a tad paunchier and mellow than in the 60s; the youngsters who have received the torch from their elders were quite primed to see a legend.

Greenbelt's biggest celebration of the year is here. From the Outstanding Citizen announcement Friday evening to the big parade Monday morning there is an unbelievably full schedule of happenings – to participate in, to look at, to eat and to listen to.

The carnival midway kicks off Friday from 6 to 10 p.m. and continues each day through Monday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. A wide variety of food will be available from jerk chicken to funnel cake to vegan curry, so no need to cook at home.

Participants

Looking for some Sunday fun? For the gambler, try bingo; for the reader, check out the used book booth; and, for everyone, sample the many organization booths for button-making, easel-painting, 50-50 raffle and more.

For the sports enthusiasts the slow pitch tournament begins at 9 a.m. and continues all day; the table tennis tourney starts at 1:30 p.m.; register at 2 p.m. for the three-point shoot-out competition for all ages; for the two ball tourney for teams of two, ages 13 and up, register at 3:45 p.m.; and, finally, the D.C. Road Runners is offering its annual 15km race and 3km Fun Run in memory of Greenbelter Larry Noel who many decades ago began to encourage running for exercise.

Letters

More Interesting All the Time

I'd love to read a study on mockingbirds nesting in multiflora rose during the breeding season. "My" mated pair of mockingbirds nested in my holly tree. I am certain that the insect biomass contained in the compass of that holly tree's branches was not enough to raise chicks on. I observed that the mockingbirds went on both sides of my house and both sides of the street, and used both insects and mulberries to feed their earliest chick. I'd love to see the study in case it shows that they hunt only within the compass of the multiflora when nesting there during breeding season, because in that case a lower biomass of insects would interfere with their ability to raise chicks to maturity.

Point two. Jason Martin's Letter to the Editor August 21 suggested he knows that it's never just about one or two species. A paper on the Columbia University (New York) website shows that multiflora supports several other birds, some of which eat both insects and berries, and not just mockingbirds. Multiflora rose also supports several species of mammal from its leaves, twigs and bark.

Point three, another one from Martin's letter: some birds moved out, some birds moved in. The ecology is always in flux. The insect biomass in the multiflora could also be in flux and it could be on the rise. Again, I'd love to read studies on this. Ecological flux includes changes in relationships. Stinkbugs came into the metro region and they were going to be a big crisis because they had no natural predators. Now they do — native species have started preying on them. Deer are a native species and they prey on multiflora roses; there could be other herbivores that would consume a similar mass of the plant.

What next? Same thing as with any idea that will use scarce hours or dollars. Publicize the steps in the program, their schedule and duration, associated costs and collateral effects. They can come from state guidelines if there are any or copy a successful program if there is one. Propose a skunkworks if there's no successful program to copy or state guidelines to follow. The sooner all this information is published, the sooner the public can make a decision about involvement in that program.

Tuckman Transforms Silk Into Art and Fashion

The opening reception for artist Diane Tuckman's exhibit Color, Texture, Perspective: Transforming Silk into Art and Fashion will be held on Thursday, August 28 from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the U.S. District Court, 6500 Cherrywood Lane, Greenbelt. The exhibit will showcase Tuckman's unique art form of painting and printing photographs on silk.

In her art, Tuckman experiments with color and texture, and transforms silk into wall art, yardage for fashion and home décor. The exhibit displays the numerous possibilities of this art form, including different silks, techniques and paints or dyes.

Tuckman's artwork is also on display through October 10 at the Gallery at Iona, Iona Senior Services, 4125 Albemarle Street, NW, Washington, D.C. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. On display are 92 pieces of Tuckman's work, including photography, silk art in many forms and hand-painted fashions. For more information about this exhibit, call 202-895-9448, email info@iona.org or visit www.iona.org.

Tuckman was born in Egypt, escaped to France in 1948 and then came to the United States. In 1978, Tuckman launched Ivy Imports to import silk painting products to the U.S., thereby introducing the art of painting on silk to this country. In addition to teaching, exhibiting her work and co-founding Silk Painters International, Tuckman has also co-authored three books about painting on silk, with a fourth to be published soon. To learn more about Tuckman's work, visit her website at www.iteach-silkart.com.

Adult Book Discussion

Attica Locke's The Cutting Season, Tuesday, September 16, 7 p.m. Come join the library's Adult Book Discussion on The Cutting Season, Attica Locke's riveting thriller that intertwines two murders separated across more than a century. In this story, Caren Gray manages Belle Vie, a sprawling antebellum plantation that sits between Baton Rouge and New Orleans, where the past and the present coexist uneasily.

The estate's owners have turned the place into an eerie tourist attraction, complete with full-dress reenactments and carefully restored slave quarters. Outside the gates, a corporation with ambitious plans has been busy snapping up land from struggling families who have been growing sugar cane for generations, and now replacing local employees with illegal laborers. Tensions mount when the body of a female migrant worker is found in a shallow grave on the edge of the property, her throat cut clean.

As the investigation gets underway, the list of suspects grows. But when fresh evidence comes to light and the sheriff's department zeros in on a person of interest, Caren has a bad feeling that the police are following the wrong leads. Putting herself at risk, she ventures into dangerous territory as she unearths startling new facts about an old mystery - the long-ago disappearance of a former slave - that has unsettling ties to the current murder. In pursuit of the truth about Belle Vie's history and her own, Caren discovers secrets about both cases - ones that an increasingly desperate killer will stop at nothing to keep buried.

Patrons who have read this book and want to discuss it are welcome to participate. Copies of the book should be available at the branch's information desk through September 15.

Georgia Fay Miller

Georgia Fay Miller, 66, of Ridge Road since 2004, died on August 20, 2014, at Holy Cross Hospital surrounded by friends and family after struggles with a long illness. She was born in Takoma Park and was the wife of the late Charlie Miller.

Mrs. Miller was a long-standing member of the Eastern Star and a great lover of animals both large and small, especially her own two little dogs, Little Boy and Pee Wee. Despite difficult physical handicaps, she was often seen in Roosevelt Center, chatting about news and inquiring about the health of her many friends and neighbors who knew her as Fay. She was always willing to lend a hand to anyone in need and possessed a heart as big as Greenbelt Lake, where she could often be found admiring wildlife. She will be sorely missed for her wisdom and kindness and her ability to get out and about against tremendous physical pain and difficulty. She'll leave a big hole in the hearts of all who loved and were inspired by her. We'll miss seeing her driving her dark blue PT Cruiser on yet another trip to a Chinese buffet or her favorite fishing hole, always including friends who wanted to tag along.

Mrs. Miller was predeceased by her husband, Charles and brothers Leroy and Russell Dillard. She is survived by brother Andy Dillard; sisters Helen Hall and Irene Bedard and sister-in-law Sharon Dillard; nieces Shelley, Kathi, Marcie, Brenda and Beth; and her nephew, Clifford, as well as numerous great-nieces and nephews.

A memorial service will be held at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, 11525 Prospect Hill Rd., Glenn Dale, MD on Saturday August 30 at 11 a.m.

Interment follows at Fort Lincoln Cemetery at 3 p.m.. Gasch's Funeral Home handled the arrangements. Memorial contributions may be made in her name to the Arthritis Foundation, 1330 Peachtree St., Ste. 1000, Atlanta, GA 30309.

Back to School

School Registration, Schedules Online

Registration is ongoing at all local public schools. Registration packets can be picked up from the school offices during regular office hours. A copy of the child's immunization record is required, as well as the Social Security number, proof of residency and proof of age. For more information go to www1.pgcps.org/backtoschool.

Parents are encouraged to register as soon as possible in order to secure bus transportation and to pick up an official schedule.

Schedules for registered students should be available online via the SchoolMax Family Portal on the Prince George's County Public Schools website. Information on how to access SchoolMax, which also lists students' grades for each assignment during the year, will be distributed to new students at the beginning of the school year. Students moving up to middle or high school will use the same log-in information as they used in elementary school.

Parents are always encouraged to check SchoolMax for detailed information about their children's teachers and classes.

Volunteer at School

Volunteers help enhance education for students in the Prince George's County school system. Parents, students, neighbors, friends, business and government employees, crafts people, retirees and anyone who has time to share is invited to be a volunteer.

Volunteer activities include tutoring children individually or in small groups and aiding teachers in reading, mathematics, handwriting, science, English as a Second Language or any area of interest, or sharing skills and talents, job expertise or life experience, as special resources for classroom instruction.

Volunteers are needed to assist staff in the school office, media center and cafeteria. Those unable to travel to a school could volunteer to help from home by making instructional materials, typing, making displays and carrying out many other activities. Contact the local school to offer assistance.

School Meal Prices For 2014-15 Year

School meal prices for the coming school year will remain unchanged from last year: student breakfast: $1.50; elementary lunch: $2.60; secondary lunch: $2.85. Milk alone will be $0.55.

The required forms to apply for free or reduced-price meals can be obtained at each school and will be sent home with the children. Parents may also call 301-952-6517 to have an application form mailed to their home.

Paypam System

Parents of students enrolled in Prince George's County Public Schools can pay for their children's meals, sports activity fees and other fees through the school system's new Paypam electronic system. Paypam, which stands for Parent Account Management System, can be accessed at <https://paypams.com/HomePage.aspx>.

Schools' Before And After School

The county school system operates a school-age child care program at Greenbelt Elementary, Magnolia Elementary and Springhill Lake Elementary schools. Child care begins at 7 a.m. and operates until the start of the school day. The afternoon session begins at the end of the school day and operates until 6 p.m. There is a fee.

Returning parents are given first priority to register in May for the following school year. The remaining slots are then offered to new families.

Activities vary between locations, according to the interests of staff and students but a wide range of activities are provided, for example, art, drama, music and sports. A daily snack is also provided and students are given time to begin homework assignments and socialize.

Bus Stop Tips For Parents

Parents of students registered at schools by July 31, 2014, should have received a letter from Transportation the week before school started. The letter names the bus stop location, the route number and pickup/drop off times. It is also possible to look up students' bus stop information at www.pgcps.org under Parents, Bus Stop Search.

Since several buses may be picking up children in the same area, the Prince George's County Public Schools (PGCPS) recommends to parents:

Be sure the student knows the safest way to the exact location where the bus will stop.

Parents should take the child to the bus stop on the first day. It is important to be at the pickup location at least five minutes early.

Students should know the route number and the name of this year's school to ensure they board the correct bus. Each bus has a sign located on the side in the second window on the door side.

Parent and child should become familiar with the assigned bus driver but be aware that a different driver may substitute when needed.

Transportation help is available: the PGCPS Transportation Phone Bank is open daily Monday through Friday from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. at 301-952-6570.

The Festival Rising Stars Feature Music and Dance

by Jon Gardner

The Labor Day Festival Rising Stars on Sunday afternoon will showcase the talents of teens and young people from the Greenbelt area. Featuring new acts and returning favorites, the teen bands, dance groups and solo acts have proven a popular way to take an indoor break from the outside festival activities.

Headlining the Rising Stars concert will be two bands returning from last year. Poprocks and Coke are an alternative rock band from Berwyn Heights playing both originals and covers. This may be the last chance to see them as some of the band members head off to college soon.

RPG will play an eclectic mix of classic rock, ranging from Jethro Tull to Iron Maiden. RPG consists of Jan Knutson on guitar and vocals, David Gardner on keyboards and Jake Transgrud on drums. Now in their junior year at Eleanor Roosevelt High School, they have played together since their middle school days and have been featured every year in the Rising Stars.

Two dance groups return from last year. New Chicago is a Greenbelt-based dance studio run by Samantha Fitschen, who will bring her young dance stars to perform some pieces from their recent recital and some new dances. The Alexander Community Dance group is also returning from last year.

There are also new performers. Silas Fishburne, recently seen in the Greenbelt Youth Circus, will perform a Clown Comedy act. Emily Armoa has been a regular at the New Deal Café's Kid's Open Mic and will bring her distinctive folk style to classics such as Fire and Rain and This Land is Your Land. Other acts will also take the stage in what promises to be a full afternoon of entertainment.

The Rising Stars will start at 2 p.m. on Sunday in the Community Center gym. For more information about the Labor Day Festival and the complete schedule of events, see the pullout in last week's issue or visit the website at <http://greenbeltlaborday.com/>. If you have questions, send an email through the website, or phone Committee President Linda Ivy at 301-675-0585.

RPG will perform classic rock at the Labor Day Festival's Rising Stars Sunday afternoon.

At left, Emily Armoa will sing and play guitar at the Labor Day Festival's Rising Stars Sunday afternoon.

The carnival rides arrived Monday night.

can be crafty with arts, crafts and face painting; homemakers can compete in the Retro Town Fair with their entries of baked goods, needlepoint, canned goods and more. Bring items to Roosevelt Center from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Observers

For the history buffs, Greenbelt Museum's Historic House at 10-B Crescent Road will be open from 1 to 4 p.m.; for the cultured, the art and photo shows will be open from 1 to 6 p.m. Come and encourage the Rising Stars who will shine as they try out their talents on the Community Center stage from 2 to 8 p.m. And while strolling the Festival watch for Greg May, the local circus master demonstrating his talents on stilts or a unicycle while juggling.

When it's all too exhausting, sit down at the main stage from 1 to 4 p.m. and listen to the strains of Patty Reese's soulful expression and powerhouse pipes reminiscent of Janis Joplin, Aretha Franklin and Bob Dylan. And then go eat again.

Evening Particulars

Sunday evening is the big night for the presentation of the Prince and Princess, Little, Junior and Miss Greenbelt contestants dressed in formal wear and competing in public speaking, culminating in the crowning of this year's winners. Bring a camera!

End the evening with the CPR Band playing a mix of rock and soul on the main stage from 8 to 11 p.m.

Monday

Pick the best spot for watching the Parade as it makes its way along Crescent Road from the Lake Park assembling area to the reviewing stand at Southway - led, as always, by this year's Outstanding Citizen. Tykes with trikes or bikes will assemble at 9:30 a.m. sharp in front of the Mother and Child statue in Roosevelt Center. The parade will start around 10 a.m.

Following the parade choose

Mike Fox, Public Works, sets up food booths in the parking lot.

luncheon-on-the-lawn at the Community Church or at one of the many food booths at the Festival. The carnival midway and all the booths will be open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.. Tour the Greenbelt Museum's Historic House from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.; check out the craft fair from noon to 6 p.m. or the art and photo shows from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. For the doers there is a youth scavenger hunt for teams of two, starting at the Youth Center at 12:45 p.m.

Closing Act

Closing the long and event-filled weekend will be the Night-hawks, a Festival favorite. America's self-styled favorite bar band will again pump out their gritty brand of blues and roots from 2 to 6 p.m. on the main stage.

FURTHER BUS cont. from page 1

Café Cooperative, commented, "This is a wildly unique visit – a cultural echo of 50 years past that I could not miss! Kesey and the Bus have direct ties to American literary giants Allen Ginsberg, Jack Kerouac, Tom Wolfe and Hunter Thompson. Only at the New Deal Café could a random visit turn into a time machine taking us to a crossroads that helped shape American pop culture. I always wanted to get on that bus."

Amethyst Dwyer, another youngster and booking agent for the entertainment at the Café, enthused, "Only in Greenbelt would the Merry Pranksters drop in on the New Deal Café on a random Wednesday night! I studied Ken Kesey and the Merry Pranksters in an American Studies college course in the 80s and so their visit was particularly meaningful for me. When the magic bus, Further, pulled up behind the Café and everybody ran out to greet them, it was like the circus coming to town. Fifty years may have passed since the original journey began, but I feel like their spirit of creative expression and playfulness is still relevant today."

Barbara Stevens and her husband Ray were there and reveled in a haze of nostalgia. "We were on the east coast all through the 60s so nope, I don't have any Merry Pranksters memories," said Barbara. But she recalled life on a commune in Maryland, visiting Berkeley, California, listening to stories from the Peyote Church people. From 1964 to 2014, what a long strange trip it has been. Is Further's second journey a lame parody of the first one or the rekindling of the old optimism?

The Old Curmudgeon

Remembering Izzy Parker Ten Years After his Death

by Stan Zirkin

Izzy Parker, "The Old Curmudgeon," a Greenbelt News Review institution as a cartoonist, died on Monday, October 11, 2004. To commemorate the 10th anniversary of his death and to celebrate his life and works, the Greenbelt News Review and the Greenbelt Museum, in a joint project, will be running a cartoon contest for artists of all ages. Details of the contest are described in a separate article.

To reintroduce Izzy to those who remember him, and to introduce him to those who may not, this column is including excerpts of his obituary written by Virginia Beauchamp and printed in the October 14, 2004, News Review:

Parker was born in Chicago on November 17, 1919. He held a variety of jobs during his lifetime, including fighting sagebrush fires for the Civilian Conservation Corps; working as a draftsman for the Coast Geodetic Survey (having studied art earlier at both the Chicago Art Institute and the Corcoran Gallery art school); and working for the Naval Hydrographic Office.

It was from this latter position that he was suspended without pay when he was accused, like some other Jewish colleagues, of associating with communists. He believed this accusation stemmed in part from his involvement with Greenbelt cooperatives, especially the effort to create the housing cooperative now known as GHI.

Parker's case paralleled that of Abraham Chasanow, who received national press coverage. Both were eventually exonerated and reinstated in their jobs and

Chasanow's case became the subject of a movie, "Three Brave Men."

The Cooperator

Parker's association with this paper began when it was called The Cooperator. He served as editor from June to December 1949. Even then he was providing cartoons to illustrate and enliven everyday life in this planned community.

Many of those earliest cartoons, he was pleased to note, are still in circulation. Dealing with carpooling – then a new phenomenon – they turn up on the Internet, he said, in an era when carpooling is ubiquitous. Just look under the topic of "carpools."

After living for some years in Berwyn Heights, Parker returned to Greenbelt, joining the News Review again as our official cartoonist in 1997 and continuing to lampoon local events in Greenbelt as well as national issues that bothered him. Although in those later years his hands shook so uncontrollably he had difficulty writing his name, he could still manage to draw pictures in his own inimitable style. Izzy even scheduled his dialysis sessions so he could join the staff in the News Review office on Tuesday afternoons.

From May 2003 to May 2004, the Greenbelt Museum sponsored a retrospective exhibit of his career in cartooning from his earliest days with The Cooperator to some of his later creations appearing in the News Review. The exhibit occupied the museum's display space in the Community Center.

Remembering Izzy Parker With Cartoon Competition

by Sylvia Lewis

Do you enjoy reading cartoons? Have you ever drawn a cartoon?

C.D. Batchelor wrote, "A . . . cartoonist should have in him a little of the clown, the poet, the historian, the artist, and the dreamer."

In tribute to Izzy Parker on the 10th Anniversary of his death, the Greenbelt News Review and the Greenbelt Museum are co-sponsoring a Cartoon Contest for artists of all ages. The contest deadline is September 26.

In addition to commemorating the life and work of Izzy Parker, (see the article at left), the contest will be an opportunity for artists of all ages to have their work recognized. There will be gift certificates and other prizes for the winners.

The public is invited to a reception in the Community Center on Sunday, October 19, where the winners will be announced and prizes awarded. All submitted cartoons will be exhibited in the Greenbelt Public Library during the month of November and the winners' work will be published in the Greenbelt News Review.

The contest is open to everyone. Entries will be judged in three age categories: children ages 5-12, teens ages 13-17 and adults, over 18. Artists may submit a maximum of three, one-panel entries that in some way are connected to life in the city of Greenbelt. Each entry is to be submitted electronically and in hard copy.

Rules and entry forms are posted at www.greenbelt-newsreview.com (click on Remembering Izzy). Hard copies will be available at the Greenbelt library, lower level, the Museum Room in the Greenbelt Community Center and Springhill Lake Recreation Center.

The News Review will be reprinting some of Izzy's memorable cartoons in the coming weeks. To find out more about Izzy and his life go to Virginia Beauchamp's article at www.greenbeltnews-review.com Archives, October 14, 2004 issue.

Star Party Is Planned

The public is invited to a star party, sponsored by the Astronomical Society of Greenbelt. Enjoy Saturn, Mars and the moon. Several nice star clusters and nebulae may also be visible. It's all happening Saturday, August 30 at the city observatory at the end of Northway. Setup will begin around 9 p.m. All are welcome and there is no admission charge.

Park in the lot at the bottom of Observatory Hill unless you are bringing a telescope. If so, you may park and set up on the hill. Club members will be setting up personal telescopes, so if considering a purchase, different types may be used for viewing. Need help with a new telescope? Bring it and an experienced club member will be available to help. Insect repellent and a light jacket are also recommended. The star party will be canceled without notice if it's hopelessly cloudy.

Refuge Bird Walk

On Wednesday, September 10 from 8 to 10:30 a.m. at the Patuxent Research Refuge those ages 16+ can search for birds in several refuge habitats on this guided hike. Field guides and binoculars are recommended.

Public programs at the Patuxent Research Refuge are free. For details visit the website at fws.gov/refuge/Patuxent.
